"I know not how the truth may be;
I say the tale as 'twas said to me,
I pass it along to you, dear folks,
Perhaps you'll think it's just a hoax,
But lots of people have taken it up—
And whether or not, you are a pup
Of Grandfather Adam's, Gentile or Jew,
The unraveling is strictly up to you."

"It is indeed a glorious thing to be well descended, but the glory belongs to our ancestors."

(Phaedrus the Philosopher)

"Like leaves on trees, the race of man is found,
Now green in youth, now withering on the ground;
Another race the following spring supplies,
They rise successive and successive dies;
So generations in their course decay,
So flourish these, when those have passed away."

It is indeed true that,

"He who cares not whence he came, Cares not whither he goeth."

"This Life is a tale, An Empty Song.
'Tis but a breath, however long."

"I know not where His islands lift
Their fronded palms in air;
I only know I cannot drift
Beyond His love and care."

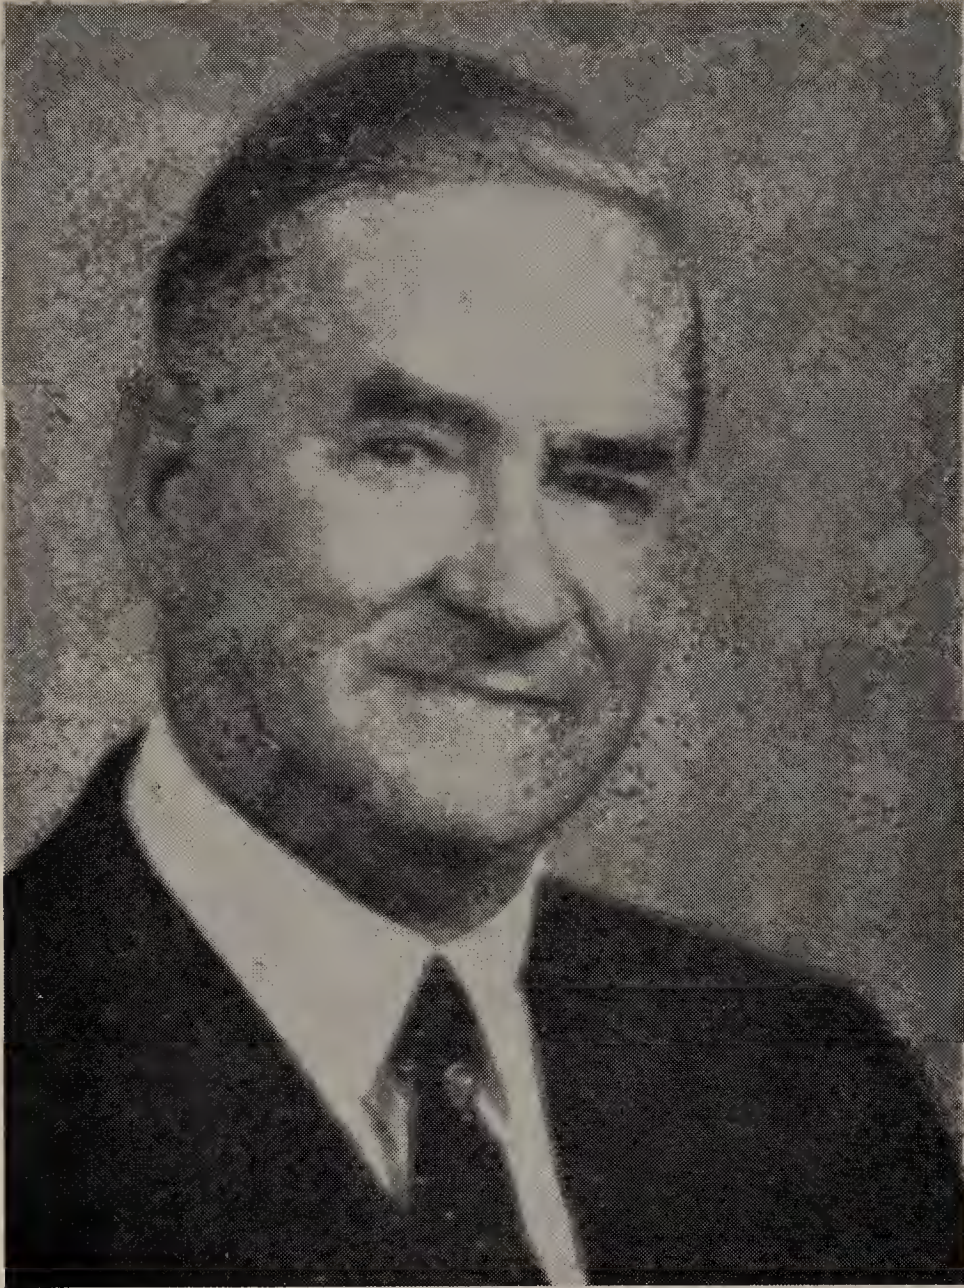

"A painful work it is, and more than difficult, wherein what toyle hath been taken, as no man thinketh, so no man believeth, but he that hath made the trial."

Anthony A. Wood (quoted from The Allen Memorial)

PREFACE

When we began with the idea of "A HISTORY OF MY PEOPLE," it involved only going back on the record of my people to the grand, and great grand parents. That is, those whom the writer had known, or known intimately about. In this venture we were greatly encouraged by our Mother who had a wonderful mind and memory, and the stories heard from her aged Mother who had her home in ours during the writer's youth.

From this grandmother we had stories of the trip by a raft down the Alleghaney to the Ohio, to the Mississippi, up to the Rock River, and up the Rock River to northern Illinois, where they were to make their future home.

From an Aunt of my Father, Rachel Lake-Peck, who lived near us in eastern Iowa. She lived to a great age and almost to the last her mind was clear, and she could recall many items distinctly, as the death of John and Margaret Snider-Lake, at Ernestown, Ontario, in the home of her Father John Jacob Lake, in 1835.

These incidents of our youth gave the incentive to know more about the people of our families, whose blood flowed through my own veins. So that in mature life, as we had opportunity, returning to the old home at Wyoming, Iowa, to visit our Mother and this aged aunt, we made copious notes about the family. So this work really began many years ago, and has had some consideration through many years.

Our original purpose was only to go back as far as the great grandparents, but being favored with opportunity for much travel, and thus opportunity to add to our store of data about the various families, our plans broadened. Then we learned of "A Genealogy of the Lake Family," by Dr. Arthur Adams and Sarah Risley, and still later of "The Lake Family," by Devereaux Lake. These served to sharpen our interest, especially in The Lake Family, my Father's Mother's family, who was a descendant of John and Margaret Snider Lake, of Ernest Town, Ontario.

We were further encouraged in our quest by Mrs. Millie Titus, of Tucson, Ariz., who was making a study of The Lake Family, and who assured me that in following through Daniel and William Lake, I was on the wrong track. She loaned me data, had from various sources, showing that the line of John Lake, of Ernest Town, Ontario, ran from Nicholas Lake, of Somerset and Middlesex Counties, in New Jersey.

The National Archives of Canada, at Ottawa, The State University Library at Albany, New York, The Archives Department at Toronto, Ontario, Libraries in Kings County, Brooklyn, and various other Libraries have given me much assistance, as the State Historical Library at Des Moines, Iowa. The Genealogical Department of the Los Angeles City Library, The Library of Congress at Washington, D.C., to name but a few, have given much assistance. To all these and to many individuals we owe a debt of appreciation and gratitude.

We do not presume to say the work is complete. Nor to assume that it is completely accurate, although we have sifted a great amount of material, always seeking the truth. We have been afforded access to many Family Bibles, individual family histories, a fine manuscript work by Dr. E. Ross Laughlin, M.D., which gives considerable data about the family of one John Lake, who married Mary Laughlin, of his family. All of the above have granted me permission to quote from their work as it impinged upon my own efforts. To all these we render our thanks and gratitude.

This work has grown beyond our fondest dreams, but we offer to the Family and any who may be interested, these efforts to preserve some record of families who have some right to be perpetuated in our history.

The foregoing deals especially with the Lake family. This leaves other families whose blood runs in the author's veins. For records of the family of William Woods, my maternal great-grandfather, have come largely from family records, and from my grandmother, who lived in our home when I was just a boy. For the records of the Congdon family, we are indebted to the Reverend George E. Congdon, a Baptist minister, who spent years gathering data about the Congdon family in America, and who has given me the privilege of using such material as desired from "The Congdon Chronicle."

Material regarding the Cramton family, has been gleaned from various publications, regarding the coming of the first ancestor, Dennis Cramton, a bound boy, who was brought to Connecticut and his time sold to pay his passage. Where possible, notation has been made of our sources.

Sources of data about the McMillan family have been meager indeed, and have been gathered largely from publications regarding this ancient family. This has been supplemented by family recollections and from our mother, who knew the most about my father. Many years ago, Father had some correspondence with the founders of the Macmillan Publishing Company, in which they set forth his relation to the family. Unfortunately this correspondence was lost, as its real value was not recognized after the death of our father.

We do not presume to say this record of our people is full, and in some particulars may not be exactly correct, but we have tried to separate the truth from mere tradition.

So we send this volume forth in the hope that the message it tries to bring may serve to render some service in showing, "the pit from which we were digged." For whatever of value there is therein, we assure the reader we have had much satisfaction in seeking out, and bringing together, the data we here present.

All of the above indicates that there runs through the veins of the writer's great-grandchildren, the blood of twelve generations of ancestors, all living in America. That is from John Lake and Ann Spicer-Lake of Gravesend, Long Island, twelve generations.

From the original, Benjamin Congdon, b. 1650, d. June 19, 1718, and Elizabeth Albro, d. Nov. 15, 1720, ancestors of Lima Congdon-Woods, twelve generations.

From James Woods, who came to the Massachusetts Bay Colony, in the middle sixteen thirties, and ancestor of William Woods, of Winnebago County, Ill., twelve generations.

From Dennis Crampton and his second wife, the widow, Sarah Munger, widow of Nicholas Munger, of Guilford, Connecticut, twelve generations. This Dennis Crampton arrived in Connecticut in the middle sixteen thirties.

The Temple family is an ancient family, the line running far back in English history. The first in The American Colonies of the Temple family, so far as we can find record, was Abraham Temple, who was in Salem, Mass., in 1636, whose first assignment of soil was evidently five acres. On November 21, 1638, five additional acres were granted, "to make him ten acres." From Abraham Temple descended Charles Amos Temple. Twelve generations.

The McMillan Family are descended from the first McMillan Clan, the oldest Clan and the first in Scottish history, in the 11th Century. The name is spelled differently in various records but always of the same family origin.

Respectfully,
C. N. McMillan

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

To Daniel Lake, of 3828 S.E. Harrison St., Portland, Oregon, for use of his copy of "A GENEALOGY OF THE LAUGHLIN FAMILY," and to Dr. E. Ross Laughlin for permission to use material from this record, as it touched The Lake Family.

To Dr. Arthur Adams, of Boston, Mass., for permission to use material from his work, "A GENEALOGY OF THE LAKE FAMILY."

To Devereaux Lake, of 1763 Brad Burn, Altadena, Calif., for use of material as touching the Canadian Lake Royalists, that he had gathered, but did not use in his "THE LAKE FAMILY," which deals with the Southern Branch of The Lake Family, of John Lake of Gravesend Plantation, on Long Island. And for his encouragement in my task.

To Dr. E. Ross Laughlin, of Williamsburg, Mass., for permission to use material from his work on The Laughlin Family, especially as it dealt with John Lake, of Christopher, of John and Margaret Snider-Lake, and so follows back to John Lake of The Gravesend Long Island Plantation in 1643. John Lake married Mary Laughlin, of Alexander Laughlin.

To the late Rev. George E. Congdon, of Concord, N. H., for permission to use material from "The Congdon Chronicle," which traces the Congdon line back to the first of that name in The American Colonies.

To Mrs. Alice Lake-Ketron, for unusual interest and assistance in reaching various families of The Thomas Lake line. Her interest has been unflagging, and her assistance invaluable.

To Edward Carroll Lake, of Hockissin, Delaware, for permission to use his father's fine collection of Lake material, dealing with the descendants of Thomas and Sarah Peate-Lake.

To Mrs. Amity Lake-Quackenbush, of Hoosic Falls, New York, for the loan of much ancient correspondence, and ancient material dealing with the Lake family in old Albany County, New York.

To Mrs. E. J. (Millie) Titus, of Tucson, Arizona, for setting me right, through her investigations, showing me that The Canadian Royalist Lake line ran from Nicholas Lake, of New Jersey, rather than through Daniel Lake, of Staten Island, although these two were brothers.

To The Library of the University of New York, at Albany, for much help and encouragement. Also The New York State Library, at Albany, New York.

To The Department of Archives at Ottawa, Ontario, for much assistance and encouragement, in supplying photostats of original documents, and copies of many others.

To The Department of Archives at Toronto, Ontario, for assistance and counsel, in dealing with many original records of lands and families.

Also to many other organizations and individuals for assistance in locating Family Bibles and other Family Records, and for their interest in my self-assumed task, I give thanks, and express appreciation.

A HISTORY OF MY PEOPLE AND YOURS

CHAPTER I

JOHN LAKE OF GRAVESEND, LONG ISLAND

THE QUESTION AS TO THE ANTECEDENTS OF JOHN LAKE OF GRAVESEND, LONG ISLAND, as set forth by THE REV. W. H. OLIVER LAKE, of HARROW ON THE HILL, in West Hill Hall, MIDDLESEX, ENGLAND, in correspondence with Devereaux Lake, at that time of Sandusky, Ohio. It follows.

(Enclosed in a letter June 20, 1940)

QUESTION: "Was John Lake Gravesend, Long Island, 1645, one of the Lake's of Tring, in Hertfordshire, England?"

EVIDENCE IN ANSWER.

1—I notice that after naming his first-born son JOHN, af. he named his second son DANIEL. I make the guess that "Daniel" was the name of a relative for whom he felt a special affection and regard. I therefore look for a conjunction of those two names in England.

2—I find one Daniel Lake, of Tring, in his will dated Dec. 29, 1642, left 60 pounds to his brother John, who was then of Leighton Buzzard, Bedfordshire. Daniel died in 1643.

3—This John Lake (son of Richard Lake, of Tring) was baptized Feb. 11, 1615-6; and matriculated at Oxford in Oct. 1634. He left without taking a degree. Oxford is unable to give me any further information about him.

NOTE: Many University men were then emigrating to America. By the year 1641, among the emigrants to Massachusetts, there were 104 graduates of Cambridge, and 33 of Oxford.

4—There is no mention of him in the Parish Registers of Leighton, Buzzard; nor (excepting his baptism) in those of Tring. I make the guess that the legacy of 60 pounds paid his way from England to America.

NOTE: The idea of emigration to America was familiar in Tring at that time. See "Pioneers of Massachusetts." A letter dated 1642 from Daniel Field of Tring to his cousin Seth Tweetser in Charleston, Mass., mentions "father Lake." (Can the full text of that letter be obtained?)

5—There are indications of "Dissent" in the Lake family of Tring at that time, in the will of another John Lake, dated 1658.

6—As to John Lake's association with the Lady Debora Moody, I observe that there were Washingtons in Garston, the Wiltshire village from which she went out, and there were other Washingtons associated with the Lake family in Tring. (SEE the will of Andrew Knowling of Tring dated Jan. 1649-50, in the Genealogy of George Washington.)

7—Thomas Lake, son of John 2, John 1, lived at Amwell in New Jersey. The only Amwell in England is in East Hertfordshire; Tring is on the western borders of the country; but if the Lakes gave that township in New Jersey its name, they were doubtless of Hertfordshire origin.

NOTE: Eastern Hertfordshire was one of the three largest sources of the Puritan emigration from England to America.

8—There are snags and gaps in this course of evidence but I think it is worthy of further examination by an expert genealogist.

W. H. Oliver Lake

Harrow, Middlesex, England

27-iv. 1940

This writer's correspondence with The Reverend W. H. Oliver Lake, through the years since we came to know of him has been most pleasant and gratifying, and we cherish his writings about the Lake family, and his own investigations, which he made available to me in the course of a long correspondence which ended only with his passing in 1952, at Harrow on The Hill, Middlesex, England. In the family of Mrs. W. H. Oliver Lake were many ministers, their lines reaching back to those who worked and preached with John and Charles Wesley, in the beginning of what became The Methodist Church.

LAKE IMMIGRANTS TO AMERICA

By Adams & Risley

Besides John Lake of Gravesend, Long Island, with whose descendants this work is concerned, there were other persons of the Lake name who early came to the United States. So far as known to the writer, all were of English origin and some may have been—probably were—related to our John Lake. A few of the more prominent of these early Lakes are here mentioned:

David of Portsmouth and Tiverton, Rhode Island as early as 1667.

Henry, of Portsmouth, Rhode Island, as early as 1652.

Henry, of Falmouth, Mass, in 1640, later of Dorchester. His descendants are numerous in Massachusetts.

James, in Massachusetts, in 1647.

John, of Boston, in 1643, a tailor. He married Mary Coy. Had no issue.

John, of Boston, perhaps a nephew of the preceeding. Died in 1691. Unmarried.

John, of Boston, a brother of Captain Thomas Lake.

Lancelot, of Boston, in 1695, a physician. He died September 17, 1715, probably leaving no children.

Mistress Margaret Lake came in 1635, with her sister Elizabeth (Read) Winthrop, wife of Governor John Winthrop, Jr., and her two daughters. She was the daughter of Edmund Read, of Wickford, Essex, England, and widow of John Lake. John Lake claimed descent from the same family to which Sir Edward Lake and Captain Thomas Lake, of Boston, belonged.

Mistress Margaret Lake brought with her two daughters, one of whom, Hannah, married John Gallup; the other named Martha married Thomas Harris of Ipswich, Mass. She also had a son John, who is said not to have come to this country. Her will is dated August 30, 1672, and was proved September 24, 1672. She mentions only her two daughters and their children.

Robert, of Dorchester County, Maryland, as early as 1639.

Thomas, of Dorchester, Mass., a brother of Henry as early as 1641. Left no issue.

Captain Thomas, of Boston, first of New Haven, where he married Mary, a daughter of Deputy Governor Stephen Goodyear. He was killed by the Indians in Maine, in August 1676. He was a brother of Sir Edward Lake, and his son Thomas was Sir Edward's heir. Thomas was the only son to leave issue, but a daughter Ann married, first the Rev. John Cotton; second, the Rev. Increase Mather, and has left numerous descendants.

Thomas, of Stratford, Connecticut, in 1695. See Orcutts' History of Stratford and "The descendants of Thomas Lake of Stratford." Chicago, Ill., 1908. William of Salem, Mass., in 1665. He was a cooper by trade, and perhaps a son of Henry of Dorchester.

The family of Timothy Lake, m. Lucy, b. 1763, d. Nov. 13, 1843.

The Fifth Generation:

Philo Lake, son of Aaron Lake was married, it appears he had one son, Oscar, who went to Eastern Ohio. Alfred Lake married Maria Eaton, buried at Greenville, N. Y. Their children are Franklin W., b. Oct. 16, 1846; George H., b. Mar. 27, 1852; David Lake, b. at Greenville, N. Y., m. Maria Evelina Gardner, b. Oct. 24, 1825. Their children are David Crawford, b. Dec. 7, 1846; Edward Warren, b. Feb. 20, 1851; Albert Clark, b. June 11, 1853; Walter Eugene, b. June 15, 1858.

Thomas Jefferson Lake, m. Martha Rosetts Evans, b. June 5, 1827; their sons are Wilton Hamilton, b. Oct. 5, 1850; Selwyn E., b. Feb. 22, 1852; Elbert Sherrell, b. Feb. 4, 1863; Arthur Edward, b. Feb. 11, 1867; Edward Nelson, b. June 13, 1869; Gideon Cobb Lake, b. So. Westerlo, Albany Co., N. Y., m. Jane Maria Hammond, Oct. 21, 1853 at Elkland, Tioga Co., Penn., residence Stewartsville, Minn., male children: Clark Daniel, b. 1857; Lewis Lincoln, b. Oct. 12, 1860, m. Ruth Peirce.

The above is brought down to the Sixth Generation.

This is an exact copy—except the obliterations—as the above paper came into my hands, without signature or any identification whatsoever. I have no idea as to its source.—C. N. McM.

Genealogy of the Lake Family

The Lake Family in England

Adams & Risley

The family name of Lake is a place name, that is, it designated its bearer as living at or near a lake. Used in this way, it occurs as early as 1273 as, for example, William of the Lake. Names of this type are usually found spread over a large territory and indeed originating quite independently among different nations. Consequently we are not surprised to find the name among the Dutch, the Germans, or the Swedes.

In ancient English records the name is not uncommon and is found in various parts of the country, although perhaps most frequently in the South and West.

Several branches of the family early arose to distinction, chief of which may be mentioned that of Almeric Lake of Southampton, whose two distinguished sons were Arthur, Bishop of Bath and Wells and Sir Thomas Lake. Bishop Arthur Lake was born in Southampton in September, 1569; he graduated from New College, Oxford, in 1591. In 1616 he became Bishop of Bath and Wells, which office he discharged with great credit to himself. He died May 4, 1626. His tomb may still be seen in his own cathedral. His more distinguished brother, Sir Thomas Lake, was born in 1567, and was knighted in 1603. He was a favorite of James I, who in 1615 made him Secretary of State. His later career seems to have been unfortunate and embittered by family quarrels. He died September 17, 1630, leaving a widow, Mary, daughter of William Ryder, three sons and four daughters.

The great English General Sir Gerard Lake was of this family, being a descendant of the third son Lancelot. Gerard, first Viscount Lake of Delhi and Leswarree, was born July 27, 1744. He entered the English Army in 1758; he became major-general in 1790, lieutenant-general in 1797, and general in 1802. He served under Cornwallis in America in 1781. After service in Ireland, he was sent to India in 1800. His campaigns there against the native Indian states were extremely successful, and as a result English influence in India became supreme. He received the thanks of Parliament and was raised to the peerage. He died February 20, 1808, one of the most honored and most loved commanders of English military history. It is said of him that he could think more clearly amidst the rain of bullets than in the calm of his own tent. His line became extinct in 1848, none of his three sons having issue.

The next family of Lakes in England to be mentioned is that of Sir Edward Lake. He was born about 1600, the eldest son of Richard Lake of Irby, Lincolnshire. He received the degree of B.A. at Oxford in 1627. He was an eminent lawyer, becoming advocate general for Ireland. On the outbreak of the Civil Wars, he both fought and wrote on the King's side. At the battle of Edgehill he received sixteen wounds, and having lost the use of his left hand by a shot, he placed his horses bridle between his teeth and fought with his sword in his right hand. He was promised as his reward a barony and an augmentation to his arms by King Charles I, in 1643. But since the King was beheaded and the period of the Commonwealth intervened, nothing was done until 1661. King Charles II then made him Chancellor of the Diocese of Lincoln, and the augmented coat of arms promised by King Charles I was in 1661 formally authorized by the College of Arms. He died July 18, 1674, and was buried in Lincoln Cathedral. His wife was Anne, daughter of Simon Biby, by whom he had a son Edward, who died an infant before 1666. This family is of peculiar interest to us because two of Sir Edward Lake's brothers, namely Thomas and John, came to America and lived in Boston.

The will of Sir Edward Lake is dated April 8, 1665; he added codicils in 1671, and in 1674, they being rendered necessary by the death of the executors successively named. This will is an interesting document, since it gives us much information in regard to the antecedents and connections of Sir Edward. He leaves a bequest to the Church at Normanton near Pontefract in Yorkshire, because it was the home of his paternal ancestors. He mentions his kinsman and servant Christopher Lake, his brother John Lake, his cousin Francis Lake of Hatcliffe, the eldest son of his brother Luke Lake, and Stephen, eldest son of his brother Thomas Lake. He makes his brother Thomas Lake executor, and directs that the male heirs forever may for their Christian name have the name Biby or Seaman, his wife's mother's surname, or Caly, an ancestor of the time of Edward III, or Wardell, in honor of his mother, a daughter of Edward Wardell. Thomas Lake, the brother in New England, died before Sir Edward, and in a codicil he names Thomas' son Stephen executor in his place; then Stephen died, and Thomas, Stephen's brother, is named.

Thomas Lake, brother of Sir Edward, seems first to have gone to New Haven, Conn., for there he married Mary, daughter of Stephen Goodyear, a prominent merchant and Deputy Governor. Several children of Thomas and Mary are mentioned in the Boston records, but only Stephen, Ann and Thomas grew up. Stephen died young, and Ann married, first, the Rev. John Cotton, and, second, the Rev. Increase Mather of Boston, by whom she left issue. Thomas, son of Thomas, and nephew of Sir Edward Lake, was born in Boston, February 9, 1656. He returned to England, was a barrister and a member of the Middle Temple. He lived at Bishop's Norton, Lincolnshire. He married Elizabeth, daughter of John Story, of Derbyshire, and died May 22, 1711, leaving a son, Biby and a daughter Mary. Biby Lake was a sub-governor of the African Company, and in 1711 received from Queen Anne a confirmation of the title granted to Sir Edward Lake, together with the coat of arms. The descendants of Biby Lake have held honorable places in English affairs down to the present, Sir St. Vincent Atwell Lake being the seventh Baronet, counting from Sir Biby.

Another Edward Lake who attained eminence was apparently of the same family as Sir Edward, though the exact relationship is not known; perhaps he was a cousin of some degree. He was born at Exeter, Nov. 10, 1641, the son of a clergyman. In early life he was a tutor to the princesses Mary and Anne, daughters of James, Duke of York. He became arch deacon of Exeter Oct. 24, 1676 at which time he received the degree of D.D. from Cambridge University. He was a famous preacher, and a well-known writer of religious and devotional books. He died Feb. 1, 1704.

The last of the famous men of the name of Lake in England to be mentioned is the famous John Lake, Bishop of Chichester. He was the son of Thomas Lake, a grocer of Halifax in Yorkshire, where he was born in 1624. He graduated from St. John's College, Cambridge. He was a devoted royalist, as was Sir Edward Lake, to whom it is not unlikely he was related. In 1647 he took Holy-Orders; on the Restoration he was made Vicar of Leeds, and in 1661 he received the degree of D.D. from Cambridge University. He held many important church offices, until in 1682 he was made Bishop of Sodor and Man. In 1684 he was transferred to the See of Bristol, and in 1685 he became Bishop of Chichester.

Though Bishop Lake owed much to King James, and though his loyalty to the Crown was unquestioned, he could not sanction the King's illegal acts tending to the restoration of the Roman Catholic faith in England; and on refusing to read the King's declaration of liberty of conscience, he with six other Bishops, was committed to the Tower of London in 1688. One should read Macaulay's account of the heroic stand of those men, who will ever be regarded as heroes for conscience sake. He refused to take the oath of allegiance to William and Mary, and died August 30, 1689. His whole life shows that he spoke only the truth when he said that "He thanked God he never much knew what fear was, when he was once satisfied of the goodness of his cause." His heroic character and godly life may well be an inspiration to all who take pride in the Lake name.

JOHN LAKE, of Gravesend, Long Island

In THE LAKE FAMILY, by Dr. Arthur Adams and his cousin Sarah Risley, they give some information as to the background of John Lake, one of the founders of Gravesend, with Lady Deborah Moody, and others. However, more has developed since the publication of that volume.

Then Mr. Devereaux Lake, of Sandusky, Ohio, later of Altadena, Calif., published the record of his branch, taking in The Southern Line, as from Richard Lake, of Georgia.

Mr. Devereaux Lake says of this matter: "John Lake of Gravesend, Long Island, member of Lady Deborah Moody's English Colony of dissenters, the first Lake in America of which there is any authentic record, and that record is a meager one. Fortunately the record is sufficient to identify him as progenitor of the South Jersey family, the Middlesex County, N. J. Richard and descendants, the Hunterdon County New Jersey branch, forebears of the Alabama and Georgia and Tennessee offshoots headed by Richard Lake, the Georgia pioneer of Green County—all as set forth in detail in "The Lake Family," published by Devereaux Lake in 1937.

Who was John Lake of Gravesend, the English emigrant of 1636? Was he (the) Englishman we suppose him to have been? If so, who were his forebears? From what part of England did he come? Why did he leave?

There has been much speculation over these questions, but so far only speculation. No one has undertaken a thorough research. After the publication of "The Lake Family" Dr. Arthur Adams, of Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., visited England and made the acquaintance of Rev. W. H. Oliver Lake, of West Hill Hall, Harrow on the Hill, Middlesex, England. Rev. Oliver Lake introduced himself to Devereaux Lake through a letter dated Jan. 22, 1940, and some correspondence ensued, some of which is herewith transcribed. The item of most interest in the exchange with The Rev. Oliver is his conjecture that John Lake of Gravesend probably was of Tring, in Hertfordshire, England, son of Richard Lake, of Tring. This John (Lake) was baptized Feb. 11, 1615 or 1616, matriculated at Oxford in 1634, but did not take a degree. A Daniel Lake of Tring, in his will of Dec. 29, 1642 left 60 pounds to his brother John who was then of Leighton, Buzzard, Bedfordshire. The Rev. Oliver Lake surmises that this legacy may have paid John Lake's passage to America. It sounds reasonable.

After some interchange of correspondence as regards Mr. Devereaux's book, and some corrections as to spelling, etc., and an offer to submit his findings as to John Lake, of Gravesend, Long Island, following this correspondence is the following data, as of June 21, 1940. (D. L.)

NOTE: This correspondence with Devereaux Lake is much the same as his correspondence with Dr. Arthur Adams, as shown on pages 1 and 2, but is later than that of Dr. Adams.

QUESTION: Was John Lake of Gravesend, L. I., 1645, one of the Lakes of Tring, in Hertfordshire, England?

EVIDENCE IN ANSWER.

1—I notice that after naming his first-born son John ap. he named his second son DANIEL. I make the guess that Daniel was the name of a relative for whom he felt a special affection and regard. I therefore look for a conjunction of those two names in England.

2—I find one Daniel Lake, of Tring, in his will dated Dec. 1642, left 60 pounds to his brother John, who was then of Leighton Buzzard, Bedfordshire. Daniel died in 1643.

- 3—This John Lake (son of Richard Lake, of Tring) was baptized Feb. 11, 1615-6, and matriculated at Oxford in Oct. 1634. He left Oxford without taking a degree. Oxford is unable to give any further information about him.

NOTE: Many University men were then emigrating to America. By the year 1641, among the emigrants to Massachusetts, there were 104 graduates of Cambridge and 33 of Oxford.

- 4—There is no mention of him in the Parish Register of Leighton, Buzzard; nor (except his baptism) in those of Tring. I make the guess that the legacy of 60 pounds paid his way from England to America.

NOTE: The idea of emigration to America was familiar in Tring at that time. See "Pioneers of Massachusetts." A letter dated 1642 from Daniel Field of Tring to his cousin Seth Tweetser in Charlestown, Mass., mentions "father Lake."

- 5—There are indications of "dissent" in the Lake family of Tring at that time, in the will of another John Lake, dated 1658.

- 6—As to John Lake's association with the Lady Deborah Moody, I observe that there were Washingtons in Garsdon, the Wiltshire village from which she went out, and there were other Washingtons associated with the Lake family in Tring. See the will of Andrew Knowling of Tring dated Jan. 1649-50, in the Genealogy of George Washington.

- 7—Thomas Lake, son of John 2, John 1, lived at Ammwell in New Jersey. The only Ammwell in England is in East Hertfordshire; Tring is on the western border of the county; but if the Lakes gave that township in New Jersey its name they were doubtless of Hertfordshire origin.

NOTE: Eastern Hertfordshire was one of the three largest sources of the Puritan emigration from England to America.

- 8—There are snags and gaps in this course of evidence, but I think it is worthy of further examination by an expert genealogist.

EARLY LAKES IN AMERICAN COLONIES ARRIVED IN 1630. SEE:

LIFE and Letters of JOHN WINTHROP.

John Winthrop sailed from Southampton, England, March 22, 1630. Stopped at Cowes, March 29, 1630. Started for America, April 8, 1630. Arrived at America, Saturday, June 12, 1630. Landed at SALEM, June 22, 1630.

Left wife and part of family at home.

No less than eleven ships in the fleet, to carry the Massachusetts party. (The first four vessels named came at this time.) They were:

The Arbella, classed as the Admiral of fleet. 350 tons.

The Ambrose, classed as Rear Admiral of fleet.

The Jewel, classed as Captain of fleet.

The Talbot, classed as Vice Admiral of fleet.
(28 guns, 52 men).

These vessels followed later. Were not ready to start:

Charles, Mayflower*, William Francis, Hopewell, Whale, Success, Trial.

*The Mayflower was the vessel that brought our Pilgrim fathers 10 years previous, 1620.

Historical accounts of the first Lake, Sir Edward, and the first Abel, Robert, came to America at about the time the Winthrop fleet came, in 1630. At least they were among the earliest settlers after arrival of The Pilgrim Fathers in 1620.

The above record is from the Lake Family material gathered by Edward H. Lake of East Orange, New Jersey, a descendant of Sir Edward Lake, through his brother, Thomas Lake, of New Haven, whose sons became the heir of Sir Edward Lake.

THOMAS LAKE

A BRIEF RECORD of some of the descendants of Thomas Lake and his wife, SARAH PEATE-Lake.

THOMAS LAKE seems first to have come to Massachusetts Bay Colony in the middle or late 1630's. Later he settled at New Haven, Conn., and still later he settled or moved to Stratford, Conn., where he purchased some division of land which was laid out Feb. 6, 1694-5, at the falls of the Pasquennock River on the east side. A little way north, and in 1705, the present highway was laid out, passing his home and extended to Pulpit Rock.

(He would seem to have been just a boy or a very young man, when he came to the Massachusetts Bay Colony.)

This data from Orcotts History of Stratford, Conn., page 1234, as is the following list of their children, in detail. He seems to have married Sarah Peate on or about 1685. They seem to have lost their first child, as there were two Sarah's named, and Orcott begins his list with John b. Nov. 25, 1688. Charity, b. March 16, 1691. David, b. March 10, 1693. Joseph, b. April 15, 1696. Sarah, b. Jan. 15, 1697-8. Thomas, b. Feb. 23, 1700. James, b. Jan. 28, 1702-3. Edward, b. Dec. 15, 1705.

4. David, son of Thomas and Sarah Peate-Lake, b. Mar. 10, 1693, m. Abigail Booth, Jan. 21, 1724. He lived in the parish of Unity, later North Stratford. He was a charter member of the church organized Nov. 18, 1731. In August, 1776, he was a member of Colonel Canfield's regiment in the Revolution.

10. David, bp. Aug., 1726. 11. Benjamine, b. Dec. 8, 1727. 12. Joseph, b. Feb. 5, 1731-2. 13. Ebeneaser, b. May 15, 1733-34. 14. Abigail, b. May 23, 1736. 15. Hannah, b. Jan. 11, 1740. 16. Andrew, b. Mar. 2, 1742.

5. Joseph, son of Thomas and Sarah Peate Lake, m. Deborah Jackson, in Unity, Conn., Dec. 14, 1732. They lived on the north side of White Plains road, opposite Pulpit Rock. The wife Deborah died in 1743.

17. Mary, b. Nov. 17, 1733, d. young. 18. Phebe, b. June 14, 1735, d. young. 19. Pheneas, b. May 22, 1736. 20. Mary, b. June 30, 1737, m. Elazer Hall. 21. Eunice (said to be daughter of Joseph), m. Andrew Curtice. 22. Phebe, b. July 28, 1738, d. young. 23. Anna, b. Sept. 30, 1739. 24. Joseph, b. Oct., 1740, m. Dinnah Beardsley, Sept., 1760. 25. Naomi, b. Mar. 7 1742.

7. Thomas, 2nd, son of Thomas, 1st, and Sarah Peate-Lake, m. Elizabeth Walker, Feb. 15, 1727-28.

26. Lucy, b. Dec. 12, 1731. 27. Jabesh, b. May 29, 1734. 28. Elnathan & 29. Phebe, twins, bp. Jan. 31, 1737.

9. Edward, son of Thomas, 1 and Sarah Peate-Lake, m. Ann Leavenworth, daughter of James Leavenworth (Irish), of Stratford, Conn.

30. Abiah, b. Jan. 6, 1732. 31. David, b. Aug. 31, 1733. 32. Ruth b. Mar. 16, 1735. 33. Matthew, b. Oct. 9, 1736. 34. Edward, b. Feb. 21, 1738. 35. Gershom, b. June 21, 1739, probably at New Milford, Conn. Enlisted April 13, 1758, in Col. David Wooster's Company, to invade Can.). 36. Ann, b. Aug. 19, 1740. 37. Sarah, b. Feb. 22, 1743.

10. David, 2nd, son of David and Abigail, (Booth)-Lake, was a member of Col. Canfield's regiment in the war of the Revolution, which was raised around Stratford. m.

38. David, b. Aug., 1766. 39. Abiah, b. Jan., 1769. 40. Dolly, b. Aug., 1771.

16. Andrew, son of David and Abigail (Booth) Lake, of North Stratford, m. Elizabeth Wilcoxson, of Ripon, Jan. 7, 1762. Lived at Huntington & Brookfield.

1. Elizabeth Ann, b. Dec. 28, 1762. 2. Abigail, b. Nov. 4, 1764. 3. Benjamine, b. Aug. 20, 1766. 4. Ely, b. July, 1768. 5. Hulda, bp. Sept. 5, 1773, b. July, 1773. 6. Andrew b. Mar. 14th, 1778.

19. Phineas, son of Joseph and Deborah, (Jackson)-Lake, m. Elizabeth Stilson, Oct. 7, 1762. He d. April 6, 1819. She d. April 13, 1804, at Charlotte, Vt.

1. Curtice, b. Nov. 15, 1763. 2. Susanna, b. June 27, 1769. 3. Mary, b. Oct. 27, 1770. 4. Daniel, bp. Feb. 14 1773.

1. Curtice S. Lake m. Margaret Clary, Dec. 2, 1784, at Cornwall, Conn.

CHAPTER II

THOMAS LAKE AND SARAH PEATE-LAKE

THOMAS LAKE, and Sarah Peate-Lake, m. according to some records, in 1685, as their second child was born in 1686. Their first child, Sarah Lake, is presumed to have died as a child, probably as an infant. The second child, John Lake, was born Nov. 25, 1688. A second Sarah was born, and was mentioned in the will of Thomas Lake. This is noted on page 352 of Orcott's History of Bridgeport and Stratford, Conn., where is shown the location of the Church family pew of Thomas Lake.

Sarah Peate-Lake was born the daughter of John Peate, who came over on the Hopewell, Apr. 13, 1665, and Sarah Peate was born on Oct. 13, 1665. The Peate family came from Duffield Parish, Derby County, England, and they settled in Stratford, Conn. Wm. Cothern records the birth of their nine children, as heretofore given.

Thomas Lake made a will which was dated March 9, 1726. Proved Feb. 5, 1728, which mentions his wife, Sarah and a daughter Sarah, and sons, David, Joseph, Thomas, James, Edward.

Thomas Lake and wife Sarah settled in Stratford, Conn., about 1695. John and Charity may also have died young, as we find no further mention of them.

IV. DAVID LAKE, b. Mar. 10, 1693, at Straford, Conn., m. Abigail Booth, Jan. 21, 1724. He lived in the parish of Unity, later North Stratford. He was a charter member of the Church, where he subscribed to the Articles of Faith on May 6, 1747, and where his wife was also accepted at the same time, as a member. This Church was organized on Nov. 18, 1731. In August 1726, he was a member of Colonel Canfield's regiment of Volunteers.

Their children were: (I) David, 2nd, bp. Aug. 1726; (II) Benjamin, b. Oct. 8, 1729; (III) Joseph, b. Feb. 5, 1731-2; (IV) Ebenezer, b. Mar. 15, 1733; (V) Abigail, b. May 23, 1736; (VI) Hannah, b. Jan. 11, 1840; (VII) Andrew, b. Mar. 2, 1742, m. Elizabeth Wilcoxsen, of Ripon, on Jan. 7, 1762.

V. Joseph Lake, of Thomas and Sarah Peate-Lake, b. Apr. 15, 1696, m. Deborah Jackson, Dec. 14, 1730. They lived on the north side of White Plains road, opposite Pulpit Rock. She died in 1743.

Their children were: (I) Mary, b. Nov. 17, 1733, d. young;

Nathan Lake drafted men: Col. John Meadway, Capt. Chapman Co. Drafted Jan. 9, 1778. Discharged Feb. 2, 1778. Following the Revolutionary War, Nathan Lake went to Vermont, and settled at Shelburn, where he married Jerusha Mellissa Sheldon.

He was a farmer and lumberman by occupation. He remained at Shelburn, Vermont, where all their eight children were born. Then in 1833-34 the family emigrated west. Coming by way of the Erie Canal, to Maume City. The rest of the way west was by wagon. They had left a part of their goods at the canal terminus. These were all lost, thus bringing greater hardships upon them. They first stopped in La Grange County Indiana a year or two. Then to a farm near Fort Wayne, Allen Co. Indiana.

At Ft. Wayne the entire family worked at farming and on The Toledo & Wabash canal, which was then being dug.

From Ft. Wayne they bought and moved to a piece of land in Milan twp. in sec. 3, Allen Co., Ind.. This on July 10, 1835. Going to this parcel of land they had to follow blazed trees, as the entire land was covered by forest. There to clear the land and still keep the family, Nathan and some of his sons went to Perue, Ind., and there rented a sawmill, which enabled them to earn some money with which to clothe the family and furnish food until they could clear enough land to keep them.

There on the Old Lake Homestead, Nathan Lake died on Apr. 22, 1857, and there also his wife died on May 24, 1866. Both were buried at Maysville, now known as Harlan, Indiana.

Andrew Johnson Notestine was converted in a revival service at Pawnee Co., Kan., in 1883. In June 1884 he felt called of The Holy Spirit to the Christian ministry, and following this call, he was licensed to exhort Dec. 14, 1886. He was recommended by his Quarterly Conference, to the Annual Conference, for admission on Trial August 18, 1888. The Conference was so far away and means of travel so difficult he was unable to attend the Conference sessions. However, he was employed by the Presiding Elder as a Junior Preacher, and served a Circuit that was about one hundred miles around. There he had a good year. This was in what was called the Western Conference. In 1895 he was transferred to the Louisiana Conference, where he served five years as a Pastor, and two years as a Presiding Elder of the Arcadia District, La.

In the fall of 1902 he was transferred to the North Alabama Conference of the Southern Methodist Episcopal Church, where he served 34 years. In 1936 he was retired on account of his health, but continued to preach and sing as opportunity afforded. He became a Singing Evangelist.

He died quietly and peacefully on the morning of March 18, 1947, at Lafayette, Alabama, and was buried in Elmwood Cemetery at Birmingham, Alabama.

G. Etta Ellen Lake, b. Jan. 26, 1872, at Marysville, Union Co., Ohio, m. Charles Maywood Jenkins, in 1888. Divorced or annulled in 1889. Both were young. Her father, a Baptist, was very strict with her, as she was the youngest of his family. The father did not like Charlie Jenkins, and would not give his consent to their marriage, so they eloped and were married. Her father brought her home and had them divorced or the marriage annulled, but not before she was pregnant.

Issue: (A) Charles Maywood Jenkins, Jr., b. Mar. 18, 1889, at Marysville, Ohio. Etta Ellen Lake Jenkins, 2nd m. Alroy Sattler, on Feb. 22, 1892, in Ohio. He b. May 23, 1873, in Union Co., Ohio, d. 1939, at Lake Ann, Mich. She d. Feb. 11, 1953, at Lake Ann, Mich., aged 81 years.

Again her father opposed her marriage to Alroy Sattler, so they eloped and were married. The Sattler family were close friends of the Bryan family, at Grover Hill, Ohio, and when the Alroy Sattler family emigrated to Michigan on Nov. 14, 1902, they had supper with the family of William Jennings Bryan, who also went to the train with the Sattler family when they started for Michigan.

Alroy Sattler was an albino, and this may have been a reason for the opposition to Etta's marrying him. This albino strain has appeared later in their children.

When Alroy Sattler married Etta Ellen Lake-Jenkins, he accepted her son as his own son and raised him, and Charles Maywood Jenkins has always been known, as are his children, as Sattler.

Edward Lake had removed to Woodward, Conn., and later was one of a party of three men who made their way west to New York, and founded the town of Greenville, N. Y., in the summer of 1781.

They were Edward Lake, Benjamine Spees and Eleazer Knowles. With their coming began the town of Greenville, which was embraced in the town of Freehold. In 1803 the present township was set off and took the name of Greenville. There Edward Lake made his purchase and built his cabin to which he later brought his bride.

GERSHOM LAKE

VI. Gershom Lake, b. June 21, 1739, at Litchfield, Conn., m. Seviah Chatfield, in 1762. They emigrated to Vermont at what became Castleton, in 1771, and settled on a hill one half mile south of what became the village of Castleton. There he built the second log house, and later the second frame house in the township. This frame house was still standing in 1952, and was still being occupied by a family. It was and still is a comfortable home.

Gershom Lake was a charter member of the Congregational Church in Castleton. He was a grand juror in 1782. He was an Ensign, 3rd, Lieut. of Militia. He was strictly loyal to the Colonial cause, and remained at his post. Everything not in daily use was buried in the ground or hid in the forrest in fear of the Indians.

He was a 3rd Lieut. in 1779 in Capt. Ephriam Buell's Company, of Colonel Warren's Regiment, Vermont Militia. When the British troops passed through Castleton on their way to Whitehall, after the battle of Hubbardston, Gershom Lake was impressed with his oxen to transport baggage and as a reward his oxen were slaughtered to provide beef for the troops.

When Lieut. Hall escaped from imprisonment at Ticonderoga, Mrs. Lake hid him in a haystack and carried food to him daily until the danger was past. This so impressed Lieut. Hall that until the day of her death he showed his gratitude in many ways.

Tradition says that when Mrs. Lake came to Castleton, they brought all their possessions on horseback, as there were no roads. Mrs. Lake brought appleseeds in her apron pocket. These she planted and in due time was able to gather and use fruit from these seeds she had planted.

Not only did they have wild beasts to fight, but Indians were everywhere, and must be guarded against day and night.

Mrs. Lake died at Castleton, Vermont on Jan. 3, 1833. Gershom Lake died at Castleton, Vt., on May 7, 1799, aged sixty years. Both are buried at Castleton.

Charlotte Greer, Sept. 7, 1826, a daughter of William J. Greer, a native of Maryland, in Hancock Co., Ohio, where Asa Lake had gone with his parents in the winter of 1821-22. They were the first couple married in Delaware twp., Hancock Co., Ohio. They settled at what became Mount Blanchard, Ohio, upon a farm where he made the first land entry in the twp., on Dec. 12, 1822. This farm he improved, and later laid out what became the town of Mt. Blanchard, Ohio, in 1830. There he sold some land to John Appleseed, upon which Johnny planted an orchard, which was still bearing in recent years. Later, for a time, the family lived in Logan Co., Ohio, but returned to Mt. Blanchard where he died on Sept. 11, 1855. She died at Decatur, Ill., on June 4, 1892.

William Z. Lake, in 1885, in company with Jeff Machlin and Charles Harshbarger, drove in a covered wagon, from Plymouth, Ind., to Barron, Wis. The trip took three weeks. Their wives and children followed some time later, and were met at Chetek, Wis., that being as far as the railroad had then reached. They could tell interesting stories of how they carved out their farm in that wild country. When they first arrived they were able to buy a few bushels of potatoes, some rutabagas, and a dressed pork, upon which they subsisted until they could plant and raise a crop.

He cut railroad ties on his own land, and hauled them several miles to Cameron, Wis., and sold them to the Northwestern Railroad Company, then building a new roadbed through that country.

His original farm was but eighty acres, two and a half miles south of Barron, on what is now State Highway 25. This farm he later added to a forty, so making it a hundred twenty acres.

He was active in community affairs and served six years on the district school board, and was respected and admired by all who knew him. In 1890 his mother came to make her home with him and lived with him until her death in 1904.

From Fort Madison, Iowa, they went by covered wagon in 1851, to Kansas, and located upon a claim near Central City, where he built a store and hotel. This was near Garnet, Kansas, and here for some years they ran a grocery store as well as the hotel.

WE QUOTE. "A hairbreadth escape," from a local newspaper published about the time of the occurrence.

"Simpson Lake and John S. Johnson left Lawrence (Kansas) the evening before the town was burned and looted by Quantrell's Bushwhackers. They drove their wagon into the brush on Wake-rusa creek, to camp for the night. They did not camp near the road on account of it being unsafe to do so.

"Toward morning they could hear the tramp of cavalry, and men talking, and they held their horses nostrils so they could not whinny to attract attention. They hitched their horses to the wagon and lost no time in making their getaway back to Central City.

"They didn't know who the cavalry were, but, later learned that it was Quantrell's army going to burn Lawrence."

JOHN LAKE OF GRAVESEND, LONG ISLAND

John Lake seems to have arrived in the American Colonies in or about 1636, and was found at Newport, Rhode Island, in the home of Thomas Spicer. We have no positive proof that he was acquainted with the Spicer family in England, but there is every reason to believe that this was the case.

Thomas Spicer was at Newport, Rhode Island as early as July 16, 1638, as he was chosen Treasurer of Portsmouth in 1642, and in 1643 appears in Manhattan. There is evidence that John Lake accompanied the Spicer family to Manhattan.

In The Genealogy of The Lake Family, by Arthur Adams and Sarah Risley, we find the following:

"Gravesend was settled in 1643 by a company of Englishmen under the leadership of Lady Deborah Moody. She was the widow of Sir Henry Moody and came over to Massachusetts about 1640. She settled first at Salem, but in 1641 she removed to Lynn, where she purchased land. Soon she became a follower of the teachings of Roger Williams, and on account of the persecution of the Massachusetts authorities removed with some of her followers to New Amsterdam. John Tilton, who is said to have come over with Lady Moody, was one of those who went to Gravesend with her. Besides those who removed from Massachusetts, Lady Moody found other Englishmen at New Amsterdam, who joined her in the Gravesend enterprise. The first town patent for Gravesend was granted by Governor Kieft, December 19, 1645, to Lady Moody, Sir Henry Moody, her son, John Tilton, etc., and their associates, thirty-nine in all. Among these associates were John Lake, William Goulding, and Thomas Spicer, all names familiar in Cape May County. Whether John Lake and Thomas Spicer came from New England with Lady Moody or whether they joined her in New Amsterdam, it has not yet been possible to determine with certainty. The former seems more probable since Thomas Spicer was at Newport, R. I., as early as July 16, 1638, the date of his signing the compact. He was chosen Treasurer of Portsmouth in 1642, and in 1643 appears in Manhattan. Since John Lake, (was to be) his son-in-law, it is probable that he also was at Newport and joined Lady Moody on her way to New Amsterdam; though he (did not) marry Anne Spicer until after the settlement of Gravesend. There were several families of Lakes in Massachusetts, notably those of Thomas and John of Boston, brothers of Sir Edward Lake of England, who were related to the best families of the Colony, and who were themselves of high social position both in England and America. John Lake of Gravesend may have been related to them or to other New England Lakes; but the problem of his origin, it must be admitted, is still a problem."

"We learn from the will of Thomas Spicer that his daughter Anne married John Lake. This will is dated September 30, 1658, and proved November 4, 1658. His wife's name was Michal. He was that year one of the magistrates of Gravesend. Since three children of John and Anne (Spicer) Lake are mentioned in the will, it is evident they had been married some years . . . (1649). John Lake died some time before August 4, 1696, but he left no will, and the exact date cannot be determined. Anne Lake was living as late as 1709. Nor is there any record of his family save such as can be constructed from the Gravesend records. The baptism of a daughter of Jan Leek is recorded in the register of the Dutch Church of New York: Metje, May 20, 1652.

"We find in the Gravesend records mention of dealings of Anne, widow of John Lake, with her eldest son John; of transactions between John and his brother Daniel; of transactions between Anne and her son-in-law Nicholas Stillwell; of the marriage of Margaret Lake and William Goulding, April 2, 1676; besides mention of William and Elizabeth Lake, other children of Anne (Spicer) Lake."

In a letter from Edna Huntington, Librarian, of the Long Island Historical Society, at Brooklyn, as of Dec. 5, 1951, she says: "Although John Lake is supposed to have gone to Gravesend with Thomas Spicer, he is not mentioned in the records before 1652 except for his marriage to Ann Spicer, 1649, and I do not find any mention of his own property. It is likely that he was a young man when he went to Gravesend and he may have lived with the Spicers even after his marriage. I would suggest that you communicate with the Hall of Records, where it is possible they might be able to find the first record of his ownership of land."

In this same letter is the following: "According to the records, Gravesend Village was laid out in a village square of 16 acres, with farm lots radiating from the square. There were 39 patentees, each receiving a house lot in the village and a farm of probably 20 acres. In 1647 a stretch of meadow land was divided and in 1657, 1,000 acres were divided in 12 or 20 acre lots, the 12 acre lot presumably for those who had a farm lot and the 20 acres assigned to those were to get a 'bowerie,' as Lady Moody and one or two others. There was a further division in 1668-9 of 12 acres each."

In a letter from the same source, dated January 16, 1952, Edna Huntington says: "In reply to your letter of January 12, I find the marriage of John Lake and Ann Spicer mentioned in "A History of Gravesend," written by William H. Stilwell. This is a typewritten manuscript and has never been published."

Chapter 3 is written in chronological order and states:

"In 1649 the officers of the previous year were reelected—Ann, daughter of Thomas and Micah Spicer married John Lake who had accompanied Thomas from Rhode Island."

The next item is dated March 14.

There is no other reference to either John or Ann, except under the date of 1658, Nov. 16:

"Thomas Spicer's will proved devising his estate to his wife Micah and sons subject to legacies to his daughters. He left issue, Samuel Ann, wife of John Lake, and Susan, wife of Henry Brasier."

Stilwell does not give any references, so we have no way of knowing where he obtained his information."

In response to a letter to the County Clerk Office, County of Kings, as of January 9, 1952, the Clerk's Office says:

"In answer to your letter, I have found the following in our records: In a book entitled 'Early Settlers of Kings County' (Brooklyn) by Teunis G. Bergen, on page 179—

"Jan Lake, Senior of Gravesend, the common ancestor of the family and of Gravesend as early as 1656, farmer, married Ann, daughter of Thomas Spicer of Gravesend, died prior to August 14, 1696. Was a witness on the Indian Deed of Bergen's Island in Flatlands in 1652.

"The Borough of Brooklyn (Kings County) originally was subdivided into towns called Bushwick, Brooklyn, New Utrecht, Gravesend, Flatlands, and Flatbush.

"According to the town records, the first reference I find is in the Gravesend Book, Volume 2, page 108, dated November 21, 1670. John Lake of Amersford (Flatlands) bought a horse from Jas. Hubbard.

"Also Gravesend Book, Volume 3, page 34, dated 1672, it is stated that John Lake was allotted lots 19 and 30 in the West Meadow of Gravesend.

"These are the earliest records we have in reference to John

Lake, but there are plenty of references to him after the above dates. Signed,

Brooklyn Borough Historian."

Thomas Spicer was born in England. Died at Gravesend, Long Island. His will was dated and probated in 1658. He married first Michael. Married second March 2, 1626, Anna Grant, daughter of Mark Grant.

He was a Quaker. In Manhattan in 1643. Settled in Schraggs Neck with John Throckmorton. After the settlement was destroyed by the Indians he and his family lived in New Amsterdam, then later still in Gravesend, where he was one of the patentees and founder in 1645.

His children were: Anne, married John Lake; Samuel, b. about 1640, by his second marriage, who married Esther Tilton; Susanna, m. William Watham, 2nd m. Henry Brasier. (This from the New Jersey History & General Misseleaney, Page 289.)

The children of John & Anne Spicer-Lake were: I. John, Jr.; II. Daniel; III. Margaret (Metge); IV. Elizabeth; V. Michael, and VI. William. (This is the list as given by Adams & Risley. Bergen has some variations.)

John Lake died at Gravesend, L. I., in 1696. Error—see next page John 2.) Anne Spicer-Lake was still living in 1709, as she had dealings of record with her eldest son, John, Jr.

Above we gave the names of some of the patentees of Gravesend Plantation, as: Lady Deborah Moody, widow of Sir Henry Moody, and John Tilton, Sergeant James Hubbard, Lieut. George Baxter, and their associates. This Patent was signed by the then Dutch Governor, William Kieft, on December 19, 1645. This patent was later ratified by the British Governor Nicholes, to the people of Gravesend, in 1666.

This land was divided into thirty-nine parts, from which it is judged there were thirty-nine associates. Following are the names of some additional Associates: Samuel Holmes, John Lake, William Compton, Samuel Spicer, John Bowne, Thomas Delaval, John Cook, Nicholas Stilwell, John Morris, Peter Symington, Richard Stilwell, John Grigy, Robert Jameson, Obidiah Wilkins, Witham Wilkins, Ralph Cardell, Charles Bridges, Richard Staut, William Williamson, John Emans, John Poland, Amber Loudon, John Applegate, William Goulding, Thomas Cornwell, John Buckman, Michael Jure, Nathaniel Brittan, Thomas Spicer and others whose names we do not have. (This from the New York Genealogical & Biographical Record. Vol. 16, pages 99-102.)

It will be noted that among the Associates of the Gravesend

Plantation were the names of Thomas Spicer, his son-in-law, John Lake, and William Goulding (or Golden). This Thomas Spicer may have been in Lady Moody's company when she came, but this is unlikely, as he was at Newport, Rhode Island as early as July 1638, the date of his signing the Compact. He was chosen Treasurer of Portsmouth in 1642, and in 1643, appears in Manhattan.

This list is thus given in full as some of these names again appear in relation to the Lake Families, as Williamson, etc.

Lady Deborah Moody was still living when on June 18, 1665, a meeting was held at her house by the Governor. (This was in relation to the appointment of a Justice of the Peace.)

It is interesting to note that, while the patent was signed on Dec. 19, 1645, building of homes was already in process. Assurance had been given that the patent would be forthcoming.

That Henry Mody (Moody) sold a parcel of land had from his mother, Deborah Moody, deceased, in 1665, to John Johnson.

That William Williamson was one of the founders of the Gravesend Plantation.

That Jacob Van Courlaer purchased or was granted land near the Gravesend Plantation, in 1636, and may well have been the ancestor of Aarent Van Courlaer, who was interested in the five thousand acre grant in Old Albany Co., Province of New York. (See Ostrander, of History of Brooklyn & Kings County, page 26.)

THE GRAVESEND FAMILY

2. John Lake (Johni). He was the eldest son. He remained in Long Island, at Gravesend, and became the head of the Gravesend family there. His wife was Neeltje Classen. He probably lived for a time at Flatlands, for November 21, 1670, he bought a horse of James Hubbard of Gravesend. He is named in the assessment roll of Gravesend in 1683. In 1700 he was a Captain of Militia. In 1694 he bought of Hannah, widow of John Delavall of Pennsylvania, for 164 pounds a house and forty acres of land on Hogg's Neck in Gravesend. May 6, 1696, he with Joakim Gulick, had a survey of 85 acres at Smoking Point, with nine acres at the mouth of the Fresh Kil, on Staten Island. In 1714 he was an elder in the Gravesend Dutch Reformed Church, but the date of his death has not been found. His will was proven May 17, 1729, and a wife Mayke, is mentioned.

Children: i. Jan, bp. Apr. 16, 1688; ii. Daniel, bp. Apr. 25, 1696; iii. Thomas; iv. Nicholas; v. Mary, m. Cornelius Van Sicklen."

It is with the descendants of Nicholas, iv, of John, 2, we are deeply concerned. Adams & Risley in their monumental work on The Genealogy of The Lake Family, have dealt so well with the other descendants of John Lake and Anne Spicer-Lake, that we need not attempt to add thereto, but shall follow the line of Nicholas Lake and Mary, his wife.

THOMAS LAKE, of New Haven, and JOHN LAKE, of New Haven and Gravesend, Long Island, were brothers. Thomas had arrived at New Haven in 1634, and his brother John Lake arrived in 1636, then went with Thomas Spicer, to New Amsterdam and with him became founders of the Gravesend Plantation, in 1643.

The above data was had from material gathered by Devereaux Lake for his BOOK, THE LAKE FAMILY, of Georgia, of descendants of Jon Lake and Ann Spicer-Lake, but these notes were not published therein.

Alice Stilwell m. 1st, Samuel Holmes; 2nd, William Osborn; 3rd, Daniel Lake, in 1683 and had as issue, 1 and 2, Joseph and Abraham, twins, 1684; 3. Elizabeth, b. 1686; 4. John, b. 1689; 5. Thomas, b. 1691, and 6. Ann Lake, b. 1694. (From Bergan & Austin). Daniel Lake was one of the early settlers on Staten Island. His record may be found in "A GENEALOGY OF THE LAKE FAMILY" by Adams & Risley.

JOHN LAKE, JR., of John Lake, i-, of Gravesend, Long Island. The eldest son of John Lake and Anne Spicer-Lake, remained in Gravesend and is the ancestor of the branch of the family still resident there. The date of his birth is not given. His wife was Neeltje Claessen. He was named in the assessment roll of Gravesend in 1683. In 1700 he was a Captain of Militia. Their children were: i. Jan (John); ii. Daniel; iii. Thomas; iv. Nicholas; v. Mary, m. Cornelius Van Sicklen. He made his will on May 14, 1723; it was probated on May 17, 1729, but it was never recorded, for some unknown reason, and is found among the Unrecorded Wills of New York Surrogate's Court. (New York Historical Society Collections.)

John Lake mentions wife Myke (Mary); sons, Daniel, John, Thomas, Nicholas, and daughter Mary, wife of Cornelius van Sicklin. The witnesses are Samuel Hubbard, Samuel Garretson, and Nicholas Williamson.

In documents relating to the settlement of his estate, his son Nicholas is recorded as of Middlesex County, N. J., and later this same Nicholas is recorded as of Somerset County, N. J.

His will, as above, is dated August 23, 1768, and proved October 30, 1771. Wife Mary, sons Hendrick, John, Jacobus, Thomas, Nicholas, Abraham, and daughter Eleanor, who married Johnson, daughter Mary, a daughter Sarah, late wife of Hendrick Snyder, daughter Jane, wife of said Hendrick Snider, (Snyder, or Scheyni-der, it is spelled differently often in the same document), daughter Margaret, wife of Cornelius Blew (or Blaw), and also mentions grandchildren John Johnson and Elizabeth Kuyk (children of daughter Eleanor), and Mary Hankerson, Nicholas Christopher, and Greetje, children of daughter Sarah Sneider, deceased. Executors: Ryck Sudam and Abraham Quick, of Somerset County, and Jacob Van Dike of Middlesex County, (which would indicate that he still owned property in both counties), witnesses: John Sortor, Nicholas Golder, and William Patterson.

This failure to indicate her as married, would seem to indicate that daughter Mary, who is known to have been married to Aarent van Courlaer, of the New York grants, was not yet married when his will was made, in 1768. We do, however, find the record of their marriage on Sept. 23, 1743 in the records, in Vol. 12, New Jersey Archives, containing marriage records from 1665-1800.

This Nicholas Lake, who made his will in 1768, which was proved in 1771, has a brother, Thomas Lake, who was also from Somerset County, N. J. His will was dated February 11, 1755, and was probated October 17, 1765. He mentions his wife, Jane; sons, Thomas, Garrett, and John; and daughters, Winifred Hull, Sarah Bettes, Catherine Stuphen, Ann Aller, and Ellen Lake; also a granddaughter, Jane Hull.

John Lake of New Jersey, who was later interested in the first and smaller New York land grant, had married Margaret Snider, and her brother, Hendrick Snider (Schynider, Snyder, etc.) first married Sarah Lake and after her death, married Jane Lake, both sisters of John Lake, etc.

There is a tradition in the Lake family that John Lake, son of Nicholas, with the Schneiders, went first to Ulster County, New York. At any rate, the record stands, and is as follows:

"Ulster County, New York—Wills, deeds and other records contain references to John Lake who took land patents there in 1749. Lakes . . also appear in Church Records of Ulster County before 1750."

Also Lakes and Snyders appear in Church records of Ulster County before 1750. However, in both land grants, it is said they were from the Province of New Jersey.

A family named Hegeman went from Long Island to Somerset County, New Jersey. Later to Ulster County, New York. Later Nathaniel Lucas and Margaret Hegerman-Lucas (LUKAS), went to the New York Grants. They had three children, Susanna, Dennis and Altje, bp. Aug. 7, 1778, in the Dutch Reformed Church, but soon after died. Nathaniel Lucas (Lukes), died, and James Lake, the U. E. Loyalist, of John and Margaret Snider-Lake, married her and by her had his family as will appear.

We also find records that Dennis Hagerman, father of Margaret, and his family, also made their way to Canada, following the American Revolution, and where there were further intermarriages with the Lake family.

THE FLITTING, DISPERSION

With the increase in population at Gravesend, and the smallness of the Lake family holdings, it seemed necessary there should be a swarming. An age old process, running back far in the age of man.

The New Jersey bogs, flats, and higher land had begun to be settled by the Dutch, even before the British had taken over. This territory was accessible across the sound, to the Lake family. Daniel, the son of John, i, went to Staten Island and so became one of the early settlers there, and there are remains of his descendants still there.

Others found their way to New Jersey, and settled in various parts. The four sons of John 2, of John i, settled in various parts. These four sons were: i. Jan (or John), bp. Apr. 1688; ii. Daniel, bp. Apr. 25, 1696; iii. Thomas; iv. Nicholas; and v. Mary, m. Cornelius Van Sicklen.

Devereaux Lake, in his book, "LAKE FAMILY HISTORY," says, p. 4-5: "It was natural and logical that the sons of John Lake, the Gravesend settler, were first attracted by the accessible territory along the Coast; and later that his ambitious and venturesome grandsons should follow the line of settlement to the higher and more fertile inland. The four sons of John, Jr., of Gravesend, acquired land in different parts of New Jersey and occupied it. These four sons were Jan (or John), Thomas, Nicholas, and Daniel. They were responsible for the numerous line of descendants in Hunterdon, Middlesex, Somerset, and Monmouth Counties. Jan's son, John, lived in Amwell Township, Hunterdon County, although the senior owned property and probably lived at or near New Brunswick, Middlesex County. Thomas undoubtedly settled in Amwell Township, Hunterdon County; his sons and grandsons were of Bethlehem Township."

Nichalos, youngest son of John Jr., settled in Middlesex County, but later owned land in both Middlesex and Somerset Counties, as shown by his will which was probated both in Middlesex and Somerset Counties, N. J.

It is with this Nicholas Lake and his descendants we are directly concerned.

NOTES

"NICHOLAS LAKE, of Somerset & Middlesex Counties, New Jersey, sold to Michale Blew part of a large tract of 1362 acres which he bought of Abraham Van Horn (merchant), of New York City. Signed, Nicholas Lake (his mark).

Bought of John Hamilton, 100 acres in Southern New Jersey, of which he sold 50 acres to Dirk Schyler, which was assigned by Schyler to Thomas Barlow, which was returned to Jacob Ford.

Nicholas Lake sold to John Gordon (recorded February 10, 1756), Nicholas Lake of New Brunswick, land in County of Somerset, being part of a larger tract which Nicholas Lake had purchased of Abraham Van Horn, Merchant, of New York City, containing in the whole 1362 acres, sold 195 acres, beginning at a stone corner of land surveyed for Jacob Van Voorhes, etc. Signed, Nicholas Lake (his mark), Mary Lake (her mark)."

CHAPTER VII

NICHOLAS LAKE, Third Generation

IV. Nicholas Lake, of John, Jr., of John i. Born at Gravesend, Long Island. Seeking more land went to Middlesex County, New Jersey. Records do not indicate whether he was already married to his wife, Mary, when he went to New Jersey, nor do they give her family name. In Nicholas' will, later, she is merely mentioned as Mary, his wife, and provision was made for her care, etc. Nor do we know just when Nicholas went to New Jersey. There is no indication whether any of their children were born before going to New Jersey.

That Nicholas Lake prospered in New Jersey appears from the terms of his will—later made—as it was probated both in Middlesex and Somerset counties. There were executors in both counties and disposition of lands in both counties were provided for.

We find his will of record in Somerset County (it was also recorded in Middlesex County), a copy from a photostat, from Somerset Co., is appended hereto—which shows that his entire property was divided into eleven parts, with direction that it should all be sold and so divided in cash. Some of the eleven parts were again divided, as will be seen. This will is dated August 23, 1768, and has a codicil dated October 7, 1768, and was proved October 8, 1773. He mentions his wife, Mary; his eldest son, Hendrick; his sons, John, Jacobus, Thomas, Nicholas, and Abraham; his daughters, Eleanor, Mary, Sarah, Jane and Margaret. The witnesses to this will were, John Sortors, Nicholas Golder and Wm. Paterson.

Provision is made in the will that his son Jacobus shall be paid (above his equal share), by his executors, "the sum of forty pounds current money of the province at eight shillings the ounce over and above his equal share for the house which he the c, Jacobus hath lately built upon the farm where I now live. . . ."

The executors named are Ryck Suydam, Abraham Quick of Somerset County, and John Scheurman and Jacob Vandike, of Middlesex County.

Chambers "Early Germans" states that Nicholas Lake of New Brunswick sold 345 acres of land for 427 pounds sterling to John Abramse Van Voorheese, who removed from Flatbush in 1738. From his will the children of Nicholas Lake are given.

I. Hendrick. He was the eldest son, and as such he received 10 pounds in excess of his one-eleventh part. II. John; III. Jacobus; IV. Thomas; V. Nicholas; VI. Abraham; VII. Eleanor, married Johnson, and had John and Elizabeth, who m. Peter Huyk; VIII. Mary; IX. Sarah, m. Hendrick Schnider (also spelled Schnyder), and had Mary, m. Aron Hankeson, Nicholas, Christopher, Gurtze, and Jane; X. Jane, m. Hendrick Schnider after the death of her sister, Sarah; XI. Margaret, m. Cornelius Blew.

The will of Nicholas Lake also mentions grandchildren, John Johnson and Elizabeth Kuyk (children of daughter Eleanor), and Mary Hankerson; Nicholas, Christopher, and Greetje, children of daughter Sarah Snider, deceased.

This Nicholas Lake had an older brother, Thomas Lake, who was also of Somerset Co., N. J. His will was dated Feb. 11, 1755 and probated Oct. 17, 1765. He mentions his wife, Jane; sons, Thomas, Garrett and John; daughters, Winifred Hull, Sarah Bette, Catherine Stuphen, Ann Aller, and Ellen Lake; also granddaughter, Jane Hull.

CHILDREN OF NICHOLAS and MARY LAKE, 4th Generation.

The children of Nicholas Lake, and Mary Lake as indicated by his will, which is dated August 23, 1768, and proved October 8, 1773, in which he mentions his wife, Mary, his eldest son, Hendrick; his sons John, Jacobus, Thomas, Nicholas, and Abraham; his daughters Eleanor, Mary, Sarah, Jane and Margaret. This will was probated both in Somerset and Middlesex Counties, indicating that he possessed land or property in each county.

We have not learned his wife's name, except it was Mary. She is provided for in his will, as are others of his family. Hendrick, being the eldest son received ten pounds in excess of his one eleventh part in the estate.

In seeking information as to the reason for his will that all his property should be sold and the proceeds divided, we were led to wonder at this order, but the reason for such will appear as we follow his children through.

THEIR CHILDREN:

1. Hendrick Lake, b. 1726. We can not be sure whether in Long Island, or later in New Jersey, but it was soon after the marriage of his parents. He m. Mariah Gowey (Guey), we presume before he left New Jersey.

Henry Lake was interested in the so-called Schnyder land patent in the county of Albany, in the Province of New York, as will later appear.

He made his will on March 2, 1799, in which he makes provision for his wife, Mary, "I give and bequeath to my beloved Wife Mary all and Singular my Lands mefsuages and Testaments with all my Household furniture, Goods, Chattles, Debts and moveable effects, which I may have at my decease. In the aforesaid Town, County and State Afores-d, (Town of Hoosick, County of Renselaer, and State of New York:), or elsewhere, during her natural life."

At the death of his wife, Mary Lake, he: "I do leave and Bequeath unto Nicholas, Polly, Hannah and Henry Lake, Children lawfully begotten by Henry Lake Junior my Grandson; all and singular my Lands, Mefsuages, and Tenements, Goods, Chattles, debts and moveable Effects; that may remain at the decease of the said Mary my Wife," "Item I also leave and Bequeath unto Nicholas Lake my son the sum of One dollar and Twenty five cents; to be paid when demanded after my decease: "Witnessed by: Aaron T. Lusken, George Bowen & Elizabeth Cornell. See copy of his will following.

Hendrick, (Henry, as later written), was associated with his brothers and brothers-in-law, Hendrick Schnyder, and others, in a larger grant of land in Albany County. This grant was for ten thousand acres, lying to the east side of Hudson's River. (Insert the petition for this grant, same being a photostat of the original, from New York Colonial Manuscripts indorsed Land Papers, 0.16, p. 69), which gives the names of all ten petitioners for this grant of land.

In the choosing of lots in this large grant of ten thousand acres, Lot 2, No. 26 and No. 54, were held by lease, which lot No. 2 fell to Henry Lake. But one Crean Brush held some sort of lease of this part of the grant, so Henry Lake secured a "release of Lots No. 2, No. 26 and No. 54 part of a tract of land in the County of Albany. Dated 25th day of Sept. 1762."

CREAN BRUSH TO HENDRICK LAKE—Lease of Lotts No. 2, No. 26 & No. 54 part of a Tract of Land in the County of Albany—Dated 24th Sept. 1762.

THIS INDENTURE made the Twenty-fourth day of September in the year of our Lord One thousand seven hundred and Sixty Hendrick Lake and Mariah, his wife, seem to have immediately repaired to their grant of land in Albany County. They endured the privations incident upon breaking out a new raw country, where there were few settlers, and no near neighbors. They were effected by the dissensions brought about by troubles as between the Colony of New York, and the New Hampshire grants, which resulted in war as between the state militia of New York and Vermont, where the Allen Brothers and others were making their stand and insisting that Vermont should stand as an entity by itself and not as a part of the Colony of New York.

There was the passing back and forth of Indians who were loath to give up their hunting grounds. There were the rumors of engagements between the French and the British over conflicting claims to lands in what has become Quebec which had been held by the French, and was later taken over by the British by bitter warring and dissension.

Came the American Revolution, the division of families, when some of the Lake families were loyalists and others became royalists. Indian raids, battles fought across their lands. Brothers against brothers. Dispossessions, burnings, members of their own families being driven out of their homes, lands and holdings. A time of trouble and warrings which touched their very lives. Some of the Lake families fleeing to Canada to save their lives, having lost all their worldly goods.

We find record of but one child born to Henry Lake and Mariah, his wife, and the only reference to him being in his father's will, where he wills that: "Item I also leave and Bequeath unto Nicholas Lake my son the sum of One dollar and Twenty five cents; to be paid when demanded after my decease." Which leaves one wondering at the estrangement, bitterness, or even hate which had been engendered as between father and son. Whose fault? What disagreements, what bitter rancor, or merely the fact that the son, Nicholas, had a mind of his own, and would not be controlled. Whatever it may have been, even that the son Nicholas may already received his fair share of the father's estate while the father was still living, there is no intimation.

However this may have been, Henry Lake willed that after the death of his Wife Mary, "And at the decease of the said Mary my Wife, I do leave and Bequeath unto Nicholas, Polly, Hannah and Henry Leake, Children lawfully begotten by Henry Leake Junior my Grandson; All and singular my Lands, Mefsuages, and Tenements, Goods, Chattles, debts and Movebale Effects." So he provided for his great-grandchildren, who were still under age, as soon as they should reach the age of twenty-one years, but after the death of Mary, his Wife.

In 1794 Henry Lake by himself and his wife Mary Lake, gave a deed to one Robert Patton, to lands in Hosic, County of Renfsler and State of New York, certain lands as shown in said deed.

Follows a book account as of Henry Lake and the Widow of Henry Lake Deceased.

We find that on the 20th day of December, 1815 Hannah Lake-

Carr, and her husband Alexander Carr, of Sparta, County of Ontario, and State of New York, did bargain and sell and quit claim, unto Garrett S. Lake, of Cambridge, County of Washington and State of New York, Of the second part, "all that our right, title, claim, and demand the said Hannah being one of the Heirs and legetees of the last will and Testament of Henry Lake, late of the County of Rennfsler and State aforesaid being part of a Tract of land of ten thousand acres Granted to Henry Snyder, and some other Persons." This is signed both by Alexander Carr and Hannah Carr.

We find that Henry Lake deeded to Garrett S. Lake as follows: of New York, to Garrett S. Lake, of the Town of White Creek, County of Washington, & State of New York, all his right, title and interest in his Grand Father Henry Lake, deceased, estate, describing his Grand Father's holdings in Washington County, at or near White Creek, New York, for the sum of six hundred dollars. Signed, Sealed, and Delivered in the presence of William Richards and Paul Cornell.

Garrett S. Lake was the administrator of the estate of his Uncle Henry Lake. This deed was passed for recording on the 19th day of March, 1819.

We find a POWER OF ATTORNEY, given by Alexander Carr, husband of Hannah Lake, and Ephraim Walker, husband of Polly Lake, both of the town of Scipio, County of Cayuga, State of New York, to Nicholas Lake, (father of Hannah Lake and Polly Lake). of the same place, "our true & Lawful Attorney for us and NIN our Names & In our Stead to make and receive of and from the Estate of Henry Lake deceased of the town of Hoosic County of Rennfslaer—State of New York—Said deceased Died leaving By Will and Testament unto Hannah Lake Now Hannah Carr as Heirs to a Certain part of Said Estate also leaving to Polly Lake now Polly Walker a certain Share or part of Said Estate by Way of Will—Now Know ye that Wee the said Alexander and Ephram husbands to the Said Hannah and Polly. SOME NOTES ON AARENT VAN COURLAER

I. “The English Governor, called Brother Corlaer, the Indians’

Friend, in memory of Captain Aarendt Van Curler, or Corlear, of Fort Schonowe, the Dutch village, on the site of Schenectady, and who was, in 1667, accidentally drowned in Lake Corlaer, now Lake Champlain." Page 46—Hoosac Valley, by Grace Greylock Niles. The first mention of Van Corlaer.

II. "Sachem-Nawanemit also owned the north end of the Sannahagog Tract on the east bank of the Hudson, and six years later, in 1637, Jacob Albertzen Plank. First Sheriff of Rensselaerwyck, and Arendt Van Curler or Corlaer, a cousin of Patroon Kiliaen Van Rensselaer, purchased the Hoosac's Lake District, extending from King Aepjen's Bear Island north to Sequon's Castle Unuwat." Page 61—Hoosac Valley, by Grace Greylock Niles. The same notes, on p. 110, where it is said this tract was 24 miles square on the east bank of the Hudson, and Hendrick Albertsen ran a ferry boat between Fort Orange and Fort Crailo neighborhoods.

III. "During June 1642, Arendt Van Corlaer, Commissary-General of Fort Orange, then about twenty-two years of age, turned his thoughts to marriage. He visited his elder brother, Capt. Jacobus Van Corlaer, of Fort Good Hope on the Connecticut—A letter of Arendt Van Corlaer, dated June 16, 1643, to his cousin, Patroon Kiliaen Van Rensselaer, says: 'I am at present betrothed to the widow of the late Jonas Bronck. May the Good God vouchsafe and bless me in my undertaking.' The following season Arendt Van Corlaer, 2nd, was born at Fort Orange, and Captain Van Corlaer and his son were destined to found Fort Schonowe Colony on the site of Schenectady in 1661." Page 111 of above book.

IV. "In February 1666, during the Mohawk and Hoosac War, Gov. Samuel Courcelle of New France led a party of six hundred French and Algonquin warriors to harass the Mohawks about Fort Schonowe. Several of the Canadians were captured by the Mohawks, and Capt. Arendt Van Corlaer ransomed and returned them to the defeated Courcelle. The grateful Governor invited Van Corlaer to visit Canada, and while on his journey, he was accidentally drowned, in 1667, near Fort Cassin, north of the junction of Otter Creek with Lake Champlain. The Peton-boque waters were known for a century thereafter as Lake Corlaer, in memory of 'Brother Corlaer,' the Indians' Friend."

"At the time Gov. Thomas Dongan granted Hoosac Patent on June 2, 1688, to Maria Van Rennselaer and Hendrick Van Ness of Albany, Garret Tunisson (Van Vetchen) of Satskill, and Jacobus Van Courtland of New York City, Arendt Van Corlaer, 2nd, was a man forty-five years of age. His son Arendt Van Corlaer, 3rd, was born in 1690, during the perilous year following the massacre of Schenectady and the opening of King William's War. He inherited a portion of Great Lot 10 of Hoosac Patent, and in 1709 at the age of nineteen years settled at St. Croix, in company with the fur trader Adam Vrooman, son of Bartle Vrooman of Old Saratoga."

V. "The founders of Fort St. Croix, in 1724 included Patroon Garrett Cornelius Van Ness, Arendt Van Courlaer, 3rd, Adam Vrooman, and others."

VI. "In the Tishoke Church yard, containing the tombstone of Arendt Van Corlaer, 3rd, who died in 1797, at the age of 107."

In Vol. 12, New Jersey Archives, containing marriage records, from 1665-1800 is the following:

"Mary Lake, of Middlesex County, New Jersey (she of Nicholas Lake), and Arent Van Corlaer, of Middlesex County, m. Sept. 23, 1743."

It is very apparent that Arent Van Courlaer was familiar with all the territory lying along the Hudson river as well as the lands lying about Lake George and Lake Champlain, as he with Adam Vrooman and others had hunted and trapped all over that country.

So he came to know, not alone the lay of the land, with its watersheds, its streams, and the Indians who also lived, roamed over, and trapped the same territory.

So also he knew of the various grants, as the Hoosac, the Rennsler, and others and their limits and confines, who lived upon these grants and their development, or lack of same.

The then Governor of the Colony of New York would grant but a limited number of hunting and trapping licenses. It is quite apparent that he expected a part of the income from this trapping and hunting. So all furs must be sold either at Albany or in New York.

There developed, as by necessity, a plan for outwitting such measures. So these trappers would load their canoes just below Albany, paddle down along the west bank of the Hudson River, passing New York quietly in the dark, and so on to Jersey City and Newark, which thus became a market for furs, and where trappers could secure a fair price for their labor without any kick back to the New York Governor.

It may have well been upon some such excursion that Aarent Van Courlaer met and loved Mary Lake. This meeting may have come through meeting some of her brothers in the Newark markets, or otherwise. We are not here interested in writing of romance. However, it is a matter of record that he did meet Mary Lake, and that he did marry her, as shown above.

This meeting with Mary Lake was to change the entire future history of her branch of the Lake family. While Nicholas Lake, her father, owned much land in Middlesex and Somerset counties in New Jersey, his sons were seeking larger outlets for their energies and their desire for more land was to be satisfied. Just as their father had found his way into the Province of New Jersey, where he could raise his family, so his sons were ready for further exploration, and learning, through their brother-in-law, of possibilities in New York, were ready to chance their future there.

That Aarent Van Courlaer knew of large tracts of virgin land in New York was evident and how to go about securing grants of land, just as the Van Rennselaers, the Van Horns, and others had done and were doing, it was necessary merely to learn where such virgin lands were and so petition for them.

Aarent Van Courlaer knew the Indian Chief of the Hoosac's and that he controlled a large tract of such land, so he made his petition to the then Governor Cadwallader Colden, for a grant of land lying east of the Hudson river, and occupied by this Indian Chieftain.

He was assured that if he could obtain a deed from this Indian Chief, to the desired land, then he, the Governor would give a grant of the land to him. This Aarent Van Courlaer proceeded to do, securing the deed for five thousand acres, back to the British Government, thus clearing the title. This deed he secured for fifty Spanish dollars.

SOME FURTHER NOTES ABOUT ARENT VAN CORLAER

Arent Van Corlaer was born April 19, 1688, to Bennoni & Elizabeth (widow of Sybrant Van Schaik) Von Coular. He married Mary Lake, daughter of Nicholas Lake, of Middlesex County, New Jersey on Sept. 23, 1743.

He died at Mapleton, near Hoosic, Rennselaer County New York, March 17, 1795 (in the 107th year of his age).

The above from Genealogical & History Magazine, October 15, 1946, issue page 120. BUT:

On his gravestone in the Old Cemetery at or near Fort St. Croix, near where was the Dutch Reformed Church, the first Protestant church in the Hoosac Valley, on a lot of A. Wandelin Hoosac Patent.

THE GRAVESTONE INSCRIPTION FOLLOWS:

"Aaron Van Curler, who died January 17, 1795 in the 107th year of his age."

Then follows this inscription:

"This life is a tale, An empty Song.
'Tis but a breath, However long."

"Aarent Van Courlaer was born at Schenectady, New York, two years before the massacre, on February 8, 1690.

His grandfather, Aarent Van Corlaer, was the founder of Schenectady, which was at first Fort Schonowe Colony, in 1661. (Grace Greylock Niles.)"

Grace Greylock Niles says: "The founders of Fort St. Croix in 1724 included: Patroon Garret Cornelius Van Ness, Arendt Van Corlaer, 3rd, Adam Vrooman, Pitt Van Hogleboom, George Nichols, a descendant of Col. Richard Nicolls of the British warfleet of 1664; Johannes De Ruyter, a descendant of General De Ruyter of the Battle of Solebay; Juria Kreigger, a descendant of Col. William Kreigger of Governor Stuyvesant's Fort Amsterdam militia in 1664; Jan Oothout, a grandson of Hans Reinier Oothout of Capt. Jacobus Van Corlaer's Fort Good Hope garrison on the Connecticut, etc." Page 115—The Hoosac Valley.

THE NEW YORK LAND GRANTS

5,000 Acres to Arrent Van Courlaer, Nicholas Lake, Junior, James Lake (Jacobus), Thomas Lake, and John Lake.

THE NEW YORK GRANTS

With the granting of the Van Corlaer lands of five thousand acres, it was but coming home to Aarent Van Courlaer, as he and his people had known this whole territory, from an early time, as his grandfather was known as the Indians' Friend, for whom a great lake had been called for many years as Corlaer Lake, later as Lake Champlain.

With Van Courlaer came his wife, Mary Lake-Courlaer, and his brothers-in-law, John, Jacobus, Thomas and Nicholas Lake, Jr., all of whom had married in New Jersey and some of whom already had families.

As the purpose of the grant was to break out this virgin country and bring the land and forests under cultivation, that more might be produced, both for England and the colonies. The Lake brothers, at least, had been yoemen, i.e., farmers in New Jersey and so were desirable colonists to begin developing this land.

At the period of these grants all these lands lay in Albany County, which was later divided into what became Washington Co., on the north, with Rennsler County on the south. Thus leaving Albany County, largely on the west side of the Hudson River.

The Van Courlaer grant lay to the northeast of Albany City, in Cambridge and White Creek townships.

Aarent Van Courlaer had married Mary Lake in New Jersey. We have not learned of any issue from this marriage. Van Courlaer was at least in middle age when he married Mary Lake.

John Lake, born in 1728, had married Margaret Snider (Scheneyder), a sister of Henrick Schenderyck. Two of their children seem to have been born in New Jersey, yet we have found no evidence of their birthplace, others were born at White Creek, in what became Washington County, New York.

Jacobus, b. 1729, in Somerset County, New Jersey. Jacobus Lake, who had married Arreantie Hubbard, by New York license of October 28, 1765. She was born Dec. 7, 1736. They first made their home on his father's land in Somerset County, N. J., and in his father's will provision was made that he was to be reimbursed for the new house he had built on the home farm. He seems not to have gone to New York with Aarent Van Courlaer and his brothers, Nicholas, Jr., John and Thomas. In point of fact his New York holdings were largely in the care of his sons James and Garrett, and until they could take charge in the care of John, Thomas and Nicholas with Van Corlaer.

Illustration No. 16

The five thousand acre grant was divided into tracts of one thousand acres. Each of the brothers and Aarent Van Courlaer receiving a thousand acres.

Thomas Lake, b. 1731 in Somerset County, New York, married Mychelle Williamson, b. 1733, in Somerset County, New Jersey, the sister of Garrett Williamson. The "Return of Census of Wolford" (Ontario), states that on July 29, 1797, Thomas Lake was sixty-six and his wife Mychelle Williamson was sixty-four years of age.

We have not found the date of the birth of Nicholas Lake, Jr., but it was probably in 1732-33. That he was with his brother-in-law Aarent Van Courlaer as the five thousand acre grant was made to Van Courlaer and Nicholas Lake, Jr., of the Province of New Jersey.

Those as given in the Aarent Van Courlaer-Nicholas Lake grant, called the Van Courlaer Grant, were, besides Van Courlaer, Nicholas Lake, Jr., John Lake, Jacobus (James) Lake, and Thomas Lake, all of the Province of New Jersey. This petition was "referred on June 17, 1761; and on June 22, 1761 the patent was granted."

"The second or so-called Schenyder grant was applied for on July 2, 1761. Read and referred to a committee on August 5, 1761, and was Reported and Granted, and Warrant of survey issued dated the same day. (Signed) Cadwallader Colden."

The grantees of this Schneyder grant were: Hendrick Schneyder (also written Snider), John Wettick, Hendrick Lake, John Johnson, Garrett Williamson, Nathaniel Acherly, Benjamine Abbott, William Taylor and Martinius Voorheis, all of the Province of New Jersey and Daniel Hallinbeck of the City of Albany.

It would appear that the survey of the first five thousand acre tract revealed the larger tract lying alongside, and that brothers and brothers-in-law immediately applied for and received the same.

It is to be noted that these families were intertwined, and the connection gradually grows stronger. Hendrick Snider had married two daughters of Nicholas Lake, first Sarah, who gave him five children and died, then he later married her sister Jane. Eleanor Lake married Mathias Johnson, while John Lake married Margaret Snider. So these families were intertwined when they received the

New York Grants. Besides John Lake, Junior, son of John Lake of the first grant of five thousand acres, married a Miss van Voorheise, probably a daughter of Martin Van Voorheise, who gave him a family of nine children.

With the granting of these fifteen thousand acres of land as well as of other grants in Albany County, and the coming of the families of these grantees came also a large increase in the population, so that from the filing of and approval of these grants, within the next thirty years the land was well broken out. Towns had grown up, and the increase in the numbers of people brought about the dividing of Old Albany County, which had formerly included all these and other great tracts of land, was divided into a number of counties, including Albany, Washington and Rennsler.

The following is from the "History of Rennselaer County," by Sylvester:

"The next settlement was upon the Schneider Patent. This tract is in the eastern part of the town and extended nearly across its entire breadth. It was locally known in the early times as Mapleton, and a small portion of it still retains that name. Of the Grantees, Hendrick Schneider, John Wettic, Hendrick Lake, John Johnson, Garrett Williamson, Nathaniel Ackerly, Benjamine Abbott, William Taylor and Martinus Voorheis became actual settlers soon after securing the Patent.

"John Quackenbush, from Schaghticoke, settled about 1765, on division lot No. 7 of this patent. Descendants of this family have been numerous in the town. Other early settlers were Peter Ostrander, William Helling, John Patten, John Palmer, Benjamine Walworth Randall, James and Samuel Cotterell."

Grants of these large tracts of undeveloped lands were made with the idea if not the definite understanding that the grantees with their families would immediately enter in and develop these waste lands, laying them out and peopling them, that the country might be developed, towns laid out, the land broken out and placed under cultivation, thus increasing the population and bringing the land into production.

THE NEW YORK LAND GRANTS, TO THE LAKE BROTHERS AND OTHERS.

Having determined to apply for a land grant in New York Colony, Arent Van Corlaer, and his brother-in-law Nicholas Lake, presented their case before the then Governor, for the land then possessed by the last Chief of the Schachtikook Indians, and being assured that if they could secure a deed from this Indian Chief, back to the English King, then he would grant their request. Thereupon they proceeded to visit the Chief, Jacob, Alias Schenck, got his consent to go to Albany and make a deed as requested, paying therefor with fifty Spanish dollars and other considerations as set forth in the deed. This was signed on the 20th day of May 1761, at Albany, New York.

It is apparent there was an attempt on the part of certain persons to stop and so prevent the Petitioners from obtaining this Grant of land, as the records disclose, but we have not felt it necessary to bring all this into this record. Sufficient that these Petitioners did receive the Grant of land for which they had already paid the Indian Chief, Jacob Schenck, the fifty Spanish dollars, thus clearing the title and leaving it in the name of George third.

"This document obviously conveys the Indian title to everything between the Walloomsac Patent on the south and Batten Kill on the north, west of the "high mountains" (now in Vermont) and east of the east line of the Cambridge Patent (the so-called "Sawyer and Lansing Purchase"). This Indian deed thus took in, in what is now Vermont, all of the town of Shaftsbury, most of the town of Arlington, and the northwest corner of the town of Bennington, as well as the eastern parts of the towns of Jackson and White Creek, in what is still New York. Though the consideration of "fifty Spanish dollars" may seem small, we must remember that those were times in which even a knife or hatchet was really worth more to an Indian than many square miles of wild land. It is interesting, too to note that the "mark" of Jacob Schenk (who undoubtedly got his German-sounding name when he was baptized by the Moravian Missionaries at North Hoosic) is the figure of a turtle. The Mother tribes of the Mohicans, in the remotest past, were known as the Turtles and the Bears, and the tribal mark was essential to an Indian Conveyance."

THE CASTLE OF JACOB SCHENK

What was called the Indian Chief's Castle was built for him, or the then tribal Chief, of native lumber, mostly pine, cut with broad axes, as shown still upon the lumber in the building, was built in 1711, as shown upon the mantel in the living room, where is also the signature of the Chief of the tribe. It is a pattern of The OWL, and especially of THE ORATOR. Also on the corner stone is the date 1711.

In a letter from Paul Jones, of White Creek, New York, April 17, 1951, he says, in part:

"My wife and I bought the house in August of 1949 and at that time it was in a terrible state of neglect and disrepair. Luckily, however, it had never been modernized and although in bad shape its original features were all intact. After many months of work, although the restoration is by no means complete, it is possible to again see the building as, or very nearly as it was in 1711 when it was erected.

"In certain respects this house is most unique. It is, so far as we have been able to ascertain, the only completely board structure in the United States. By that we mean that the interior is completely boarded as well as the exterior and the only masonry is confined to the fireplace and chimney, no use whatsoever being made of plaster. Of course the wing, which was added about the time of the Peace of Paris (1763) has some plastered walls, but now I am talking about the original and main structure. I should qualify that statement about the only completely board structure a little, for what I really mean is that it is the only home I know of, the construction of which is entirely boards.

"The corner stone of the house carries the date 1711. At that time this area was embraced within Albany county and town lines later drawn put it in White Creek, Washington County. In 1711 this entire locality was referred to as the Sancroix district. Sancroix is a corruption of St. Croixwyck, the Dutch name given the little settlement they raised upon the site of the old French mission established there by Allefonsce and his fur traders from St. Ange France in 1542.

"According to the eminent Hoosic Valley historian, Grace Greylock Niles, Arendt Van Corlaer at the age of 19 and in the year 1709 came to San Croix to engage in the fur trade. He brought with him Adam Vrooman, son of Bartel Vrooman of Old Saratoga, a trader of experience, and although it is not specifically stated it is to be assumed that Nicholas Lake and others were associated with him in this venture for their presence is early noted in Sancroix annals. This house stands about two and one half miles from Sandcrick stockade site and for that reason it is believed that the house was itself stockaded in those early days. The location of the house on a terrace with the ground sloping away on all sides bears out this contention. The earliest maps of this locality designate them as Van Corlaer, Lake and Company.

"There are those who would like to discredit the fact that this house dates from 1711 but they cannot waive aside the testimony of the expert. We have had the house studied carefully by a distinguished architect, Col. H. L. Andrews, and on the basis of its architecture it has been dated at 1700 or before by him. This is in addition to the corner stone and the recorded statements of Miss Niles. On a beam over the hearth is a curious Indian symbol, which we have every reason to believe is the mark of the Hoosiac chieftain Soquon. Since Soquon is known to have died at sea in 1711 on a trip to England, once verified it would seem to place the 1711 date once and for all beyond cavil."

Carving on beam believed to be the mark of the Hoosac chieftain Soquon, the owl and orator of the tribe.

JACOB SCHENK'S CASTLE

A frame house, believed to have been one of the first frame houses built in these parts. Built for Chief Sequon—Jacob Schenk in 1711. Not a log house, but all hand cut with the broad ax and put together with wood pins.

HABITABLE

The Paul Jones family owned and lived in this house in 1952.

NOTE: On a hilltop in sight of the Battlefield of Bennington, an early battle in the American Revolution, was built the home of an Indian Chief, Sequon, the Orator, of the Owl Tribe, a frame house built in 1711, all of lumber cut with the broad axe, and is said to have been the first frame house built in those parts.

A note written upon the plaster walls of this old house, says: "This house is on the Bennington Battlefield Map and, by the above, Dedicated September 1927." This note was written in pencil by Harold Andrew, Architect Engineer and Sculptor of the Base Relief of the Battlefield, on October 11, 1950.

On the mantel of the fireplace is the signature, or sign: Sequon, The Owl, and date of erection, as 1711. This Sequon was of the Owl Tribe of Indians. SEE THE RUBBING OF SIGN.

This old house was built onto in 1735, and so enlarged. It is shown upon the monument or Base Relief of the Battlefield of Bennington, on top of the mountain, where the battle was fought.

The old house, now owned by Paul Jones of White Creek, New York, as a residence, was in a good state or condition, when being restored by Paul Jones in 1951, as it originally was built. He and his wife intend to make it a permanent memorial.

Abraham Lake, a brother of John, Thomas, Nicholas, etc., was living in this house when the battle of Bennington was fought.

Baum's men and Indians set it on fire with burning arrows, but a slave, who had hid in the bush, put out the fire before great harm was done. Signs of this fire were still to be seen in 1951.

NOTE: Near at hand, upon the Battle of Bennington field, Captain John Hogle, an uncle by marriage of Garrett S. Lake, was killed in the battle. He had married Elizabeth Lake, a daughter of John Lake, who became a United Empire Loyalist, and settled at Ernest Town, Canada West, or Upper Canada, but later Ontario. This battle was fought on August 16, 1777. Captain Hogle fought with the British in that battle. (For further, see page 482.)

On page 61 of Grace Greylock Niles' Hoosac Valley she states as follows: "Savhem Nawanemit also owned the north end of the Samanahagog Tract on the east bank of the Hudson, and six years later, in 1637, Jacob Albertsen Plank, first Sheriff of Rennslaerwyck, and Arent Van Curler (Corlaer), a cousin of Patroon Van Rennsslerae, purchased the Hoosac's Lake District, extending from King Aepjen's Bear Island north to Soquon's Castle Unuwat. This included the 'Stone Arabia,' or diamond Rock Tract, eastward twenty-four miles, reaching up the Hoosac Pass of the Taconacs into Pownal, Vt. The sachems received for this vast forest region certain quantities of duffels, or coats, axes, knives, and wampum."

It will be seen from this that the ground on which this house stands had been in the possession of the Van Corlaer family since 1637. The Arent Van Corlaer referred to was the grandfather of the Arent Van Corlaer who married Mary Lake, daughter of Nicholas Lake of Somerset County, New Jersey. As agent for Indian Affairs of the Renssalaerwyck colony and the Patroon's manager, he was familiar with this territory as was no man of earlier colonial times, even the celebrated Sir William Johnson did not enjoy the prestige with the Indians that this first Van Corlaer did.

This early deed to the grandfather Corlaer helps to explain the presence of a 1711 house on land which appears not to have been granted until 1761. In the course of time many of these old Indian deeds were repudiated by the colonial government. Doubtless by 1761 such had become the situation which faced the Lakes and Van Corlaers as they plied their trade in furs hereabouts. The colonial government in 1761 was passing out grants left and right and they must have felt that unless they acted on the matter they would one day find themselves dispossessed. So there was a good deal of scurry to re-establish a legal claim to the area which they had for so long taken for granted to be theirs.

It will be seen from this that Arent Van Corlaer III, who became the husband of Mary Lake of Somerset County, daughter of Nicholas Lake, had been familiar with this territory since 1709. By 1760 the colonial government had restricted the fur trade to only three licenses. The Lakes and Van Corlaer were not licensed but they appear to have carried on trade in spite of this from their New Jersey headquarters, as did many others. The practice was to come up river by boat and anchor just below Albany where in the cover of darkness the boats were loaded by faithful Indian helpers who conveyed the pelts from the Hoosac (St. Croix) post.

Quoting further from Miss Niles: "The founders of Fort St. Croix in 1724 included: Patroon Garret Cornelius Van Ness, Arendt Van Corlaer, Adam Vrooman, Robert Lake, Pitt Van Hogleboom, George Nicholls, Johannes De Ruyter, Juria Greigger, Jan Out-hout, Jacob Onderkirk, Rykert Bovie" and several others. Page 115, Hoosac Valley.

In the hall of this old house hangs the following card in a small frame:

H. F. Andrews, A. U. Sculptor, of the BENNINGTON BATTLEFIELD MONUMENT visited here October 11, 1950. This house is on the map and bronze located on the Battlefield Site, by the above, was erected by the State of New York and dedicated September 22, 1927. (Signed) H. F. Andrews.

This house is one of two or three indicated in miniature replica on the Bennington Battlefield bronze relief map.

HENDRICK LAKE HOME

The Henry Lake home was about two and a half miles to the southeast of the Indian Chief's home, which became the home of Abraham Lake and later the home of Garrett S. Lake. This house was, for years, the home of Arent Van Corlaer and Mary Lake-Corlaer. It is thought that both died in this old house.

As has been already said, Arent Van Corlaer died on January 17, 1797, aged 107, as shown upon his gravestone in the old Tishoke Church yard.

He made an agreement with his brother-in-law Abram Lake, and his nephew Garret Lake, each to bear an equal part of the expense of "Settling the Lines of our Patent Where it may Concern us." This is signed by Abram Lake, Aaron van Curler (his mark), and Garret Lake, and witnessed by Abraham Lake, Junior and Henry Lake. This agreement was written upon a small slip of paper, and would seem to have been drawn by one of the parties concerned. This is dated, Cambridge District County of Albany, the fourth day of November 1785.

There was another such agreement as between Abram Lake, his sister, Mary Van Curder (her mark), and their nephew Garret

Lake, and witnessed by James Lake and John Lake, brothers of Abram and Mary Van Curler, each to bear their fair share of the cost of settling the lines of their share of the Patent, and binds their "heirs Executors Administrators and assigns" and was signed by all three, as well as the witnesses. All were described as being of the "county of Albany and District of Cambridge yea....." This is dated "This first Day of August in the year 1786." The word Mary interlined in the Second Line."

We have found no indication that Mary Lake and Arent Van Courlaer had issue. Nor have we found the date of her death.

Arent Van Courlaer settled upon lot 10, at White Creek, of the Courlaer-Lake Grant. With his wife, Mary Lake-Van Courlaer, he spent the balance of his life there, and died there at the age of 107, and is buried in the Saint Croix Cemetery, near White Creek, in Washington Co., New York. We find no record of a will, and do not know what disposition was made of his property.

He made an agreement as to paying for a survey of land lines, with his brother-in-law, Abraham Lake, and his nephew Garrett Lake on November 4, 1785, which was signed by all three and by Abraham Lake, Junior, and Henry Lake.

Then a new agreement or a renewal of this agreement was made as between Mary Van Curler, Abram Lake and Garret Lake, and witnessed by James Lake and John Lake. This was on August 1, 1786. Whether this new agreement was entered into because of the state of Aaron Van Curler's health or not, we do not know.

Application for the five thousand acre grant was made following the securing of the deed from Jacob Schenk, the Hoosac Chief, was made at New York on June 15, 1761, following which time the grant was made to Arent Van Courlaer, John Lake, Nicholas Lake, Junior, James Lake, and Thomas Lake. Each of the applicants were to begin developing same as soon as they could bring their families, and proceed to make their homes upon the land allotted to each by lot. This they proceeded to do.

However, this five thousand acres, so granted, did not cover all of the land included in the Deed of Jacob, Alias Schenk. There was still a great acreage of land covered by this deed.

Evidently inspired by Arent Van Courlaer, other brothers and brothers-in-law, led by Hendryck Schnider, who had married Sarah Lake and later after her death, had married her sister, Jane Lake, became the leading spirit in applying for a much larger grant, which was then called the Schneyder Patent, or Grant.

He gathered about him nine others and interested them in making application for ten thousand acres of the wild lands lying alongside the five thousand acres already applied for by Arent

Those interested in this later application for ten thousand acres, were, Hendrick Schneyder, John Wettick, Hendrick Lake, a brother-in-law; John Johnson, a nephew, son of Eleanor Lake-Johnson, Garrett Williamson, brother-in-law of Thomas Lake, of the five thousand acre grant, Nathaniel Acherly, Benjamine Abbott, William Taylor, and Marinieus Voorheis, all of the Province of New Jersey, and Daniel Hollinbeck, of the City of Albany.

All of these applicants were married and with families except John Johnson, a young man, who soon after the grant was made, corrected his status by marrying. We do not find any record that Daniel Hollenbeck ever lived on this grant, but it is naturally presumed that he did.

Record of the application and grant follows:

THE HENDRICK SCHENYDER LAND GRANT

COPY OF PHOTOSTAT OF LAND GRANT IN ALBANY COUNTY NEW YORK

To HENDRK SCHENYDER For Himself and other
PETETIONERS

To the Honorable Cadwallader Colden Esq, President of His Majesty's Council and Commander in Chief of the Province of New York and the Teritories depending thereon in America In Council.

The Petition of Hendrick Schneyder, John Wettick, Hendrick Lake, John Johnson, Garrett Williamson, Nathaniel Acherly, Benjamin Abbot, William Taylor and Martineus Voorheis all of the Province of New Jersey and Daniel Hollinbeck of the City of Albany.

Humbly Sheweth That your Petitioners have lately discovered that there is a parcel of vacant Land in this Province, vested in the Crown, situated in the County of Albany on the East side of Hudson's River, bounded Northwardly by the Patent of Wallumschack, Southwardly by the Manor of Renselaerswyck, Westardly by the Patent of Hoseck, and Eastwardly by other vacant Lands, Containing about the Quantity of ten thousand acres; That your Petitioners having all families except John Johnson, intend if they can obtain a Grant of the said Lands, immediately to remove and seat themselves and their Families thereupon. And as they conceive that such a Settlement in that part of this Province, the Eastern Line of the said Tract being about twenty Miles and Improvement of all that part of the County where your Petitioners are informed there are yet few or no Settlers—

Miles from Hudson's River, will greatly encourage the Cultivation

Your Petitioners therefore Humbly pray your Honour will be pleased to grant unto each of them and their heirs respectively the quantity of One Thousand acres of the tract of Land bounded and described as above Expressed Under the Quit Bond and other Terms upon which vacant Lands in the Province of New York are granted by his Majesty's Letters Patent.

And your Petitioners as in Duty bound shall ever pray.

Thus it will be seen that the children of Nicholas Lake of Somerset County, New Jersey, were largely interested in these New York Grants, Hendrick, the eldest of the family, with Hendrick Snider, who married, first Sarah Lake, and after her death, married her sister, Jane Lake, having issue by both wives. Eleanor Lake had married Mathias Johnson, and whose son, John Johnson was interested in the Schneider grant. He was the only single person so interested, but he soon corrected this lack, by taking a wife to live with him upon his allotment.

Mary Lake had married Aarent Van Courlaer, who with his brother-in-law Nicholas Lake had petitioned for and obtained the five thousand acre grant. With them in this enterprise were her brothers, John, James and Thomas.

The only record we have found of Margaret Lake, daughter of Nicholas of New Jersey, is that she married Cornelius Blew, or Blaw, who died. She then married Elias Hubbard. She b. 1739, d. 1825. Elias Hubbard, b. 1746, d. 1832. According to Bergens Germans of N.J. They seem to have migrated to Illinois.

This leaves only Abraham Lake to be accounted for. So far as the records show, he was not one of the grantees in either New York grant. But later, with two others he did petition for a grant of three thousand acres lying in what became Vermont. But we do not find this petition was granted. However, he did obtain large interests in Albany County, as shown later by dealings with his brothers and others, and by his will, as will appear.

"About 1800 Hendrick Schneider was called Patroon Hendrick Schneider, of Schneiders Patent, whose granddaughter married Thomas Eyers, a grandson of Capt. Smith Eyers, General Braddock's Engineer. They resided on a farm at New Lebanon, New York." Page 153, Hoosac Valley.

"The Hendrick Schneider Tavern on Schneider's Patent, New York, was built over two miles west of the site of the First Church of Bennington in the spring of 1762." P. 223. "Later Col. Samuel Herrick ran the place, and General Stark and his army encamped in the field east of Herrick's Inn, between August 9th and 13th, 1777, previous to the Battle of Bennington. Herrick's Tavern was later known as Dimmick's Stand, now the site of the residence of Otis Warren, a descendant of Dr. John Warren, who married a granddaughter of Hendrick Schneider." Page 224. Hoosac Valley.

"Hendrick Schneider (Snyder) of New Lebanon Flats, a part of Stephentown, N. Y., together with John Watteck, Henry Lake, John Johnson, Garrett Williamson, Nathaniel Archerly, Benjamin Abbott, William Taylor, Martinus Voorheres of New Jersey, and Daniel Hellenbeck of Albany, petitioned Governor De Lancey, July 8, 1761, for 10,000 acres lying east of Hoosac Patent, extending from Rensselaerwyck northward to the Walloomsac Patent. Schneider's was confirmed by Lieut. Governor Colden, March 24, 1762, and Schneider proved the first settler. The Patent was bounded on the east by 'other vacant lands,' as Lieut. Governor Colden denied the validity of Governor Wentworth's charters to the English towns of Bennington and Pownal." P. 232.

However, she does not mention that Schneider and Hendrick Lake were brother's in law, and that John Johnson was nephew of both. Nor that Thomas Lake married Mychelle Williamson, sister of Garrett Williamson. Nor does she mention the Van Courlaer-Lake Grant of 1761, of 5,000 acres to Arent Van Courlaer and his brothers-in-law, Nicholas Lake, Jr. and John, Thomas and Jacobus Lake.

Mr. Dyer Lake, 523 West 121st Street, New York 27, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Lake:

This is in reply to your request which you made in person in our Genealogy Division for information to answer questions raised by the letter you received from Mr. McMillan of Long Beach, California.

John Heustis French's Gazeteer of the State of New York (Syracuse, R. Pearsall Smith 1860) page 677, states that the original bounds of Washington county (called first Charlotte county) "were all that portion of New York State north of the present Saratoga county and of a line extending from the mouth of Stony Creek 510 chains east; thence south to the Batten Kil, and along that stream to the south line of Princetown, and thence to Cumberland county. Its western line was the present western line of Saratoga county continued to Canada, and its eastern line the western line of Cumberland and Gloucester. These limits embraced the western half of Vermont, north of the Batten Kil . . . "

The Calendar of New York Colonial Manuscripts which you quoted in regard to Abraham Lake's petition refers to those indorsed land papers which were filed in the office of the Secretary of State of New York. For full information, you should address the New York State Library at Albany, New York,—In the Education Building.

Very truly yours,

Chapter 4

THE REVOLUTIONARY PERIOD

With the breaking out of and development of these grants, the increase of population, and the pressure of emigrants from eastern colonies, came also rumors of discontent among the colonials. Pressure from the Crown was increasing, and this pressure was being resisted. Stories and rumors came from the colonies along the seaboard, telling of resistance to new laws and orders coming from England.

Forts, old and new were being reinforced and supplied, both to resist the French and Indians to the north, and the unrest of the colonials. With this came pressure from Ethan Allen and his followers, "The Green Mountain Boys" who resisted the claims of the Colony of New York, to all that was then claimed to belong to the New Hampshire Grants. Allen and his brothers, with others who followed them, had roamed all over what became Vermont and laid claim to vast areas, which they proceeded to develop. This was especially true along the Onion River in the north.

These developments were strongly resisted by New York, so strongly that militia from both sides of the line came into conflict, which only seems to have deepened the hate on both sides of the line. Parts of both the five and ten thousand acre grants lay within the borders of what was to become Vermont, so bitter hatred grew between various groups. This bitterness grew to such proportions that it served to divide the members of the Lake family.

Connecticut sent Ethan Allen and his followers to seize Ticonderoga. While Massachusetts sent Benedict Arnold for the same purpose, but the Connecticut forces under Ethan Allen would not yield the leadership, although Arnold was permitted to accompany the expedition. Ethan Allen was familiar with all that territory, so was more competent to lead the forces than Arnold.

The taking of Ticonderoga and later Crown Point, had the effect of bringing the trouble as between the British on the one hand and the Colonials on the other to a head.

It is not the purpose of this writer to go into details nor to give his ideas as to the right or wrong of the conflict. It is true however that not more than a third of the colonists were favorable to war and separation from England and the Crown.

The Lake family were divided in their loyalty. John and Thomas Lake and their sons were loyal to the British. These included John and Thomas, the sons of John so engaged were Benjamin, Christopher, Nicholas and John, Junior. All of these were from New York and Old Albany County.

Thomas and Abraham were brothers of John. Garrett, Henry, Stephen, Joshua and William were nephews of John and Thomas. James was still in New Jersey, and was in sympathy with the colonial cause.

Abraham attempted to sit on the side lines, but was drawn in in spite of himself and was compelled to give some assistance to the British forces.

The active participation of each will appear as we proceed with each member and their families, and need not be related here.

Prior to the outbreak of the American Revolution, Ethan Allen and his followers had given the settlers on the nearby grants across the line, both in what became Vermont and in New York, much trouble through raids in reprisals over the quarrel about the New Hampshire Grants. These raids had involved the settlers on the fifteen thousand acre grants, so they came to hate and fear Allen and his followers.

There is a tradition in the Lake family in Ontario that while these settlers were favorable to the Crown, which had given them their lands, they were unwilling to be on the same side as Ethan Allen, and when he captured Fort Ticonderoga this event settled their loyalties with the British.

At any rate the future history shows that they threw in with the British forces, and some of them at least, joined the armies of the Crown. However, the records do not reveal that all who were concerned in these grants of land in Old Albany County, joined the British. This record will show something of those who did.

John Lake, with his sons, Thomas Lake, with some of his family, Van Voorheis, Stover, Amey, Hicks, Huntley, Snider, Madden, Van Alstine, Lane, Fellows, Hogle, Storms, Johnson, Parrot, etc. as shown by their petitions for Crown lands in Canada West at a later date.

Margaret Snider had been given ten acres of land in New York, where Trinity Church now stands, by Colonel Black (or Balck), seems to have written both ways. The deed to this parcel of land was lost when the family home was burned at or near White Creek, in what became Washington County, New York.

Because of these loyalties, the Lake's and many connections, and various neighbors and friends, joined the British forces against the colonials, they were burned out, their property confiscated and they were dispossessed of all they owned. Margaret Snider-Lake saved but two articles of all their possessions. They were her mother's Dutch Bible and a white vessel, with a handle, usually used from under the bed. These were both still in possession of members of the family in Ontario, in 1952.

The Adams-Risley Lake Genealogy says when John Lake came to Ontario he had three "children, i.e. i. John, ii. James, iii. a daughter who had married Colonel James Parrott, of her father's regiment. Colonel Parrott also settled in Canada." Page 25. But, it does not mention the fact that other members of John Lake's family were already married, and came, either with their families, or followed after them who had already made their way to Canada West. There is a record that Colonel Parrott sought and obtained permission to return to New York and bring his father and mother-in-law, John and Margaret Snider-Lake, with some children, to the Canadian Province.

This will be shown by their various petitions for Crown lands in the Province, in which petitions they relate their various services to the Mother Country. So, other petitions were filed by children of John Lake's children.

According to the Canadian Archives, John Lake and Margaret

Snider had nine children, five sons and four daughters. They were: i. Thomas, ii. Maria, iii. Nicholas, iv. John, Jr., v. James, vi. Christopher, vii. Elizabeth, viii. Mary, ix. Margaret. Elizabeth is also given as Bashaba.

THE LOYALISTS OF GLENGARY

Revealing Sir John Johnson, Knight and Baronet, Lieutenant Commander, and his relations with the Canadian Royalists, as will appear.

After the failure of the "Forty-Five" there was a good deal of dissatisfaction in the Highlands of Scotland with the restrictions imposed by the Government, and many turned their eyes to America. This was especially true of the Roman Catholics, who, to a man, were Jacobites, and many of whom, seemingly, in the early sixties emigrated to America, settling in the beautiful Mohawk Valley. The valley lay in what was Tryon County, but which because of the loyalty of Governor Tryon was later called Montgomery after the General who lost his life in an attempt to capture Quebec.

On December 30, 1775, Congress resolved to send General Schuyler to Tryon County "to secure the arms and stores of the Tories and to apprehend their Chiefs." Schuyler came with 3,000 men and after a long consultation between this General on one side and Sir John Johnson and a Mr. Macdonald on the other, the arms—or some of them—were surrendered. In addition Schuyler demanded six hostages as security for the Scots; this was refused, but six Highlanders gave themselves up as prisoners preferring to go in this capacity. For some unexplained reason Congress soon decided to go back upon its agreement and sent Col. Dayton with a letter releasing Sir John from his parole and with private instructions to arrest the baronet and take him before Washington. Fortunately Johnston had timely warning of this charistic plot, and escaped with some 200 Scots to Canada.

In the spring of 1777, Alexander John MacDonnell, who had come over with Johnson in the previous year, returned, and gathering a large company of Scottish and German Loyalists brought them to Canada. Later in the year Sir John and his regiment made a raid on Tryon County, and met the enemy at the famed battle of Oriskany which was fought on July 6, 1777. In proportion to the numbers engaged, this battle was the severest and most bloody of all the war. Four hundred of the Continentals were killed, among them being nearly all the revolutionary leaders in the District.

John MacDonnell was killed in this battle. In the following year his brother Alexander with 300 men invaded the Schoharie valley and met with practically no opposition. Unmolested, he took back to Canada a great number of Loyalists from Tryon County. This raid, where a small force penetrate without opposition into the country of the enemy, is one of the most curious incidents of the war. In 1780, Sir John made a raid on the Mohawk Valley and carried off a number of prisoners who were sent to Chambly. A hundred and forty-three Loyalists returned with the regiment. Later in the year he made another campaign, visiting first the Schoharie Valley, and then crossing over to the Mohawk. On this occasion there were with him besides his own regiment, 200 Butler's Rangers and some regulars and Indians. All attempts to crush the invaders failed and the small army successfully returned.

The Mohawk Valley suffered more than any other place in America during the Revolutionary War. It is calculated that one-third of its inhabitants were Loyalists and that another third left on account of the virulent war waged by Johnson and his regiment, yet in 1783 there were in the Valley 300 widows and 2,000 orphans.

After the surrender of Burgoyne the regiment was engaged for a time in border warfare and when peace was declared was disbanded in Montreal. The following is a copy of the discharge given the soldiers:

"His Majesty's Provincial Regiment called the King's Royal Regiment of New York whereof Sir John Johnson, Knight and Baronet, is Lieut.-Colonel Commandant.

These are to certify that the bearer hereof, Peter Ferguson, private in Major Gray's Company of the aforesaid regiment, born in the Parish of Glen Morison in the County of Inverness, aged thirty-seven, hath served honestly and faithfully in the said regiment seven years; and in consequence of His Majesty's order for disbanding the said regiment, he is hereby discharged and is entitled by His Majesty's late order to the portion of land allotted to each private in His Provincial Corps, who wishes to become a settler in this province. He having first received all the just demands of pay, clothing, etc., from his entry into the said regiment to the date of his discharge, as appears by his receipt on the back thereof.

Given under my hand and seal at Arms at Montreal this twenty-fourth day of December, 1783.

The receipt is as follows:

"I, Peter Ferguson, Private, do acknowledge that I have received all my clothing, pay, arrears of pay, and all demands whatsoever from the time of my enlisting in the Regiment and Company mentioned on the other side to this present day of my discharge. As witness my hand this 24th day of December, 1783.

Peter Ferguson."

Taken from the United Empire Loyalists Association Annual Transactions. 1903 and 1904 Vol. 5.

Among the United Empire families who were dispossessed, and their lands and property sequestered, were:

“ See: New York Lists of United Empire Loyalists.

On page 256 listed were: Abraham Lake, N(icholas) Lake, Jr., J(ohn) Lake, Robert (Lake) Leake, Thomas (Lake) Leake, J(ohn) Lake.

Their estates confiscated following the Revolution, as reported by a Joint Committee who enquired into the acts of Commissioners of Sequestration (see page 253). (New York in The Revolution Supplement.) This said to be the most accurate and exhaustive that has ever been published.

Also in the same record, Page 255, is the name of John Johnson, who was interested in the Snider Patent. “He a nephew of the Lake Brothers.”

Also on page 258 are given the names of John, Peter, Simon and William Snider.

Also on page 270 we find the Estates forfeited, the names of John Johnson, John Leake, Robert Leake, Thomas Leake, who were without doubt the same as on page 256, and are Lake's, as the spelling of this name is often interchangeable. But no spelling as Lake, in these lists, pages 270-71.

There is evidence that Abraham Lake, of Nicholas, and brother of John, Thomas Hendrick and Nicholas Jr., who were interested in the New York Land grants, was also interested, as he petitioned for redress, to the Honorable George Clinton. This petition was dated Dec. 2, 1777, in which he claimed loyalty to the Colonial Cause, but with his family had been taken prisoner by the British and forced to lend them some service, against his will. However, there is no record as to whether his petition was accepted. (History of Washington Co., New York, pp. 466.) In his will, much later, he did dispose of a considerable property.

We find a record that Aarent Van Courlaer took an active part in the American Revolution. He was well along in years when this occurred.

He enlisted in Captain Simeon Covels Company, as they served in Lieut. General Burgoyne's Campaign in 1777, as follows:

“Entered Aug. 19, Aaron Van Cuyler, served 64 days, ending Oct. 15, taken Prisoner.”

His name is found spelled in several ways, but always the same person.

There is some indication that he went to Canada, but if he did, he did not remain long there. His land holdings were in New York, rather than across the line in what became Vermont.

We do not find a will disposing of his property, but do find that his wife, Mary Lake-Courlaer had dealing with her brothers and others, following the revolutionary period.

We do not find any evidence of their having had children.

UNITED EMPIRE LOYALISTS. AMERICANS WHO ENTERED ONTARIO FOLLOWING THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION.

During or immediately following the American Revolution, a number of families, who were connected by marriage or otherwise, having been dispossessed of their property and in many cases having been burned out, because of their loyalty to the British Crown, found their way into Upper Canada, or what was also called Canada West, the same being what is the Province of Ontario.

The names of some of these families, who later became still more closely connected by marriage, are given by THE ONTARIO HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

The marriage of some children of these United Empire Loyalists, are given in the publications of The Ontario Historical Society, as:

JOHN LAKE AND MARGARET SNIDER-LAKE; LOYALISTS—FOURTH GENERATION

JOHN LAKE, Canadian Loyalist, 2nd son of Nicholas Lake, of New Jersey, of John Lake, Jr., of John Lake 1, of Gravesend, Long Island, one of the Founders of the Gravesend Plantation, on Long Island; born in Somerset County, New Jersey, in 1728. Married Margaret Snider (Schneyder), also of Somerset Co., New Jersey, in 1753-54. She was born in Somerset County, N. J., in 1734. She a sister of Hendrick Schneyder, of the Schneyder Grant in Albany County, New York, as will appear. She died in the home of her grandson, in her 101st year.

Margaret Snider had been given a deed for ten acres of land in New York City, where Trinity Church now stands, by Colonel Black (or Balk), as it was written both ways.

When the family home was burned during the American Revolution, all their deeds and other papers were lost, so that when they made their way, or were taken to Canada West, they went practically empty handed. Margaret had saved her mother's Dutch Bible, and a white vessel with a handle, usually used from under the bed. These items were still in the family in Ontario, in 1950.

In February 1787, James Parrot, Esq. (a son-in-law of John Lake) received a permit to pass out of the Province, to go to New York, and bring back his father-in-law, John Lake and family, including John Lake, Jr., and his family.

According to the Canadian Archives, John and Margaret Snider-Lake had eight children, five sons and three daughters. Their list gives them the following: 1. Thomas, 2. Nicholas, 3. John Jr., 4. James, 5. Christoper, 6. Elizabeth, 7. Mary, and 8. Margaret. But this does not list Maria, who was their first child, and was born in New York, in Ulster County, and who married James Parrot. These children will appear in order in this record.

When the American Revolution came, John and Thomas Lake with their sons united with the British forces and when the war ended they found themselves dispossessed and landless. Some made their way to Canada during the war, and some at the close of the war.

John Lake and Margaret Snider-Lake were thus left with nothing but their hands and three children. Some records give them but three children, "John, James and a daughter, who married Colonel James Parrott of her father's regiment, "who following the close of the Revolution, learning of the impoverished condition of John and Margaret Lake, asked for, and obtained permission to go back to New York and bring the family to Canada, including John Jr. and his family. They settled at Ernest Town, in Lennox and Addington County, Canada West, or Upper Canada."

The township of Ernest Town was given by the Crown to Sir John Johnson, with his Company of United Empire Loyalists. This land seems to have been divided by lot.

John and Margaret Lake settled on the Bay of Quinty, at or near Bath, then called Dutch town. He was then in his late forties, and continued to live in Ernest Town Township until his death in 1835, in the home of his grandson, John Jacob Lake, at the advanced age of 107 years. The same age as Aarent Van Courlaer, who married Mary Lake, sister of John. Both John and Margaret Lake died at and were buried in Ernest Town Twp., Canada West. They were earnest and active members of the Methodist Church, in which both took a great interest.

A great aunt of this writer was a girl of six years when her great grandparents died in her father's (John Jacob Lake) home, in 1835, at Ernest Town. She was impressed as this was the first death she had ever known, and her great grandparents had lived in her home all her life, so their deaths were a shock to her.

She was Rachel Lake-Peck, who lived beside the writer's father's home at Wyoming, Iowa. Aunt Rachel often spoke of her people and how she was impressed with death for the first time in her life. Her father's family emigrated to Southern Wisconsin in 1836, settling near the state line, as between Wisconsin and Illinois, and then moved into Winnebago Co., Illinois, in 1842, near Rockton.

The losses of John Lake are indicated in his petition for Crown lands, through his son, Christopher Lake, acting as his attorney, as follows:

"The petition of JOHN LAKE of Township of Ernestown—yeoman—That your petitioner joyned the Royal Standard under General Burgoyne and lost a large property By that means his not coming in season before the British Commissioners could have no redress.

Wherefore your petitioner prays that your Excellency may be pleased to grant such quantity of waste lands of the Crown as a compensation for his losses as your Excellency may think him entitled to receive. And your petitioner will ever pray.

York Feb'y 1807.

John Lake senr

by his Attorney and son Christopher Lake."

John Lake, Sr., his wife and two servants, received a grant of land in the sixth concession, Sydney Township, Hastings County, on August 10, 1801. He also received the west one half of lot 24, 4th concession, Ernestown Township in May 1812. Later he received Lot 22, 9th concession in Haldeman Township, Northumberland County.

John Lake, Snr., and his wife, Margaret Snider-Lake died at the home of their grandson John Jacob Lake, at Ernestown, twp. Lennox and Addington County, Canada West, or Upper Canada, in the same year, i.e. 1835. She in her 101st year. He in his 107th year. Both buried in ErnesTown, Upper Canada.

The record of their children will follow in due course, and in order.

Their children were: I. Maria, II. Thomas, III. Nicholas, IV. John, Jr., V. James, VI. Christopher, VII. Elizabeth, VIII. Mary, and IX. Margaret.

1. Maria Lake, b. Aug. 1749, in Ulster Co., New York., m. James Parrot, in New York. He b. Nov. 1746. He d. May 5, 1821. She d. Nov. 10, 1819, aged 70 years, 3 months. Both buried in 4th line, some times called the Fellows Cemetery. In this same cemetery lie buried Nathan Fellows and his wife, Mary Lake-Fellows.

James Parrot purchased land from Jacobus Lake, from his allotment in the five thousand acre tract at Little White Creek, Albany Co., New York, in 1776.

James Parrot joined the British at Crown Point in 1776, as a Lieutenant in Captain Covell's Company. Then the Captain Covile Company record shows that he again "Entered, July 6, 1777, as Lt., no. of days served, 109, ending Oct. 24. Came to Canada." In this same company were several brothers-in-law who served under him. He is described as an industrious farmer. He continued to serve with the British and later became a Colonel in that service. "He served under Lieut. General Burgoyne, viz. at Tyconderoga Oct. 25, 1777, under Gershom French, acting Adjutant, Peters Corps." He served with the British forces from July 6, 1776, to Oct. 24, 1777.

Following his service in the British forces he made his way to the Bay of Quinty section in Canada West. There he learned of the situation of his father and mother-in-law, John and Margaret Snider-Lake, in New York, asked for, and obtained leave to return to New York and assist in bringing them to Ernest Town Twp., in what became Lennox and Addington Co., Ontario.

Captain John Hogle, husband of Elizabeth Lake, of John and Margaret Snider-Lake was killed at the Battle of Bennington. They had two sons living, an older child had died. The two were Sebastian (called Basted) and James Hogle. They came to Canada with their uncle's family, Colonel James Parrot, who raised them. Later when settlement was made with the Crown for the death of their father, they asked that their portion should be paid to James Parrot, as their guardian.

James Parrot was treasurer and handled the funds for the first Methodist Chapel in Lennox and Addington Co. John Lake and Jacob Miller also took an active part in raising funds and procuring material. It was located about one half mile east of Bath on the Bay shore, on Lot 27. Many of the adherents later moved to the fourth concession and dismantled the church and took it with them and re-erected it on the York road, near the village of Odessa, where it stood for many years until replaced by the brick church which is still standing.

While the old church was building on the bay front, the FIRST Quarterly Conference was held in Parrot's barn in the first concession, on Sept. 15, 1792. This Chapel was called the Losse Chapel in Ernest Town. Bath was called Dutch Town, and was a very important place on the Bay of Quinty, as a port of entry, with a Harbor Master.

The children of Maria Lake and James Parrot were:

1. Jonathan Parrot, b. Feb. 1791, d. May 18, 1881, aged 91 yrs., 3 mo., m. Rachel Lockwood, b. Oct. 1795, d. Nov. 2, 1849, aged 54 yrs.

Issue: A. John R. Parrot, b. Mar. 20, 1818, d. Apr. 15, 1819.
B. Roderick Parrot, b. Mar. 23, 1818, d. June 30, 1897.

2. James Parrot, b. May 30, 1798, d. Sept. 19, 1848, m. Elizabeth,
b. July 28, 1794, d. Jan. 21, 1865.

Issue: A. John Parrott, b. June 18, 1821, d. Oct. 31, 1900, m.
Hannah Hogle, b. Nov. 13, 1826, d. Dec. 24, 1916.

Issue: Albert Parrot, b. Dec. 10, 1827, d. Sept. 6, 1901.

All above buried in Fellows' Cemetery on 4th Line concession.

THOMAS LAKE

II. THOMAS LAKE, of John and Margaret Snider-Lake, of Nicholas, of Somerset Co., New Jersey, of John Lake Junior, of John Lake and Ann Spicer-Lake, of Gravesend, Long Island, New York.

Born between 1753-54, in Ulster Co., New York. Married in Albany Co., New York, although we have not learned the name of his wife, nor where born.

Thomas Lake came as a boy, with his parents, when they came from Ulster Co., New York, to Old Albany Co., New York, and to the five thousand acre grant, to Aarent Van Courlaer and the Lake Brothers. This grant of land having been given to Van Courlaer and the Lake Brothers by the then Governor of the Province of New York, Cadwallader Colden, when Thomas, the eldest son, was but a lad.

It was here on his father's land that he grew to manhood, helped to break out the thousand acres that fell, by lot, to his father, as his portion of the grant. Here at White Creek, New York, he met and married his wife, whose name we have been unable to learn.

Came the Revolutionary War, with its division of interests in the Lake family. Some feeling that they should remain loyal to the Crown, which had given them their land, while others of the family were loyal to the Colonial cause. It was then that Thomas, with his father and brothers joined up with the Royal forces. Following is the record of Thomas Lake, as shown by the Company record, of his enlistment and service, as shown on a photostat of that company book, furnished to this writer by the Archives Department at Ottawa, Ontario.

"Entered British service under Captain Simeon Coville's Company as they served in Lieut. General Burgoyne's Campaign 1777.

"Entered July 6 as a private, served 100 days until Oct. 14, when he was absent with leave." It was at this time that General Burgoyne capitulated, and was taken prisoner. Thomas Lake's father and some of his brothers were taken prisoners, and so held until the close of the war, when they made their way, with their families to Canada, although his father, John Lake Sr., was not yet able to go with them.

We have not learned the name of the wife of this Thomas Lake, nor if he had any family. Nor do we find any petition for lands, as other members of the family did petition.

NICHOLAS LAKE

III. NICHOLAS LAKE, of John Lake and Margaret Snider-Lake, United Empire Loyalists.

NICHOLAS LAKE, b. 1755-56, in Ulster County, New York, the grandson of Nicholas Lake, Snr., of John Lake and Neltje Classen-Lake, he of John Lake Snr., and Ann Spicer-Lake, of Gravesend, Long Island, where this John Lake was one of the founders.

We do not know the exact date of the birth of, although it must have been prior to his parents going to the five thousand acre grant in New York, which would mean 1755-56. Nor do we know the name of his wife, except that in his will he calls her MARY, and makes provision for her care after his death.

As just a baby he went with his parents to the New York grant, so his boyhood was spent there on the thousand acres of land which was the portion of John and Margaret Snider-Lake. He was married at or near Little White Creek and was probably married at the Dutch Reformed Church at Schaghticoke, Rennsler County, New York. We do not know the name of his wife, except that she was called Mary, and became Mary Lake.

She bore him ten children, seven of whom are named, and with his eldest son, named Nicholas Lake, Jr., we know of eight children's names. The family grew and prospered in helping develop their interest in the Van Courlaer grant, which was made by the then British Governor, Cadwallader Colden, to Aarent Van Courlaer, John Lake, Thomas Lake, Jacobus Lake, and Nicholas Lake, Junior.

With his growing family, war clouds were also growing and couriers were bringing tales of threats that were abroad, of dissension in the various Colonies, and the steady pressure being put upon the colonials by the British Empire, and threats of resistance on the part of the colonials, until finally these threats began to turn into action.

There had been a steadily growing rancor as between the Colonials in New York and what was to become Vermont, but was then a part of the New Hampshire Grants. The grants to the Lake family extended into what later became Vermont, hence their great interest in what was transpiring in relation to Ethan Allen and those who followed him. With the taking of Ticonderoga by their arch enemy, Ethan Allen, was just too much, so when the rallying call came for volunteers to oppose Allen and all his kind, Nicholas Lake and his eldest son Nicholas Jr., promptly enlisted on July 6, 1777, for the war on the side of the Crown. Nicholas Lake served ninety-three days and was taken a prisoner, by the Colonials and was still a prisoner when General Burgoyne surrendered.

He was then advised to remain where he was that he might still be of service to the Crown, hence he did not go to Canada as early as did some others of his family.

The position of these people can be better understood when it is remembered that they were fighting for their very lives as well as their property. These grants extended well within the confines of what became Vermont, so that the Battle of Bennington was fought upon the land granted to the Lake family, hence they were caught right in the midst of the conflict. So, too, when the war was ended they were burned out, dispossessed of all their holdings and so made their way to Canada.

Following their release, both Nicholas and James Lake with their brother Thomas and their Uncle Thomas, all went to Canada, as shown by their petitions from Crown lands in Canada West.

When Nicholas Lake enlisted, his eldest child and son, Nicholas Lake, Jr., also enlisted, and this almost at once following his recent marriage. Nicholas Lake, Nicholas Lake, Junior, James Lake, Thomas Lake, with others enlisted. Following is the record of the Lake family and their service, etc., as shown by the Company Book, showing those engaged in Gen. Burgoyne's campaign, as shown upon a photostat, furnished this writer by the Archives Department at Ottawa, Ontario. It follows:

Entered July 6, James Parrot, Lt., served 109 days, ending Oct. 24, 1777. Went to Canada. A brother-in-law.

Entered July 6, John Hogle, Sr., serving 40 days, ending Aug. 16. Killed at Bennington. A brother-in-law.

Entered July 6, Aarent Van Cuyler, served 64 days, ending Oct. 14. Taken prisoner. A brother-in-law, but whose holdings were within New York.

Entered July 6, Thomas Lake, served 100 days, ending Oct. 14. Absent with leave.

Entered July 6, Nicholas Lake, served 93 days, ending Oct. 7. Taken prisoner.

Entered July 6, Chris Lake, served 93 days, ending Oct. 7. Taken prisoner.

Entered July 6, Nicholas Lake, Jr., served 109 days, ending Oct. 24. Died.

Entered July 6, James Lake, served 93 days, ending Oct. 24. Taken prisoner.

There were two other Lake's who served in this same company, but we do not know of any relationship to the above, but enter them here, for the record.

Entered Aug. 14, Martin Lake, served 58 days, ending Oct. 16. Taken prisoner.

Entered Aug. 14, Nemo Lake, served 66 days, ending Oct. 24. Came to Canada.

The above all served under Captain Simeon Covell, as they served in Lieut. General Burgoyne's Campaign of 1777. Captain Simeon Covell also went to Canada.

NICHOLAS LAKE, JR., was married to Rhody Broodwell at the Dutch Reformed Church, Shaghticoke, Renssler Co., New York, in 1777, it would seem, shortly before entering service under the Crown. His service ended in his death on Oct. 24, 1777, so leaving a young widow of whom we know nothing further.

The children of Nicholas and Mary Lake, as given by the Canadian Archives were: ii. Mary, who m. Samuel Reed of Thurlow, Order in Council, Feb. 17, 1807; iii. Sarah, who m. Solomon Reed, of Thurlow, O.I.C., Feb. 28, 1807; iv. Hannah, m. John Hagerman, of Sidney, O.I.C., Sept. 25, 1804; v. Richard of Sidney, O.I.C., Mar. 17, 1809, see O.I.C. Jan. 1843; vi. John of Sidney, O.C. Mar. 26, 1811, m. Elizabeth Sharrad, daughter of William; vii. Letty, m. John Sine of Sidney, O.I.C., Apr. 28, 1818; viii. James, of Sidney, O.I.C., May 20, 1818.

Some of these children petitioned for land later as children of Nicholas Lake, United Empire Royalist. See his own petition, following:

The children of Nicholas Lake will be recorded in their order. As we have given the record of his first son, Nicholas Lake, III, will not repeat here.

II. MARY LAKE, who married Samuel Reed, of Thurlow, Ontario, O. in C, Feb. 17, 1807, but we have not learned if this was a marriage license, or what. We have no record of any family they may have had.

III. SARAH LAKE, who married Solomon Reed, of Thurlow, a brother of Samuel. There was an O. in C, but, again we do not know if this was a marriage license. We find no record of a petition for land as a daughter of Nicholas Lake. Have no record of any family they may have had.

IV. HANNAH LAKE, m. John Hagerman, of Sidney, O. in C., Sept. 25, 1804. The Hagerman family had gone to Canada following the Revolutionary War. In her petition for Crown Lands, as of Aug. 13, 1803, she states that she is a daughter of Nicholas Lake, an U.E. Loyalist and wife of John Hagerman, and was upwards of twenty-one years of age at this date. We have not learned of any family they may have had. See her petition following.

V. RICHARD LAKE, of Sidney, Ontario, m. Mary Bars, and had as issue, Daniel Lake, who d. July 11, 1849.

Richard Lake petitioned for Crown Lands Jan. 27, 1807, as the son of Nicholas Lake, deceased. There was also an O.C. as of Jan. 10, 1843, but we do not know what this order was for. See his petition for land following.

VI. JOHN LAKE, of Sidney, b. 1790, a son of Nicholas Lake, Jnr., m. Elizabeth Sherrard, daughter of William Scharrard, an U.E. Loyalist, who came to Canada following the Revolutionary War. Do not know the date of this marriage, but she petitioned for Crown Lands as the daughter of William Scharrard an U.E. Loyalist, and as the wife of John Lake, and was 21 years of age. This petition was filed in March 1807, so she would have been born in 1790, in Sidney. See her petition following.

John Lake had also petitioned for Crown lands on Jan. 24, 1811, as the son of Nicholas Lake, U.E. Loyalist, deceased. See his petition following.

Also following is such data as to their children as we have secured.

1. Sarah Lake, b. Jan. 1, 1807, in Sidney, Hastings County, Ontario, m. Jacob Denges, Oct. 20, 1826, at Sidney, Ontario. He b. May 22, 1801. He d. Sept. 19, 1863 at Thurlow, Ont. She d. Jan. 5, 1886, at Thurlow, Ontario. Their children:

A. Ann Myra Denges, b. Oct. 9, 1827, at Thurlow, Ontario, m. Aaron Merritt, Mar. 2, 1856, at Sidney, Ontario.

Issue: (A) Blanch Merritt, (B) Charles Merritt, (C) Pheobe Merritt, m. Baltic Barringer, and had as issue, Bert Barringer. Baltic Barringer died and Pheobe Merritt-Barrington, 2nd m. Wode Britton. Have nothing further.

B. Mahalia Denges, b. Apr. 26, 1829, at Thurlow, Ontario.

To His Excellency Sir Charles Metcalf Governor General of the Province of Canada, etc. & etc.

May it please your Excellency—we whose names are hereunto subscribed are the Sons of John Lake late of Ernest Town diseased a U.E. Loyalist, that your petitioners have been for many years endeavouring to learn the reason why the name of their father was suspended from the list of U.E. Loyalists—that your petitioners were frequently promised by the several Inspectors General of the Province, that his name should be restored if they procured affidavits of his having been a U.E. Loyalist, this they have done and they have met with new obstacles and difficulties the several ages in the schedule annexed if your petitioners will shew that the age of the father at the time of the revolution would have enabled him to serve and the affidavits in that office shew his service—at the period a period of sixty years from the time when almost all of the soldiers of that day are dead, it is almost an impossibility to procure the testimony demanded by that department. These impediments were not offered formerly and we cannot understand why they should now be thrown in the way of your petitioners, their

(across the corner this notation, in part) “why was not impediments not offered to this claim not long ago established?”

Grandfather's Sons and their Father sufferings should have entitled your petitioners to more consideration, when the Honorable Francis Minches was inspector General your petitioners were promised that upon an affidavit shewing service the name should be restored, and your petitioners would now beg the interference of your excellency to protect them. The respectability of your petitioners is too well known to cast upon them the imputation that they would offer to report a claim to which they were not honestly entitled—That two children of John Lake (viz) Benjamin Lake and Anna Lake have already drawn their lands.

Your petitioners therefore pray that their fathers name may be restored to the List, and as in duty Bound your petitioners will ever pray—

Dated, Ernest Town 11-April 1844

One of these Petitioners (John) preferred a claim to land as the Son of a U.E. many years ago which the Gov't did not recognize the Petition having remained in the office of the Executive Council ever since, ungranted.

THE NEW YORK GRANTS

With the granting of the Van Courlaer lands of five thousand acres, it was but coming home to Aarent Van Courlaer, as he and his people had known this whole territory, from early times, as his grandfather was known as the Indians' Friend, for whom a great lake had been called for many years as Courlaer Lake, later Lake Champlain.

With Van Courlaer came his wife, Mary Lake-Van Courlaer, and his brothers-in-law, John, Jacobus, Thomas and Nicholas Lake, Jr., all of whom had married in New Jersey and some of whom already had families.

As the purpose of this grant was to break out this virgin country and bring the land and forests under cultivation that more might be produced both for England and the colonies. The Lake Brothers, at least, had been yeoman, i.e. farmers in New Jersey and so were desirable colonists to begin developing this land.

At the period of these grants all of these lands lay in Albany County, which was later divided into what became Washington Co., on the north, with Rennsler County on the south. Thus leaving Albany County largely on the west side of the Hudson River.

The Van Courlaer grant lay to the northeast of Albany City, in Cambridge and White Creek townships.

Aarent van Courlaer had married Mary Lake in New Jersey. We have not learned of any issue of this marriage. Van Courlaer was at least in middle age when he married Mary Lake. She is not mentioned as being married, in her father's will.

John Lake, born in 1728, in New Jersey, had married Margaret Snider (Schenyder), a sister of Hendrick Schendryck. Three of their children, I. Mariah, b. Aug. 1749, II. Thomas, b. 1753-54, III. Nicholas, b. 1755-56, and IV. John Lake, Jr., b. 1759, were born in Ulster County, New York, ULSTER CO., WILLS & RECORDS, show that John Lake, formerly of New Jersey took land patents there in 1749. Lake's and Snyders also appear in church records in Ulster County, New York, before 1750. Other children were born to John and Margaret Snider-Lake in White Creek, in what became Washington Co., New York.

Jacobus Lake, b. 1729, in Somerset County, New Jersey, married Arreantie Hubbard, by New York license of October 28, 1765. She was born December 7, 1736. They first made their home on his father's land in Somerset Co., New Jersey, and in his father's will provision was made that he was to be reimbursed for the new house he had built on the home farm. He seems not to have gone to New York with Aarent van Courlaer and his brothers, Nicholas Jr., John and Thomas. In point of fact his New York holdings were largely in the care of his sons, James and Garrett, and until they could take charge in the care of John, Thomas, Nicholas and Van Courlaer.

The five thousand acre grant was divided into tracts of one thousand acres, each of the brothers and Van Courlaer receiving a thousand acres.

We have not found the date of the birth of Nicholas Lake Jr., but it was probably in 1732-33. That he was with his brother-in-law Aarent Van Courlaer, as the five thousand acre grant was made to Van Courlaer and Nicholas Lake Jr., of the Province of New Jersey.

Those as given in the Aarent Van Courlaer-Nicholas Lake grant, called the Van Courlaer Grant, were besides Van Courlaer, Nicholas Lake, Junior, John Lake, Jacobus (James) Lake and Thomas Lake, all of the Province of New Jersey. This petition was "referred on June 17, 1761, and on June 22, 1761, the patent was granted."

The second or so-called Schenyder grant was applied for on July 2, 1761. Read and referred to a Committee on August 5, 1761, and was Reported and Granted, and warrant of survey issued dated the same day. (Signed) Cadwallader Colden."

The grantees of this Schneyder grant were: Hendrick Schenyder (also written Snider), John Wettick, Hendrick Lake, John Johnson, Garrett Williamson, Nathaniel Acherly, Benjamine Abbott, William Taylor and Martinius Voorheis, all of the Province of New Jersey and Daniel Hallinbeck of the City of Albany.

It would appear that the survey of the first five thousand acres tract revealed the larger tract lying alongside, and that brothers and brothers-in-law immediately applied for and received the same.

It may be noted that these families were intertwined, and the connection gradually grows stronger. Hendrick Snider had married two daughters of Nicholas Lake. First Sarah, who gave him five children and died, then he later married her sister, Jane. Eleanor Lake married Mathias Johnson, while John Lake married Margaret Snider. So these families were intertwined. A sister of Garrett Williamson married Thomas Lake. Besides John Lake Jr., son of John and Margaret Snider-Lake, married a Miss Van Voorheise, who gave him a family of nine children.

With the granting of these fifteen thousand acres of land as well as of other grants in Albany County, and the coming of the families of these grantees came also a large increase in the population, so that from the filing of and approval of these grants, within the next thirty years the land was well broken out. Towns had grown up, and the increase in the numbers of people brought about the dividing of Old Albany County, which had formerly included all these and other great tracts of land, was divided into four counties, including Albany, Washington, Rennsler, and Saratoga.

The following is from the "History of Rennsler County," by Sylvester:

"The next settlement was upon the Schneider Patent. This tract is in the eastern part of the town and extended nearly across its entire breadth. It was locally known in the early times as Mapleton, and a small portion of it still retains that name. Of the Grantees, Hendrick Schneider, John Aattic, Hendrick Lake, John Johnson, Garrett Williamson, Nathaniel Ackerly, Benjamine Abbott, William Taylor and Martinus Voorheis became actual settlers soon after securing the Patent.

"John Quackenbush, from Schaghticoke, settled about 1765, on division lot no. 7 of this patent. Descendants of this family have been numerous in the town. Other early settlers were Peter Ostrander, William Helling, John Patten, John Palmer, Benjamine Walworth Randall, James and Samuel Cotterell."

Grants of these large tracts of undeveloped lands were made with the idea if not the definite understanding that the grantees with their families would immediately enter in and develop these waste lands, laying them out and peopling them, that the country might be developed, towns laid out, the land broken out and placed under cultivation, thus increasing the population and bringing the land into production.

IV. JOHN LAKE, JR., THE CANADIAN ROYALIST. John Lake, Jr., born in 1759, probably in Ulster County, New York, as he went with his father, John Lake, to the five thousand acre grant soon after 1761. He married a Miss Voorheis (Van Voorheis), daughter of Martin Voorheis, who was one of the ten men who had a part in the ten thousand acre grant, called the Hendrick Schnyder Grant, of 1762, in old Albany County.

He died at Ernestown, Ontario, in 1828.

He married Miss Voorheis (Van Voorheise) probably in 1784, as their first child, Benjamine Lake was born in 1784, at White Creek, Washington Co., N. Y.

The children of John Lake Jr., and Miss Voorheis (Van Voorheise), were: 1. Benjamine, b. 1784; 2. Annie, b. 1786; 3. John Jacob, b. Dec. 4, 1788; 4. James, b. Mar. 5, 1793; 5. William, b. 1795, probably at Ernestown, Ontario; 6. Nicholas, b. 1799, at Ernestown; 7. Margaret, b. 1800, at Ernestown; 8. Catherine, b. 1807; 9. Elizabeth, b. 1811. There may have been children between Margaret and Catherine, of whom we have no record.

The above arrangement of birth dates are taken from an application for the replacement of the name of John Lake Jr., on the lists of United Empire Loyalists, from which list he seems to have been dropped as shown by the petition preceding, in this record; where each of his children gave their age as they signed that petition, when it was presented, as shown by photostat copies from the archives at Ottawa, Ontario. Hence we feel that these dates are correct. Some we have been able to verify from other sources.

We know nothing of the time or the cause of the death of the first wife of John Lake Jr., only that she died at Ernestown, but all his children were by his first wife. He m. second a widow, Mrs. Doran, by whom he had no issue. We know nothing further of her. John Lake Jr. d. in 1828, at Ernestown, Ontario. He was a farmer and a Methodist, a class leader and local preacher, gave much time to the church without remuneration.

PETITION. We find but one petition by John Lake Jr. for Crown Lands, although his petition speaks of other lands having been drawn. This petition follows.

"Petition. John Lake a U.E. Loyalist having drawn but 200 acres of land prays for an additional 100 for self & lands for his wife & three children, viz Benjamine, Anna & John.

(Signed) John Lake Junior

I do hereby certify that the petitioner John Lake has a wife & three children were born before the year 1789.

Rob't Clark C.P."

A letter from the Public Archives of Canada, dated Ottawa, May 5, 1948, says in part: "In reply to your letter of April 24, regarding John Lake, I may say that three John Lakes are mentioned in our documents. One John is the son of another John. The latter signed a petition for land on November 8, 1797. The above petition would seem to be the one here referred to."

CHAPTER XI

SARAH STOVER-LAKE.

He of John Lake, Jr.

3. John Jacob Lake, of John Jr., of John and Margaret Lake, of Nicholas of New Jersey, of John Jr., of John and Anne Spicer-Lake, of Gravesend, Long Island, N. Y.

John Jacob Lake, b. Dec. 4, 1788, at Ernest Town, Province of Upper Canada, m. Sarah Stover, July 29, 1810, at Ernest Town, Upper Canada. She a daughter of Valentine Stover, a United Empire Loyalist, through his father, Jacob Stover, who had come from White Creek, New York, following the Revolutionary War.

She b. July 11, 1792, at Ernest Town, Upper Canada. Witnesses to their marriage were his cousin, James Lake and Laurence and Elizabeth Stover, her brother and sister.

THEIR MARRIAGE LICENSE:

THE MARRIAGE LICENSE OF JOHN JACOB LAKE AND SARAH STOVER, Or ORDER IN COUNCIL, for Same. The Original in Possession of The Reverend Walter A. McCleneghan, Minister of The Methodist Church, of Southern California-Arizona Conference, whose great-grandfather was this John Jacob Lake.

FRANCIS GORE, Efquire, Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Upper Canada, etc. etc. etc.

Whereas His Majefty has been graciously pleased by Letters Patent under the Great Seal of Great Britain, to authorize me to grant Licenses for the due Folemnization of Marriage, and whereas John Lake Junior, of the Township of Ernestown and Province aforfaid . . . and Sarah Stover of the same place . . . are determined to enter into the Holy Banns of Matrimony, and are desirous of having their Marriage publicly solemnized; in order that such their honest desires may the more speedily have their due effect, and that they may be able to procure the fame to be lawfully folemnized without Publication of Banns, I do hereby, for good saufes, give and grant this License of Faculty, as well to them the faid parties contracting, as to all and every Parfon or Minifter, duly ordained, and lawfully exercifing his Miniftry within the faid Province of Upper Canada, to folemize and preform the fame: provided always, that by reafon of any affinity, confanguinity, pre-contract, or any other lawful caufe, there be no legal impediment in this behalf; otherwife, if any fraud fhall appear to have been committed at the time of granting this Licence, either by Falfe fuggestions or concealment of the truth, that then this Licence fhall be null and void to all intents and purpofes whatfoever.

GIVEN under my Hand and Privy Seal of Office, at York, this Twenty fifth Day of July . . . in the Year of Our Lord one thoufand eight hundred and Ten, and of his Majefty's Reign the Fifteenth.

Francis Gore Lft' Governor

By His Excellency's Command Wm Haltone Secretary.

Their children were:

I. Cyrus Lake, b. Sept. 1, 1811, at Ernest Town, Upper Canada, d. 1813.

II. Hiram Lake, b. June 11, 1814, m. Elizabeth Thompson, 1838, in Wisconsin.

III. Caroline Lake, b. Mar. 10, 1818, at Ernest Town, m. Charles Paterson McMillan, in 1835, at Ernest Town, Upper Canada.

IV. Adam Stover Lake, b. May 20, 1822, at Ernest Town, m. Elizabeth King Woods, May 18, 1844, in Winnebago Co., Illinois.

V. Valentine Amey Lake, b. Feb. 9, 1824, near Kingston, Upper Canada, m. Sophia Matilda Taft, Oct. 25, 1850, at Clinton, Wis.

VI. Amy Lake, b. Nov. 23, 1827, at Ernest Town, m. Jabez Huntley, Sept. 11, 1847, by William Brown, J.P.

VII. Rachel Lake, b. June 2, 1830, at Ernest Town, m. William Henry Peck.

VIII. John Jacob Lake, Jr., b. Feb. 9, 1832, at Ernest Town, m. Marian Jenks.

In the marriage of John Jacob Lake and Sarah Stover, were united two United Empire Loyalist families. Sarah Stover was the daughter of Valentine Stover, a son of Jacob Stover, a U.E. Loyalist who had come from White Creek, New York, following the American Revolution. One of the witnesses at their marriage was a cousin, James Lake, Jr., who was later to marry Elizabeth Stover, sister of the bride. She and her brother, Laurence Stover, were also witnesses at the wedding.

John Lake, 3rd, son of Nicholas Lake, of New Jersey, of John Lake, Jr., of John Lake I, of Gravesend, Long Island, who was born in 1728, with his wife, Margaret Snider-Lake lived in the home of their grandson, John Jacob Lake, until their death, when John Lake 3rd died in 1835, at the advanced age of 107 years. Margaret Snider-Lake also died in this grandson's home about the same time in her 101st year.

A great aunt of this writer, Rachel Lake-Peck, who lived in our home town as a neighbor, at Wyoming, Jones Co., Iowa, has told this writer of the death of her great grandparents, in their home when she was but a small girl. This great aunt died at Wyoming, Iowa, on Feb. 16, 1922, in her 92nd year.

John Jacob Lake d. in 1850, at Colborn, Upper Canada, in the home of his eldest daughter, Caroline Lake-McMillan, and was buried in the Union Cemetery on the Alger farm, near Colborn. He had returned to Upper Canada on business and died while there. Jane McMillan-Alger was his granddaughter.

Sarah Stover-Lake died in Sept. 1872, at Frozen Hill, Iowa, in the home of her youngest daughter, Rachel Lake-Peck, near Wyoming, Iowa, and was returned to Rockford, Ill., and buried in Greenwood Cemetery there, in the Lake family lot.

In 1836 John Jacob Lake and all his family emigrated from Ernest Town, Upper Canada, to southern Wisconsin, except his daughter, Caroline Lake-McMillan, who had married the Reverend Charles Patterson McMillan in 1835, and who continued living in Upper Canada and died there at Colborn, and was buried in the Union Cemetery on a corner of the Alger farm.

In 1842 the family moved across the state line into Winnebago Co., Illinois. Near where they settled in Winnebago Co., Hiram Lake gave land for a school house on a corner of his farm, which was called the Canada School house, and was still in use in 1952. This Canada School house is south of Rockton, Ill. The family settled there and took up land in that vicinity. There the children later married and raised their families.

John Jacob Lake seems to have kept in touch with his family and friends at Ernest Town, for in 1847 there were seven families who came to the locality in Winnebago Co., through his influence, and settled about what came to be called the Canada School House.

This school house was built of native stone, and so well built that while the building has been improved, it was still in use in 1952. It was then and still is called the Canada School House and there members of the families of those early settlers gather for a picnic.

In a letter from Jay I. Liddle, Secretary of THE CANADIANS of Winnebago County, Illinois, he tells of some of the early families who came to the county and settled near what has been called THE CANADA SCHOOL, sat upon the corner of the LAKE FARM, south of Rockton.

"This school is set on the N.W. Corner of section 12, on land owned by Hiram Lake, which was grandfather of Ratie Gleaseman-Liddle, who married my cousin Walter B. Liddle of Rockton, Ill." Hiram Lake came from Canada in 1843 (1842 according to Aunt Rachel Lake-Peck) and settled on sec. 12. Valentine Lake, his brother, settled on sec. 13, another brother Adam Lake, settled near the Elm Wood School in Owen Township which was called Telegraph Road. George Moffat family came from Canada in 1845 and settled near the Canada School. George Moffat was grandfather of Mrs. Phillip Gleaseman who lives in Rockton Township."

"Patton Attwood family, known as Deacon Attwood, came from Canada in 1849, and settled near the Canada School. They were a very large family and many of the younger generation are living in a few miles of the old homestead. Melvin Attwood owns the old homestead. He lives at 1420 Jackson St., Rockford, Ill. The Hart family came from Canada. They were early settlers here but I do not know where any of the younger generation are at present. Horace Hyatt family came here from Canada and settled in the Canada School District. They were one of the pioneer families here. I do not know where any of the generation are at present."

The Lake family seems to have come west by the lake route, as there was no railroad that far west at that time. The New York Central reached Chicago in 1831. The other families also seem to have come by the lake route.

With the Lake family came a young man named Jabez Huntley. Later he married Amy Lake in September 1847, and they farmed near her people in Winnebago Co., Illinois.

I. Cyrus Lake, b. Sept. 1811, at Ernest Town, Upper Canada, d. Apr. 17, 1813.

II. Hiram Lake, b. June 11, 1814, at Ernest Town, m. Elizabeth Thompson, 1838, in Wisconsin. She b. Apr. 28, 1819, in England. She had come to the U.S.A. when she was but eight years old. Hiram Lake d. Oct. 16, 1872, at Owen Center, Ill. She d. in Mar. 1887, at Owen Center, Ill. Both buried in Greenwood Cemetery at Rockford, Ill.

THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF HIRAM LAKE

The same being a correct copy of his will as written and signed by him and is copied from the original will in the hand writing of Hiram Lake.

“Know all men by these presents, that I Hiram Lake of the Town of Owen County of Winnebago and State of Illinois do make and ordain this my last will and Testament in manner and form as follows to wit

That I give and bequeath to my wife Elizabeth Lake all of my household goods and furniture, beds and bedding to have, and use as long as she shall live. When she has done with them they are to be divided between Rachel A. Hulett and her children equally and Sarah A. Gleaseman and her children, equally, and it is my desire that Rachel and Sarah divide them without interference of executor, and if my wife Elizabeth Lake should die before I do, it is my desire that the household furniture should run in the same channel as above directed when I have done with it.

“Second I do give and bequeath to Albert Hulett all my real and personal estate of every description including corn in the fields, grain in the stack and corn in the crib to have and to hold for Marston Hulett, until he arrives at the age of twenty one in case he takes hold and helps to labor on said property and lives until twenty one years of age, then said property is to go to said Marston A. Hulett, and if he fails in these obligations then to go to John Mortimor Hulett, if he fails in the above described obligation for Marston W. Hulett, and to go to him at twenty one years of age, but if he should die or fail to fill the above obligations before he is twenty one years of age then the property to go to Albert Hulett for his own use and forever.

“It is my wish that Albert Hulett deed the west half of the north east forty of the northwest fourth of Section twelve Town forty five. Range one east to the one west. West thro the rest of the property fall to

I do make and appoint Albert Hulett sole Executor of this my last will and Testament and it is my desire if can be that the Probate Court require no bonds and Security for under the circumstances I think it will be unnecessary.

Fourth. It is my desire and is hereby made a condition of this will, if this property falls to Marston W. Hulett or John Mortimore Hulett or Albert Hulett as above described that they take care of my wife Elizabeth as long as she lives.

Witness name and Seal at Owen this twelfth day of October in the year of Our Lord, one Thousand Eight hundred and Seventy two.

(Signed) Hiram Lake Testator (Seal)

Witness D. V. Waite, James Franklin Burley.

This will filed Oct. 19, 1872. Proved Oct. 21, 1892.

Hiram Lake farmed most of his adult life in Winnebago County, Ill. He was thrifty, prospered and became owner of much land in the county. Hiram Lake was a Justice of the Peace in Owen twp., Winnebago Co., Ill., in 1849.

CHAPTER XII

CAROLINE LAKE-McMILLAN
and CHARLES PATERSON McMILLAN

She of John Jacob Lake and Sarah Stover-Lake.

III. Caroline Lake, b. Mar. 10, 1818, at ErnesTown, Canada West, m. Charles Paterson McMillan in 1835, at ErnesTown, Canada West. He was born in Scotland. She d. June 18, 1876, at her daughter Jane Alger's home, aged 58 years. Buried in the Alger plot, in the Union Cemetery on the Alger farm, at Colburns, Ont. He died in Belgium in 1871, while on a Missionary journey for his church, the Winebrenarian Church of God.

Charles Patterson McMillan had come to Maine from Scotland as a young man. There for a time he taught school and worked at his trade as a shoemaker, or rather a bootmaker, as boots were more common than shoes. During the school term he taught and lived in the homes of the people who sent their children to him to be taught, going from home to home, week about.

During the time when there was no school he worked as a shoemaker, and on farms, at harvest time as helper. Often while teaching, as he went from homestead to homestead he made the footwear for members of the family.

Some time after his arrival in Maine, two brothers also came to Maine. They were John and Alexander McMillan. John was a Civil Engineer and later helped survey the new State of Texas, taking therefore as wages, land at twenty-five cents per acre. Thus he secured a vast amount of land, and turned it into a cattle ranch.

The three brothers went from Maine to Canada West in the early eighteen thirties, then later John went to the states and then to Texas. John McMillan married and had a large family, even as large families were in those days, and most of them were sons. They prospered and John became a wide traveler, and made several long sailing trips, at one time being gone from home for seven years and sailing the seven seas. Business at the ranch went forward as his sons were able to manage, as there were sons enough to manage the place.

Upon his return from this seven years sailing trip in foreign parts, his wife would have nothing to do with him, saying she had gotten along well while he was away and would continue to get along. Funds were always plenty from sale of stock, so he lived in hotels. Being angered by the refusal of his wife and the fact that his sons stood with her, he entailed the land so it could not be sold until the third and fourth generations. Then he again went on a world tour.

Of Alexander McMillan we have no account, and do not know what became of him, except that the three brothers, after being in Maine but a short time, crossed into Ontario. They were Royalists, and did not like life in the States.

For some time Charles taught school and worked as a shoemaker. Was converted and united with the Church of God, and later became a minister in that church. It is said of him that he preached well and with power. That he could hold his audiences for hours at a time. It was not a bit unusual to speak for two hours or even longer. Often he would preach two or three times a day.

Settlements were spread far apart. Usually he went on horse-back, carrying his belongings in saddlebags. Always ready to stop and preach when and where opportunity offered. He was a messenger, public announcer. Carried the news of the day. Announced when new people came into the settlements. Spoke of the arrival of new babies in the neighborhoods. Announced when horse buyers were to be in various communities, and was general news carrier in the countryside. Quick, friendly and ready of speech, he was always welcome wherever he went, as he kept in touch with what was doing about him and in the outer world, he was ever welcome in the house of the people wherever he went.

His church did not believe in a paid ministry. The Preacher took what was offered. Sometimes that was little enough, and had to be supplemented by what he could earn by his trade. He was often away from home for weeks at a time, and the family had to learn to get along as it could.

This seems to have been accepted as a part of the life of the times. The people were breaking out a new country and there was little wealth or affluence.

The family grew and got along. Every one had some work to do and as they grew were expected to do their full share of the tasks about the home. Life was strict in the home of the minister and rules as to actions expected, were strictly enforced. Keeping the Sabbath was expected and that meant keeping it, too. Everything that could be done was done before Sabbath so there were no tasks left to be done on the Sabbath day.

This does not mean that the minister's family did not enjoy life nor have good times. They did. There were many things permitted and encouraged in their home life, and they enjoyed life to the full. But prohibited things were prohibited, and there was no appeal.

Advantage was taken of every opportunity to preach The Word. Reverend McMillan had the ability to move throngs of people, and did move them. He preached righteousness and morality wherever he went, both by precept and by example. Barn raisings, harvest home picnics, weddings, funerals, baptisms, every occasion that brought folks together were readily used as means of reaching the people, and he reached them.

He lived and preached in a day when spirits were as common as water. On any and every occasion where people gathered there were spirits to be had. At harvest time, spirits were expected. At christenings, or weddings, and especially at funerals, spirits were common. It would seem that every one accepted the serving of spirits as the thing to do.

Visitors expected spirits when they arrived, and again upon departure. Decanters were in evidence and serving was expected. It is not surprising the effect this had upon the rising generation. It soon began to be apparent that there was a rising generation of drunkards. McMillan saw this coming and turned into a preacher of sobriety and temperance. When the great Temperance advocate, John B. Gough was stirring the people, Rev. Charles Patterson McMillan went with him on his speaking tours in Canada. With Gough, he mightily stirred the people and warned them of the danger of a drunken generation.

The Church put its hands upon McMillan and sent him on missionary journeys for the church. He traveled in Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, and much of Europe. Like all his clan he seems, too, to have had itching feet. On a missionary journey he died in Belgium and is buried there. This was in 1871, before the death of his wife.

Caroline Lake was a woman good to look upon. Handsome, well built, happy and of good disposition, she was well equipped to be a minister's wife and helpmeet. Quick and with a saving sense of humor, she kept her part well and controlled her family in such manner as was befitting the family and home of a Minister of the Gospel. Too, she had wit to keep her preacher husband in his place, and so rule him as well, and this for his own good.

On one occasion when he had brought a barrel of salt to the Alger farm, he was looking for planks to roll it to the ground. She stood and watched him for a bit, then said, "What are you trying to do?" He said, "To get a plank to unload this barrel of salt." She laughed at him. "What would you do?" he asked. "Why just unload it," she said. With that she walked over to the rear end of the wagon, rolled the barrel to the back end, set its rim on her hip, and lifted it to the ground. She said, "It only weighs one hundred and eighty pounds, what is that?"

When her husband was away on his missionary journeys for his church, she spent much of her time in the home of her daughter Jane, at Colborn. There, one June day she was at dinner, when she quietly slipped under the table, and was gone, almost before any one could reach her. He died in Europe, Belgium, 1871.

Issue of Charles Paterson McMillan and Caroline Lake, was, first: 1. Jane Lake McMillan, b. Jan. 31, 1836, near Colborn, Ontario, m. Daniel Henry Alger, Jan. 6, 1850, at Colborn, Ontario. He b. Nov. 12, 1827, at Colborn, Ont. He d. Apr. 7, 1915, at Coburg, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Thos. B. Lapp. Buried at Colborn, Ont., Union Cemetery, aged 87 years. She d. Feb. 26, 1910, aged 74 years. Buried in Union Cemetery, on a corner of the Alger farm.

When Jane Lake McMillan went to live as wife of Daniel Henry Alger, at the Alger farm, it had then been in the Alger family for two hundred seventeen years. When this writer first visited his kin in Ontario in 1903, his uncle showed him the original grant or deed to this land, which was signed by King George III on July 9, 1796, and made to Elisha Alger, great grandfather of Henry Alger. However, the family had already been in possession of this land for many years, but the times were troublesome, and even official business traveled but slowly. When shown this old parchment, this writer told his uncle he would give more for the old parchment than he would for the farm.

Then visiting his first cousin in 1938, in Saskatchewan, Charles P. Alger, he was reminded of this statement, and renewed same. Thereupon C. P. Alger gave him the old parchment. Then in 1945 when his doctors said he had but four months left to live and to get his house in order, he offered the old parchment to the University of Toronto, which they gladly accepted.

On the back side of this old parchment there was already some writing, which was ignored and the grant written upon the face of the parchment. On the lower side slits had been cut into the parchments and a thong passed through carrying a beeswax medalion upon one side of which was the seal of Great Britain and upon the reverse side the seal of Canada. This seal of beeswax is a half inch thick and four inches in diameter.

Thomas Boreman Lapp learned the printers' trade, and came into possession of The Coburg World, at Coburg, Ontario, which he owned and edited from the date he took possession on Dec. 1, 1898, and so continued until his death. T. B. Lapp was an influential newspaper man in the Province. He was highly regarded by his fellow townsmen, and wielded a good and sincere influence in the affairs of his city. His passing was keenly felt both by his family, friends and townsmen.

Upon the death of his father, Frank Lapp, took over the publishing of The Coburg World, at Coburg, Ont., and carried on same with success and profit until his health failing, he was compelled to sell the plant in March 1948. He did this with great regret, but his health had become precarious, so while surrendering his large business interests, he was still a member of the Coburg City Council, which position he had held for some years.

Issue of Veronica Alger and Thos. B. Lapp were:

In the spring of 1903 Charles and his family went west to Saskatchewan, and took up land west of Moosejaw, near the new town of Caron. There the family helped in developing that, then, new country. Each of his sons secured claims and these they tied together around a school quarter they purchased, so were able to help each other in their farming. This was almost entirely wheat farming, although they gradually grew into some livestock as well. Here the family lived and here the sons were married, and still live for the most part in Saskatchewan and Alberta.

At Caron, Saskatchewan, Charlie and Margaret Alger celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary on Sept. 17, 1939, with all their children attending. There Charlie died on April 7 in his 86th year, while Margaret moved to Calgary, Alberta, to be nearer some of her sons, and where she died Jan. 16, 1949, in her ninety-third year. Both were laid to rest at Moosejaw, Saskatchewan.

THE ALGER FARM

When the great-grandfather of Daniel Henry Alger first settled upon the land which was to become the family home for several generations, there was no cemetery anywhere near, so one was set aside on a corner of the farm, so the highway was on two sides of the plot. There through succeeding generations members of the Algers family have been laid to rest, as well as many others.

However, the Alger cemetery, called the Union Cemetery, was not the only interesting thing about the farm. It had been fenced with stake and rider rail fences. Into these fences rock had been piled through succeeding years, until they were filled and stock could walk right over the top. So barbed wire had been brought as an experiment and strung along the high stakes, to see if it would turn the stock. This was not the sort of barbed wire the present generation knows, but a flat wire about a half inch wide, with sharp flat barbs bent about the wire, spaced about eight to ten inches apart. It was the first barbed wire used there.

When Alexander Graham Bell was experimenting with his telephone he needed a long wire upon which to try out his invention. It was claimed that his helpers could read his lips, so could tell what he was saying into the receiver. This was the only long string of wire at that time available. He came to Henry Alger for permission to use this barbed wire. Permission was given and Dr. Bell, with his helpers came there to experiment, and with them a number of people he was trying to interest in his invention. The tests were made and Bell demonstrated that the human voice could be carried along distance on a wire. This wire was a half mile long, so his helpers surely could not read his lips, but could really hear over such a distance. Uncle Henry took the writer and showed him where these experiments were made, as the wire was still in place in 1903.

This land was stony like most of the land about that country, and stones were pushed up by the frost every year so there was always a harvest of stone. They were piled anywhere to get them off the land. Once when Aunt Rachel Peck (aunt to his wife) was visiting from Iowa, and walking out into a field, she said, "Henry, why don't you pick up these stones?" He looked over the field, then at her and finally said, "Well Rachel, we've been a picking up these here stones for nigh onto two hundred years and we ain't got a right good start yet."

So the stones were piled into the fence, into piles as high as they could be thrown or carried, so there were great piles of stones in all the fields, and still the land seemed covered with more. However, the land was good for fruit, and Algers had a forty acre orchard that was like money in the bank for them, when the late frosts did not ruin the crop. In a good year Commission men would buy an entire orchard, bring barrels and pickers, and pack the apples right in the orchards.

The farm lies west of Colborn, on what was once a toll road many years ago. When this writer was first there in 1903, the buildings were then ancient. The great barn was having its roof patched. The original shingles were still serving, although the barn was then eighty-five years old. The shingles were riven or split from blocks and were thick and wore well. Some were worn so were almost as thin as paper. The workmen mending the roof had to work on planks laid up on the roof, so as not to slide the shingles off under them.

Eighty years before Uncle Henry's grandfather had given a carpenter a horse to pay for building this great barn. It was forty feet wide and eighty feet long. The carpenter took the barn off the stump, cutting every piece needed with the broad axe and adz. The only sawed lumber was the sheeting on the outside and the roof sheeting. The corner posts were twelve inches square, as were the perline plates. The rafters were merely poles squared to about six inches. This barn was built to endure a thousand years, but a fire wiped it out in two hours.

A driveway led through the center of the barn, where hay was hauled, then pitched to either side. On one side were stalls for the horses and cattle. These stalls were floored overhead, then hay piled on. This helped keep the stock warm in winter.

Bearing up this loft over the horses was a great beam reaching all the way across the barn. Twelve inches square where it entered the posts in the sides of the barn. Eighteen inches square in the center, so seemed as though it would support a locomotive. But timber grew upon the land and was abundant, so why not use what was desired. Enough timber in that great barn to build two such barns in the modern manner.

The house was also eighty-five years old in 1903, but still stately and strong. Its roof had leaked in later years and it had been reroofed in the modern manner, but otherwise it was the same as when built. A great chimney reached from cellar bottom to above the high roof. Ten square feet at the base, and reaching up through the center of the house. Fireplaces in each room.

In the kitchen great ovens beside the fireplace for baking. About the fireplace the usual implements for cooking and carrying on the work of housekeeping. This kitchen had been modernized, to the extent of having a range for the cooking, so the fireplace was used only on special occasions.

The house had a hall running through from side to side. On one side the parlor and spare bedrooms. Both used only for special occasions, such as weddings and funerals, otherwise opened only for spring cleaning, etc.

The house was large as it needs to be to hold such families as the Algers had in those days, for Elisha Alger and Sarah Lacy-Alger had nine children, they were grandparents of Daniel Henry Alger, husband of Jane Lake McMillan. Peter Alger and Polly Cummings-Alger also had ten children. Henry and Jane got along with three, while their son, Charles P. Alger and Margaret Jane Elliott-Alger had five, all sons.

This fine old house was comfortably furnished. There were American Highboys and Lowboys, tables, chairs and rope beds. Such furnishings would today bring a king's ransom.

When the writer visited the farm in 1915 it had been disposed of by Mable, the youngest daughter, to whom it had fallen, but was then owned by a family named McMillan, no kin, as far as I could tell. Mable and her daughter had moved to Toronto. She had taken the furniture to the lot back of the house and burned it. Said she was sick and tired of the old stuff, as she had never had anything new or modern. Her house in Toronto was furnished with cheap golden oak.

She had saved her mother's spinning wheel and hand sewing machine, said to have been the first such machine in the province. Her mother was a fine seamstress in her active days. So when her new sewing machine arrived it created a sensation, and folks from miles around came to see it operated, just by turning a small wheel by hand. With this machine and her fine handwork, Jane earned considerable money and so had her own funds.

Visiting this old farm in 1951, this writer found that the evil of fire had wiped all the old buildings away and new and smaller and modern buildings had replaced the ancient ones.

Among the many interesting things about the Alger farm was the unfailing water supply. There was a rather high hill at the back of the farm, over which a stream of water flowed. No matter how dry it might become during the summer there was always a green strip across this high hill, indicating there was water beneath.

On the farmstead side of this hill there was a living spring that never went dry, no difference how dry the summer. This spring had been tapped, logs had been bored and connected, so as to form a lead of this water to the barn yard and house. Poplar trees had been cut that were about the right size. These had been laboriously worked over and bored, then the ends fitted into each other, and these formed a conduit to lead the water where it was needed. It was like having a spring in the yard, as the water was always cold. So milk could be cooled in the tanks into which the water flowed. The writer saw some of these tubes that had been replaced, that had already been in the ground more than eighty years, and they were still sound, except at their ends.

There was a thirteen acre orchard of apple trees that were from seed. These were not grafted fruit, nor had the fruit or apples any names. This orchard was used as a calf pasture, as the fruit was not saved, not being grafted or named apples. Some were very desirable to eat, but were not offered for sale.

The forty acre orchard of grafted fruit was their money in the bank, when the apple crop was good. Commission men would come in the fall and make offers for this fruit, so much per barrel, or a certain sum for the entire orchard. Then they would come with their own pickers, gather and barrel, and ship the fruit. Thus taking the entire crop.

The writer was interested in the fact that nothing ever seemed wasted. Old tools, completely worn out, were still hanging in place. Old scythes still hung where they had been hung when discarded. Might come in handy some time. Old scythe blades worn to a thin strip were still saved against a time when they might be needed.

Grain was still cut with cradles. When the writer was first at this farm in 1903, there was a field of seven acres of rye just readying to cut. It was to be cradled the following week. Uncle Henry and some cousins who had come to see their cousin from the far west, took me out to this field to show how the grain was cradled. Uncle Henry was then seventy-two years old, but could still swing the cradle in a most satisfactory manner. The writer had seen grain cradled before, but only in small patches. But here was a field to be cradled. That meant planning and hard work, as grain was laid in swaths and then gathered and bound by hand. Later it might be threshed also by hand, being flailed out with great labor, then tossed into the air on a windy day to have the chaff blown away.

When this writer visited this old Alger farm in 1951 he found a foreign family had purchased the place and turned it into a chicken farm. All the old buildings, the house, barn and out buildings had all burned, so all present buildings were new. The fine orchard that had been as money in the bank for the Alger family, was all gone. It had not been cared for, so had died out and the old trees removed. There was nothing left to indicate that the Alger family had ever lived there.

The Union Cemetery on a corner of the farm was well cared for and showed much interest in caring for the graves, monuments and grounds. This was not true of a number of cemeteries visited that had fallen into weed patches with monuments hidden by weeds or fallen to the ground. It is almost impossible to make one's way through some of them because of the wild growth.

WAR RECORD OF LORNE WINTERINGHAM ALGER

Enlisted in the Royal Canadian Air Force on June 4, 1941 at Regina, Sask., as an aero-engine mechanic. Transferred to No. 2 manning depot at Penhold, Alberta, on June 5, 1941 for equipment and training. Transferred. Transported & Posted to St. Thomas, Ontario Technical School on June 16, 1941 to receive instruction on the service and maintenance of all types of aircraft engines.

Entered as an Aircraftsman Second Class and on Oct. 25 same year, was posted to No. 11 Service Flying Training School as a first class aircraftsman. On Dec. 8, 1941 was posted to Prince Rupert, British Columbia. On May 3, 1943 was posted to Sea Island, Vancouver, British Columbia, to enter squadron of Anti-sub-patrol aircraft. He says: "This was where I really enjoyed myself as we were getting formed up to go into action and thought it would be overseas next."

On July 28, 1943 was moved to Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, to his great disappointment. On July 30, 1944 was moved to Torbay, Newfoundland where he applied for his discharge on Dec. 20, 1944. His squadron broke up, and due to great surplus of tradesmen those who had farmed, or were in lumbering, fishing, or mining were released. On Jan. 29, 1945 received his discharge at Regina, Saskatchewan. Had received the rank of Corporal at Yarmouth on Apr. 15, 1944 and held that rank upon discharge.

Issue: A. Ethel Dudley, who m. Alexander Gunyon, and had as issue, Mildred Gunyon. They were divorced. In 1915 at Toronto Ethel 2nd m. Fred Snowball, just before he enlisted in the first world war. Know nothing more of them.

Mable inherited the home farm from her father, Daniel Henry Alger, for caring for him and looking after matters on the farm. However, he had gone to his eldest daughter, Mrs. T. B. Lapp, at Coburg, where he died, and was brought back to be buried beside his wife in the Union Cemetery, on the Alger Farm, at Colborn.

Mable sold the home farm that had been in the Alger family since the late seventeen hundreds, to a family named McMillan. Do not know that they were any kin of Rev. Charles Paterson McMillan, who married Caroline Lake. They were Scotch people. Since the ancient buildings have all burned and been replaced with smaller, more modern buildings.

It is presumed that Mable lost her life during the great flu epidemic which swept Ontario at the time of her death, although the death certificate from the Bureau of Public Health at Toronto, does not indicate cause of her death. We have been unable to secure any information as to the whereabouts of her family.

CHAPTER XIII

DENNIS LUCAS McMILLAN
and OLIVE CRAMTON-McMILLAN

He of CAROLINE LAKE-McMILLAN and CHARLES PATERSON McMILLAN.

She of PETER CRAMTON and DORCAS LUCINDA WOODS-CRAMTON.

MACMILLAN—Badge: Cuileann (holly)

The origin of this clan is difficult to determine. It is pretty generally believed that they are of ecclesiastical origin. In the Highlands an individual member of the clan is referred to by Gaelic-speaking people as MacMhaoilein or MacGillemhaoilmaol being the Gaelic for bald or tonsured.

A branch of the clan is found at Loch Arkaig, in Lochaber, at an early period. They were among the loyal followers of Lochiel. From Loch Arkaig the clan, as tradition says, were removed by Malcolm IV (1153-65) and placed on the Crown lands of Loch Tay in Perthshire. The estate of Lawers belonged to them. From Lawers they were driven in the 14th century. Some of them migrated southward to Knapdale on the Argyllshire coast, and others to Galloway. The Knapdale branch soon attained to considerable power and influence. Their chief was Macmillan of Knap, a person of acknowledged importance in the district. The lands were held under a charter from the Lord of the Isles to endure “so long as the waves beat on the rock,” but alas, circumstances have struck at that “fixity of tenure” so dear to the Celt and Macmillan of Knap is no more. In course of time the direct line of the Knap family became extinct, and the chiefship went to Macmillan of Dunmore, an estate lying on the north side of Loch Tarbert. Duncan Macmillan of Dunmore had arms registered in 1742, and he is described as “representative of the ancient family of Macmillan of Knap.” His son, Alexander Macmillan of Macmillan and Dunmore, settled his estates on his cousin Duncan, of the Laggalgarve branch, by whom they were lost. In 1951 the representative of the Laggalgarve line was, as Sir Gordon Macmillan of Macmillan, K.C.B., found representative of Macmillan of Knap and Chief of the Clan by decree of Lyon Court.

The Macmillans of Galloway are a well-known branch of the clan. Hugh P. Macmillan, a distinguished lawyer and judge, was created Lord Macmillan of Aberfeldy, in 1930—a life peerage.

In some parts of Argyllshire the Macmillans are known as “Na-Belch”—the Bells.”

THE McMILLAN PLAID

MacMILLAN: An ancient clan, much dispersed, which is closely related to the Monro and the Buchanan. This is their ancient tartan. The beginnings of this clan have never been definitely determined, but it is generally believed that they are of ecclesiastical origin. Their badge is the cuileann—the holly. There is a Clan MacMillan Society with headquarters in Glasgow.

The following item was taken from “The Scottish Clans and Their Tartans.” Printed by W. & A. K. Johnston, Ltd., Edinburgh and London, Distributed in the United States by Charles Scribner’s Sons, New York. Published 1825.

“MACMILLAN”

Clan Pipe Music: March—“The Clan MacMillan Society March.”
Badge: Cuileann (Holly).

“There seems to be considerable difficulty in tracing the origin and following the footsteps of this clan. Despite the statement of Buchanan of Auchmar that they descended from Methlan, a brother of the chief of the Buchanans, who flourished in the time of King Alexander II, it is pretty generally believed that the MacMillans are of ecclesiastical origin. In the Highlands, an individual member of the clan is referred to by Gaelic-speaking people as “MacMhaoilein” or “Mac-Glilemhaoil,” maoi being the Gaelic for bald or tonsured.

A branch of the clan is found at Loch Arkaig in Lochaber, at an early period. They had possession on both sides of the Loch and reigned supreme as “Clann Ghillemhaoil Abrach.” They were among the most loyal retainers of Lochiel. From the Loch Arkaig the clan, as tradition says, was removed by Malcom IV (1153-65) and placed on the crownlands of Loch Tay, in Perthshire. The estate of Lawers belonged to them, and they were found there long before the Campbells held possession in that district. From Lawers they were driven by Chalmers in the reign of David II (1324-71). Some of the dispossessed MacMillans emigrated southwards to Knapdale, on the Argyllshire coast, and others to Galloway. The Knapsdale branch soon attained to considerable power and influence. They owned the largest half of the southern part of the district, and their chief was MacMillan of Knap, a person of great importance in the west of Scotland. A boulder at Knap head was said to have written upon it MacMillan's right to Knapsdale: "Coir-Mhic Mhacilein air a'Chanap." According to tradition the title ran as follows:

"Phad'sa rutheas aruth is gaoth, Bidh coir Mhic air'a'Chnap."

Mhaoilein

which may be rendered—

"While currents run and winds blow cold, MacMillan's right to Knap shall hold."

Another version of the title runs—

"MacMillan's right to Knap shall be,
While 'gainst this rock shall dash the sea."

"There are several relics surviving in the district of the former power of the clan. At the entrance of Loch Sween, Knapsdale, there is a rocky promontory, on which stands a ruined castle of great extent and strength. It is said to have been built about the beginning of the eleventh century by Swena, Prince of Denmark, and was later the residence of Alexander, Lord of the Isles, who was besieged there by Bruce, to whom Alexander was compelled to surrender it: 'One of the towers of that fine edifice, Castle Swene,' says Skene, 'bears the name of MacMillan's Tower, and there is a stone across in the old churchyard of Kilmory, Knap, upwards of 12 feet high, richly sculptured, which has upon one side the representation of a Highland chief hunting the deer, having the following inscription in ancient Saxon characters underneath the figure; 'haec est Alexander Macmilliani.' Although the MacMillians were at a very early period in Knapdale, they probably obtained the greater part of their possessions there by marriage with the heiress of the MacNeils in the sixteenth century."

When the family of MacMillians Mor of Knap became extinct, Macmillan of Dunmore, an estate lying on the south side of Loch Tarbert, succeeded to chiefship. After a while this branch, too, died out, when the MacNeills, by the right of their intermarriage with the MacMillans claimed the property. They were opposed by the Campbells; but the dispute was amicably adjusted by the estate passing by purchase into the hands of Sir Archibald Campbell on Inverneil in 1775.

The branch of the MacMillans which is perhaps best known in history is that which migrated southward to Galoway about the same time that the Loch Tay colony came to Knapdale. Since the thirteenth century, as appears from charters, a large number of MacMillans have settled in the Glenkens—a beautiful region in the north of the Stewartry of Kirkenbright, watered by the river known as the “Water of Ken” and its tributaries, including the parishes of Carspharim, Dairy, Keils, and also a part of the parish of Balmaclellan. The MacMillans of Carsphairn are descended from a brother of MacMillan Mor of Knap.

A representative of the Galloway branch distinguished himself as a leader of the Cameronians, or Reformed Presbyterians, who were called MacMillanites after him.

MacMillans are still to be found in considerable numbers in Kintyre and Arran.

There is a Clan MacMillan Society in Glasgow.”

THE BIG AUCTIONEER

2. Dennis Lucas McMillan, b. June 14, 1837, in Clark Twp., Lennox and Addington County, Ontario, m. Olive Cramton, Mar. 23, 1858, at Harrison, Illinois, by Squire Paterson, J.P. She the eldest child of Peter Cramton and Dorcas Lucinda Woods. She b. June 22, 1838, in Harrison Twp., Winnebago Co., Illinois. He d. Mar. 14, 1898, at Wyoming, Iowa. Buried same. She d. Jan. 4, 1926, at Waterloo, Iowa. Buried at Wyoming, Iowa.

Thus in their marriage were joined four ancient families, the ancestors of whom came first to America in the middle sixteen thirties, except the McMillans, who arrived later. These families thus joined were the Lakes, the Woods, the Cramtons, all of whose lines reach far back in England and Scotland, this last through the McMillans.

Dennis Lucas McMillan, eldest son of Charles Patterson McMillan and Caroline Lake, was born in Clark Twp., Lennox and Addington Co., Upper Canada, on June 14, 1837. His father was a minister in the Church of God, Winnebrenarian, and was in fact an itinerant preacher, going anywhere folks could be gathered to listen to the Gospel message. He covered hundreds of square miles in Upper Canada, and required some six weeks to cover the rounds.

Often he preached from two to four or five times on the Sabbath, and usually every night in the week, except on Saturday, when he worked on his sermons for the coming weeks. Hence he was away from home much of the time, so the family saw little of him for weeks at a time.

D. L. or Mac, as he was almost universally called, spent much of his boyhood and young manhood on the Alger farm with his brother-in-law, Daniel Henry Alger, and his sister Jane McMillan-

Alger. There was always much work to be done and he filled the place of a hand through all seasons of the year.

There were still many Indians in those parts. There was an island out in Lake Ontario where these Indians caught and dried fish in the running season in spring, and where they took much meat in wild fowl in the fall. Taking ducks, brant, geese, swan, and in fact all kinds of wild fowl on their passage south in the fall. These were dried and smoked for winter use.

Here "Mac" learned much Indian lore. How to make bows and arrows, and shoot them. The easiest and best ways to take and cure fish and fowl. How long to smoke them and the best kinds of wood for smoking meats. Too, he learned much of the history and life of these Indians. They were of the Five Nations. Generally friendly to the whites.

Also "Mac" learned much about the use of herbs and their value in sickness, and the healing of wounds. Where to get them and the curing them for future use. Often "Mac" stayed at this Indian Camp for days at a time. He seems to have been a favorite with the Squaws, who told him many things of their way of life. Here with the Indian boys he learned to swim and how to protect himself in the water. The lessons now being taught to Boy Scouts were a very necessary part of life there. How to build fires, signal others, put out these fires. The danger of neglect in caring for such fires. How to build their houses, and where, so as to take advantage of weather, seasons, and be protected in storms.

During the winter he was seventeen-eighteen years old, he with other young men of his age, organized an exploring party who made their way north for a thousand miles into Hudson Bay territory. Three young Indians were of this party. They made their way first by canoe, then by dog team. Starting in the fall, and trapping as they went. They returned in spring with a good catch of fur, and a knowledge of the country.

In 1856 he left Ontario for Portage-Wisconsin, where he worked for a year. His uncles, Hiram, Adam and Valentine Lake had come to northern Illinois in 1842, and he visited them in Owen Township. At Rockton he met a young woman who was working in Rockton. They attended various parties and dances together there.

During the winter of 1857 he worked at cutting wood on the Pecatonica river, and boarded with a widow named Cramton. He became seriously ill. It was too much for Mrs. Cramton to care for her large family and for him, alone, so her daughter was called home from Rockton to help care for this young giant Cannuck.

The friendship begun at Rockton the previous winter ripened into love. Often in later years "Mac" used to say, "Olive was such a good nurse, I thought it best to take her along, as I might get sick again some day." Strangely enough this did not come true until he was an old man. However, he had her with him.

They were married by Esquire Patterson, at Harrison, Winnebago Co., Illinois, on March 23, 1858, at the Cramton home. In June of that year these young folks went to a farm at Big Foot Prairie, in Wisconsin. Later they moved to Allens Grove, Wisconsin, to another farm, where on Oct. 20, 1859, their first child was born. He was named Cora Patterson, for his father's grandmother, whose name was Patterson.

On December 1, 1859, they moved from Allen Grove to Darian, Wisconsin, where "Mac" was foreman on a large farm for a man named Bruce. He had been warned that he could not work for Bruce as Bruce was a hard man and could not keep help about him. Men came and went constantly.

D.L. arrived at the Bruce home in mid forenoon. He had been told that when Bruce hired a man he wanted him to begin work at once. No coming next day or some other time. But RIGHT NOW. After talking awhile with Bruce, they agreed on terms. Bruce asked when he wanted to begin work. Mac said right now. Bruce said what he wanted in his help was to do what they were told to do without quibbling or asking why, etc. Just do what they were told.

It was near dinner time, so Bruce said they would have dinner then they would start the afternoon's work. Dinner finished, Bruce said, "Mac, you go out and put the big bay team on that wagon with planks on it, and I will come along and tell you what to do then."

After a little Bruce came out of the house and began to swear. "What are you doing there?" "Just what I was told to do," "Mac" replied. He had one horse up on the wagon, and was just leading the other to a place on the wagon, beside the first. "You told me to put this team on this wagon, and if you had stayed away a little longer, I would have had them on the wagon." He had found heavy planks, leaned them against the planks on the wagon, thus making a platform, and had led one up on top.

Mac worked for three years for Bruce with never a further word about doing as he was told. Besides he could keep help on the farm, as he knew how to get along with the help.

It was while living on this farm their second son was born, and named William Woods, for his grandfather Woods, that is, for his mother's grandfather. It was also while working on this farm that D.L. heard Lincoln's call for Volunteers, and enlisted for the Civil War.

He was called to Camp Washburn, Jan. 4, 1862, and was a member of Company K, 2nd Wisconsin Cavalry. A letter from the office of the Adjutant General's office, Madison, Wisconsin, of May 14, 1938, says: "My Dear Reverend McMillan: This will acknowledge receipt of your letter of May 11th and there is enclosed herewith certificates giving the military service of your father during the Civil War, as taken from the records in this office. The records show that the organization in which your father served was commanded by Captain Fred W. Hutchins, Sharon, Wisconsin, and that the two Junior officers were First Lieutenant David A. Bennett, Delavan, Wis., and Second Lieutenant Porter W. Roundy, Darian, Wisconsin.

"The Second Cavalry was recruited and organized under direction of Colonel C. C. Washburn and was mustered into Federal service at Camp Washburn, Milwaukee, Wisconsin at various dates from December 3, 1861 to March 12, 1862.

"Our records do not show any disability, illness, or Hospitalization or medical attention with reference to your father.

For the Adjutant General,
Thor. N. Hanson,
Administration Assistant."

Mr. Thor N. Hanson also sent the writer a copy of the Record of Wisconsin troops engaged in the Civil War, calling special attention to the record. His letter follows:

The Adjutant General's Office
"State of Wisconsin,
Madison. ND. July 2, 1938

"Rev. C. N. McMillan, Pastor
Methodist Episcopal Church,
Britt, Iowa.

Dear Rev. McMillan:

In reply to your letter of June 28th, I am pleased to advise you that the Adjutant General's Report of 1865 contains some history on the Second Cavalry Regiment.

I am forwarding you a copy of this report and calling your attention to page 432-33 of this report.

For the Adjutant General:
Thor N. Hanson,
Administrative Assistant."

"CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

62—V.S. 1938

STATE OF WISCONSIN
Adjutant General's Office

This is to certify, That the records of this office show that—

Dennis L. McMillan—late Sergeant in Company “K” of the end—Regiment of Wisconsin Cavalry—Volunteers enlisted on the 25th day of November 1861 by Captain Hutchins at Darian, Wisconsin, for the term of three years—was mustered into the military service of the United States on the first day of March 1862, at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and Discharged on account of disability on the 18th day of August 1862, at Springfield, Missouri.

The records further show that said soldier when enlisted was 25 years of age—married—had blue eyes—light hair—light complexion, was six feet, plus, inches in height, and by occupation a laborer.

In Testimony Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my official seal, at the capitol in the city of Madison, this 12th day of May, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight.

Ralph N. Innuell, The Adjutant General.”

It will be noted above there is no “record of disability, illness, or hospitalization or medical attention with reference to your father.” Yet the CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE shows that he was “Discharged on account of disability.”

The facts are that he had camp diarrhea, or bloody flux. He had received an hernia, in a cavalry charge, in the scrotum. This hernia troubled him all the rest of his life. We have heard him relate his experience in a hospital, where he was able to assist in caring for others who were worse off than he. Upon his discharge “for disability,” he returned to Rockford, Ill., where his wife had moved, upon his enlistment.

Later he tried several times to re-enlist in Wisconsin, and was refused. He was drafted and would have gone into service on the draft, but his trouble was discovered upon examination, and he was refused under the draft.

His Company was sent south in March, 1862, and his command was given the task of “capturing or putting out of business, OLD PAP PRICE,” who was raiding all southwest Missouri. During this campaign he was very sick with diarrhea. Nearly the whole camp was badly affected. For a time he was hospitalized and became an orderly, helping care for others when he was able. In the meantime his wife had removed to Rockford, Illinois. There he came, upon his discharge, sick and scarce able to get about, even with two canes. There an old doctor said he could kill or cure him in a few weeks, if he and his wife would consent. They gave consent and he was cured and his diarrhea stopped.

Returning to Wisconsin he went into the butcher business at Delavan. There he remained in this business until 1864, when again President Lincoln called for troops. He then went to Rockford, Illinois, offered himself, after putting himself in as good condition as he could and so his trouble was not apparent. He was accepted and was mustered into Company M, 11th Regiment of Cavalry. Following is a Certificate of his service.

Rev. C. N. McMillan, Britt, Iowa.

"Rev. Dear Sir:

This will acknowledge receipt of your letter of May 11th regarding the Civil War service of your father. In compliance with your request, a statement of service for DENNIS L. McMILLAN, Company M, 11th Regiment of Cavalry, is enclosed.

The Captains listed with Company M, 11th Regiment of Cavalry, are as follows: Adam Stuber, Hugh C. Moffett, John A. Gray, and John Perry. For information on the history of the 11th Cavalry, it is suggested that you read the Adjutant General's Report—Illinois, 1861-1866, Volume 8, Pages 330 and 331. You should be able to find a copy of this book in any public library.

We trust this is the information which you wished to obtain.

Yours truly,

C. E. Black, The Adjutant General."

It will be noted there is discrepancy in the description of Dennis

L. McMillan as well as in the spelling of the name McMillan as between Wisconsin and Illinois. One gives his eyes as blue, while the other says grey. The fact is he had cat's eyes. When angry his eyes were sharp steel grey and at times would almost spit fire. When amiable his eyes were a deep blue.

His height too, is given different. This writer has heard him say many times they did not want men over six feet in the Cavalry. So in Wisconsin he was six feet, in Illinois he was five feet eleven and a half inches. He was in fact six feet two inches in height. Wisconsin says "light complexioned" while Illinois says he was dark complexioned. Wisconsin says light hair, while Illinois says brown hair. So we shall say what he was in height and the color of his eyes. All the years this writer knew him his hair was greying, and he stood almost head and shoulders above most men. He weighed 285 pounds all the years we knew him as our father.

There were two recruits when Dennis L. McMillan went the second time, entering the Cavalry. The second was Charles Amos Temple, who later was to marry Mellissa Woods, a first cousin of Olive McMillan, who following his discharge went to Grundy County, Iowa, and later to Ottawa County, Kansas, near what became Tescott. Still later to Indian Territory and still later to Palestine, Texas. Mellissa Woods-Temple died at Tescott, and is buried in Franklin Cemetery.

McMillan and Temple had heard much about General Sherman's determination to march across Georgia to the sea and thus break the back of the Confederacy. They were determined to go with him, but never did really catch up with him.

Dennis L. McMillan and Charles A. Temple were mustered out, having served a little less than nine months. However, D.L. had sustained another hernia. This time in the navel, from which he suffered the rest of his life.

During the late summer and early winter of 1865 he acted as a Judge advocate, as between the former masters and their slaves, being connected with the Freedmen's Bureau. However, he was not pleased with the manner in which this work was being handled and resigned and returned to Rockford, Illinois.

His wife had again removed to Rockford, where he came after closing his work with the Freedmen's Bureau. In September the eldest child, Corah Patterson, died while his father was at the front. The child was buried in the Westside Cemetery at Rockford, Illinois.

On October 1, 1865, Charles Henry McMillan was born and named after "Mac's" father and his brother-in-law, Henry Alger. This son was born at Rockford and died Feb. 12, 1866, at Cherry Valley, Illinois, and buried beside his elder brother at Rockford.

During the years of readjustment following the Civil War, D.L. worked at various occupations. Worked with a threshing outfit, etc., going from farm to farm near Lena, Illinois, where he was farming. Then for a year in the butcher business at Monroe, Wisconsin. During this period three sons came to the home, namely Frederick Homer at Rockford, Illinois, on August 24, 1867; Herbert Martim, at Martinstown, Wis., Oct. 22, 1869, and Delbert Lester, at Lena, Illinois, on Aug. 1, 1871. On Feb. 24, Franklin Congdon was born on a farm in Green County Wisconsin, and was named for his maternal great grandmother, Lima Congdon-Woods.

Again in the butcher business, but restless and wanting to again be on the move. An uncle of his wife had gone to Independence, Iowa, and written glowing accounts of this new town and its possibilities. Another uncle had gone to California, and he too had written of the opportunities and possibilities there.

So "Mac" loaded his butcher tools into his butcher wagon and set out for Independence, or possibly California, leaving his wife to follow later when he found a suitable location.

His Aunt Rachel Lake-Peck and her husband, William H. Peck had moved from Wisconsin to Iowa before the war and settled at Iron Hill, in Jackson Co. Mac drove that way and stopped to see his aunt, coming by way of Dubuque, Iowa. Peck was going to Wyoming one night, as he was taking the third degree in the Masonic Blue Lodge there.

It was a warm spring night, and while his uncle was in the lodge he looked the town over, then lay at the foot of the stairs leading to the lodge hall, waiting for the session to close.

Above stairs, when the regular work of the order was finished, and the question of "The good of the order" was raised, W. H. Peck told of his nephew who waited below, and who was looking for a location to open a butcher shop. The members present decided that he had looked long enough and far enough, that a good butcher was needed in the town, and that here was the man to keep such a shop.

The records of the Keystone Lodge No. 206, A.F. & A.M., of Wyoming, show that when W. H. Peck took the 3rd degree, the date McMillan waited for the close of the session was July 14, 1874, and the officers present were: A. G. McGrew, Master; Geo. Bottomstone, S.W. (pro tem); P. R. Bradshaw, J.W.; T. B. Reynolds, Secretary; J. O. Spencer, Treasurer; O. E. Aldrich, S.D.; P. G. Abrams, J.D.; N. B. Little, Tyler, and three Master Masons, whose names were not written out; J. O. Spencer and C. L. Gilbert, visitors.

At the close of the session they went down in a body to try to persuade McMillan that he had gone far enough, and assure him of the necessary backing if he would stop and open a market in Wyoming.

A man named Peter Smith told him he had four fat heifers ready to sell, which he would let him have to start. That he could get the first one, kill and sell the meat, pay for that one, and take the second, and so on as fast as he could sell one he could have another. He accepted and so started the business in Wyoming, Iowa. At first he formed a partnership with his uncle, William H. Peck, but this did not last long, then he continued the business alone. From then on he never had a partner in his business. Peck formed a partnership with W. S. Sibley as Sibley & Peck.

It may be interesting here to note the men who were in business at Wyoming, Iowa, in 1874 when McMillan first came there. The list that follows was taken from The Illustrated Historical Atlas Co., Lakeside Building, Chicago, Illinois, Atlas, of the State of Iowa, page 495—1875.

According to this record, Wyoming, Iowa was first settled in 1839 by Thos. Green; William Knight; Taylor, Joseph and Richard Van Valkenburg, and their father. In 1874 these business men and their businesses were as follows: R. H. White, Attorney at Law; W. I. Chamberlain, Atty. at Law; D. L. McMillan, Butcher; J. E. King, Vice President, 1st National Bank; John K. Pixley, Cashier, 1st National Bank; Ruben Waite, Jeweler; James A. Brunson, Gen. Merchant; Wilson Bros., Millers; P. D. Swigart, Publisher Wyoming Journal; H. D. Flower, M.D., Physician; L. M. Turner, Photographer; Johnson & Thompson, whose business is not indicated.

Of course these names do not indicate all the business men in the town, as nothing is said of lumber yards, coal dealers, nor are elevators mentioned, nor stock buyers. Probably only the names of those who had ads, or who subscribed for the atlas. Only one doctor is mentioned, although M. H. Calkins, M.D., was in practice there. However, it does indicate some of the business associates of D. L. McMillan, as early as 1875.

He continued in this business and the buying of livestock for the Chicago markets for many years. As his sons grew they were brought into the business. However, his wife Olive, served trade in the market while he was buying or killing. Too, she often drove the wagon selling meat through the countrysides during planting, haying and harvest. It was no unusual sight to see her with a baby in her lap and another beside her as she drove their white team of horses, selling meat from farmstead to farmstead.

There had come a widow woman named Urainy Starkweather, to live in the home and help with the rearing the five children who came into the home at Wyoming during those years. They had lost their only daughter as a young girl, but now had another who came into their home in 1874, and was named Olive Elizabeth. Elizabeth after her Aunt Elizabeth King Woods-Lake.

Then in succession came Claud Nelson, named for his uncle, Cyrenius Nelson Woods; Rollo Stover, Stover being his great-grandmother's name. Then Archie Paul, for a friend of his father; and last of the line, Donald Harrison, named for President Harrison, for whom his father had a very high regard.

Father was a Republican. Which simple statement meant much. Not only his allegiance, personally, but his work for and interest in the success of the party was constant. He was what might well have been called a boss in our part of the county. He seemed to control many votes, especially among the river people, who looked to him for leadership. At any rate, on election day Mother was always ready with a great meal prepared for whomsoever Father should invite to our home. And he seemed only to invite those men who could "vote their friends the right way." So election day was one of great moment to the family.

Father never asked anything for himself for his faithfulness to the party. But as time passed it seemed that something ought to be done for him. So it was proposed that he run for Justice of the Peace, an office of some standing in those days.

He was elected with a vote that spoke of the friendship of "the Party," and the loyalty of his friends. Ten times was he re-elected to this office. So for many years his court was a place of standing in the county. Not only did he dispense justice, but became a collector of accounts, and so successful that he was able to get bills paid where others failed.

Too, he loaned large sums of money for eastern interests. Insurance companies seeking Iowa mortgages, sent him large sums to be loaned on Iowa farms. At the time of his death there were found in his wallet in process of collection many thousands of dollars worth of accounts, upon which men were paying as they were able, or could get the money. In his work as a collector he was patient but persistent, and so successful.

When forty years old he became an auctioneer, and gained such prominence as to be known all over eastern Iowa. Many who could not recall his name spoke of him as THE BIG AUCTIONEER. His knowledge of livestock and values were a real asset in this work. Too, he had a way of holding the attention of the crowds and getting their bids. During the farm sale season he seldom had any open dates, as he was engaged far ahead of the season.

Father was not an easy man to get along with in the home. Of a quick and violent temper, he was easily enraged, and often at small matters. Seldom did he lose his temper outside the home, but there he did vent his displeasure upon the family. They had to take what should have gone to others.

There was one outstanding feature of our home life. Father talked everything over with Mother. Usually at the table in the presence of the family. We knew about everything that was going on. Yet, this information could not have been pulled out of the family with horses. Neighbors and friends often tried to pump the children, but could get never a word of what was discussed in the home. Father trusted us, and was never let down by the family.

In his work as a Justice of the Peace, he was a pacifier. An arbitrator, an adjuster, a fixer. He was always settling matters for folks in an amiable manner. When folks came to him with blood in their eyes and wrath in their talk, he would let them get it off their chests. He could calm them after their explosions, then talk things out with them, get opposing parties together and settle their quarrels peaceably. This did not make for fees, but it did make lasting friendships among neighbors, rather than bitterness and hate. Especially when quarrels had to do with or between families, he was an arbitrator, a fixer. He seemed able to get them together and so adjust differences amicably.

After some such affairs that seemed likely to disrupt the entire community, and have folks take sides and be ready to fight their quarrels out, he would get them to agree and settle their differences. Sometimes Mother would joke him by asking what was his fee in such cases. His reply always was, "the best interests of the whole community."

Politically he was not ambitious. He never asked for any position for his loyalty to or his work for the Party. He was content with the office of Justice of the Peace, as this gave him opportunity to serve the people.

Only with the passing years and the raising of families, have given her sons a proper appreciation of their mother.

With the years her life and character has grown upon her family. Kind, patient, considerate, just, always ready to hear all sides before coming to conclusions either in the family or among neighbors. She talked little so heard everything. She hated gossip with bitter hatred, so did not peddle gossip, though she heard all that was being said and often squelched men gossipers. Folks came to her with their troubles, for they learned that their troubles never went further.

From her mother she had learned all that her mother and grandmother had learned from the Indians. So they knew herbs. Where to find them. Their value, and what they were good for. Young matrons would come to tell her about their babies or children and their troubles and sicknesses. Mother would give them appropriate herbs, tell them how to steep these and how to give to their babies and children. Always there hung bunches of such herbs, gathered in the proper season and so hung up, awaiting needs therefore.

Our family doctor used to say if there were a half dozen women like Mrs. McMillan in the community, a doctor would starve to death. There just would be no practice for a doctor. Mother had borne thirteen children, and had raised eleven of them to manhood and womanhood. So she had to know. It now seems tragic that all her lore about herbs and their use should have been lost with her going.

Father's going was almost tragic. He sat one day in his office in the front of the house, reading the report of Theodore Roosevelt and his Rough Riders and San Juan Hill. Trying to place the troops and their action. His heart ceased. He was sitting in a swivel chair, with his feet upon his desk at ease. He fell, and falling struck his head on the base of a heavy cast stove. Mother heard his fall and rushed to him at once. He was alive. Stepping to the door which led to Main Street, she called some men passing, who helped her get him onto their bed. The doctor came at once. He said that when his body struck the floor he was dead, but striking the stove started his heart action again.

This occurred in October, just before the November election, when he was running for the eleventh time for the office of Justice of the Peace. He had another stroke just before Thanksgiving. A third stroke just before Christmas. Then it settled into what was then called creeping paralysis, and he passed away in the following March. At his funeral his sons bore their father's body to its final resting place in the Wyoming cemetery on the hill, where Mother was to follow him twenty-five years later, and where his daughter Olive and Grandma Cramton already lay asleep.

Father was never able to secure a pension from the Government he had so well served. Washington seemed to stumble over his being drafted and refused. The Pension Bureau could not get it straight that there was one Dennis L. McMillan from Wisconsin and also from Illinois, and who had been drafted and refused in Wisconsin, because of a disability.

However, time helped in this, and after he died his pension was allowed, and Mother received his back pay from the time when he had first applied. With the money thus received she purchased a home that was home to her to the end of her life. There her youngest brother, Edwin Cramton lived with her most of the time until her death in 1926.

Mother had a remarkable memory especially for details. When we began thinking of this work, she gave us days and dates for births, deaths, marriages, and moves among members of the various families. These dates were so accurate that we have never had to change any of them, although we have consulted court records, gravestones, official papers, etc. Her mind was thus clear almost to the end of her life.

In the case of my mother, the Scriptures were fully fulfilled: "Her children shall rise up and call her blessed." Patient, kindly, forgiving, generous. A TRUE mother to her large family. She went out to life eternal in her eighty-eighth year.

During her lifetime she had seen nearly all the great changes and inventions in our modern life and living. From the cradle for grain, to the combine. From the candle to electricity. From ox teams to fast trains and from the team and buggy to the automobile. In these she enjoyed riding. Going about among her children, by train and auto, enjoying life to the full, to the last. In her offspring she lives on and on. Her families still multiply with passing years.

Children of Dennis Lucas McMillan and Olive Cramton-McMillan, follow:

He had gone to Clinton, Iowa in 1893, and worked there for a time at the Bather Greenhouse, on Commanche Ave. Then at the Clinton Bridge & Iron Works, for several seasons. Went to Epworth Seminary, at Epworth, Iowa, in the fall of 1895. Became one of the janitors and so worked his way through school. Became head janitor in 1898. Cared for the buildings during the summer, repairing and preparing them for the succeeding seasons of school. Graduated there in 1901, so could have entered Northwestern University as a Junior, which he planned to do.

At Epworth Seminary he met Lydia May Blakeney, and her brother, Loy M. Blakeney, and it was a case of love at sight. He graduated in the Classical Course in June 1901. He had preached for some months at Masonville, as supply, going out from school on Saturday evening and returning on Monday mornings. He was usually entertained at Miss Blakeney's home there, as her folks were Methodists. Lydia's step-father, Oscar Wellman, had a farm at Masonville, which he had taken up as a claim in 1848, he coming from New York that year.

During the fall and winter of 1900 and 1901 he had supplied the pulpit of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Masonville in the absence of the pastor. This gave the young folks opportunity to become better acquainted, and for her people to know him as well. The Wellman home was a large farm house, so they usually kept the visiting ministers, as the home was on the edge of the town.

Oscar Wellman was an old resident of Delaware County, Iowa, came and took up land in 1848 and had first married one of the Sullivan girls, who gave him a large family of sons, then died. He had later married Lida L. Cary-Blakeney, mother of Lydia, and Loy, a young widow, who he had met on a trip to South Dakota, where he owned much land, and had a cattle ranch. They were married and had one daughter, Olive, who married Oak Burris at Salt Lake City, Utah.

Lida Louise Cary-Blakeney-Wellman was a cousin of the poetesses Pheobe and Alice Cary. Her father was Hiram Cary, b. in Michigan, his people having come from New York State. Her mother was Lydia Marie Smith, b. near Rochester, New York.

Joseph M. Blakeney and Lida Louise Cary had as their first child, Lydia May Blakeney, b. near Salem, Oregon, Feb. 10, 1881. She spent her girlhood near Blunt, South Dakota, where her parents had a claim, and where her father died when she was still a small girl. She, her mother and brother endured the hardships of the frontier.

The line of Lydia May Blakeney-McMillan: Father, Joseph M. Blakeney, b. Mar. 24, 1858, in Michigan, d. winter of 1886, buried at Blunt, South Dakota. He a son of Joseph A. Blakeney, b. Feb. 8, 1827, d. June 29, 1904, in Michigan. He m. Harriett Matilda Maxwell, b. 1831, d. 1919, in Michigan. Joseph A. of William Blakeney, b. Sept. 17, 1795, d. Oct. 21, 1863. He a son of Colonel Blakeney, an Irishman, of the British forces, in the American Revolution, who went to Canada following the war, but whose wife, with her son, refused to go with him, preferring to remain in the Colonies.

Their son: William Blakeney, m. Susan Powers, daughter of Joseph Powers, b. Sept. 7, 1748, d. Dec. 5, 1826, at Ferrisburg, Vermont. Susan Powers-Blakeney, b. Sept. 1, 1798, d. May 18, 1887. Joseph Powers, m. Rebecca Stearns, daughter of Isaac Stearns, a Revolutionary soldier, as his third wife. Both Joseph Powers and Isaac Stearns fought the British at the Battle of Bennington, New York.

Joseph Powers was a private in the New Hampshire Line, while Isaac Stearns was a famous Minute Man, in the Revolution. Jane A. Powers-Walker, a sister of Susan Powers-Blakeney, was an original member of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Lydia May Blakeney-McMillan and her second daughter, Helda A.

McMillan-Doubleday, were members of the D.A.R. This Joseph Powers was one of seven brothers who were all Revolutionary soldiers, as was the father of Rebecca Stearns.

Following his graduation at Epworth Seminary, Claud went to Masonville, Iowa, for a short visit before returning to Clinton and his old job in the Iron works, where he planned on earning sufficient money with which to go on to Northwestern University. He had felt the call to preach and all his preparatory education had this in mind. He had his first Exhorters License at Bowman Church, Methodist, at Clinton, in 1894, from the Rev. Dr. F. X. Miller, Minister. Then his Local Preachers License from the Rev. Dr. Harry H. Green, Presiding Elder of the Dubuque District, at Hopkinton, Iowa, in 1896.

He had preached as opportunity offered during his schooling at Epworth.

While visiting in the Wellman home at Masonville, Mr. Wellman proposed that he work for him that summer, then the first of the next March lease the farm, stocked and with all its equipment, for two years and so obtain money with which to pursue his education. This he would not do unless he and Lydia were married, which was just what her folks were hoping he would do.

This arrangement met with the approval of all concerned. They were to have their own part of the large house, so they would live by themselves. There on the Wellman farm they were married on the 28th day of August 1901. Father Wellman was so proud of his step-daughter that he went all over the county telling that she was going to marry that young preacher.

This farm venture did not work out so good. The first year sixty acres of corn froze on the night of September ninth—his birthday—when it was just in the milk. This made it of little value as corn, but did make feed. That year there was 120 tons of hay cut and cured. This was largely sold and the corn stalks fed.

When Claud took over the farm there were eighteen cows, ten of them being heifers, bred for milk. It was these cows and their calves and their milk that kept the two families going. President Cleveland had been in office with a Republican Congress, so could do but little and a depression was on. McKinley had been elected on the promise of a chicken in every pot, etc. Prices were low on everything there was for sale. Oats eight cents per bushel; eggs, if any were for sale, at six cents per dozen; corn at fifteen cents per bushel. Hay sold at seven dollars per ton, delivered in people's barns, butter fat was ten to fourteen cents per pound.

He milked these eighteen cows twice each day, for the most part alone, all the time he was on the farm. Having help to run the 160 acres only in corn plowing, haying and harvest. Then in winter he cut wood for fuel and posts to fence the farm. The farm was in a run-down condition and required much time and work to bring it into condition. Manure had accumulated for three years before he took over, and this must be put upon the land. This meant much hard work.

The second year he had a great crop of pigs and it looked as though all was going to come out as it should. Then in the fall black cholera struck and these pigs died by scores. They had to be buried and when the ground froze, had to be burned. Thus prospects for added schooling disappeared.

Claud came to the conclusion that God did not want him on that farm. There was not another case of cholera within fifty miles, as the state veterinary assured him. No one knew much about the disease then, except what it would do to a herd of hogs.

A call came, through Dr. Wilson S. Lewis, Pres. of Morningside College, who had known him in Epworth Seminary, when he was Principal there, and before he had gone to Morningside College. There was a small opening in the Northwest Iowa Conference for a young preacher, and in February of 1903 he was offered this opening. He went to Knierim, Iowa, a new town on the Illinois Central Railroad going to Omaha, that had just been built from Fort Dodge to Omaha. He accepted the call and preached his first sermon in the Conference on Feb. 8, 1903.

Knierim was in Calhoun County, Iowa. It was his first pastorate. The church had been moved into the town from a country cemetery a mile south. There was no parsonage. There he received twenty-five dollars per month for the balance of that year, or three hundred twenty-five dollars that year.

That was a wet year, and a wet year in Calhoun County meant almost everything drowned out. "Water, water, everywhere, nor any drop to drink." But Knierim, built upon the farm of William Knierim, was a thriving prosperous town, newly built, and hustling. Hence the name, Knierim, stuck.

There was no parsonage, as this point had been a part of a circuit, but mud roads made this impractical, so it was set off alone. Only some rooms upstairs in the house of a widow were available. But by the time their goods had arrived a cottage was vacated, and this was secured for the young minister, and here for the first time, they set up housekeeping alone.

In the meantime their first child, a daughter, was born at Masonville, in the farm home there. So there were three to live in the new parsonage the young minister proceeded to build that first year, 1903, with his own hands. Everything about it from digging the basement to the chimney top, except plastering and finishing, also including the painting and inside finish. Here they lived and loved the people and each other, and the church prospered. From this charge they moved in 1907 to Gowrie, Iowa, in Webster Co.

Their first: A. Ursula Lygia McMillan, b. June 28, 1902, at Masonville, Iowa, m. Matthew Paul Ward, Dec. 25, 1922, at Sioux City, Iowa. He b. Sept. 19, 1897, at South McAllister, Oklahoma. He d. Sept. 23, 1941, at Duluth, Minn. Buried at Rutledge, Minn.

Both Lygia and Paul attended the Academy at Morningside College, Sioux City, before and after their marriage, as it was far across the city to the only High School at that date. Paul was preparing for railroading, as a fireman, and had already fired on the Chicago-Minneapolis & Omaha, for a time, before and after their marriage. Later he was fireman on the Duluth & Messabe ore road running into Duluth, Minn., and was ready for his engine, having passed his examination for an engine, before he died of cancer, at Duluth. There at Sioux City their first child was born, while he was still on the Chicago-Minneapolis & Omaha R.R. Later to Duluth & Messabe R.R. in Minn.

They lived and farmed at Finlayson in 1952, where Ernest owned his farm. Darlynn graduated at Willow River, May 27, 1942. While Ernest was in service in Europe she kept his home for her grandfather, at Primghar, Iowa, where their first child was born on Aug. 1, 1945.

Ernest was inducted into the service on June 28, 1944, although the local draft board had promised that he would not be called until his crops were in and harvested. Ernest had his boot training at Camp Knox, Kentucky. He sailed from New York on Dec. 26, 1944, and landed at Le Havre, France, on Jan. 8, 1945.

During his training Darlynn worked at Elizabethville, Ky., so as to be near him as long as possible. Then his long furlough, and his going across. He saw service abroad in the 3rd Army, 6th armored division, in France, Luxemburg, Belgium and Germany, and in the United States. He was a Sergeant. Was discharged at Camp McCoy, Wis., on Mar. 19, 1946. Back to Finlayson and his farm in 1946. He did not see his son until he was eight months old.

(B) Bette Lou Ward, b. July 24, 1926, at Floodwood, Minn., m. Edwin Alfred Carlson, May 17, 1947, at Duluth, Minn. He b. July

Bette Lou was graduated from the Willow River Consolidated High School, at Willow River, Minn., May 17, 1944. She had further training as a post-graduate student for a year at the Denville High School in Duluth, Minn. When she was married she was secretary for one of the head men at the Marshall-Wells Wholesale Hardware Company at Duluth, and continued there for some months following her marriage.

Before his marriage Edwin enlisted in the army and saw service in France and Germany. Then was honorably discharged and returned to Duluth and was married. In August 1949 Edwin was taken ill and went to St. Luke's Hospital in Duluth, where his trouble was diagnosed at leukemia. He was rushed to the Veterans Hospital at Ft. Snelling, Minn., where he died on Aug. 20, 1949. He was buried at Finlayson, Minn.

B. Jose Loy McMillan, b. Apr. 2, 1905, at Manchester, Iowa.

Loy graduated from the East High School at Des Moines, Iowa, in 1925, after spending his first three school years at Central High in Sioux City, then when the family moved to Des Moines, finished at East High in Des Moines, Iowa. He then went to Simpson College at Indianola, Iowa. During his fourth year there he had a serious infection in his foot, so he was short a few hours of graduation.

In 1929 he secured a position with the Western Electric Co. at Newark, N. J., though he worked at Kearney, N. J., where he had charge of the foreign shipping department. One day as he went about his work he was out in the yards and was caught in a down-pour of rain which wet him thoroughly. He went about in his wet clothes the rest of the day as he was far from his room at Newark.

From this exposure he took a terrible cold which settled into tuberculosis. He was in a hospital for some time, then was sent to a sanitarium at Mount Kipp, in northern New Jersey, where he remained for about a year, and where it was felt his lung trouble was stayed, although he was advised to rest for another year before again taking up his work.

However he was ambitious. Wanted to marry and have his own home. He saw an ad for an operative of a Photograph studio, was accepted and after training was sent to New Haven, Conn., to open a studio there with the idea of capturing the student business there at the University. The season was a very hot one and working under the great kleig lights again brought on his trouble.

He purchased an automobile to make his way back to Iowa, and came to Pocahontas, Iowa, where the family were then living. During the fall arrangements were made for him to go to the State sanitarium near Iowa City, at Oakdale, Iowa, where he grew much worse and died Dec. 18, 1931. His body was taken to Wyoming, Iowa, where his father's people were buried, and there laid to rest.

J. Loy, as he chose to be called, was a very handsome young man. He was friendly and attracted others to him. In college he was a member of Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity. There he was held in high esteem. During his first year in college he lived in the home of the President of the college, Dr. John L. Hillman, where he had charge of the house and the doctor's car, thus helping himself in school, as well as having access to a great library, which Dr. Hillman had.

C. Helda Alta McMillan, b. Mar. 3, 1907, at Gowrie, Iowa, m. Lewis Edmund Doubleday, Dec. 26, 1936 at Britt, Iowa. He b. Feb. 6, 1907, at Elkhart, Iowa. They are Methodists. Lived at Blanchard, Iowa, in 1953.

Helda graduated at East High School at Des Moines in 1925 after taking her first three years at Central High (called the Castle on the Hill), at Sioux City, Iowa. She attended Simpson College at Indianola, Iowa, where she received her B.S. in 1931, having taught a year in the meantime. She attended Drake University at Des Moines a summer session. Taught again a year, then received her Master's Degree in Science of Home Management at Iowa State College, at Ames, Iowa.

She taught at Carlisle, New Market, Spencer, Clarinda and Council Bluffs, all in Iowa, and at Stevens College at Columbia, Missouri, etc.

Both she and her husband were teaching at Stevens—a girls' college—when he enlisted in the Army Air Corps.

In 1935 Helda took her brothers, Herbert and Paul, for a bicycle tour of Europe. Sailing from Montreal they landed at Dublin, on to Glasgow, to Edinburg, where they bought bicycles for the trip. Her fiance, later her husband, accompanied them. From Edinburgh to London, stopping at Stratford on Avon where they saw King Lear played by great artists. Then a week in London. Across to Belgium, to Holland and Denmark, to North Germany. Back across Germany, through Luxembourg, to Paris, then Le Havre, from whence they sailed for New York, where friends met them and so by auto to Britt, Iowa, their starting point, having covered more than 1600 miles awheel in thirteen weeks and having visited nine countries.

After her husband enlisted in the Army Air Corps she resigned from the faculty at Stevens College and went to Houston, Texas, where he was in training, to be near him. At Houston she worked in the laboratory of the Eastern States Petroleum Co., and later still for the Charles Martin Company, until the spring of 1946 when she resigned her position there to go to Manila, P.I., as dietician for the armed forces there, both American and Philippine.

Lewis Edmund Doubleday graduated from the Elkhart High School in 1925. He attended Simpson College where he obtained his Bachelor's Degree in School Administration. He then taught at Northboro, Blanchard, New Market, Clarinda, Council Bluffs, all in Iowa, then became a member of the faculty at Stevens College at Columbia, Missouri, a girls' school.

In 1939 he received his Master's Degree in Education from the University of Iowa. He also studied at the University of California, at Los Angeles, Calif.

He enlisted on Sept. 1, 1942, in the Army Air Corps and was commissioned a 2nd Lieut. He took Officers' training at Miami, Fla. Was sent to Ellington Field, Texas, as an instructor in Radio Code. He served as supply officer at San Antonio, Texas. Then attended Information and Education school at Washington and Lee University, at Lexington, Va. Then further training for information and education at Washington, D.C., and at Madison, Wisconsin.

His rank was advanced from 2nd Lieut. to 1st Lieut., then to Captain, at Manila, P.I., in 1945, where he was discharged on June 19, 1946, that he might accept a position in Civil Service as Director South Pacific Branch of the United States Armed Forces Institute, with headquarters in Manila.

Helda went by plane in the fall of 1946 from Fairfield, Calif., to Manila, as dietician for the Armed Forces. Both returned to State-side in June 1947, to go onto their farm near Blanchard, Iowa, when, as they could not get immediate possession of the farm, Lew accepted a teaching position in the Blanchard High School.

As Director of the United States Armed Forces Institute he was assigned to the 8th service command and developed Off Duty Education Programs at Camp Stoneman, Calif., Fort Huashuahis, Ariz., and later at Camp Swift, Texas.

Both Helda and Lew taught at Northboro, Iowa, he as Superintendent and she Domestic Science and Home Management, in the school year 1951-52.

In 1952-55 both taught at Mt. Zion Rural High School, out from Orient, Iowa, he as Superintendent and she as head of Home Management Dept.

In 1951 they adopted a son, David Errol Doubleday, b. Oct. 24, 1945. In 1954 they adopted a son, William Lewis Doubleday, b. Nov. 6, 1948. Adopted Aug. 2, 1954.

D. Charles Hugh McMillan, b. Feb. 3, 1909, at Gowrie, Iowa, m. Ruth Naomi Charleton, June 7, 1941, at Elizabeth City, North Carolina. She b. Apr. 2, 1915 at Coinjock, N.C. Live at Coinjock, N.C., 1954. Hugh graduated from the Pocahontas High School, at Pocahontas, Iowa, after taking his first three years at East High School, Des Moines, Iowa, and was assistant coach during his senior year. His father had been appointed to the new charge in the fall of 1928, at Pocahontas, Iowa.

The family moved to Paullina, Iowa, in the fall of 1931, and Hugh accompanied the family and helped them settle, then went to visit his grandmother in California. There he remained and worked all during the great depression, 1931 to 1940. Then to Virginia, where he obtained work with the National Parks Service as an electrician. The N.P.S. had men working all along the Carolina coast, planting grass, to hold the sand from moving, and so closing inlets from the ocean.

There as an electrician, Hugh had charge of moving picture machines on floating moving picture vessels, as there are no towns along this coast. Also of six short wave radio stations and three telephone systems, with six moving picture units. His field reaching from Norfolk, Va., to Ocracock Island, North Carolina.

During this time Hugh met Ruth Naomi Charlton, who was a clerk in the County Clerk's office at Carituck, N.C. They became engaged and later married. During the war years Hugh worked as an electrician in the Navy yard at Norfolk, Va. He was deferred for health reasons for active war service, but felt he was actively serving. Later he was with Consolidated Vultee Aircraft at Elizabeth City. Again in the Navy Yard at Norfolk, then transferred to the Coast Guard at Elizabeth City, N.C., in charge of repairing aerial cameras from all sections of the War Service.

Having no issue, they determined to adopt a child and so did: (A) Donald Hugh McMillan, b. Jan. 6, 1948, at Camp Lee, Virginia. Adopted as of Feb. 16, 1949.

Douglas had his early schooling at Sioux City and Des Moines, and graduated from the Pocahontas, Iowa High School in 1931. Then two semesters at Morningside College, Sioux City, Iowa. Entered the W.P.A. and was stationed at Forest City, Iowa as workman and tailor for the officers and the camp. There he met Ilo Etta Connor whom he later married. Then was in business at Forest City for a time. He learned the cleaning and tailoring business, at which he spent his active life, to this writing. Being located at Ridgecrest, California, in 1953.

In the early winter of 1941 he went to Long Beach, Calif., where he worked at his trade as cleaner and presser. Early in 1942 he bought such a business, sold it and bought another. Overworked and was advised to get out in the open, so went into a shipyard, so was out of doors. Bought a home in Dominguez, a suburb of Long Beach.

F. Alfred Edwin McMillan, b. Nov. 16, 1913, at Charter Oak, Iowa, m. Evelyn Ann Howard, July 26, 1937 at Long Beach, Calif. She b. Aug. 8 at St. Paul, Minn.

He was named for his great uncles, Edwin Cramton and Alfred Edwin McMillan with Dr. Alfred Edwin Craig, President of Morningside College, at Sioux City, Iowa, whom his father and mother highly regarded.

Alfred was born after his mother had undergone a very serious operation and both her doctor and surgeon told both she and her husband there would be no more children coming to their home. So Alfred fooled the doctors.

Evelyn had graduated at the Britt, Iowa High School in 1932. They had come together, with some friends to California in 1936, he to visit his Grandmother Watkins and she to visit an aunt. They drove through in an auto for a dealer.

After their marriage, on a visit at Britt, Alfred had the misfortune to hurt his hip in the joint, which hurt prevented his serving in the armed forces. During the second world war while Alfred was in hospital Evelyn worked for the Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft Co., at Long Beach. Later they bought a comfortable home, beside which Alfred built a woodworking shop, where he and a partner turned out children's toys. Later cabinets and equipment for homes and stores. In 1952 he was a soap maker for the Purex Corporation in their branch at South Gate, Calif. In 1954 they lived at 5849 Fostoria St., Bell Gardens, Calif.

G. Herbert Lawrence McMillan, b. Aug. 25, 1917, at Sioux City, Iowa, m. Darlene Elizabeth Sherman, Aug. 25, 1941, at Ponca, Neb. She b. Mar. 6, 1920 at Ocheydan, Iowa.

Issue: (A) Dennis Paul McMillan, b. Dec. 2, 1942, at Maywood, Calif., Hospital while they lived at Bell Gardens, Calif. (B) Curtis Neal McMillan, b. June 3, 1945, at Seaside Hospital, Long Beach, Calif. (C) Scott Vance McMillan, b. Mar. 17, 1951, at Seaside Hospital, Long Beach, Calif.

Darlene, a daughter of Alfred W. and Ina Celeste Powers-Sherman, graduated from the Ocheydan, Iowa High School in 1937, then took training in Beauty Culture, worked in a beauty parlor at Britt, where she met her future husband, and later owned her own beauty parlor at Ocheydan, Iowa.

Herbert had his schooling at Des Moines, Pocahontas, Paullina, and graduated at the Britt, Iowa High school in 1937. Then a year at Morningside College at Sioux City, Iowa, again at Junior College at Britt, graduating in 1940.

During the summer of 1941, with his brother, Paul, they took their father and mother on a vacation trip to the Black Hills, Yellowstone Park, Salt Lake City, Utah, then to Long Beach, Calif. After returning to Iowa, Herbert married Darlene E. Sherman, then almost immediately returned to California at Long Beach, where his wife soon joined him. He obtained work with the Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft Co., and finally was head of their tools department. After the war he entered Sears-Roebuck Co., in floor coverings, in 1947. They lived at 4602 Goldfield Ave., Long Beach, Calif., in 1954.

H. Paul Jean McMillan, b. Oct. 28, 1918, at Sioux City, Iowa, m. Marian Jean Jensen, Jan. 23, 1946, at New Richland, Minn. She b. Aug. 27, 1919, at New Richland, Minn.

Issue: (A) Jon Paul McMillan, b. Sept. 26, 1949, at Forrest City, Iowa. (B) James Todd McMillan, b. Feb. 12, 1954, at Seaside Hospital, Long Beach, Calif.

Paul had his schooling at Des Moines, Pocahontas, Paullina, and Britt, Iowa. He graduated from the Britt High School in 1938. Attended Morningside College at Sioux City, Iowa, in school year of 1938-39, then Britt, Iowa Junior College, graduating in 1940.

With his brother, Herbert, he was in all the athletics of both high school and college. Both were active in both musicals and dramatics. Both won honors in dramatics and music. In college they were in the A Capella and College Church choirs. Returning to California following the second world war he entered the University of Southern California, at Los Angeles, and graduated June 12, 1948.

Marian Jean Jensen graduated from the New Richland High School in 1938. Attended the Mankato, Minn., College of Beauty Culture. Had her own beauty parlor in New Richland, Minn., 1941-45, then to California, where she continued in her profession, first at San Francisco, then later at Long Beach, where she met Paul J. McMillan, later returned to Minnesota, where she was married to Paul Jan. 23, 1946. Returning to California she continued at her profession while Paul entered the University at Los Angeles where he graduated on June 12, 1948.

Paul J. McMillan enlisted in the army at Primghar, Iowa, was transferred for induction to California, where he was inducted Aug. 3, 1941 at Los Angeles. Had his preliminary training at Fresno, Calif., started for the Philippines Oct. 15, arriving at Manila, P. I., Nov. 20. On Dec. 7 came the attack on Pearl Harbor, and America was at war with Japan.

The men of his outfit had very little preliminary training. The plan was to train them in the Philippines, under conditions there. He was on Bataan when it was taken by the Japanese. Was in the death march when he saw hundreds of his fellows killed by Japanese soldiers upon no, or the least excuse.

He was taken to Japan where he suffered in a Jap prison of war camp forty-two months. There he suffered all kinds of torture and indignities, and was nearly starved to death during that time.

The prisoners took over the camp on Sept. 2, 1945 when the Japs learned they were beaten. Then they were released by the U. S. Forces Sept. 9, 1945. Eventually he was returned to the States, at San Francisco, on his way to hospitalization, at Van Nuys, Calif., and for the first time to learn of his mother's death, and that his father was then in Long Beach, Calif., as were three of his brothers. He was transferred to the Birmingham General Hospital at Van Nuys, Calif., and furloughed to Long Beach, where he joined members of his family.

As late as 1950 he was still affected by Beri Beri, and was still under medical care in 1952. He was transferred to Camp McCoy, Wis., for separation from the Army, with the grade of Corporal, on Apr. 19, 1946. He was married to Marian Jean Jensen at her home at New Richland, Minn., on Jan. 23, 1946, his father officiating. They returned to California, where Marian continued in her profession, and Paul entered the U.S.C. at Los Angeles. Later they returned to Iowa where Paul took a year's training in the retail hardware business. Then back to Long Beach where he secured work with the Douglas Aircraft Lain Tools dept.

Returning to Long Beach he secured a position with the Douglas Aircraft Company in the tools department. They bought a home in Lakewood, Calif. In 1954 they sold this home and purchased a farm at Janesville, Minnesota, and moved there in October. This farm adjoined the village of Janesville, and Paul built a beauty parlor in one room of the large farm house where Marian carried on her occupation as a beautician, while Paul managed a cabin camp, with his other activities on the farm. Nearness to the village and a good school made this a fine setup.

When Claud Nelson McMillan was 77 years old, on September 9, 1953, he had 19 grandchildren and 8 great-grandchildren. These great-grandchildren were in the twelfth generation from their ancestors of 1636, in the American Colonies.

When he retired from the active ministry in the Methodist Church in September of 1945 his doctors gave him barely four months to live and so close up his lifework. His sons in California were unwilling that he should die alone in Iowa, so brought him to Long Beach, Calif., where three of them were then living. So far—1956—he has refused to die, as his work was still unfinished. So work on this volume has proceeded to its completion.

Donald had his schooling in the public schools at Wyoming, Iowa. There at Wyoming he also learned the painters trade, with Bert Milner. He worked at his trade in various Iowa towns, then went to Omaha, Nebr., and contracted painting and decorating until trade unions made conditions intolerable, when with his wife he entered the antique business, in which they prospered and made a success for many years. His wife, Pearl Milhone-McMillan, became known as The Glass Woman, of Omaha, as she became expert in antique glass. She lectured on glass in various parts of Omaha and of Nebraska. Their business and home is located at 3222 Dodge Street, Omaha, Nebraska, in 1955.

In 1954 he was called to the same type of work in the State School for boys at Woodburn, Oregon, as Supervisor of all House parents, in the school there, called "The McLaren School for Boys."

3. Alfred Edwin McMillan, b. 1842, in Clark Twp., Lennox and Addington Co., Ontario. Came to the States at the outbreak of the Civil War, and enlisted as a private, and was soon promoted to a Captaincy. He lost his right thumb by a rifle ball, in battle. Following the Civil War he was lost track of by his family. It is not known what became of him. There is a tradition that he went west, probably to California, at the close of the war. He was the only red head in the family. The writer's mother remembered him well, as he visited in her home while living in Wisconsin. All data about him was lost, when this writer's car was robbed, and his material so was lost.

4. Flavius Josephus McMillan, b. May 5, 1845, at Brighton, Ont., then called Canada West. We do not know the name of the woman he married, nor where they were married, only that her name was Mary, and they had one daughter. That the wife's name was Mary, and that she survived him. That he died in Washington, D.C., on Sept. 22, 1904, in his 59th year. That he had lived for twenty years in Washington, D.C., as shown on his death certificate. That he lay in a coma for some days. That the cause of his death was chronic nephritis, and that he was buried in the Congressional cemetery.

In a letter from Clifford K. Shipton, Custodian of Harvard University Archives, he says:

"Our information about Favius Josephus McMillan is somewhat fragmentary, and I am not sure that it is all accurate. The summary, for what it is worth, follows:

"He was born May 5, 1845 at Cambridge, Mass., or, according to another source, 'Near Brighton' (Canada West). As a young man he enlisted in the army, but he soon returned and was sent abroad to study. He entered the Harvard Law School in March, 1863, and graduated with the degree L.L.B. in 1864. At this time he gave his address as Colborne, C.W. He was admitted to the Boston, Mass., Bar in 1865. From 1867 to 1870 he was a student in the Harvard Divinity School; his home address at this time was Staten Island, New York. As for his later career, he was at one time Superintendent of Public Instruction in Beloit, Kansas; later a journalist in Nebraska, and still later, in government employ in Washington, D.C., and private secretary to Nebraska Congressmen. He died in Washington, Sept. 22, 1904.

Most of this information comes from a manuscript in the hand of Samuel Barrett Stewart who was compiling a necrology of the Divinity School, early in this century."

"Necrology of the Divinity School 1904-05. By Samuel Barrett Stewart, Grad. Div. School, 1862." From this we quote.

"MacMillan, Flavius Josephus, Class of 1870, Div. School.

FLAVIUS JOSEPHUS MACMILLAN:

"Class of '70, was born near Brighton (Canada West), as the catalogue has it, May 5, 1845; was fitted for college, privately, out tutors, at home. In company with a brother he enlisted in the army—apparently against the wishes of his family, perhaps on account of his youth; returned and was sent abroad to complete his studies.

"He attended lectures at the University some five years; was connected with the Divinity School nearly the whole course.

I could not get any very accurate account of his career, law, literature and science appear to have been his particular studies.

He wrote a prize essay on the "Rights, Duties and Responsibilities of the Officers of Corporations" and in '64 received an L.L.B., and in '65 was admitted to the Boston Bar.

Meanwhile he was a paid writer for newspapers.

I next heard of him as Superintendent of public instruction in Beloit, Kansas and later in Nebraska, as Editor and Correspondent and lecturer.

He drifted into Journalism and says of himself that he "started a newspaper in Nebraska, and another, and another. Speculated in Western towns until the crash came" . . . what crash he does not say . . . ending up "A Superannuated Newspaper Man," lived finally such a life on Staten Island, in a Gothic cottage by the channel of the Great Ships, as poets seek and seldom find, and where he could let in the light through 38 windows and see the stars."

Later he lived in Washington, D.C. (where his widow now lives) and was in government service and also private secretary to Nebraska Congressmen. For 10 or 15 years he was out of health. He died at Washington Sept. 22, 1904.

I regret that this is all I am able to say of him."

He was private secretary to Algernon S. Pollock, U. S. Senator from Nebraska, of Beatrice, Neb., from 1877 to 1881. He was at that time connected with a newspaper at Nebraska Village (now Nebraska City, Neb.). There his only daughter was born.

He visited in my father's home in southern Wisconsin in the 1870's. Was guest in his Uncle Valentine Lake's home at Rockton, Ill., when Valentine Lake introduced him to his family as a nephew who was a reporter on a Chicago newspaper.

I have been unable to find any records of the enlistment or service of either of these two brothers of my father, although have heard him speak of them and their being in the army during the Civil War, and have many times heard him speak of Fay, as having been graduated from Harvard. Their father was a school teacher as well as a preacher.

We cannot understand why there should have been any question as to his place of birth. His place of residence could have easily changed, but the family were all born in or near Clark Twp., Lennox and Addington Counties, Canada West.

5. Amy Jane McMillan, b. 1845, in Clark twp., Lennox and Addington Co., Ontario. She m. Nelson Mix, at Colborne, Ont. After the birth of their two sons, Nelson went west and was not again heard from. We do not know that she and Fay were twins, although both are reported as being born in 1845. She died Jan. 5, 1907, in Murray twp., Northumberland Co., Ont., and is buried on the Alger lot in the Union Cemetery which is on the corner of the Alger farm. She died in her 83rd year.

This writer visited her in her home at Brighton, Ont., in 1903, where she seemed to be very comfortable. She was a fine seamstress and so supported herself.

There were two sons of this marriage, Charles Mix, who helped support his mother. He lived in Western Canada. Nothing more is known of him. There was also Edwin Mix, who was for some years a tailor in London, Ont., but of whom we have been unable to learn anything further.

CHAPTER XIV

ADAM STOVER LAKE and ELIZABETH KING WOODS-LAKE.

He of JOHN JACOB LAKE and SARAH STOVER-LAKE.

She of WILLIAM WOODS and LIMA CONGDON-WOODS.

ADAM STOVER LAKE

IV. Adam Stover Lake, b. May 20, 1822, at Ernestown, Canada West, m. Elizabeth King Woods, May 18, 1845, at Rockford, Ill. She b. June 19, 1828, in Chautauqua Co., New York. She d. Jan. 27, 1876, buried at Greenwood Cemetery, Rockford, Ill. He d. May 17, 1899, at Rockford, Ill., aged 77 years. Buried at Rockford. He was quite deaf, was crossing the Illinois Central Bridge on his way to work, and neither heard nor felt the oncoming train, was struck and killed. Adam Stover Lake, born in Canada West, came with his parents to southern Wisconsin in 1836 when but a boy. To Winnebago Co., Ill., in 1842.

During the winter of 1844 he courted Elizabeth King Woods, youngest daughter of William Woods and Lima Congdon-Woods. She was then just sixteen years old, while he was in his twenty-second year. They were married the following May 18, when she was a month under seventeen, and he a month under twenty-three. She died in 1876, when but forty-seven years old, leaving a daughter, Minnie Lima Lake, but twelve years old. In their union were joined two ancient families, the Lakes and Woods.

Adam Lake was a cabinet maker and carpenter. He farmed in Winnebago Co., Ill., but lived most of his life in Rockford, where for many years he was employed by the Emmerson Manufacturing Company, later the Emmerson-Brantingham Mfg. Co., makers of farm machinery, when most of such machinery was built of wood.

As age crept upon him he was pensioned by this firm. He was not expected to come regular to work, but he did go as he felt inclined, taking a shortcut along the tracks of the Illinois Central R.R., and crossing their bridge on his way to work. On the morning of May 17, 1899, as he was crossing this bridge he was struck and killed by the fast morning passenger train. He was buried beside his wife in Greenwood Cemetery, at Rockford, Ill.

Issue: 1. Lewis Francis Lake, b. Oct. 6, 1846, in Owen Twp., Winnebago Co., Ill., m. Martha Ann Allen, June 20, 1866, at Beloit, Wis. She b. Mar. 11, 1848, at Watertown, New York. She d. Mar.

29, 1926. He d. Mar. 29, 1933, aged 87 years. Both buried in Greenwood Cemetery at Rockford, Ill.

Lewis Francis Lake enlisted for the Civil War on May 20, 1862, as a drummer boy, when but sixteen years old. On June 2 he was mustered into service at Camp Douglas, at Chicago, Ill. He became a private in Co. A, 67 Ill. Infantry. This regiment was organized in a hurry to guard prisoners of war at Camp Douglas. This enlistment was for three months, but was extended so they could take 3,000 prisoners to Vicksburg, Miss., for exchange. His Uncle John J. Lake was also in the 67th, and made the trip with them. This was a year before the famous battle of Vicksburg. On Oct. 6, 1862, he was discharged on his 16th birthday.

He re-enlisted Dec. 17, 1863 and was a member of Taylors Battery, as gunner; Co. B, Light Artillery, as a part of the 2nd Div. of 15th Army Corps, Gen. John A. Logan commanding; forming part of the Army of Tennessee, Gen. James B. McPherson Commanding.

On General William Tecumseh Sherman's famous Atlanta Campaign of 1864, the "storied March through Georgia." He was in the following battles: May 13-16, battle of Resaca; May 28, battle of Dallas; May 29, battle of New Hope Church; June 4, battle of Adairville; June 9-28, battle of Kennesaw Mountain; July 2, battle of Hickajack Creek; July 3, battle of Mill Grove; July 20, battle of Peach Tree Creek. There he had a close call. At the Battle of Atlanta, July 22, he was captured and sent to the infamous Andersonville, Ga., prison.

On September 23 he was released from prison in an exchange of prisoners at Rough and Ready, Georgia.

While he was in Andersonville, A & B Batteries were combined. Assigned to Gen. Thomas' Army upon release, and took part in the siege of Nashville, Tenn., in Dec. 1864. On July 3, back in Camp Douglas, he had leave and went home to see his baby sister, Minnie Lima Lake. On July 11, 1865 he was honorably discharged at Chicago, Ill., and returned to Rockford, Ill.

His own relating of his experiences states that: "on May 9th, I began going with Martha Ann Allen. We were married June 20, 1866." Continuing, he says: "It was in 1872 I began working for the Emmerson Manufacturing Company. In 1876 Father lost three fingers on his left hand, and the same month, Jan. 27, 1876, Mother died. The following summer I was taken sick and was unable to work again for three years. I had joined the Rockford Rifles before I was taken sick. I served as private until 1885."

"In 1879 Dr. McAfee suggested that I run for Tax Collector. Was defeated, but next year elected. This was in 1880. That summer I went to Atlanta and Macon, Georgia, with the Rockford Rifles, then on to visit Andersonville Prison. I took over the tax books and started work on them.

"It had been at Christmas Eve, 1876, when things looked mighty dark for us, that a group of G.A.R. boys came, bringing turkey, oysters and all the trimmings, and $50.00 in cash (which I repaid with part of the first money I earned). This made a very happy Christmas for us all.

"In April, 1881, Mattie and I sold our home at 1203 Rock Street (where Gertie was born), and built a new home at 1201 Chestnut St., in the west end. Two years later, sold and built again at 1202 Chestnut St. During the winter of 1881 I worked for the Rockford Life Insurance Co. In June, 1882, I went to work for Tom Bell (a comrade), as Deputy County Clerk. About 1880, I joined the Ancient Order of United Workmen. Was Master Workman, also representative to Grand Lodge several times.

"Early in 1888 I announced myself as candidate for Clerk of the Circuit Court, and on the day of the Presidential election I was elected for a four year term. Was also Recorder of Deeds (ex-officio). I was re-elected eleven times, making a total of forty-four years in that office. In December 1912 the offices were separated, due to a population of 60,000 in the County, so I chose to run for Clerk. Had no opposition, except in primaries in 1888, when Mattie toured the county by horse and buggy, seeking support from the delegates to the County Convention. Again in 1892, when Bruce H. Garrett, a popular young attorney, sought to beat me out. But I won out both times. Had no other opponents.

"In 1928 was nominated on all three tickets, and had to go to the office of the County Clerk, and formally renounce my candidacy on the Democrat and Prohibition tickets. Was elected for the eleventh term, making forty-four years of continuous service in the same office.

"In 1888 my opponent in the primaries was J. B. Little, who was then Deputy under T. M. Butler, the then clerk. I defeated him nicely. Mr. William Lathrop, then head of the County Bar, said at the time, it would be a calamity if Mr. Little was not elected, but, after what he considered a testing time, he came to me and told me he thought 'their interests were safe in my hands.' "

When he was a candidate, without opposition, for the tenth term, the Rockford papers spoke of him as "the best loved man in Winnebago County." At any rate the people of the county kept him in office more than half a lifetime.

On December 1, 1932 he announced that upon completion of his present term of office he would not again be a candidate for office. Since that time until his death he lived quietly in their home on North Church Street, happy with the memories of an eventful life, and busy with the work of the G.A.R. There he died Mar. 29, 1933, at the age of 87 years. Surviving him were an only sister, Minnie Lima Lake-McMillan. A daughter (Gertrude), Mrs. James P. White of Zypherhills, Fla., together with six grandchildren.

Three times Lew Lake had been commander of the G. L. Nevius Post, G.A.R., which ranks as No. 1 Post in the country. He was one of five Monument Commissioners for the erection of a monument for Illinois men who died in Andersonville prison, at Andersonville, Ga., and was Secretary-Treasurer of the Commission. When this monument was dedicated, he and his wife and the other four Commissioners and their wives attended. Governor Charles S. Deneen, his wife and his staff, were present.

In July, 1914, he was awarded a medal for being a member continuously for twenty-five years in the Knights of Pythias. On June 20, 1916, he and his wife observed their Golden Wedding anniversary in their home on North Church Street in Rockford.

WILLIAM ALLEN OF SALISBURY, MASSACHUSETTS

1. William Allen was living in Salisbury, Mass., as early as 1639, being one of the original settlers of that town, having removed from Newberry, Mass., where Coffin, in his history of Newberry, states he received a grant of land on Deer Island in the Merrimac River consisting of "four acres of land provided said Island did not contain more than 12 acres." This Island has been the home for many years of Harriett Prescott Spafford, daughter of William H. Prescott, the noted historian. William Allen was a house carpenter and married first Ann Goodale by whom he had 12 children, the eighth child of this union was Benjamin born in 1652. (See Essex Antiquarian Vol. 8.)

2. Benjamine Allen was called a seaman in 1684, a wheelwright in 1680, 1686, 1688-9 and a planter in 1674-5. He lived in Salisbury until 1694 when he removed to Rehoboth. He served in King Phillip's War from December 1675 to August 1676. (See Bodes Soldiers in King Phillip's War, page 248.) He married first Rachel, widow of Henry Wheeler and after her death he married, second, Hopestill Leonard. By his first wife he had four children, the fourth child was Jeremiah. (See Essex Antiquarian Vol. 3.)

3. Jeremiah Allen, born in Salisbury, Mar. 25, 1692-3, and removed with the family to Rehoboth in 1694. He was a blacksmith. He first married Rachel Millard by whom he had 12 children, the first being Benjamine. (See Arnold Vital Records of Rehoboth.) Jeremiah's younger brother Joseph received a grant of land on account of the services of his father Benjamine and Uncle Richard in King Phillip's War. (See Bodes Soldiers in King Phillip's War, pages 427 and 428.)

4. Benjamine Allen, born in Rehoboth May 6, 1717, at Swansea Mass., married Susanna Thrisher in 1737, Dec. 1, by whom he had four children, the second being Barnabas Allen. (See Arnold Vital Records of Rehoboth.)

5. Barnabas Allen, born at Rehoboth Apr. 28, 1741, married Amy

Charles Nelson Lake, 2nd m. Alice Cornelia Proctor, Oct. 21, 1894, at Milwaukee, Wis. She b Mar. 28, 1874, at New Sharon, Maine. He d. Apr. 5, 1928, at Grand Rapids, Mich., buried same. She d. May 20, 1953, at Zypher Hills, Fla. Buried at Grand Rapids, Mich.

The grandfather of Alice Cornelia Proctor had two brothers, one went to Cincinnati, Ohio, and joined with a man named Gamble in the soap and tallow business, which became Proctor & Gamble. (The "er" ending the name came about when P.&G. put on the first million dollar advertising campaign in this country and the ads came out spelled wrong, so instead of cutting all those ads back the family changed its name from Proctor to Procter.)

The other brother went into Vermont and founded the marble firm there, now centered in Proctorville, Vt. The Proctor cousin, of Alice Cornelia Proctor's generation, Redfield Proctor, U. S. Senator from Vermont, is credited with bringing on the Spanish-American War, by demanding the U. S. Government send troops to Cuba to protect his sugar properties there, which led to clashes which became a hot war.

The Proctor family came to the American Colonies in 1630. A direct ancestor was a John Proctor, who was hanged as a witch in Salem, Mass., in 1692. Mrs. John Proctor, being pregnant, was allowed to escape, and made her way to Rockport, Mass., where she built herself a home and settled there, which house is still standing and is still being used. It is called "The Witches House."

Minnie was but twelve years old when her mother died, so she never knew much of the love and care of a mother. Early as a young woman she went to work in the Rockford watch factory. Later she was appointed as a Deputy Clerk in the Circuit Court, which position she still held when married. They were double cousins. For record of her later life, see under her husband's name.

CHAPTER XV

SOPHIA MATILDA TAFT-LAKE

He of JOHN JACOB LAKE and SARAH STOVER-LAKE.
She of IRA TAFT, a descendant of the original ROBERT TAFT, who died in 1725, leaving five sons.

VALENTINE AMEY LAKE

V. Valentine Amey Lake, b. Feb. 9, 1824, near Kingston, Canada West, m. Sophia Matilda Taft, Oct. 25, 1850, at Clinton, Wis., by J. R. Marshall, J.P. She b. Feb. 26, 1827, at Kingsville, Ohio. He d. Aug. 6, 1878, at Rockton, Ill. Buried same. She d. Dec. 11, 1908, at Bassett, Nebr. Buried same.

Valentine Amey, Amey being a family name, united with the Taft family, so again two families of great age united. V. Lake came with his parents to southern Wisconsin in 1836, and to Winnebago Co., Ill., in 1842. He farmed for some years after his marriage, then entered the lumber and grain and coal business at Rockton. He also had a large grain elevator for grain storage. During his years at Rockton he held various Township offices, all with distinction and honor. He was greatly respected by the people of Rockton, where he died at the early age of but 54 years, and where he was buried.

Sophia Matilda Taft was the daughter of Ira Taft. She had come with her parents to Winnebago Co., Ill., in 1836, from Kingsville, Ohio. She was of the same family as that of William Howard Taft, through her father Ira Taft, of Ohio. After the death of Valentine A. Lake she married one James Morse, Mar. 10, 1890. She was converted as a young girl at Ashtabula, Ohio, and was a member of the Methodist Church through her lifetime.

Issue, 1st m.: 1. Joel Benson Lake, b. 1852, on a farm in Owen Twp., Winnebago Co., Ill., m. Mrs. Evaline Gebbard, Aug. 27, 1880, at Beloit, Wis. A twin. Joel Lake and his wife came to a farm in Woodbury County, Iowa, soon after their marriage, and settled upon a farm near Battle Creek, Iowa, in 1880. She was a widow when Joel married her. She returned to Rockton for the birth of her child.

Issue: (1) Roy Phillips Lake, b. May 6, 1882, at Rockton, Ill.

He married but do not know the name of his wife. They had a daughter Dorothy Eveline Lake, b. Nov. 7, 1912. Roy was in the wholesale drug business in New York City, where he died and is buried. We have no further information about his family.

Evaline Gebhard-Lake did not like the Iowa country, so left Joel and returned to Rockton, Ill., and refused to return to her home in Iowa. They were divorced at Sioux City, in Woodbury Co., Iowa, on the grounds of desertion, on Aug. 29, 1893. An agreed settlement was made in which Joel Lake agreed to and did pay to the Clerk of Courts, for her, the sum of $700.00 for the raising of their son. This sum was deposited with the Clerk of Courts at Sioux City on Aug. 16, 1891, although the divorce was not entered until Aug. 16, 1892, as shown on Court file 10562.

Evaline Gebbard-Lake lived at Rockford, Ill., until her death. Roy's wife and daughter came to her funeral, at Rockford, where she is buried in Greenwood Cemetery.

3. Frank Willis Lake, b. July 23, 1863, at Rockton, Ill., m. Nellie A. Taft, Nov. 16, 1880, at Ida Grove, Iowa. She b. Aug. 1863 in Winnebago, Ill.

She a daughter of Ira Taft, a brother of Sophia Matilda Taft-Lake, wife of Valentine Amey Lake. Frank and Joel seem to have come to Woodbury Co., early in 1880 and settled upon land near Battle Creek, Iowa. Then Joel went back to Rockton, Ill., to marry Eveline Gebhart, Aug. 27, 1880, while Frank married Nellie A. Taft, at Ida Grove, Iowa, Nov. 16, 1880.

It would seem, although we have no direct proof, that Ira Taft had moved from Winnebago Co., Ill., early in 1880, and was the reason for the coming of the Lake brothers to that locality. The writer had all this data from Joel Lake personally, but lost it when his car was robbed in 1946 at Berkeley, Calif. Frank Lake seems to have courted Nellie Taft before they came to Ida County. These families were all seeking more and cheaper land, so migrated farther west. Later we find Frank Lake at Bassett, Neb., probably for the same reason. We are not sure that he owned land in Woodbury Co., Iowa.

Issue: (1) Frank Willis Lake, Jr., b. Feb. 27, 1882, at Battle Creek, Iowa. No further record of this person.

Frank Willis Lake divorced Nellie A. Taft-Lake in 1886, at Ainsworth, Neb. He 2nd m. Mrs. Ida J. Sumter-Lake, divorced wife of Charles Wilbur Lake, his brother, on Dec. 4, 1907, at Sioux City, Iowa. She b. July 31, 1868, at Humboldt, Neb. She d. Feb. 16, 1941, at Bassett, Neb.

(B) Jerry Douglas Peck, b. June 2, 1935, at Wyoming, Iowa. Entered the service, sailed for Korea, June 29, 1954.

Arthur Harold Peck became assistant band leader while in High School. Enlisted in the Army, and was in an Army band, stationed at Washington, D.C., for a number of years. Both sons were graduated from the Bronson High School, at Wyoming.

Will Peck had come to Wisconsin in the middle 1840's. Then later to northern Illinois. There he became acquainted with Rachel Lake, daughter of John Jacob Lake, who had come to Wisconsin, then later to Illinois as a small girl. It was from her the writer learned much about the Lake Family History, in Canada, as she lived neighbor to his family at Wyoming, Iowa, in her later life. They were married in Oct. 1851, and Will Peck farmed for a year or two, still in Illinois. Then he became uneasy and wanted to go to the Iowa country as many were then doing, and as Iowa was opening up to settlement.

Rachel did not want to go. There was much talk of Indian troubles, as well as trouble with miners in eastern Iowa at Dubuque. She was supported in this by her mother, who did not want Rachel to go so far from home, forgetting her own experience in coming into the States, and into a new country.

So Rachel declared she would not go to Iowa, so there. But without much argument, Will just packed up their belongings, ready to start for the river crossing at Dubuque, by ferry. When the goods were nearly all loaded and she saw there was no place for her to ride, Rachel asked where was she to ride? "Oh," he said, "I thought you were not going along." Rachel stamped her foot and said, "Will Peck, you make a place for me right now. I AM going, so there." So a place was made for her to ride on the load, and there was no further discussion as to her going along. This was 1854.

Crossing the Mississippi river on the ferry at Dubuque, they made their way to a settlement at Frozen Hill, in Jones County, Iowa, and there Will Peck farmed and there some of their children were born. This was near a settlement called Canton, Iowa, on the Maquoketa river, whose people had come, largely from Kentucky and Tennessee, down the Ohio, or the Tennessee, then up the Mississippi, to the Maquoketa, thence to Canton.

When war clouds hung low and war threatened, there was great discussion in the community as to who was right and who wrong. It was true that none of the people who had come into eastern Iowa had brought slaves with them. Indeed many had come to get away from slavery.

As the call came for volunteers, Will Peck volunteered with others at Canton on Aug. 13, 1862, was mustered into the service as 4th Sergeant, Co. F, 31st Inft. Iowa Vols. Was promoted to 2nd Sgt. July 1, 1864. Mustered out at Louisville, Ky., June 27, 1865.

While Will Peck was in the army, Rachel lived on their farm at Frozen Hill, making out, with help of her neighbors as best she could. To this farm Will Peck returned at the close of the war, and here they continued to live until the fall of 1873, when Rachel's nephew, Dennis L. McMillan came for a visit on his way west, looking for a location for a meat market.

In the fall of 1874, after the crops were harvested, the family moved in to Wyoming, Iowa, where Will Peck entered into a partnership with his wife's nephew, Dennis L. McMillan. This partnership was of but a short duration, but they continued to live in Wyoming the rest of their lives, and there they lie buried in the cemetery on the hill. After dissolving his partnership with McMillan, Will Peck entered into a partnership with a man named Shibley, in a meat market, which continued for a time only.

Three of their children died early in life and are buried at Wyoming. Later, as he grew into manhood, Arthur worked in various stores as clerk, then had his own store for many years, later closed it out and then was with the Fishwild store until his death in the State Hospital at Iowa City.

Here he married Mae Johnson, and had a son, William Henry Peck. Here he was Secretary of the Cemetery Association, Town Clerk, and held other positions of responsibility. They were members of the Presbyterian Church.

VIII. John Jacob Lake, Jr., b. Feb. 9, 1832, at Ernestown, Lennox and Addington Co., Canada West, m. Marian Jenks, Oct. 23, 1864, at Rockford, Ill. She b. in Boone Co., Ill. They had no children and were divorced in 1876. He 2nd m. Rachel Lockwood, a widow, at Trenton, Ont. She a daughter of Joseph and Hannah Lockwood. They were cousins, but do not know of what degree. She had been twice married before marrying John Lake.

John Jacob Lake, Jr. continued to farm after his return from the army, part time in Kane and part time in Winnebago Co., Ill. After his divorce he returned to Ernestown, Ont., and finally settled at Trenton, Ont., where he married, lived and died in the fall of 1903. Rachel Lockwood-Lake continued living at Trenton until her death in 1909. Both are buried at Trenton, Ont.

His war record follows: "State of Illinois, Military and Naval Department, Springfield. (The report in part as dealing with war service.) Feb. 20, 1947. Subject: Statement of Service—Civil War.

"John Lake enlisted Sept. 11, 1861 at Dundee, Illinois, for service in the Civil War; assigned to duty as Private, Company I, 52nd Infantry, for a term of three years. Mustered into service October 25, 1861 at Geneva, Illinois. Mustered out 11-2-64 at Springfield, Ill.

"Description at time of his enlistment was: Age, 28 years; Height, 5 feet 10 inches; Hair, light; Eyes, blue; Complexion, light; Occupation, farmer; Residence, Dundee, Kane County, Illinois.

"For the Adjutant General: Maud H. Graham. War Record Section."

His company was hastily gathered for the purpose, first, of taking a large number of enemy prisoners south to Vicksburg, Mississippi, for exchange. John Lake was in this contingent. Many of the accompanying forces were enlisted but for three months, but John Lake was enlisted for three years.

His nephew, Lewis F. Lake, was with these forces as Drummer Boy, he being not yet sixteen years old. He often spoke of his association with his uncle on this trip to Vicksburg, as his uncle took great interest in him, knowing he was but a boy.

Later they were together again at the Battle of Atlanta, Ga., where Lew Lake was captured and sent to Andersonville Prison, at Andersonville, Ga. Lew had re-enlisted after his three months enlistment expired. Another uncle, Jabez Huntley was also at the Battle of Atlanta and was killed there, and buried on the battlefield there. Jabez Huntley was husband of Amy Lake, sister of John Jay Lake.

CHAPTER XVI

JAMES LAKE, of John Lake, Jr. and MARY ELIZABETH STORMS-LAKE. After the death of Mary Elizabeth Storms-Lake, JAMES LAKE 2nd married MARGARET BELL, daughter of John Bell, U.E. Loyalist.

4. JAMES LAKE, of John Lake, Jr., of John and Margaret Snider-Lake, U.E.L. He of Nicholas Lake, of New Jersey, of John Lake, Jr., of John Lake and Anne Spicer-Lake, of Gravesend, Long Island, New York.

4. James Lake, b. Mar. 5, 1793, at Ernest Town, Lennox and Addington Counties, Upper Canada. A son of John Lake, Jr., and Miss Van Voorheese. He d. Oct. 18, 1868, aged 75 years.

His marriage: "Bans of Marriages, between James Lake of St. Thomas's Ernestown, in the United Counties of Lennox and Addington; and Elizabeth Storms, of the Township and Counties aforesaid, were published of February 7th, 14th, and 21st, 1814, by me: John Langhorn, Episcopal Missionary.

"James Lake of Ernest Town, in the United Counties of Lennox and Addington, Upper Canada, Bachelor; and Elizabeth Storms, of the township and Counties aforsaid, Spinster, were married in this Church by Bans this eighteenth day of March, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and thirteen by me; John Langhorn, Missionary.

"This marriage was solemnized in the presence of us; Francis Latimore, Jasper Hogel, John Whitsink, James Storms.

"This Marriage was solemnized between us: James Lake, Elizabeth (her mark) Storms."

NOTE: The above from the Ontario Historical Society, Toronto, Ontario.

We do not have the date of the birth of Mary Elizabeth Storms. She died in 1821. After her death James Lake married Margaret Bell, she the daughter of John Bell, of Ernest Town. The Bell's were Loyalists, but did not go to Canada until about 1819. He was a Methodist, and a contractor and builder in Ernest Town, County of Lennox and Addington, Upper Canada.

James and Margaret were married in 1823. He d. Oct. 18, 1868. Margaret Bell-Lake d, in 1876.

James Lake had been a witness at the marriage of his brother

John Jacob Lake and Sarah Stover, July 29, 1810. His first wife was Mary Elizabeth Storms, but she signed the marriage record only as Elizabeth. This has caused some confusion in various records, as some give James' wife as Mary Storms, which is correct, but only in part. James and family were Methodists. He was a farmer and a builder as well.

The children of James Lake and Mary Elizabeth Storms were: (1) Charity, b. 1815, d. 1852. Spinster. (2) Sabra, b. 1817, m. Davis Hawley and settled at Napanee, Upper Canada. She d. 1868.

D. Amanda Hawley, d. Apr. 13, 1913, at Napanee, m. George Valleau, Nov. 16, 1866. He b. May 2, 1843.

Issue: (A) Nellie B. Vallieau, m. Daniel Cook, and had a. Iva Cook; (B) Gordon B. Vallieau; (C) Miles H. Vallieau; (D) Davis C. Vallieau; (E) Ida May Vallieau; (F) Myra Vallieau, m. Reginald Lucas and had Zetta Lucas, spinster, who lives at 333 Brock St., Kingston, Ontario, and (G) Mary Vallieau.

E. Davis Roblin Hawley; F. Cyrus Hawley; G. Sheldon F. Hawley; H. James P. Hawley; I. Joseph C. Hawley.

(3) Henry Lake, b. 1819, m. Jane Fisher, 1840. Settled first at Napanee, then at Cleveland, Ohio. He d. near Auburn, New York, in 1893. She b. at Picton, Upper Canada. She d. 1856. Their children were: John, Elida, Isaac, Jane.

Children of James Lake, by Margaret Bell, were: (4) Samuel Bell Lake, b. 1822, in Morven, Upper Canada, m. Rebecca Irish, in 1847. He d. in 1888, in Texas.

Their children: A. Byron Nelson Lake, m. and settled in Philadelphia, and had (A) Walter Byron Lake, who m. Blanch Royer and in turn had Walter Roger Lake and Roy Milton Lake.

B. Ada Lake, Spinster; C. Naomi Lake, m. and settled in Washington, D.C.; D. Matilda Lake, m. and settled in Philadelphia, Pa., and E. George Lake, m. and settled in Texas.

(5) William G. Lake, b. 1823, d. 1839. (6) James Lake, b. 1825 m. Amy Gordiner, 1846, and settled in Maribank, Upper Canada. He d. 1900.

mina Lake, m. Anson Rose and settled in Richmond, Canada West; D. John Franklin Lake, m. Mildred Irish, and E. Charles Lake.

(7) Silas N. Field Lake, b. 1828, m. Mary Moss, in 1849.

Issue: A. Emma Lake, m. Charles J. Garrison, settled in Trenton, Upper Canada; B. Margaret Lake, m. George Sexsmith, settled in Wallbridge, Upper Canada; C. Ada Lake, m. Borren E. Bell, settled in Trenton, Upper Canada; D. Alice Lake, m. W. D. Robinson, settled in Morven, Upper Canada. He a Methodist and a carriage builder in Morven.

This writer visited Mrs. Mary Moss-Lake at her home in Morven, vicinity, where he found her a very aged woman, but still alert and busy with her fancy work. She verified what he had heard about the founding of Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, as her husband was one of the founders and she had lived there with him.

(8) John Nielson Lake, b. Aug. 19, 1834, at Ernest Town, County of Lennox and Addington, Upper Canada, m. Emily Jane Douglas, June 9, 1859. She the daughter of Stephen Van Rensselaer Douglas, of Brantford, Upper Canada. Her mother the daughter of the Rev. Thomas Whitehead, who was born in Dutchess County, New York. For a further record of John Nielson Lake see The Genealogy of The Lake Family, by Dr. Arthur Adams and Sarah Risley, pp. 28-29, as follows in part:

"He received his education in the elementary and high schools of his birthplace and later studied architecture and drafting. For a time he was engaged with his two older brothers in the carriage business in Morven. In 1855 he entered the service of the Methodist Church as a Junior Preacher. For two years he served the Picton Circuit in Prince Edward County, an appointment with twenty-two preaching stations. In spite of the wish of his people for his reappointment, he was sent to Aylmer, and the following year to the town of Ingersol. In June, 1859, he was ordained, and was stationed at Hullsville (now Garnet), near the city of Hamilton.

"June 9, 1859, he married Emily Jane, youngest daughter of Stephen Van Rensselaer Douglas of Brantford; her mother was a daughter of the Rev. Thomas Whitehead, for fifty years a prominent minister in Canada, who was born in Dutchess County, N. Y., about 1760.

"In 1862, while stationed at Markham, near Ontario, the Rev. Mr. Lake's health failed, and for several years he was part of the time engaged in business pursuits. In 1869 he was stationed at Niagara; here his eyes failed, and regretfully he retired from the active ministry.

"In 1870 he entered the real estate and loan business in Toronto—

Mr. Lake also engaged in the building business, which he found very profitable. Many of the finest residences in the city were erected by him.

"In 1882 he selected the site for the town of Saskatoon on the Saskatchewan River, which owes its name to him. At the time, the site was 150 miles from the C.P.R.; but the event proved the wisdom of the selection, for now it has five railroads, and is a large prosperous city."

When John N. Lake was working with his engineers surveying the new city in the brush, they asked him, one evening as they returned from work, "What he was going to name the new city?" Reaching out his hand and gathering a handful of berries from a bush beside the trail and showing them to his associates, he said, "there is the name—'Saskatoon'"—for the berries held in his hand.

"Mr. Lake never faltered in his love and devotion for the Methodist Church, and the Church has delighted to honor him. He has been a delegate to every General Conference when in the country; for twenty-four years he has been Treasurer of the Union Church Relief Fund; he is a Trustee for the Bond Holders for the New Methodist Book Room in Toronto, the finest on the Continent; Chairman of the Building Commission of Victoria College; and the organizer of the 'Church and Parsonage Aid Fund' to which he has generously contributed."

We find no issue of his marriage.

8. Catherine Lake, b. 1807, at Ernest Town, m. Calvin Perry.

9. Ailse, or Elizabeth Lake, b. 1811, at Ernest Town, m. Jacob Comber, who d. October, 1840.

IV. James Lake, of John Lake, United Empire Loyalist, of Ernestown twp., Lennox and Addington Co., Canada West, of Nicholas Lake of Middlesex and Somerset counties, New Jersey, of John Lake, Jr., of John Lake and Ann Spicer, of Gravesend, Long Island, N. Y.

IV. James Lake, b. Aug. 6, 1760, in Ulster Co., New York, was taken by his parents to the five thousand acre grant, or patent, in Old Albany Co., N. Y., in 1761, at what became White Creek, New York, where he grew to manhood, helping in the development of the grant made to his father, John Lake, and his uncles, Nicholas Lake, Jr., James Lake (Jacobus), Thomas Lake and Aarent Van Courlaer.

James Lake married Margaret Hagerman-Lucas (Luckas), as it is written both ways, widow of Nathaniel Lucas, and daughter of Dennis Hagerman, (or Hageman) as it was sometimes written. His will was probated in Washington Co., New York, in July 1813, in which he mentions his daughter, Margaret Lake.

When James Lake married Margaret Hagerman-Lucas, widow of Nathaniel Lucas, she had three children; they were, a daughter, Susanna Lucas, b. Sept. 24, (we do not know the year). We have no further record of her. Dennis Lucas, b. Feb. 6, 1781, at White Creek, New York, and a second daughter, Altje, b. 1776, also in New York. She was bp. in the Dutch Reformed Church, Aug. 7, 1778, but died soon afterwards.

When his nephew, George Lake, of Utah visited him in the early spring of 1871, he found him hiving a swarm of bees, and he seemed in good health. He was buried in the Presbyterian cemetery, by the side of his wives, at Ernestown, Ontario.

When the American Revolution came, James Lake, like his father, John Lake, and his brothers, gave their support to the British cause, was dispossessed, burned out, and so lost all in the colonies and made his way to Canada West, at Ernestown twp., Lennox and Addington Counties, as shown by his petitions for land, as recorded in the Canadian Archives at Ottawa, copies of which have been furnished this writer. They are as follows:

"James Lake and actual settler and U.E. Loyalist, has drawn no lands and prays that lands may be assigned him for self wife and three children, viz: John, Jane and James. (Signed) James Lake." Kingston 3 October 1797.

"I do hereby certify that the petitioner James Lake has a wife and three children and that the three children were born before the year 1789. Kingston 3 Oct. 1797. Robert Clark, C.P."

"The petition of James Lake of Ernest Town sheweth that he joined the Royal Standard in General Burgoyne's Army in the year seventy seven and enlisted as a private soldier in Colonel Peter's Corps and was taken prisoner the same year and remained a prisoner till peace in eighty three and removed to this province in the year ninety three and remained here ever since and has only received 200 acres of land from the Crown etc. . . .

24 January 1809.

(Signed) James Lake."

James Lake d. Aug. 1839, at Odessa, Ont. Buried at Morven cemetery. He was a Methodist, a farmer and contractor-builder, at Ernest Town, Ontario. Margaret Lucas-Lake d. Mar. 23, 1833, at Odessa, Ont. (according to their Family Bible). Presumably buried beside him in Morven cemetery, near Napanee.

Their issue: 1. John Lake ,b. 1782, died young. 2. Benjamine Lake, b. 1784, at White Creek, New York. Died young. 3. Jane Lake, b. 1786, at White Creek, New York. Married Benjamine Lake, a son of John Lake, Jr., on Feb. 17, 1805.

See her petition for land and record of her family under Benjamine Lake, of John Lake, Jr., p. 255.

4. James Lake, Jr., b. Oct. 7, 1788, at White Creek, Albany Co., N. Y., he m. 1st, Mary Lake, daughter of John Lake, Sr., U.E. Loyalist, and his aunt, about 1796, as their first child, George, was b. 1797, at Ernestown, Upper Canada. She d. Apr. 11, 1815 at Ernestown, Upper Canada.

Mary Lake petitioned for Crown lands as follows:

"The petition of Mary Lake, wife of James Lake (Jr.) of the township of Ernestown sheweth that your petitioner is the daughter of John Lake Sen'r of the township of Ernestown, U.E. Loyalist that she has never received any land etc. Mary Lake."

1. The children of James Lake, Jr., and Mary Lake, his first wife, were: (1) George Lake, b. 1797, at Ernestown, Ont., died at eleven years. (2) Dennis Lake, b. Oct. 30, 1799, at Ernestown, Ont.

Dennis, with his father and two brothers, joined the Mormon Church under leadership of Brigham Young, and became an Elder in Zions Camp. They went to Kirtland, Ohio, helped gather and haul material for the first Mormon Temple at Kirtland. When the Saints were expelled from Kirtland, he went with the family to Kane Co., Illinois, where they rented land and worked to enable them to gather with the Saints at Nauvoo, Ill. Later, however, he withdrew from the Mormon Church and returned to Ontario. There he married Mary A. Stover, on May 2, 1817, who died after a lingering illness in April 1820. We do not know how many children they had, but the first two died young.

A newspaper item states, as follows: "Elizabeth Lake, daughter of Dennis Lake, of Twp. of Portland, a very wealthy and influential farmer, was married June 23, 1861, to Dr. Thomas W. Duperis, M.D. F.R. E.C.—M.R. C.E. England." We do not have her birth date. They were said to have had five children. We have nothing further.

A Charles Lake, son of Dennis and Mary, d. in 1904.

Rupert Lake became an M.D. Graduated from Rush Medical College in Chicago, Ill. He practiced in St. Louis, Mo. During the World Fair in St. Louis, he advertised that he could cure cancer by the use of radium. He was notified to appear before the Medical Society of St. Louis. Rather than do this he gathered together what he could and went to Europe. He married a widow. Do not know her name, nor the date of their marriage. They had a family, of whom we know only that their youngest son was named Arthur Lake.

After leaving the Mormon Church, Dennis Lake united with and raised his family in the Methodist Church. Two sons were trained for the Methodist Ministry, but we know nothing further of them.

Samantha Lake, another daughter of Dennis Lake, married Dec. 18, 1853, to Thomas Empey, of Ernestown, Ont. She of Portland Typ. He was an Innkeeper at Odessa, Ont. She d. Feb. 10, 1862.

(3) Cyrus Lake, b. 1801, at Ernestown, Upper Canada. He went with his father and brothers to Kirtland, Ohio, helped gather material and helped to build the first Mormon temple there. He too became an Elder in the church. But when the Mormons were driven from Kirtland, he left the church, returned to Ontario. We find no record of his marriage or of any family he may have had.

(4) Margaret Mary Lake, b. about 1802, at Ernestown, Upper Canada. She m. Nathan Fellows, Aug. 6, 1812. He of Ernestown, Ont. Witnesses were James, John, Benjamine, Lake and James Hicks. Her petition for land follows:

"To his Honor Samuel Smith Esquire administrator of the Government of the province of Upper Canada, In Council

The petition of Mary Fellows of the Township of Ernest Town Humbly sheweth That your petitioner is the daughter of James Lake of the Township of Ernestown a U.E. Loyalist, That your petitioner is married to Nathan Fellows and has never received any lands or order for lands from the Crown your petitioner therefore prays that your Honor will be pleased to grant her two hundred acres of the waste lands of the Crown and permit Isaac Frazer, Esq., to locate the same and take out the deed when completed

And your Petitioner as in duty bound will ever pray &

Marg. (her mark) Fellows."

"Petition (Fll No. 49) of Mary Fellows, Rec'd 12 Feb'y 1818 from Mr. Frazer. John Baikie, Con. Clerk.

Read in Council 27 Feb'y 1818. Granted."

We have no knowledge of any family Margaret Mary Lake and Nathan Fellows may have had. She d. May 28, 1857, aged 68 years, 4 months, 15 days. Nathan Fellows d. June 5, 1858, aged 70 years, 8 months.

Mary Lake, daughter of John Lake and Margaret Snider, and wife of James Lake, Jr., d. Apr. 11, 1815, at ErnesTown Twp., Ont.

James Lake, Jr., 2nd m. Elizabeth Stover, Aug. 15, 1815, at ErnesTown Twp. She a sister of Sarah Stover, who had married John Jacob Lake, and she, with her brother Laurence Stover and James Lake, now her husband, were witnesses at her sister's wedding.

James Lake and Elizabeth Stover were married Aug. 15, 1815, at Ernestown. Their children were:

(5) Julia Lake, b. 1817. Never married.

(6) Lawrence Lake, b. 1819, at Ernestown Twp., Lennox and Addington Co., Upper Canada. Lawrence went to Kirtland, Ohio, and helped gather material and built the first Mormon temple there. When the Mormons were driven out of Ohio he followed to Illinois and again helped with building the second Temple, at Nauvoo, Ill. He married, but we have not learned where or who his wife was. He left the Mormon Church through the influence of his wife, and his half-brother, George Lake wrote that he soon after died in Illinois, leaving his family among strangers.

(7) James M. Lake, III, b. 1821. Never married.

It was during this period that James Lake, Jr., had the misfortune to get cut in the leg by an axe, and gangrene set in and the leg had to be amputated, without benefit of anesthetic. They just filled him with whiskey and cut the leg off. The family was desperately poor. Then when Elizabeth died in 1822 she left her husband not only crippled, desperately poor, but also with a family of six living children. George had died at eleven years.

James gave two of his children to his sister, Margaret Madson, to raise; they were Julia (5) and James (7). These children were later adopted by Margaret and her husband. Neither of them ever married. Margaret and her husband had no children. He had died before 1871, but Margaret and James' two children—now grown to maturity—were still living with her in 1871. Lawrence stayed with his father and later accompanied him to Kirtland, Ohio, and there helped to build the first Mormon Temple of the Latter Day Saints. Later he left the Mormon Church.

James, with his family, were living at this time at Camden, Upper Canada, on land granted him from the Crown Lands. There in 1825, Brigham Young helped him build them a log house, according to his son, George Lake, who visited the old house in 1871. His father had cleared this land, and it was here that he received the axe cut injury to his leg.

It was probably through Brigham Young that he met Philomelia Smith, a widow, who had a family of five children. They were married Sept. 3, 1823.

James Lake, 3rd m. Philomelia Smith, widow of Ira Smith, a first cousin, who had died leaving her with a family of five children. She was b. Apr. 13, 1794, at Brookfield, Vermont, the daughter of Parker Smith and Sarah Loomis. Philomelia Smith-Lake d. Mar. 20, 1873, at Oxford, Idaho, aged 79 years. Buried same.

When she married James Lake, Jr., Philomelia Smith had five children. They were: Lyman, James Harvey, Elizabeth Boardman, Josiah William, and Esther. Not all of these children embraced the Mormon religion. We have no further record of her family.

Philomelia Smith had been early left an orphan. She had been reared and trained by her grandmother, Sarah Huntington Loomis. At eighteen years she had married her first cousin Ira Smith, and was widowed, with her five children as above. Ira Smith died at thirty-five years. She had these five children, while James Lake, Jr., had six still living, when they were married. This merging two families gave them eleven children. Those of James Lake Jr., and Philomelia Smith-Lake, were: six of hers and eight of his, (8) Sabra Lake, b. July 17, 1824, at Ernestown, m. William Welkinson Dixon, Aug. 16, 1842, in Hancock Co., Ill. Their children were: i. Henry, b. June 1, 1843, m. Amelia Garner; ii. Harvey, b. Sept. 12, 1844, m. Katherine W. Pritchett; iii. Mary, m. Cyrus Rawson; iv. Electa, m. Lyman Skeen; v. Sarah Ellen, m. Charles Brown; vi. Riley; vii. Alfred, m. Miss Harris. This is all we know of the fifteen children of Sabra Lake-Dixon. She d. July 2, 1908.

Other children of James Lake, Jr., and Philomelia Smith-Lake were: (9) William Bailey Lake, b. Feb. 16, 1826, at Ernestown, m. 1st, Sarah Jane Marlbor, m. 2nd Louis Ann Garner. He d. Mar. 31, 1858. (10) Barnabas Lake, b. June 3, 1827, at Ernestown, m. 1st Electa Snyder, m. 2nd Lucy Herrick. He d. June 18, 1893. (11) Clarrissa Lake, b. Dec. 17, 1828, m. Pleasant Green Taylor. She d. June 15, 1901. (12) Jane Lake, b. July 18, 1830, at Ernestown, m. 1st Stephen Ordway, 2nd Joseph Taylor. She d. Feb. 11, 1914. (13) Lydia Ann Lake, b. May 9, 1832, at Camden, Ont., m. Price W. Nelson. She d. Mar. 17, 1922. (14) Maroni Lake, b. Apr. 8, 1834, at Kirtland, Ohio, d. as a child. (15) Samantha Lake, b. May 26, 1835, at Kirtland, Ohio, m. Noah Brimhall. She d. Mar. 6, 1878. (16) George Lake, b. Sept. 15, 1838, at Geneva, Kane Co., Ill., m. 1st Louise Ann Garner, 2nd Mary Edda Foster, 3rd Sarah Jane Hill. He d. Mar. 23, 1898. (17) Sarah Amanda Lake, b. June 6, 1841, at Geneva, Kane Co., Ill. She d. as a child, June 26, 1843.

When they were married James Lake and Philomelia Smith-Lake were living at Camden, Ont., to the north of Ernestown. There they were visited by Latter Day Saint Elders, Brigham, Hiram and Phineas Young, in 1832. They accepted the teaching of the Mormon Church, were baptized by Elder Eleazer Miller. From this place a company of Saints were led by Brigham Young in 1833, and with this company James Lake, Jr., and his family came to Kirtland, Ohio.

James Lake Jr. and his sons assisted in gathering material for, and in building the first Latter Day Saints Temple at Kirtland, Ohio. Later, when the Saints were forced to leave Kirtland, he with his family went to Kane Co., Ill. Here at Geneva, in Kane Co., Ill., the two youngest children were born. Here they rented land and farmed to obtain money with which to continue with the Saints. Later they came to Nauvoo, Ill., where again they helped to build a Temple, and to build and beautify the city. But when the Mormons were again forced to flee, with many others they crossed the Mississippi River on the ice in winter and so made their way to Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Here James Lake, Jr. was appointed as a bishop of a ward to look after the wants of the widows and fatherless. It was here that he made what he called an Armstrong Mill. He split a log in two, gouged out a hole in each part, then bound the two halves together, bored a hole into the excavation he had made, and pouring in corn, with a pestle, i.e. a club, pounded the corn into meal, so it could be cooked.

The boys would scurry about over the corn fields, so gathering nubbins and any ears that had been dropped or left in harvesting the corn. They spent a terrible winter there.

Not being prepared for the long journey across the plains, in the spring of 1847, the family moved south into Holt County, Missouri, where they rented land and farmed. There was plenty of help, so they worked hard and prospered, and so gathered crops as well as stock.

While at Council Bluffs Barnabas had been called to join the Mormon Battalion, which was sent to put down an uprising of Mexicans in Southern California. He returned in the fall of 1847, on foot, nearly worn out physically. But food and care soon restored his strength, so he was able to help with the farming.

When in the spring of 1850 James Lake determined to take his family to Utah, they returned to Florence, Neb., across the river from Council Bluffs, where a large group were making ready for the journey across the plains. At this time they had forty cows and loose stock. Over a hundred sheep, six yoke of oxen, three brood mares and two good wagons, well loaded with supplies.

Here at Florence the gathered families were placed in groups of fifty, each group having a leader. James Lake was appointed leader of fifty. Early in 1850 this caravan started for Utah. In his diary, George Lake says nothing of interest occurred until their arrival at the Platt River. Here cholera broke out in the camp. Sabra Lake-Dixon was attacked, but through faith and prompt attention was healed. (This is the first intimation that she and her family were in the caravan, on their way to Utah.)

Barnabas had married a widow, Mrs. Electa Snider, who contracted the disease and died. During this journey across the plains, Jane Lake married Stephen Ordway who died the following April. Some months after the father's death, Jane gave birth to a son who was killed by a rolling log when twenty years of age.

James Lake and family arrived at Salt Lake City Oct. 7, 1850, after long months of grueling travel. Later at the suggestion of Brigham Young, he moved on to Ogden Fort, "where was little but sage brush and nude Indians." He located a farm and moved thereon. This was later called Harrisville. At the organization of the Weber Stake, James Lake was called to be a member of the Stake High Council, in Feb. 1851. At the fall conference of 1855 he was set apart to the office of Patriarch, and soon began to officiate in this high calling.

They later removed to Oxford, Idaho, where James Lake and Philomelia Smith-Lake spent the rest of their lives. She died Mar. 20, 1873, and he died Oct. 7, 1874, in his 85th year. Both are buried at Oxford, Idaho.

"James Lake and his wife were highly esteemed by the authorities of the Church, and the love and reverence of their posterity toward them was akin to adoration."

(9) William Baily Lake, b. Feb. 16, 1826, at Ernestown, Ont., m. Sarah Jane Marler, Dec. 26, 1850, at Pleasant Grove, Utah. He d. Mar. 28, 1858, at Bannock Creek, Idaho. Buried at North Ogden. She b. Nov. 12, 1834, at Portsmouth, Claibourne, Mississippi. She the daughter of Allen and Harriett Heath-Marler.

Their children were: i. Mary Lake, m. Joseph Allen Taylor; ii.

Philomelia Lake, m. Andrew Taylor; iii. Sarah Lake, m. Joseph ?; iv. William Baily Lake, Jr., m. Ida Bingham.

"With his parents he came, at 7 years of age, to Kirtland, Ohio, and so passed through the experiences endured by his parents and the other Saints, in those early days of their movement, there at Nauvoo, Ill. He endured the privations of the long trip across the plains and mountains, with their people. Some time after reaching the valley he m. Sarah Jane Marler. "He belonged to many organizations of the Priesthood, and was a member of the 38th quorum of seventy. In 1856 he and his friend, Pleasant Green Taylor were called to go among the Indians on Salmon River, where a mission had been established under direction of Pres. Brigham Young. They had been in the mission about two years when trouble arose with the Indians, and the lives of many men and women and children being in danger (two of the brethren having already been killed) Baily Lake was sent with nine others of the brethren to bring the news to Brigham Young."

"These brethren were overtaken by the Indians on Bannock Creek, Mar. 31, 1858; several of the brethren were wounded, but Baily Lake was the only one left asleep in death upon the glittering snow. Several days passed before the main company of the returning refugees found his lifeless form almost beyond recognition, but for his friend, Pleasant Green Taylor, who drew the arrows from his body and placed him in a bed of snow and took him home to his wife and four children and aged parents."

This from The History of The Mormon People.

William Baily Lake seems also to have married Louise Ann Garner, but do not know if she bore him any issue.

"While William Baily Lake was being buried in North Ogden Cemetery, General Johnson's Army was coming into Utah.

His widow, Sarah Jane Marlor-Lake, with her four children, moved down south to Provo, Utah, a place where the people went for refuge, and where they cared for each other.

On June 20, 1858, a day of Church Conference meetings, Brigham Young called Pleasant Green Taylor to him (Pleasant Green Taylor had first married Clara Lake, sister of William Baily Lake, then two sisters, Mary and Jane Shurtliff), and asked how Baily Lake's widow was doing. Brigham Young had known the family well, had known them in Canada.

Pleasant Green Taylor said that Sarah Jane Lake's brothers were helping her. Brigham Young told Pleasant Green Taylor to go get his first wife, Clara, get her consent, then go get Sarah Jane, bring them to his office at noon, and then marry her. This he did. She had wealth, for those days, as her mother was well to do. Sarah Jane's property put Green Taylor on his feet, as it were, so to speak."

wattamie Co., Iowa. He b. Feb. 8, 1827, at Bowling Green, Kentucky. She d. June 15, 1900, at Harrisville Farr West, Utah. He d. May 16, 1917, at Harrisville, Utah.

Pleasant Green Taylor also married, as plural wives, Mary E. Shurtleff, her sister Jane Shurtleff, and Sarah Jane Marler-Lake, widow of William Baily Lake. See the order of Brigham Young, as to these plural marriages, under William Baily Lake, page 375. William Baily Lake was an older brother of Clarrissa Lake-Taylor.

We are here concerned only with the issue of Clarrissa Lake, and Pleasant Green Taylor. When the Manifesto of 1890 was promulgated by the United States, doing away with polygamy, Pleasant Green Taylor and some of his wives went with him, first to Arizona, then to Mexico, as the Federal Marshall were seeking him to put him under arrest, for polygamous practices. But neither Clarrissa, nor her sister-in-law, and plural wife, Sarah Jane Marler-Lake, widow of William Baily Lake, would go south with him. However, he frequently visited them at Farr West, Utah (or Harrisville, Utah, as it came to be called). The children of Clarissa Lake and Pleasant Green Taylor were:

CHAPTER XIX

GEORGE LAKE,

of JAMES LAKE and PHILOMELIA SMITH-LAKE and MRS. LOUISE ANN GARNER-LAKE, Widow of WILLIAM BAILY LAKE.

His second wife, SARAH JANE HILL, daughter of RICHARD HILL,

GEORGE LAKE

George Lake, of James Lake, Jr., of James Lake, of John Lake, United Empire Loyalist, of Ernes Town, Canada West. Now Ontario.

The experiences of George Lake, as touching his relations with the Military, and opposition to the United States Army Forces, is related in his diary. This diary apparently written in his old age and evidently from memory, is not accurate as to dates and some other items. It is not a day by day account of his life and daily doings.

It has not seemed advisable to reproduce this diary in this work, but copies have been made, bound and deposited with the Mormon Genealogical Library at Salt Lake City, and in the Genealogical Library at Los Angeles, where they may be consulted.

The data and information here given, is that secured from public records and records kept by members of his family. His plural marriages are given without comment, but with candor. His record follows.

16. George Lake, b. Sept. 15, 1836, at Geneva, Kane Co., Illinois. He m. 1st Louise Ann Garner-Lake, May 13, 1860, at Salt Lake City, Utah. She a widow of his dead brother, William Baily Lake. She a daughter of David and Dolly Duffy-Garner. She b. July 12, 1843, in Hancock Co., Illinois. He d. Mar. 23, 1898, at Colonia Dublan, Chichuah, Mexico. She d. June 19, 1930.

This is the first intimation we have that William Baily Lake had three wives. His first wife, Sarah Ann Marlor-Lake, was married to Pleasant Green Taylor. We know nothing of a third wife of William Baily Lake.

When George Lake was forced to flee Utah, by U. S. Marshalls, who sought him as a polygamist, and finally to Mexico, Louise Ann Garner-Lake did not go with him, but remained at Oxford, Idaho, where he visited her as occasion permitted. There at Oxford their sixth, seventh and eighth children were born.

The issue of George Lake and Louise Ann Garner, were, as he gives the list, in his diary:

1. Olive Ann Lake, b. May 13, 1861, at Harrisville, Utah, m. Henry Henderson.

2. James Baily Lake, b. Oct. 18, 1862, d. Jan. 20, 1863, at Harrisville, Utah.

3. Ermina Jane Lake, b. Jan. 31, 1864, d. Mar. 5, 1865, at Harrisville, Utah.

4. Chancey William Lake, b. Apr. 17, 1865, at Harrisville, Utah, m. Mary Ann Boice.

5. David Edmond Lake, b. May 17, 1867, at Harrisville, Utah, m. Aurelia Rice.

6. Rachel Louise Lake, b. Mar. 25, 1869, d. Sept. 8, 1886, at Oxford, Idaho.

7. George Ephriam Lake, b. July 18, 1872, d. Jan. 1873, at Oxford, Idaho.

8. Hyrum Lake, b. Sept. 15, 1873, at Oxford, Idaho. 1st m. Sarah Elizabeth Phillips, Dec. 21, 1895. She died. 2nd m. Mrs. Eunice Claussen-Precce, July 11, 1944. Live at Morgan, Utah.

The above is all we have been able to gather about the first family of George Lake. However, when he married other wives and went south, Louise Ann Garner-Lake did not go with him, but stayed at Oxford, Idaho, according to Lawrence B. Lake, of El Segundo, Calif.

Quoting from his diary, George Lake, says: "In the fall of 1861, I received an invitation from President Young to come to Salt Lake and receive my endowments, which I accepted, and had my wife Louise sealed to my brother—her first husband, and acted as proxy.

"This over, Pres. Young called to me. I went to him as he sat on a lounge. He saw my condition, that I had no wife that I could call my own after this life. Hence he sought to comfort me. He said, 'You have done your duty, my boy, and your reward shall be greater than though this woman were your own wife. Go to now, and in two weeks be here with two more for yourself.' ”

“I pleaded for a little more time as I wished to make a wise choice, so as not to have to trouble him for a divorce. This he thought to be a good plan, but said not to delay.

“Hence on the 4th of October, 1862, I took to wife, Sarah Jane, daughter of Richard Hill, and Rhoda Wheeler, b. in Dade Co., Missouri, Feb. 16, 1844, baptized by George W. Hill in 1853. The marriage ceremony was performed by Pres. Daniel H. Wells. Pres. Young took me by the hand and said, ‘Well done George, go on doing well.’ This was in the presence and at the insistence of President Brigham Young. She bore him thirteen children. She died Dec. 30, 1916, at Noonan, Idaho. Their children were:

(16) Sarah Amanda Lake, b. 1841, d. June 26, 1843, at Geneva, Kane Co., Ill., of James Lake and Philomelia Smith-Lake.

V. Margaret Lake, of James Sr., of John and Margaret Snider-

Lake. She b. 1781, at Little White Creek, in what became Washington Co., New York.

She came with her parents to the vicinity of Ernest Town, Upper Canada, in 1793, and settled near her parents, where her father, James Lake, petitioned for Crown Lands, first on the third of October, 1797, and again on Jan. 24, 1809.

Margaret Lake married William Madson, but never bore him any children. We do not find the date of her marriage, nor that of her death, although she was still living in 1871, when her half-brother, George Lake, visited her near Ernest Town, Ontario. Her husband was then dead, but two adopted children of her brother, James Lake and Elizabeth Stover-Lake, James and Julia, who had been adopted by Margaret and William Madson, were still living with Margaret, and were still unmarried. George Lake says they were "revelling in wealth" when he visited them in 1871. But this may have been merely his opinion.

Margaret Lake-Madson petitioned for Crown Lands as late as Feb. 12, 1818, as the daughter of James Lake, Sr., a U.E. Loyalist, but we have not learned the location of her grant of land.

VI. Mary Margaret Lake, of James Sr., of John and Margaret Snider-Lake, was born in 1793. We cannot be sure where she was born, whether before her parents started for Canada, or after their arrival. In his petition for Crown Lands, James Lake stated that he came to "this Province in 1793 (and asked for lands for himself, wife and three children, namely John, James and Jane. This was on the third of October, 1797. His wife's name is not mentioned, nor is that of their son, Benjamine, who presumably died young. Nor is the name of their younger children. Only those for whom he desired land.

Mary Margaret Lake—called Polly, m. Nathan Fellows, on Aug. 6, 1812, with James, John and Benjamine Lake, uncles, and James Hicks, as witnesses. This according to the marriage records.

Mary Margaret Lake-Fellows petitioned for Crown lands as follows:

"To his Honor Samuel Smith, Esquire, administrator of the Government of the province of Upper Canada and

In Council, The petition of Mary Fellows of the Township of Ernest Town Humbly sheweth That your petitioner is the daughter of James Lake of the Township of Ernestown a U.E. Loyalist, That your petitioner is married to Nathan Fellows and has never received any lands or order for lands from the Crown, your petitioner therefore prays that your Honor will be pleased to grant her two hundred acres of the waste lands of the Crown and permit

Isaac Frazer, Esq., to locate the same and take out the deed when completed.

And your Petitioner as in duty bound will ever pray and

Mary (her mark) Fellows

Petition (F,11,No.49) of Mary Fellows. Rec'd 12-Feb'y, 1818 from Mr. Frazer. John Beikie, Con. Clerk. Read in Council 27 Feb'y, 1818. Granted."

XI. Moses Lake, b. Oct. 12, 1828, d. Mar. 7, 1902, aged 75 years.

CHRISTOPHER LAKE

V. Christopher Lake, youngest son of John and Margaret Snider Lake, of Nicholas Lake, of New Jersey, of John Lake, Jr., of John Lake of Gravesend, Long Island, ancestor of the Canadian Royalist family.

Christopher Lake was born in 1762 at Little White Creek, in what later became Washington County, New York. We have not been able to learn the name of his wife as it is not mentioned in any available records of the family.

A list of Captain Simeon Covils Company as they served in Lieut. General Burgoynes Campaign, 1777, shows:

"Chris Lake, Entered the service, July 6, 1777, served 93 days, ending Oct. 7, by being taken a prisoner."

Data on The United Empire Loyalists was collected, in part, by W. D. Reid, while on the staff of the Archives Department, Toronto, Ontario, Canada. However, for the most part what we are using has come direct from the Public Archives of Canada, Ottawa, in a manuscript dated Ottawa, Janpary 27, 1948, and is as follows:

Reference No. 30511.

"Deputy Ministers Office, Public Archives of Canada.

Ottawa, January 27, 1948.

Reverend Claud Nelson McMillan,
1879 Locust Ave., Long Beach 6, California, U.S.A.

Dear Sir: In reply to your letter of January, I take pleasure in sending you herewith copy and extracts of documents deposited in the Archives regarding the Lake family.

Yours very truly,

(signed) G. Lancetot, Deputy Minister."

All references to the Public Archives, as used in these pages are from these documents as above, unless otherwise credited, and deal with the Lake family, unless otherwise specified. These refer to Orders in Council, Petition's, marriages, etc., as referred to on O. in C. So, O.C. always means orders in Council, unless otherwise specified, as U.E. means United Empire Loyalists.

Christopher Lake, acting as attorney, represented his father John Lake, in petitioning for Crown Lands for his father, as shown previously. Too, Christopher Lake petitioned for lands for himself, as follows: page 3, Archives manuscript:

"Christopher Lake an actual settler and U.E. Loyalist having drawn no lands prays for lands for self, wife and three children, viz: John, Sarah and Aaron.

(signed) Christopher Lake.

Petition received Nov. 8, 1797.

Petition of Christopher Lake Senior (L. 18 Bundle No. 8) received from himself Received Nov. 8, 1797."

Recommended for 300 acres as a Military claimant including former grant."

"Petition of Christopher Lake, Senior, (L, 18 bundle No. 8) received."

"The Petition of Christopher Lake, of the Township of Ernest Town, in the Midland District, yeoman.

Humbly sheweth That your Petitioner and family have constantly resided in the Province since the year 1795; that your petitioner served in Burgoyne campaign in the year 1777 and was taken prisoner a few days before the . . . convention at Saratoga, that your petitioner's distressed circumstances prevented him from coming into this province at an earlier period that your petitioner's family consists of Seven children the youngest being now of the age of sixteen years. Your petitioner therefore humbly prays your Excellency would be pleased to grant him the additional quantity of lands as a military claimant with his family lands.

Christopher Lake."

Petition recd, 4 February, 1807. Recommended for 700 acres to close all claims."

We do not know the date of the death of Christopher Lake, Sr., but it was later than 1810.

There are two lists of the children of Christopher Lake, the one from the Public Archives of Canada gives: 1. Sarah, 2. John, 3. Hannah, 4. Henrietta, 5. Mary, 6. Aaron and 7. Elizabeth. But, this does not list James nor Ada, but Henrietta twice. We are not sure of the right order, but shall follow as Christopher gave the first three in his petition for land, i.e. John, Sarah and Aaron, as we definitely know some birth dates.

"Data on United Empire Loyalists, collected by W. D. Reid, while on the Staff of the Archives Department, Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

"Lake, Christopher, of Ernestown. We have no record of who his wife was, nor dates of birth of his children. Do have a list of his children, gathered as noted in preceding paragraph. They were:

- i. D. Sarah, m. James Ward of Ernestown, O.C. July 13, 1802.
- ii. S. John, of Ernestown, O.C. Dec. 6, 1803.
- iii. d. Hannah, m. Francis Teeple, of Ernestown, O.C. Dec. 6, 1803.
- iv. d. Henrietta, m. George Wood, of Ernestown, O.C. Mar. 9, 1809, m. 2nd Henry Wood, of Loughboro; O.C. Feb. 27, 1818. George seems to have d.
- v. d. Mary, m. Peter Freel of Loughboro, O.C. Feb. 16, 1810.
- vi. Aaron of Loughboro, m. Eliza Keller, 1806. O.C. Aug. 7, 1810.

vii. Elizabeth, m. Daniel Walker of Murray (Ernestown), O.C. Nov. 1797. O.C. Mar. 24, 1835.

Because Christopher Lake gives his three children as John, Sarah and Aaron, we shall follow through in this order.

1. John Lake, b. 1782, at Little White Creek, Rennsler Co., New York, m. Mary Laughlin, 1806, at Ernestown Twp., Lennox and Addington Co., Ont. She b. Oct. 10, 1788, at Little White Creek, New York.

In 1788 Alexander Laughlin and his family left New York State and emigrated to Upper Canada during the winter, and it is not known positively whether Mary was born prior to, or after this emigration. Probably before. He became a U.E. Loyalist.

John Lake, as son of Christopher Lake, U.E. Loyalist, petitioned for land, 200 acres, on Oct. 17, 1803, which petition was granted. See petition following.

Further: "Under an Order-in-Council dated Feb. 27, 1818, Mary, wife of John Lake, of Loughboro was allowed 200 acres of land as a daughter of Alexander Laughlin, of Ernestown, a United Empire Loyalist. The location of this land was Lot 28, Concession 8, Township of Collingwood, Simco County."

John Lake and Mary Laughlin-Lake lived in the vicinity of Battersea, Ontario most of their lives. He was a farmer. It is presumed that both are buried in Sandy Hill cemetery, near Battersea, Ontario. They had the following children given in chronological order:

All of these children were born in Frontenac County, Storrington Township, Upper Canada, not far from Kingston, Upper Canada.

(1) Nathan Lake, b. 1807, in Storrington Twp., Frontenac Co., Upper Canada. He was a farmer and lived where is now the town of Battersea. He is presumed to have married Julia Van Valkenburg, but some say it was Julia Keeler. She may have been twice married. Some of their children were born at Battersea. When but a young man he emigrated to Kansas, but we know nothing farther about this family.

(2) Alexander Lake, b. 1809. He was named after his grandfather, Alexander Laughlin. He was married Feb. 20, 1832, to Mary Blackaby (sometimes spelled Blackabee). He was a farmer in Frontenac Co., and lived near Battersea all his life. He d. in 1901, at the home of his son Richard. Their children were: A. Richard, B. Danford Lake, and C. Wesley Lake. The date of his wife's death is not known.

A. Richard Lake, b. about 1842, in Storrington Twp., Frontenac Co., Ont. He was a farmer and lived near Battersea all his life. He m. in 1863, Mary Barr, daughter of Matthew Barr. She was born May 8, 1840, at Inverary, Frontenac Co., Ontario. He d. Mar. 28, 1924. She d. Aug. 5, 1936. Both are buried in Sand Hill Cemetery, near Battersea, Ont. They had the following children:

"Sandy Hill is a pleasant place, Where the quick and the dead do meet. The quick to hear the Gospel preached, The dead to lie and sleep. Yea though we walk in death's dark vale, Yet shall we fear no ill. The Blood of Christ redeemeth us, According to His Will. Daniel Orr."—On his grave in Sand Hill.

CHAPTER XXII

ELIZABETH LAKE,
of JOHN LAKE and MARGARET SNIDER-LAKE, wife of JOHN HOGLE, U.E. LOYALIST.

7. Elizabeth Lake, b. 1753, at Little White Creek, Albany County, New York, m. John Hogle (also spelled Hogall, etc.), 1769, at White Creek, New York.

John Hogle had bought 110 acres of land in Cambridge, Albany Co., New York, from James Lake (Jacobus), for three hundred pounds, New York currency.

As the war clouds settled about them he made his will, leaving all his property to his wife during her lifetime, then to his five children, John, Sebastian, James, Francis and Benjamine, share and share alike. Then he went to Canada and threw in his lot with the British. He enlisted as a private in Captain Simeon Covels Company, as they served with Lieut. General Burgoyne's Campaign in 1777 on July 6. He was soon advanced in rank to a Captaincy, as the troops increased in number. He served forty days to the 16th of August, 1777, when he was killed at the Battle of Bennington. He was a member of the Queen's Royal Rangers and served under command of Colonel John Peters.

At his death there were the five children, as indicated above. Sometime between his death and the widow's application for relief, the eldest son, John and the youngest child, Benjamin had died, thus leaving only Sebastian (Busteyan). Bastian (as all these names are used at times), who was born in 1770, at White Creek, Albany County, New York; James and Francis. Their record follows:

A. John Hogle, b. 1769, at Little White Creek, New York, in Cambridge Dist. He died as a young man, following the death of his father, at Benington. We have no further record of him.

B. Sebastian Hogle, b. 1770, at Little White Creek, Albany County, N. Y., m. Amy Cadman, of ErnesTown Twp., Lennox and Addington Co., Canada West. The date of her birth or her parentage is not ascertained. Sebastian Hogle was one of the original party of Loyalists who settled at Cataraqui, where he lived in the home of his aunt and uncle, Colonel James Parrott, who had married Maria Lake.

The issue of Sebastian and Amy Cadman-Hogle were:

(A) Mary Hogle, a twin, b. Aug. 26, 1796, at ErnestTown, Ont., m. William Lake, Feb. 25, 1819, at ErnestTown, Ont. He b. Feb. 25, 1795, at ErnestTown, Ontario. She d. Apr. 17, 1854, at ErnestTown, Ont., aged 58 years. He d. May 12, 1859, at Ernest Town, aged 64 years. They lived on the 7th concession, in Ernest Town Twp., Lennox and Addington Co. This William Lake was a son of John Lake, Jr., and Miss Van Vorhease, his first wife. Issue of William and Mary Hogle-Lake were: i. George Lake, b. July 27, 1820. Have nothing further; ii. Elmina Lake, b. July 12, 1822, at ErnestTown, Ont., m. John Chapman. Have no record of their family. She d. Oct. 22, 1882, in her 61st year; iii. Charles Lake, b. June 19, 1828, d. Mar. 16, 1852.

(B) Elizabeth Hogle, a twin, b. Aug. 26, 1796, at Ernest Town, Ont., m. John Amey. She d. Sept. 30, 1877, at Ernest Town, Ont., aged 81 years. He d. Dec. 17, 1861, at Ernest Town, Ont. Both buried in an old cemetery west of Ernest Town, Ont.

The above data from Sebastian Lake's Family Bible.

(C) John Hogle, b. at Ernest Town, Ont. He d. 1898, at Bath, Ont. Have nothing further of him.

C. James Hogel (Hogall), b. 1772, at Little White Creek, Albany Co., New York. Have no further record of him, except what appears in his mother's, Elizabeth Lake-Hogel's claim for reparation for the death of her husband and the loss of all this property, including his farm and stock, as appears. James lived with and was raised by his aunt and uncle, Maria Lake and Colonel James Parrott, at Cataraque, near Kingston, Canada West, or Upper Canada.

It is reported that both Sebastian and James Hogel became respected citizens of Ernest Town, Canada West, or Upper Canada, now Ontario.

D. Francis Hogle, b. 1773, at Little White Creek, Albany Co., New York. She seems never to have left New York, and was probably raised by some of her father's people who remained in New York. When her mother made claim for reparation for her husband's death at the Battle of Bennington, the rights of Francis Hogle were protected, as will appear.

The hearings of the claim of Elizabeth Lake-Hogall may be seen in the following sheets. Her claim was not settled at her first application, of which we find but a mere mention, but at the later or second hearing her claim was allowed, as will appear.

The sons, Bustyan and James, there asked that whatever they were allowed should be paid to their uncle, James Parrott, who had married their aunt, and who had raised them.

James Parrott had married Maria Lake, daughter of John and Margaret Snider-Lake, at Little White Creek, Albany County, New York. After he first went to Canada West, or Upper Canada, he asked for and obtained permission to return to New York to bring his father and mother-in-law to Canada West, who had been stripped and left with nothing, together with his brother-in-law, John Lake, Jr., and his family. This was after Jas. Parrott, his wife and Elibeth Lake-Hogel and her sons had reached Canada.

The following records are taken from a photostat in case of a claim of one Elizabeth (Lake) Hogall. From the New York Public Library, Fifth Avenue and 42nd Street, New York 18, N. Y.

John Leake—sworn. Knew the late John Hogal, he went to Canada to join the Army returned in Burgoynes Army, was killed at Bennington.

Knew his Farm in Little White Creek Cambridge District,—He bought it of James Leake some time before the War. A great deal was done to it, there were good Improvements.

There was a Debt of £150 York due to James Leake on the Estate.

The Estate was valued by 2 Appraisers at £750.

Says the Estate was 149 Acres which he values at the same Sum of £750.

He had a large Stock of Horses and Cattle—there was a fine Stallion for w.ch he was offered £40—3 fine breeding Mares;

Justus Sherwood certifies to Say of John Hogal, & that he lost his Life at Bennington.

James Parrot sworn. Says John Hogal had 149 Acres on Little White Creek—Values it at £1000 York Currency—

Busteyon Hogle, & James Hogle, Sworn. Sons of Eliz. Hogle say they came to this province—now live in the 2.d Township. Busteyon is 19 years. James 18 years of Age.

52 They now live with Jas. Perrot on his Lands—he married an aunt of theirs—

Busteyon is the eldest Son of John and Eliz. Hogle now living—says Mr. Perrot has hitherto acted as his Guardian and has maintained him—both wish what is due to them to be paid to Mr. Perrot.

The foregoing indicates that Elizabeth Lake-Hogle and John Hogle had as issue at least five children, namely, i. John, who died, the eldest, who was alive when his father made his will; ii. Busteyon, whose record follows; iii. James, of whom we know but little; iv. Francis Hogle, who was still living in New York, when the hearing was held, and whose share in her father's estate was protected, although she had not applied for her share; and v. Benjamine, who seems to have died young.

We have found no added information as to Francis Hogle, who was but 14 years of age when the above hearing was held.

8. Mary Lake, b. 1771 (probably, as Elizabeth Lake was b. 1769), at Little White Creek, Albany County, New York, the youngest child of John and Margaret Snider-Lake, United Empire Loyalists.

She married James Lake, Jr., her nephew, in 1796, at Ernest Town, as their first child George, was born 1797, at Ernest Town. She was the first wife of James Lake, Jr. She d. Apr. 11, 1815, at Ernest Town, Ontario.

Her record and that of her family will be found under that of James Lake, Junior, so will not be repeated here. (See page 369.)

9. Margaret Lake, b. (probably) 1772-3, at Little White Creek, New York. The youngest child of John and Margaret Lake, U.E. Loyalist. Probably m. in New York, John Longwell, where the families were neighbors, and where their loyalties were well known. He was b. 1757, in Ireland. He d. in 1841, at the ripe age of eighty-four years.

The following was furnished this writer by the Mormon Research Bureau of Toronto, Ontario. However, we do not know their sources of information, but quote as furnished:

"John Longwell was born in Ireland in 1757, and emigrated to the United States (should be the American Colonies), with his parents when about fourteen years of age. During the Revolutionary War John Longwell remained loyal to the British Cause, and in 1789 he emigrated, with other United Empire Loyalists, to Canada, first stopping at Kingston, where they made up a party of about fifty and pioneered their way to the mouth of the Moira River, and to quote Canniff, 'pitched their tents among some Cedar shrubs upon the east bank of the river, just at the site of the upper bridge where the city of Belleville now stands.' The following day they followed the bank of the river back to the fifth concession. At this time the land had not been surveyed, but the would-be-settlers were assured that they could make their choice, and their rights would later be respected. John Longwell chose two hundred acres, lot 35, Concession 5, while Samuel Hazelton chose lot 33, concession 5. They were the first settlers in the fifth concession, Sidney. This was in 1789."

He married Margaret, daughter of John Lake, a pioneer. His neighbor, Solomon Hazelton, was appointed one of the first magistrates of Sidney; while he was one of the first bailiffs to be appointed. Both men took an active interest in the early settlement, and were among Sidney's leading men of their time. The first Methodist meetings were held there. John W. Longwell died in 1841 at the ripe old age of eighty-four.

"His (their) son, John W. Longwell, was born on the old homestead, January 3, 1802, and lived there until his death, which occurred October 27, 1881. He married Rosanna Duffy in 1835. She was born in Ireland, and when she emigrated to Canada was nearly five months in crossing the Atlantic in a sailing vessel. Even after John W. Longwell attained manhood wolves were a constant menace to the settlers. It is related that one morning when he went to his barn he found a large grey wolf asleep in the hay. He quickly seized the brute by the tail, and after whirling him around and around, dispatched him with a club, which he had dexterously procured.

"John W. Longwell, like his father, took a leading part in the affairs of the community, and enjoyed the respect and confidence of all who knew him. He was a member of the Methodist Church and a Liberal in politics.

"George Longwell, his son, was born at the ancestral homestead in 1838, and still lived there in 1904, owning and farming, with the assistance of his son, Fred, about three hundred acres of land, which is in a fine state of cultivation. He married Annie McLaren May 26, 1873. She was born in Scotland and is the daughter of Donald McLaren. The Longwells are consistent members of the Presbyterian Church, to which they are liberal contributors. They occupy a high position in the community, and can be counted among Sidney's very best people. Their children, elsewhere enumerated, have been given the best of educational advantags, Alexander being graduated of Queen's University and a mining engineer. George Longwell is a Liberal in politics.

"Barnabas Longwell, son of John W. Longwell, was born August 21, 1839, also at the old homestead. He married Jean McLaren, daughter of Donald McLaren. She was a sister of Mrs. George Longwell, and like her sister, a woman of superior intellect. Barnabas Longwell and his clever helpmate accumulated a large amount of property, in addition to the farm inherited by his wife which they had helped to pay.

"He died May 21, 1901, aged sixty-two years; his wife died Oct. 13, 1900, aged fifty-five years."

"The children and grandchildren:

I. William Longwell, unmarried. became a soldier, 1812, d. Montreal.

II. James Longwell, d. young.

III. John W. Longwell, m. Rosana Duffy, nee McClasky. Issue: (1) Margaret, (2) George, (3) Barnabas, and (4) Cynthia. (Rosanna Longwell d. Sept. 2, 1881, aged 75 years.)

III. John W. Longwell, d. Oct. 27, 1881, aged 79 years, 9 months, 1 day, m. Rosann Duffy-Longwell, d. Sept. 2, 1881, aged 75 years.

(3) Barnabas Longwell, d. May 21, 1901, aged 62 years, m. Jean McLaren-Longwell, d. Oct. 13, 1900, aged 55 years.

CHAPTER XXIII

JACOBUS (JAMES) LAKE,

3rd son of NICHOLAS LAKE, of New Jersey, of JOHN LAKE, JR., of Gravesend, Long Island, New York, of JOHN LAKE and ANN SPICER-LAKE, who were among the FOUNDERS OF GRAVESEND PLANTATION, of GRAVESEND, LONG ISLAND, NEW YORK.

Now, 1955, South Brooklyn, New York.

III. Jacobus (English James), b. probably 1730, in Somerset Co., N. J., m. Areantie Hubbard, by New York license, Oct. 28, 1765. She was born Dec. 7, 1736, in New York. We know nothing of her people or her background.

In his will Nicholas Lake made provision that his son Jacobus should be paid an extra allowance for a new house he had recently built upon the home farm, whether in expectation of his forthcoming marriage we do not know.

The petition for a grant of land in Albany County, New York, in 1761, by Aarent Van Corlaer, was made before the marriage of Jacobus Lake in 1765. So Jacobus had land prospects even before his marriage to Areantie Hubbard. In point of fact all who joined in with Aarent Van Corlaer in petitioning for land in Albany Co., New York, were young men, as Nicholas Lake, Jr., was still younger than his brother Thomas, and was the fifth son of Nicholas. It was he, with Aarent Van Courlaer who petitioned for the five thousand acre tract in 1761.

Jacobus was included, with John and Thomas, in this petition, and received as his portion a thousand acres, as did each of the others. However, Jacobus seems not to have definitely and permanently settled upon this land, but it was finally left in charge of his son Garrett, who lived upon and developed his portion of the grant. However, Jacobus seems to have been back and forth from his New Jersey Plantation, to look after his interests in Albany County. The three children of Jacobus Lake and Areantie Hubbard-Lake were born in Somerset County, New Jersey. They were 1. John, 2. Garrett and 3. James, whose record follows.

Jacobus Lake made his will in New York, and his name is given both as Jacobus and James, although he signed it Jacobus Lake. In it he mentions his wife, Areanti; his sons, John, Garrett and James, who is to have the plantation after his mother's death, on certain conditions, that he pay his sisters five hundred pounds, and his daughters Alche Vastor (Vetche), Mary Voorheese, and Catherine Lake. He mentions also a grandson James, son of his son, John Lake and a grandson Lewis Heath. The wife and son, James, were the executors.

Among other items he left to his son Garrett a negro boy. This negro boy later died at White Creek, in Washington Co., New York. Garrett had charge of his father's interests in New York.

The will of Jacobus (James) Lake may be found in Book 23, page 534, records of Somerset County, New Jersey.

THE WILL OF JACOBUS LAKE

"In the name of God, Amen, I Jacobus Lake Sen'r of Somerset County and State of New Jersey sick and weak of body but of perfect mind and memory thanks be to God therefore calling in mind the Mortality of my body and knowing that it is appointed for all men once to die, Do make and ordain this my last will and testament that is to say principally and first of all I give and recommend my soul into the hand of Almighty God that gave it and my body I recommend to the earth to be buried in Decent Christian burial Nothing Doubting but at the Great and General Resurrection I Shall Receive the Same Again by the Mighty Power of God and as touching Such Worldly Estate wherewith it hath pleased God to bless me in this Life I give devise and dispose of the same in the following manner & form and first I give and bequeath to Arieantie my well beloved wife all my plantation or real estate lying and being in Somerset County, State of New Jersey during her widowhood also one bed and bedding one cupboard and what is in the same. One negro girl named Sawl——

Item 2. I give and bequeath unto my son John Lake the sum of five pounds to him, his heirs and assigns forever . . .

Item 3. I give and bequeath unto my son Garret Lake one negro boy named Joe to him, his heirs and assigns forever . . .

Item 4. I give and bequeath unto my son James Lake all my plantation or real estate I now dwell upon in Somerset county, State of New Jersey, after the decease of my wife Arrianti Lake to him, his heirs and assigns forever upon the condition following to wit: He must pay unto his three sisters five hundred pounds to be equally divided . . . between Alice Vacter, May Voorheese and Catherine Lake in three equal payments; the first payment to be Paid unto my daughter Alice Vactor at the end of one year after my wife Arrianti Lake's decease, the second payment due to Mary Voorheese at the end of two years after my wife's decease, the third payment due my daughter Catherine Lake at the end of three years after my wife's decest, to them their heirs and assignes forever.

Item 5. I give unto my son James Lake my negro man named Tom, one wagon and gears and two horses, one plow, one fallow harrow, one corn harrow and two cows to him, his heirs and assignes forever.

Item 6. I give unto my daughter Catherine Lake one bed and bedding that she now owns, one breakfast table, one chest where her cloths are in and eighty pounds in cash to buy her an outfit to be paid at the end of one year after my decest by my executors hereafter names to her and her heirs and assignes.

Item 7. I give and bequeath unto my grandson Lewis Heath the sum of five pounds to him, his heirs and assignes.

Item 8. I give and bequeath unto my grandson James Lake, son of John Lake the sum of ten pounds to him, his heirs and assignes.

Item 9. All the above sums given to my son John Lake and to grandsons to be paid by my executor at the end of one year after my decest.

Item 10. I order all my movable estate not heretofore given away to be sold and the money arising from the sale to discharge my just debts and the several legacy heretofore given away and the remainder to be equally divided between my wife Arrianti Lake, my son James Lake, Alice Vactor, Mary Voorheese and Catherine Lake, my daughters share and share alike.

Item 11. I further make, ordain and appoint my Loving wife Arrianti Lake and my son James Lake my executors of this my last will and testament in witness whereof I have herewith set my hand and seal the eighteenth day of July in the year of my Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred Ninety-Five . . ."

"Signed, sealed, Published, Pronounced and declared by the said James Lake Senior as his last will and testament in the presence of us who in his presence and signed in the presence of each other have hereunto subscribed our names.

Martines Nevius, David Covenhouvens, Jacob Sortore."

(signed) Jacobus Lake

We cannot reconcile the date of the marriage of Jacobus Lake with Areanti Hubbard as given above for their second son Garrett Striker Lake was born on Mar. 8, 1753, in Somerset Co., New Jersey, so must have gone with his parents to Albany Co., New York, after the Grant of five thousand acres in 1761, when Garrett Striker Lake was but a boy of seven or eight years, and his brother John not more than nine or ten.

Jacobus Lake seems to have gone to the New York grants soon after the grant was ratified, and received as his portion a thousand acres of the grant. When this land was granted it was definitely understood that the families to whom it was granted, would immediately go upon this land and develop it into production. Hence Jacobus made his way to New York. There he lived in the former home of Jacob Schenk, the last of the Hoosic Indian Chiefs. This house, built upon a high hill, or mountain, was all constructed of cut lumber, hewn with the broad axe, rather than built of logs, and is said to have been the first such house built in the Province of New York. See the story of The Castle of Jacob Schenk, page 213.

During the Revolutionary War, this house was occupied by Abraham Lake, a younger brother of Jacobus, while Garrett lived in Cambridge village.

THE CHILDREN OF JACOBUS LAKE

I. John Lake, whose birth date we do not have, seems to have returned from the Grants in New York, to New Jersey, and the writer of "The Germans of New Jersey," indicates that he married and with his family emigrated to the Illinois country. His father, Jacobus Lake, mentions children of his son John Lake, as his grandson James Lake, son of his son John. We know nothing further of this eldest son, John Lake, of Jacobus.

II. Garrett Striker Lake, b. Mar. 8, 1753, in Somerset Co., New Jersey. He m. Charity Sutphen, daughter of John Sutphen. She b. July 6, 1766. He died Nov. 21, 1838, at White Creek, Washington Co., New York, aged 85 years, 8 months, 13 days. She d. June 26, 1848, at Hoosick, New York, aged 81 years, 11 months, 20 days.

Both are buried in the family burying lot, within a stone's throw of the old house, castle of Jacob Schenck, the Turtle, built in 1711, on a high hill upon the five thousand acre grant, and overlooking the Battlefield of Bennington, where a number of the Lakes were engaged. This plot also holds the grave of Maria Lake, spinster. She b. 1801, d. Feb. 11, 1886.

This burying plot is fenced with heavy stone or slate posts with iron rods as rails. It is well preserved and cared for. In 1951 Dr. LaFayette Lake, of Belmont, Mass., with others, had the plot refreshed, the graves filled in, and a cement plate overlying the graves with the tall white marble tombstones, which had fallen and were broken, now laid in the cement, so all are now permanent. Near at hand but across the valley are the graves of the slaves of Garrett Lake.

Garrett Striker Lake sided with the Colonists during the American Revolution, as opposed to his uncles who served with the British, so the Lake family was arrayed against itself in that struggle. Those who served the British, all except Aarent Van Courlaer, lost their all after that struggle ended. He too went to Canada, but returned to his holdings in Washington Co., New York, where both he and his wife, Mary Lake, died at White Creek, N. Y.

Garrett Striker Lake served in the American Revolution as a private in Captain Haddock's Company of Colonel Peter Yates' Regiment of Albany County, New York. The old house in which he lived at White Creek is being restored as it was when he lived there.

Proof of the Revolutionary War Service of Garrett Lake may be found on page 126 of Roberts New York in the Revolution as colony and state.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF GARIT S. LAKE.

WILL OF GARRIT S. LAKE (copy from original)

"Know all men by these Presents That I Garrit S. Lake of the town of White Creek in the County of Washington and State of New York, being of sound and disposing mind and memory thanks be to God for the same. Yet calling to mind the frailty of mortal things, and the certainty of death. Do make and publish this my last Will and Testament in manner following to wit: After my just debts and funeral charges are paid by my Executors hereafter named. I will and bequeath unto my well beloved wife Charity during her widowhood the use and improvement of all my real and personal estate which I may be poised of at the time of my decease.

Secondly. I will and bequeath to my Son James Lake (after my wife Charity's Decease) what is called the Smith Farm on which he now lives of about Sixty five acres more or less—as also that part of my home or old farm which lies north of the road, of about twenty five acres more or less, to have and to hold the same to him and his heirs and afsignes forever.

Thirdly. I will and bequeath to my daughter Gehannah Hermitage the farm in Hoosic called the Henry Lake Farm of about one hundred and twenty eight acres to have and to hold the same during her natural life and after her decease to her heirs and their afsignes forever.

Fourthly. I will and bequeath to my daughter Meriah my old home farm (except the part north of the road which I have given to my Son James) of about one hundred acres to have and to hold the same during her natural life and after her decease to her heirs. I also give to my daughter Meriah all my personal Property, after my widow's decease, to have and to hold the same to her own proper use and behoof forever.

Lastly I hereby nominate and appoint my said Wife Charity, my Son James, and my two daughters Gehannah and Meriah to be Executrix and Executor to this my last will and testament (or either of them who will please to act as such). And I hereby revoke all former and other wills by me made hereby ratifying and confirming this and this only to be my Last Will and testament. CHAPTER XXIV

THOMAS LAKE,

4th son of NICHOLAS LAKE and MARY LAKE, of Somerset and Middlesex Counties, New Jersey, and MYCHELLE WILLIAMSON-LAKE,
she a daughter of WILLIAM WILLIAMSON, whose ancestor
WILLIAM WILLIAMSON was one of the Founders of THE GRAVESEND PLANTATION on Long Island, New York, in 1642.

THOMAS LAKE

IV. Thomas Lake, b. 1731, probably in Somerset County, New Jersey (possibly in Middlesex Co., as the Nicholas Lake family lived along the border of the two counties). He married Mychelle Williamson, on the 16th day of August, 1767, in the Dutch Reformed Church at Schaghticoke, Rennsler County, New York, as shown upon the records of that Church.

Mychelle Williamson was born in 1733, probably in New Jersey, as her father, William Williamson, was early in Somerset County, New Jersey, was the son of William Williamson, who was one of the founders of the Gravesend Plantation, on Long Island, New York, in 1642. She had a brother Garrett Williamson.

In a petition for ten thousand acres of land in Albany County, New York, in 1762, Garrett Williamson, a brother of Mychelle, was one of the ten petitioners for the said grant. All but one of these ten petitioners were from the Province of New Jersey, as shown in their application. This ten thousand acre grant was made on September 25, 1762.

Aarent Van Courlaer, who married Mary Lake, daughter of Nicholas Lake, of Somerset Co., New Jersey, with his brothers-in-law, brothers of Mary Lake, John, Jacobus, Thomas and Nicholas, Jr., had petitioned for five thousand acres of land in Albany County, New York, in 1761. Which grant had been approved in 1761, after they had purchased a deed or release of the land holdings of the Indian Chief, of the Hoosic Indians, Jacob Schenk, of the turtle and owl tribe, to all his holdings, back to the Crown. So clearing the title, so the Crown could make the grant direct to these five petitioners. This five thousand acre grant was made by Governor Cadwallader Colden, Governor of the Province of New York, for King George Third, in 1761.

That same year Hendrick Schnyder and nine others had petitioned for a second and larger grant of ten thousand acres, which grant was approved in 1762. This Hendrick Schnyder was a brother-in-law of the Lake brothers, as John Lake had married Margaret Schnyder (Snider), and Hendrick Schnyder had first married Sarah Lake by whom he had issue, then after her death he married her younger sister, Jane Lake.

The so-called Schnyder Patent had been granted to Henrich Schnyder, Hendrick Lake, John Wettick, John Johnson (a son of Eleanor Lake and Metthias Johnson), Garrett Williamson, Nathaniel Acherly, Benjamine Abbott, William Taylor and Martineas Voorheise, all of the Province of New Jersey; and Daniel Hallinbeck, of the city of Albany. This so-called second grant was applied for on July 2, 1761, which was after the first application for the five thousand acres, on the 8th of July, 1761. This application for the five thousand acres was, "Read and referred to a Committee, on August 5, 1761, Reported and Granted, and Warrant of Survey issued the same day."

It would appear that beginning of the survey for the five thousand acre tract, revealed the larger one lying beside the first, which had not been petitioned for before. This larger tract was undeveloped and was immediately petitioned for by Hendrick Schnyder and others, as above. This name Schnyder and Snider are written interchangeably, often in the same document.

The Parchment, being the original parchment for the five thousand acre grant, was hanging—framed and under glass—on the wall of the living room of the home of Mrs. Amity Lake-Quackenbush, at 42 Parsons Place, Hoosic Falls, New York, in 1952, where this writer was permitted to make a typewritten copy.

The Patent for the larger grant of ten thousand acres is recorded in Letters Patent, V-13, 1763, on file in the Land Bureau of the Department of State, 164 State Street, Albany, New York.

Came the Revolutionary War, with the division of interest in the Lake family. Some feeling they should remain loyal to the Crown, which had given them their lands, while others of the family were as loyal to the Colonial Cause. It was then that John and Thomas Lake, with the sons of John Lake, joined up with the Royal Forces. This included the sons of John Lake and his son-in-law, John Hogel (Hogal), who became a Captain and was killed at the Battle of Bennington, which battle was fought upon land owned by the Lake family and others of their kin.

Their enlistment and service is recorded in the Company record of enlistment, as shown on a Photostat of that Company book, furnished this writer by the Archives Department of Ottawa, Ontario.

Thomas Lake: "Entered British service under Captain Simeon Colville Company, as they served in Lieut. General Burgoyne's Campaign 1777.

"Entered July 6 as a private, served 11 days until Oct. 14, when he was absent with leave." It was at this time that General Burgoyne capitulated and was taken prisoner. Thomas Lake was taken prisoner, and was so held until the close of the war when he made his way, with his family, to Canada West (or Upper Canada), where he took up land at Woolford, Canada West, in Greenville County.

Following the American Revolution they were dispossessed, burned out and so lost everything they possessed. Thomas Lake died at Wolford, Canada West, between 1812-1815.

When the lists of Loyalists were being compiled at Johnstown a great many who had come into Canada West following the American Revolution had come together at Johnstown in order that their names might be placed on these Loyalists Lists.

Among others came Thomas Lake, of Wolford, who appeared before the Officials who were compiling these lists and was there and then assured that his name had been so recorded.

Later upon learning there was some error and that his name did not appear upon these lists, he walked some forty miles from Woolford to Johnstown, where he made definite application for the listing of his name, with other of the United Empire Loyalists, as will appear in the following records.

For the children of Thomas Lake and Mychelle Williamson-Lake, see the following pages.

The children of Thomas and Mychelle Williamson-Lake, as given by the United Empire Loyalists, as shown in the Canadian Public Archives, were:

I. Jane Lake, b. 1768, at Little White Creek, Albany Co., New York, m. James Wiltse. He b. Mar. 10, 1764, at Hopewell, New York. He d. 1827, at Wilsetown, Upper Canada. She died at Wilsetown, Upper Canada.

The Wiltse family was an ancient Dutch or Holland family. The first emigrants arrived early in 1600, in New Netherlands. In the struggle with the Indians, a Wiltse was sent to build Fort Orange, where both he and his wife were killed by the Indians, who took their two sons as prisoners. These boys were later turned over to Catholic Brothers at Montreal, but after some two years escaped. Later on they found their way to Brazil, where were a group of Dutch. There in Brazil they used the name Martensen, where Phillippe Martensen married and had as issue: Maton, m. Sophia Ten Brock; Hendrick Martense, m. Margaret Myers, Marten Hendrickse, first called his name Wiltse, the ancient family name. He m. Marie Van Wyck. Cornelius m. Ruth Smith. Jeremiah m. 2nd Mary Smith. James Wiltse m. Jane Lake.

James Wiltse moved across the St. Lawrence River, to Leeds Co., Upper Canada in 1784 with his brother, Captain Benoni Wiltse, and a half brother, John Wiltse, and became United Empire Loyalists. They had fought with the British in the Revolutionary War.

From the Ontario Archives, Toronto, Ontario, W. D. Reid quotes, as follows: "Jane, wife of James Wiltse, U.E. of Yonge, and daughter of Thomas and Mychelle Lake, of the Twp. of Welford, was allowed 200 acres of land as the daughter of an U.E. Loyalist under Order in Council dated 14th. Feb. 1798.

"The location was Lot 6, Concession 10, Twp. of Kitley, patented 30th, June 1801."

"The children of Jane Lake and James Wiltse, were: 1. Henry Wiltse, m. Elizabeth Slack; 2. Samuel Wiltse, m. Rosanna Baker; 3. Leonard Wiltse, m. Hannah Harrington; 4. Cornelius Wiltse, m. Susan Sixbee; 5. Truman Wiltse, m. Eleanor Smythe; 6. William Wiltse, m. Margaret Slack; 7. Mary Wiltse, m. John Wiltse, Jr., 2nd m. Capt. Joseph Wiltse; 8. Sarah Wiltse, m. Joseph Bingham; 9. Mercy Wiltse, m. Daniel Derbyshire; 10. Elizabeth Wiltse, m. Eyre Hayes, of Elizabethtown; 11. Pamela Wiltse, m. Abner Case, and 12. Nancy Wiltse, m. David Derbyshire."

3. Leonard Wiltse, b. 1793, at Wiltsetown (now Athens, Ontario), m. Hannah Herrington. He d. after 1872, at Colesburg, Iowa. She b. 1793, in Upper Canada. She d. July 28, 1862, at Colesburg, Iowa.

Issue: (1) Wellington Wiltse, b. Sept. 15, 1815, Younge Twp., Leeds Co., Upper Canada, m. Aurelia Slack, Mar. 25, 1843, at Brockville, Canada. She b. May 21, 1821, at Toronto, Canada, d. Mar. 3, 1907, at Dubuque, Iowa. He d. July 30, 1893, at Iowa Falls, Iowa. Wellington Wiltse had gone to Iowa Territory which was then a part of Wisconsin Territory, in 1838, crossing the Mississippi River at Dubuque, where were the Mines of Spain, and a settlement. He made his way west from Dubuque, following an Indian trail to what was later to become Delaware County. There he is said to have built the first log house in the County, and was the second white man to settle there. The History of Delaware County, in possession of Oscar Wellman, step father-in-law of this writer, who came to Masonville in 1848, gives this statement: "Some say that Wellington Wiltse built a cabin on Section 4, Twp. 90, range 3, in 1838." Most of the early settlers who came to Delaware County settled in what came to be called Coffins Grove, west of what became Manchester, on the Maquokets River, where there was fuel and water.

In 1842 Wellington Wiltse returned to Upper Canada to marry his sweetheart, Aurelia Slack, on March 25, 1843, and with his bride returned to the Iowa country and settled at Colesburg, Delaware County, where they lived for thirty years.

Later Leonard Wiltse and wife came to the Iowa country and settled at Iowa Falls where he died in 1872, while his wife Hannah Herrington-Wiltse had died at Colesburg on July 28, 1862.

The children of Wellington and Aurelia Slack-Wiltse were:

A. Jane Wiltse, b. Jan. 6, 1844, at Colesburg, Iowa, d. Mar. 16, 1872, at Colesburg, Iowa, m. John Henry Keller, Mar. 11, 1861, at Manchester, Iowa. He b. Jan. 5, 1839, in Monroe Co., Penn. He d. Jan. 8, 1909, in So. Dak. He m. 2nd Elizabeth Black.

Delilah; (8) Clarissa Wiltse, b. 1827, m. John S. Lewis.

In his report from the Ontario Archives, Toronto, Ontario, written by W. D. Reid, he quotes as follows: "He, Thomas Lake, left issue as follows: 1. Jane married James Wiltse, U.E. of Yonge; 2. James of Wolford; 3. John of Wolford; 4. Abraham of Wolford; 5. Nicholas of Montague; 6. Sarah, m. William Robinson of Wolford, and 8. Garrett of Montague."

This order does not agree with birth dates as given elsewhere, but we include the list as given by the Ontario Archives, Toronto. This whole territory was called Upper Canada and or, Canada West, as late as 1860.

Petitions for Crown lands follow in order of application.

John Lake of Wolford petitioned for public or Crown lands on 5th day of Dec., 1803, saying he was the son of Thomas Lake and Michiel Lake of the town of Wolford, and was twenty one years of age, so would have been born (probably) in 1769, at Little White Creek, New York. We have nothing further of him or any family he may have had.

Sarah Lake, b. 1785, at Little Creek, New York. She m. William Robinson. She petitioned for Crown lands as the daughter of Thomas Lake, an U.E. Loyalist and the wife of William Robinson. Which petition was granted. Have nothing further of her or any family she may have had.

Abraham Lake petitioned for Crown Lands, as being the son of Thomas Lake, an U.E. Loyalist and as being of full age of twenty one years. Petition filed Nov. 19, 1803. (Would then have been born about 1782-83) at Little White Creek, New York. See his petition following.

There is some confusion as to birth dates until we come to James Lake, who gave his age at the taking of the census of 1796, when he gave his age as 37, by which he would have been born in 1760.

II. James Lake, b. 1760, at Little White Creek, New York, m. Hannah Jackson, 1784, in Canada. She b. 1762, in Ireland. See his petition for Crown lands, following.

James Lake and family seem to have been living with his parents in 1796, according to the following, as furnished by the Archives Department at Toronto, which is as follows (from a pencil sketch). The parentheses are those of this writer, as figures of ages are given from declared ages.

“Return of Census of Wolford Township of River Rideaux, 1796.

Thomas Lake, age 66 (born 1731, in New Jersey)

Mychelle Lake, age 64 (born 1733, in New Jersey)

James Lake, age 37 (born 1760, in New York)

Hannah Lake, age 35 (born 1762, in Ireland)

Thomas Lake, age 11 (born 1786, in Canada)

Catherine Lake, age 9 (born 1788, in Canada)

Jesse Lake, age 7 (born 1790, in Canada)

James Stuart (Lake), age 5 (born 1792, in Canada)

Abraham (Lake), age 3 (born 1794, in Canada)

John (Jackson Lake), age 6 months (born 1797, in Canada)”

The above is from the Archives Department, Toronto, Canada.

There was a still younger child, Henry Lake, born about 1801, at Merricksville, Canada.

James Lake did not agree with the Crown in the trouble that resulted in the War of 1812, so he deserted from the English in Canada and made his way across the ice of the St. Lawrence River, with his oldest son, Thomas who would have been twenty-six, and Jesse, who was twenty-two, according to the above list. They crossed the river with the English soldiers spraying bullets around them on the ice.

“He later returned to Canada, was impressed into the Canadian Militia, he refused to fight the United States, got into an argument with and knocked down the Colonel, and was put in the guard house. Afterwards the militia was called home, and the regular army was formed. He later sold his property at Merricksville, but lost it all as buyers fled the money after selling to third parties.”

“When he first came here (to the U. S.), he lost out here and then moved to Jefferson County (northern part of the State). The land was in what was then known as the French tract. This was probably because the Boneparts were big proprietors there at the time. The land title proved bad and he lost again. Then to Gouverneur (St. Lawrence County), to what is now known as the Grif Davis farm a short distance from Richville, New York.

John Jackson Lake was living there at that time. It was first farm on what is called the Welch Road going from Richville towards Gouverneur. I think Richville had not then been founded."

The above from Eric J. Lake, a great grandson of James Lake and Hannah Jackson-Lake, of Delmar, New York.

Public Archives Canada MSS Series Upper Canada Land Petitions, 1803-1804. Petition “L” 6, No. 12.

Thomas Lake, of Wolford, appeared at Johnstown 22nd June, 1803, a Petition was prepared for the inclusion of his name in the Lists as an United Empire Loyalist. Affidavits were prepared setting forth the fact that he had appeared in due course when the Loyalists were being compiled and he was advised by the Clerk, that his name was included in THE LISTS. Thereupon he returned to his home. Later it was discovered that by some error his name had not been entered. The action herebefore was taken to correct this error.

There is much more of this case, but we have included the meat of the matter, as the name of Thomas Lake was entered upon the Lists of the U.E. Loyalists.”

12. Bertie Levi Lake, b. Feb. 23, 1882, d. Mar. 27, 1882.

7. Henry Lake m. 2nd Mrs. Jane Armstrong-Perkins, a widow.

Issue, 2nd marriage: (G) Henry, (H) Minnie, d. a spinster, and Henrietta Lake. All born at or near Richville, New York. Henrietta Lake was conducting a private school in New York City.

Henry Lake emigrated from Ontario to Richville, New York, but later returned to Ontario, at or near Merricksville, where his mother was ill, and died, and Henry remained there until his death.

Eric J. Lake, of Delmar, New York, wrote: "Ambros Beebe, a brother of my grandmother, Polly Ann (Beebe) Lake, a stage driver, drew a lucky number in a lottery, and received what was then an independent fortune, $2200. He bought a farm (the Owen Davis farm). This was a few miles nearer Gouvernor than the Grif Davis place. He wanted John Jackson Lake and wife, Polly, to come and care for him. They decided to do this and an agreement was made with Jesse Lake releasing their rights in the estate of James Lake providing that he care for his father and mother. The father, James Lake, died on the Grif Davis farm and his wife went to Canada to live with a son, Henry Lake, apparently a brother of Jesse. John (Jackson) Lake lost all their property through Ambros Beebe and then went to Rock Island corners (a hamlet near Grovernuer), and bought a 50 acre farm and John S. Lake (John Smith Lake) was born there." (Eric J. Reed, of Richville, says: "I believe my grandfather, John Smith Lake, was born on Elm Creek, not at Rock Island as stated in your letter. My Uncle Eric J. Lake should know. In fact my mother's records show that he was born near Hermon. Elm Creek is about 1½ miles from Hermon.”)

Eric J. Lake goes on to say: “When he was four years old they moved to near Hermon (a few miles from Richville). This location was known as Elm Creek Road, after two small changes they finally came to the old Lake homestead of 50 acres. This collection of lime rock and brush was my ancestral home. They came there about 1853.”

Much of the foregoing data about the family of Thomas Lake, as it related to their life in the States, was furnished by Eric J. Lake of Delmar, New York.

Besides James Lake there were of the children of Thomas Lake and Mychelle Williamson-Lake other children, namely, 5. Jane, 6. Henrietta, (who m. Davis Hardy of Wolford, Order in Council, May 31, 1808, 7. Garrett and 8. Nicholas Lake. All these are presumed to have lived, reared families and died in Ontario, but of whom we have no further record.

CHAPTER XXV

NICHOLAS and MARY LAKE,
he of NICHOLAS LAKE,
of JOHN LAKE, JR. and NELTJI CLASSEN, of JOHN LAKE and ANN SPICER-LAKE.

He one of the FOUNDERS of
GRAVESEND, LONG ISLAND, N. Y.

NICHOLAS LAKE, JUNIOR

V. Nicholas Lake, Jr., fifth child and son of Nicholas Lake, of Somerset Co., N. J., b. (probably) 1733, in Somerset Co., New Jersey.

This writer has not been able to learn who was the wife of Nicholas Lake, except that he called her Mary, and she became Mary Lake. She is presumed to have borne him ten children, although we know of but eight. The others may have died young.

Nicholas Lake, Jr., was reared in Somerset Co., N. J., until grown to manhood. He seems to have been something of a trapper and rover, especially with his brother-in-law, Aarent Van Courlaer, who trapped all along the Hudson River, and in northern New York.

When the impending end of the French and Indian war made it possible to open a large area in Albany County, New York, for settlement, it was Aaron Van Corlaer, who with his brother-in-law, Nicholas Lake, Jr., secured a deed from the last Indian Chief of the Hoosiac Indians, Jacob Schenk, the Turtle tribe, to all the land in "Cambridge District," between the Battenkill and the Hoosic river, east of the line of the Cambridge Patent and west of the "high mountains," now in Vermont. Such a deed was prerequisite to the granting of lands by the King to white men. For this deed Van Courlaer and Nicholas Lake, Jr., paid fifty Spanish dollars, to Jacob Schenk.

Then on November 21, 1761, 5,000 acres of this land was granted by George III to Aarent Van Courlaer and Nicholas Lake, Jr., together with John, Jacobus and Thomas Lake. This was the first patent in the Cambridge district subsequent to the Cambridge Patent itself. It was in the eastern part of the present Town of White Creek, N. Y., and also took in most of the present Town of Shaftsbury, Vt., and a good bit of the Town of Bennington, Vt.

By the terms of the grant it was necessary to settle at least five families on this tract and also to place 300 acres under cultivation within three years. This condition was fulfilled.

Still later the same year other of the Lake brothers, brothers-in-law, with still others, making ten in all, petitioned for and received a grant of an added ten thousand acres lying in the same nearby territory, which petition was granted in 1762. See these petitions and grants on pages 213-216-220.

The family of Nicholas Lake, Jr., grew and prospered in helping develop their interest in the first grant, which was called the Van Courlaer-Lake Grant. With his growing family, the war clouds also grew, and couriers were bringing tales of threats that were abroad. Of dissension in the various colonies, and the steady pressures being put upon the colonists by the British, and threats of resistance on the part of the colonists, until finally these threats began to turn into action.

There had been a steady growing rancor as between the Colonials in New York and what became Vermont, but was then a part of "the New Hampshire Grants," all of which was claimed by New York. The grants to the Lake family extended into what became Vermont, hence their great intrest in what was transpiring in relation to Ethan Allen, his brothers and followers. With the taking of Ticonderoga by their arch enemy, Ethan Allen, it was just too much, so when the rallying cry came for volunteers to oppose Allen and all his kind, Nicholas Lake and his eldest son, Nicholas Lake, Jr., promptly enlisted on July 6, 1777, for the war on the side of the Crown. Nicholas Lake served ninety days and was taken a prisoner by the Colonials, and was still a prisoner when General Burgoyne surrendered, while his son Nicholas Jr., enlisted also on July 6, 1777, in the same company as his father and uncles, Thomas, John and James Lake, and served 100 days to Oct 24th, and died. He had been married shortly prior to enlisting with the British. We find no cause or reason for his death.

Nicholas Lake was still a prisoner of war when Burgoyne surrendered, and according to his petition for Crown lands, he was advised to remain a prisoner as thus he might still be of service to the Crown, so he was late in reaching Canada.

The position of these people can be better understood when it is remembered that they were fighting for their very lives as well as their property. These grants extended well within the confines of what became Vermont, so that the Battle of Bennington was fought upon land granted to the Lake families, hence they were caught right in the midst of the conflict. Then, too, when the war ended they were burned out and dispossessed of their homes and lands. It was following this they made their way into Canada, Thomas and Nicholas to Wollford, while John and others went to Ernestown and Bath, in Lennox and Addington County.

When Nicholas Lake, Jr., enlisted, his eldest child and son, Nicholas III also enlisted, and this almost at once following his recent marriage. Nicholas Lake, Jr., Nicholas Lake III, James Lake, Thomas Lake, Christopher Lake, with others enlisted. Following is the record of the Lake family and their service, etc., as shown by the Company Book, showing those engaged in General Burgoyne's campaign, as shown upon a photostat furnished this writer by the Canadian Archives, at Ottawa, Ontario. It follows:

Entered July 6, James Parrott, Lt., served 109 days ending Oct. 24, 1777. Went to Canada. A brother-in-law.

Entered July 6, John Hogle, Em'r, served 40 days ending Aug. 16. Killed at Bennington. A brother-in-law.

Entered Aug. 14, Aarent Van Cuyler, served 64 days ending Oct. 14. Taken prisoner. A brother-in-law, but whose holdings were within New York.

Entered July 6, Thomas Lake, served 100 days ending Oct. 14. Absent with leave.

Entered July 6. Nicholas Lake, served 93 days ending Oct 7. Taken prisoner.

Entered July 6, Chri'r Lake, served 93 days ending Oct. 7. Taken prisoner.

Entered July 6, Nicholas Lake, Jr., served 109 days ending Oct. 24. Died.

Entered July 6, James Lake, served 93 days ending Oct. 24. Taken prisoner.

There were two other Lakes who served in this same company, but do not know of any relationship to the above, but enter them here for the record.

Entered Aug. 14, Martin Lake, served 58 days ending Oct. 16. Taken prisoner.

Entered Aug. 14, Nemo Lake, served 66 days ending Oct. 24. Came to Canada.

These, too, may have been sons of Nicholas Lake, we do not know. No further record.

The above all served under Captain Simeon Covell, as they served in Lieut. General Burgoyne's Campaign of 1777. Captain Covell also went to Canada.

- i. Nicholas Lake III was married to Rhody Broodwell at the Dutch Reformed Church, Shaghtcoke, Rennsler Co., New York, in 1777. It would seem, shortly before entering service under the Crown. His service ended in his death, on October 24, 1777, so leaving a young widow of whom we know nothing further.

The children of Nicholas and Mary Lake, as given by the Canadian Archives, were: ii. Mary, who m. Samuel Reed of Thurlow, Order in C. Feb 17, 1807; iii. Sarah, who m. Solomon Reed, of Thurlow, O.C. Feb. 28, 1807; iv. Hannah, m. John Hagerman, of Sidney, O. in C. Sept. 25, 1804; v. Richard of Sidney, O. in C. Mar. 17, 1809, also O. in C. Jan. 10, 1843; vi. John of Sidney, O.C. Mar. 26, 1811, m. Elizabeth Sherrard, daughter of William; vii. Letty, m. John Sine of Sidney, O. in C. Apr. 28, 1818; viii. James, of Sidney, O. in C. May 20, 1818.

Some of these children petitioned for land later as children of Nicholas Lake, United Empire Loyalist. See his own petition, following.

ABRAHAM LAKE

VI. Abraham Lake, sixth child of Nicholas and Mary Lake, was born in New Jersey, although we do not know the date of his birth, indeed we can not be sure that he was the sixth child, as some of his sisters were married while he seems to have still been young. In this listing we follow Adams and Risley in their volume, "A Genealogy of the Lake Family," which places him as sixth in the family.

He married Henrietta, probably in New York. She died Sept. 14, 1810, in her 66th year, at White Creek, New York. We do not know the date of their marriage. They seem to have had but one son Abraham Lake, Jr., who as a young man became a witness to an agreement as between his father and his aunt, Mary Lake-Van Courlaer.

We have not learned just when he went to New York, however we find his application for a grant of land adjoining the Van Courlaer-Lake grant. A transcript of that application follows:

A letter from the New York State Library, at Albany, N. Y., as of Apr. 29, 1952.

There is in New York Colonial Manuscripts indorsed Land Papers, v. 31, p. 83 a document calendered as follows: "1772. April 7. Petition of Wm. Johnson, James Campbell, Wm. Patterson, John Selfridge and Abrm. Lake, for a grant of 3,000 acres of land, adjoining a tract granted to Aaron Van Corlaer and others, and lying near Battenkill." The original manuscript is endorsed: "Rec'd 7 Apr. 1772. (Signed) W. T. 1772 April 8. Read in Council and referred to a Committee. 1772 June 12. The petitioners to lay before the Board a Map of the Lands prayed for." Then follows:

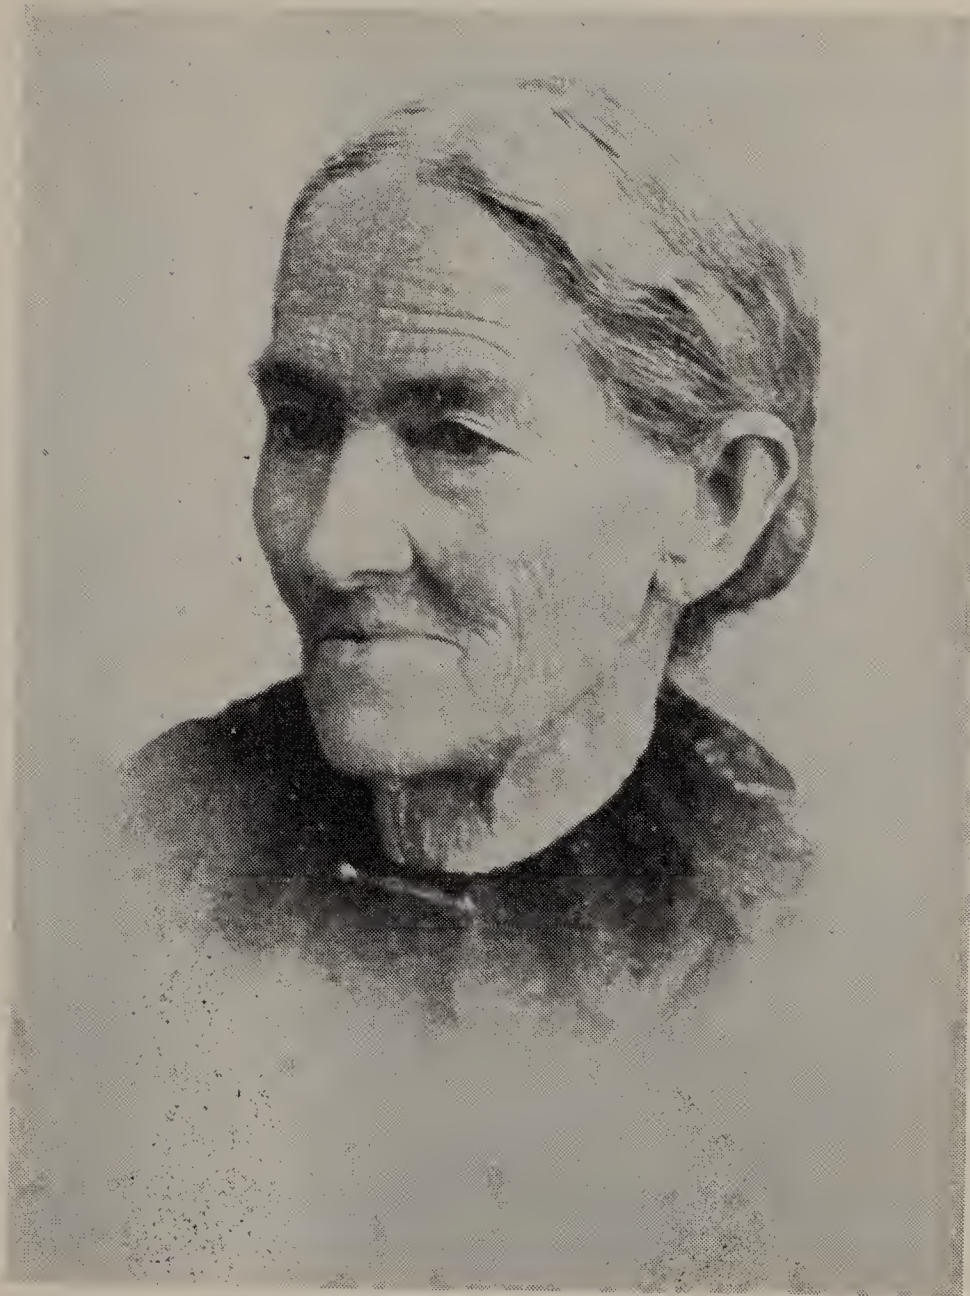

Illustration No. 37

Illustration No. 38

Olive Cramton-McMillan, as a young woman

"I have been unsuccessful in locating any further action on the above petition. Examination of the original Council Minutes for April 8, 1772 reveals no mention of it. No minutes appear in the records between the dates June 3 and June 15, 1772, none being recorded for June 12. The only patents on file here for the years 1772-74 are in v.2, Military patents, 1766-74 which contain nothing relating to the tract concerned."

We include the above as it fixes certain dates when Abraham Lake was in New York. The fact that his nephew John Johnson, son of his sister, Eleanor and Mathias Johnson, would indicate that Abraham Lake was much younger than his sister Eleanor, who is indicated as the seventh child of Nicholas Lake.

When the Battle of Bennington was fought, or, on the day preceding that battle, he with his wife were living in 'The Castle,' so called—of the Indian Chief, Jacob Schenk, on a hilltop overlooking that battlefield, when the French and Indians came by and impressed them. They had shut themselves in the house and pretended there was no one at home. The Indians set fire to the house with flaming arrows. The Lake family appeared and were forced to go with the enemy. Then a slave, who had hidden in the bush upon the approach of the enemy, rushed to the house and put out the fire. However, the marks of the fire still showed upon a cornice of the old house in 1951 when this writer visited the place.

Following the Revolutionary War his property was sequestered by the State and he entered a plea for its restoration, pleading that he was forced to render some assistance to the enemy against his will.

He made a deed to 160 acres of land lying within the bounds of the Schnyder patent, to Garrett Lake, his nephew, on the 29th day of August 1806, for the sum of $204.08, in hand paid to Abraham Lake. This deed is witnessed by John Wells and Paul Cornell.

On August 1, 1786 he entered into an agreement with Mary Van Courler and Garrett Lake, to bear his equal share of any necessary expense for a settlement of the lines of their Patent, each to bear a third of said expense. This is signed by Abram Lake, Mary Van Curler (her mark) and Garrett Lake, and is witnessed by James and John Lake.

Then a second agreement as touching the same matters, of lines of Patent, and each to bear a third of the expense, and was signed by Abram Lake, Aaron Van Curler, his mark, and Garrett Lake. This agreement was dated November 4, 1785, and was witnessed by Abram Lake, Junior, and Henry Lake.

In company with his nephew, Garrett Lake, Abraham received a Deed of Trust from Henry and Mariah Lake, binding themselves to provide and care for said Henry and Mariah Lake, as their needs required. This was dated Jan. 22, 1798, and was signed by Abr'm Lake and Garrett Lake, and witnessed by Luke Quirk and Thos. Sickles.

Abraham Lake (Junior) m. Hindreck Bard, at the Dutch Reformed Church, White Creek, N. Y. The Sughticoke Dutch Reformed, Rennsler Co., in 1779. We believe this is the son of Abraham and Henrietta Lake, but have no positive proof. Have nothing further of them.

ELEANOR LAKE

VII. Eleanor Lake, daughter and seventh child of Nicholas Lake of Somerset and Middlesex, New Jersey. We are not sure of her age, nor her place in the children of Nicholas and Mary Lake, but have followed the listing as given in "A Genealogy of the Lake Family," as given by Adams & Risley. Nor do we know her birth date, but she would seem to have been married before some of her brothers.

Eleanor Lake was married to Mathias Johnson on June 9, 1739. She a daughter of Nicholas Lake of Middlesex County, New Jersey.

This record taken from Vol. 12, New Jersey, Archives, containing marriage records from 1165-1800. He of Winsor Twp., Middlesex Co., New Jersey.

1. They had John Johnson, b. (probably) 1740, in Winsor Twp., Middlesex Co., N. J. This John Johnson, son of Eleanor Lake, was one of the ten men who petitioned for land with Hendrick Schnyder, his uncle by marriage, as Hendrick Schnyder had married, first, Sarah Lake, daughter of Nicholas Lake, when Schnyder petitioned for a grant of ten thousand acres in Albany County, New York, which grant, called the Schnyder Grant, was granted in 1762.

2. Elizabeth Johnson, who married Peter Huyk. Nicholas Lake remembered these grandchildren in his will, giving them one-half of one-eleventh part of his estate, and giving their mother, Eleanor Lake-Johnson, the other half of one-eleventh part.

Page 179, Vol. XXXII, New Jersey Archives, is noted, "Will of Mathias Johnson, of Winsor Twp., Middlesex Co., New Jersey. Inventory 1752. 28 Nov. 1752 Bond of Elanor and John Lake, of Middlesex Co., farmer, as Administrators, John Schenk of said Co., as fellowbondsman."

Then John Lake, of Nicholas, born in 1728, and who became fellowbondsman with his sister, Eleanor (or Elanor) Lake-Johnson, was 24 years old at that time, so he was still in New Jersey in 1752.

MARY LAKE

VIII. Mary Lake, daughter of Nicholas Lake, who m. Aarent Van Corlaer, on Sept. 23, 1743, will be found on page 213 with the record of the Van Courlaer-Lake grant. In her father's will, Mary Lake is given one-eleventh part of his estate.

SARAH LAKE

IX. Sarah Lake, daughter of Nicholas and Mary Lake, of Middlesex County, New Jersey. We have found no date of her birth. She married Hendrick Snider (Schnyder), as in the New York Grants. They had: 1. Mary, who married Aaron Hanksen, Nicholas, Christopher, Gurtz, and Jane. Sarah Lake-Snider died. In her father's will is provision that the children of Sarah Lake-Schneider: "to wit, Mary the wife of Aaron Hanksen, Nicholas, Christopher, Gurtje and Jane the one equal eleventh Part, equally to be divided between them, first deducting out of their eleventh Part the one-half of the Monies which shall appear to be due and owing to me from them thro Thos. Hendrick Snider."

We find no further record of the children of Sarah Lake-Snider, but as his family is presumed to have accompanied Thos. Hendrick Snider to New York, it is presumed that the children of Sarah Lake-Snider accompanied him.

JANE LAKE

X. Jane Lake, daughter of Nicholas Lake, m. Thos. Hendrick Snider, after the death of her elder sister Sarah. We do not learn that Jane bore Snider any children. There are none mentioned in her father's will. However, Jane is provided for as follows: "To my Daughter Jane now the wife of Hendrick Snider the one equal eleventh Part, first deducting out of her C, eleventh Part the other half of the Monies which shall appear to be due & owing to me from her Husband the C, Hendrick Snider,"

MARGARET LAKE

XI. Margaret Lake, b. 1739, d. 1824, in Illinois, aged 86 years. She married Cornelius Blew. Her father remembered her in his will as follows: "To my Daughter Margaret the wife of Horendlius Blew the one eleventh," so it is evident she was still living and married to Horendlius Blew, upon her father's death. His will was probated on Oct. 8, 1773, or more than ten years following the New York Grants.

Cornelius Blew died and Margaret later married Elias Hubbard. He b. 1746, d. 1832. With Elias Hubbard, Margaret went to the Illinois country, where she died in 1825 and he in 1832, aged 86 years. We find no further record.

James Madison Lake, of James Jr., of James, of John and Margaret Snider-Lake.

James Madison Lake was called Mad, or Matt, never spoken to or of as James. He was b. in 1816, at Ernest Town, Canada West, d. Camp Point, Ill., 1865, m. Irene Markle, in Jan., 1838. She b. 1822, d. 1859, at Camp Point, Ill. Both are buried at Camp Point, about twenty miles from Quincy, Illinois. She 36½ years. He 46½ years at death. They lived on a farm near Caledon, in the Salt St. Marie district, Canada West, where their family were born. This farm was 3¼ miles from St. Mary's, Ontario, on land bounded on the north by the river Avon and on the east by the river Thames. From here they emigrated to a farm near Camp Point, about 20 miles from Quincy, Illinois, in the spring of 1859. After about a year Irene Markle-Lake died, while James M. Lake died about two years later. Both were buried at Camp Point, Illinois.

Their children were: I. Andrew Lake, b. in Dec., 1838, near Caledon, Canada West, or Upper Canada, m. Nancy Ann Sewell, June 19, 1861, in Euphrasia Province, Gray Co., Ont., by the Rev. G. Bennett, Methodist Episcopal minister. Some time later, Andrew Lake and family emigrated to Kansas, then frontier country. The frontier life was too hard for Nancy Ann Lake, so she took the children, and with the help of some of Andrew's sisters went back to Euphrasia, Ontario, in 1873, and had no further contact with her husband.

Their children were: 1. Sophia Matilda Lake, b. 1862, at Caledon, Ontario, m. George Brown. She d. Oct. 21, 1937, at Sault St. Marie, Ont. Buried same.

Issue: (1) George Alexander Brown, b. Mar. 14, 1882, m. Mary Hunt, July 22, 1921. She b. May 15, 1887. Live at 10 Farris St., East Hamilton, Ontario.

Reubin Lake went from Illinois to western Kansas in May of 1873, to Osage Mission (now St. Paul, Kansas), and settled on what is now the site of Lake City, Kansas, a very small village in Northwestern Barber Co. He was engaged in various lines of business, as a brick yard, lumber, hardware, grocery, and such enterprises as would be found in a new country.

In the latter 1880's he went broke, with the rest of the country. With his daughter, Irene, they made "The Run," into Oklahoma in 1893 and both secured "claims," on which they lived part of the time, until Reubin Lake returned to Lake City, to establish a general merchandising store, when the railroad came through in 1907. He continued in this store until his death in 1917. His daughter Irene returned to Lake City, Kansas in 1935, where she still lives.

Fred met Ida when her people came to Kansas, and they became engaged. Then her folks, dissatisfied with the Kansas country, decided to return to Illinois, and were planning to leave right away. Fred was away tending cattle, but a friend brought him word that Ida was leaving and had sent word to Fred. She did not want to go back to Illinois, but to be married. The friend had a horse, but Fred was afoot. So they decided to ride and tie, and so get Fred back in time. So one would ride some distance, then tie the horse. The other would walk until he found the tied horse, then would ride awhile, passing the walker, then would tie the horse and walk on, and so by riding and tying, Fred reached his sweetheart in time to be married before her folks started back to Illinois.

When they were married Ida said, "Fred, I will never leave you as long as I live," and she never did. They were scarcely ever apart even over night.

As a very young man Fred was a member of the militia. Some men were detailed to go out and get some buffalo. The one Fred was after led him far afield. The militia were after Indians who were troubling the settlers. When Fred finally got his meat he found his Company was nowhere in sight and night was coming on. He skinned the buffalo, made a fire and cooked some of the meat for his supper. Then it started to snow. He got into a hollow tree, but could not rest. So he wrapped himself up in the buffalo hide. In the morning he found himself frozen up tight in the buffalo hide and could not pry himself loose. The cold had shrunk the hide so he was fast. Indians could have scalped him without killing him. But no Indians came that way. At noon his Company found him still frozen in the hide. They built a fire to thaw the hide so as to get him out.

Fred Lake was in Dodge City when it was a roaring gambling town. He said dead men were picked up in alleys and streets almost every morning, and it was not safe for a decent woman to venture out at night.

CHAPTER XXVI

WILLIAM WOODS and LIMA CONGDON

Family Record of

WILLIAM WOODS FAMILY RECORD

The first record of the Woods family is of James Woods who came to the Massachusetts Bay Colony in the sixteen thirties, from England. We have not learned the name of his wife, but he had a son William, who married Naomi (last name not given). The Groton Massachusetts Vital Records, page 266, see; "William Woods, son of William and Naomi Woods, baptized June 7, 1760." See also the Groton Church Records. He was not baptized William Junior, but nevertheless was Junior. Nor is his father's name given as Junior, although he was son of William, son of James Woods.

This William Woods II, made his way from Groton, Massachusetts, to Florida, in Montgomery County, New York, where he fell in with the McMasters brothers, James and Robert. James McMasters had been with General Sullivan on a foray against the Indians farther west. He was favorably impressed with the country they covered. This was in 1780, and this was especially true of the valley of the Susquehanna. There was considerable open land in the valley.

To this valley he returned four years later and was still more favorably impressed as the open land did not need to be cleared, but crops could be planted at once. It is well to remember that all this great land was covered with timber, except an occasional vale where timber had not grown.

There was but one white man in these parts. He was Amos Draper, an Indian trader, who resided at Choconut, and was engaged in traffic with the Indians, at various points. Through Draper's influence, McMasters conciliated the Indians, so that when he returned here the next year, he was not molested.

In April, 1785, James McMasters accompanied by his brother, Robert McMasters, William Taylor, a bound boy, John Nealy and William Woods, left Florida, in Montgomery County, for what became Owego. They came down Otsego Lake to the Susquehanna river, and on down to Owego. Their farming implements and cooking utensils were conveyed by boat, while some of the party went with four horses by land. Having arrived they built a cabin of pitch pine logs upon the flat.

They planted ten acres with corn, after which they built a more substantial log house. The latter house stood facing the river, near the bank. After the corn was up and had been hoed, the party returned to Montgomery County. After finishing their harvesting on the banks of the Mohawk, they came back to Owego, in the fall and gathered their corn, which had been unmolested by the Indians.

We cannot be sure whether his family accompanied William Woods II, when he returned in the fall of 1788. Probably this was the case. At any rate William Woods III was born at Owego, Tioga County, New York, on Mar. 18, 1789.

It is not known who was the mother of this William Woods, but it is probable that the father was married at Florida, in Montgomery County, as their first child, William Woods III, was born after William Woods II had come to Owego, in Tioga County, New York.

Here at Owego, William Woods III grew through boyhood, meeting the duties and problems, as well as the joys of living. Here he played and hunted with other lads of his age, as well as with Indian boys of his age. Here his mother learned from Indian women the use and value of native herbs, which they used in treatment of their families, and which knowledge she passed on to her girls.

Of the family of William Woods II, and his family we find but little. However, there were two other sons. They were Samuel and James of whom we later learn, when they came to the Illinois country in the summer of 1834. From the coming of William Woods II, we learn but little until his coming from Florida in Montgomery Co., New York. From there on the record is clear.

His son, James Woods, named for his great grandfather, was a drummer boy in the war of 1812, as shown by the records in the Adjutant Generals Office in Washington, D.C., which follows:

"James Woods, surname also shown as Wood, served in the War of 1812, as a drummer in a company designated at various times as Capt. Nathaniel Richards' and Lieut. Col. Josiah C. Hook's Company, 9th New York Artillery Regiment.

"He served from 15 September 1812 to 15 December 1812 and from 2 September 1814 to December 1814 in Capt. Alexander M. Muir's Company, 1st Battery New York Artillery (late 9th Regiment)."

"James Woods, private, Capt. Chauncey Bill's Company, Crosby Regiment, New York Volunteers. His service commenced 29 August 1814 and ended 29 October 1814.

(Signed) Edward F. Witzell, Major General
The Adjutant General."

We are inclined to think the last item as shown above is the correct record of our James Woods, but give the entire record for what it is worth. There was a tradition in the family that James Woods was first a drummer boy, then later a private. But this is tradition.

That William Woods was in the War of 1812 there is evidence both in the records of the War Department and in the records of the State of New York. There is a tradition in the family that William Woods was a Major in that War. In his later life he was always spoken to and of as Major Woods. We find official record of such service as follows: "Siege of Fort Erie, August 3 to September 21, 1814, 'The Douglas Battery,' defended by the Suppers and Miners under Lieutenant David B. Douglas; 'Tewsonds Battery' under the command of Captain Nathan Towson, Colonel Miller's 21st regiment of Infantry; under Major Woods, of the Engineers, in the rear and the 23rd regiment on the right," etc. Page 39, The Army and Navy of the United States.

Lewis F. Lake, grandson of William Woods, was raised with his grandfather, and often heard him speak of his service in the Battle of Fort Erie, where he is recorded as Major William Woods.

William Woods learned the trade of a mason, at which trade, with his farming interests engaged his time through his later years. With his son-in-law, Peter Cramton, who was a carpenter and joiner, they worked on many of the early homes and business buildings of Rockford, Illinois.

Here at Owego, William Woods became acquainted with a family named Congdon, and courted and married a daughter of the family, named Lima. They were married at Owego, on March 2, 1811, and their first child, Eunice Euretta was born in December 1811, in Owego, Tioga County, New York.

In the records it will be noted that for his first wife John Congdon married Eunice Tillotson, b. July 1, 1751, and d. Feb. 14, 1772, having given him but one child, a son, John Bennoni Congdon.

John Congdon 2nd m. Dorcas Huntley, b. Dec. 29, 1752, and d. Nov. 3, 1833. His second child was Oliver Cromwell, who died, and the third child, also a son born the year after the first Oliver Cromwell Congdon had died. Then came Eunice Tillotson Congdon, b. 1778; 5. Hannibal, b. 1781 and d. 1787; 6. Lima, b. 1784, d. 187; 7. Sophia, b. 1786, d. 1786, d. 1797; 8. again, Lima, b. Jan. 22, 1788, d. 1863; 9. Helena, b. Jan. 22, 1790, and again, 10. Hannibal, b. Dec. 25, 1792, and ancestor of the Duluth Congdon family.

In some of the older records Lima Congdon's name is shown as Iina, but she gave her name to a granddaughter as Lima, who is Minnie Lima Lake-McMillan, and who insists that her grandmother was always called Lima. Hence we shall follow this name in this record as Lima Congdon-Woods. Both she and her husband, William Woods are buried on lot 17, block 5, Greenwood Cemetery at Rockford, Illinois.

The Woods family seems to have been on the trek westward, for Cyrenius Nelson the second child and first son was born in Genessee County, New York on Nov. 20, 1814. William Woods had gone from the battlefield to be with his wife when her baby was to be born, while the third child was born in Dutchess County, and named Hannibal, for his Uncle Hannibal Congdon, and Dorcas Lucinda the second daughter and fourth child was born in Tioga Co. It would seem that her mother had returned to the family home for the birth.

However, the family may have returned to Tioga County, as Helen was born the fifth child and third daughter also in Tioga County. John was born in New York, but we do not know the place, while Oliver Forrest Woods was born at Owego, in 1824, although we do not know the exact date. Then Elizabeth King Woods was born in Chautauqua County in 1828. So the trek westward began.

While the trek west to the Illinois country began from Cataraugus County on the Alleghany river, near the present town of Oneo-ville, the Woods family had been living at Westfield, and it was from Westfield that Lima Congdon-Woods started for the landing and raft upon which the family were to make their way to the west.

All the family of William Woods made this voyage except Eunice Eureka who had married Francis Mulvaney. Eunice was expecting so it was not thought wise for her to attempt the trip. She and her family did come to Illinois apparently in 1838, as her first two children were born near Westfield, New York, while the third child, Mary Mulvaney was born at Rockford, in 1839.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

The following is an abstract of the Revolutionary War Service of Sergeant John Congdon (b. 3/17.1750) (John, Benjamine) taken from Pension Claim No,S,43388, filed by said John 4 Congdon on April 14, 1818 from Amenia, Duchess Co., New York, supplemented by the MMS. Genealogy of a History of the Congdon family by Leon A. Congdon, Syracuse, N. Y. (1949).

At the time of his service John 4 Congdon, 3rd's residence was Lyme, Connecticut, and his service was as a private, Corporal, and sergeant of the 1st Co., 6th Regt. of Conn. Militia in the first call for troops in April-May 1775, and from May 10, 1775 to his discharge on Dec. 10, 1775. He also appears on the list of pensioners in New York State from Connecticut in 1818.

According to his Pension Claim (S-43388) for Rev. War service filed 4/14,1818, he reenlisted in Jan. 1776 and served in the Battles of Bunkerhill, Long Island, and New York Islands. When he reenlisted in Jan. 1776, he served for one year in Col. Samuel H. Parson's Regt. of Conn. as Sergeant. He again reenlisted in Jan. 1777 for another year, and was in General Spencer's R.I. Expedition. Reenlisted in 1778, and served 3 months more, and also in garrison at Fort Trumbull, New London, Conn. His pension claim was allowed.

Sergeant John 4 Congdon, 3rd (b. 3/17, 1750) was the son of John 3 Congdon, Jr. (b. 5/17, 1714) and his wife, Ruth Congdon of New London, Conn. John 3 Congdon, Jr. died at Montville, Conn. in 1759, leaving his 2nd wife, Ruth Congdon, as widow and six small children. Estate settled in New London Co., Conn., Probate Court in 1759 with Banjah Davis and Jeremiah Congdon appointed as Administrators and inventory taken 5/2, 1759 by James Rogers, John Brown and James Greenfield. John 3 Congdon, Jr. (b. 5/17, 1714) was the son of John 2 Congdon, Sr. (b. 1684) and Mary (Smith) Congdon of Kingstown, R. I., and later of New London, Conn. John 2 Congdon, Sr. (b. 1684) died 5/12, 1743 due to a fall from his horse in Montville, Conn., and made a will probated 6/14, 1743, naming his children. John 2 Congdon, Sr. (b. 1684, d. 5/12, 1743) was the son of Benjamin and Elizabeth (Albro) Congdon of Portsmouth and North Kingstown, Rhode Island.

Sergeant John 4 Congdon 3rd (b. 3/17, 1750) married first Eunice Tillotson on 10/21, 1770. She died on 2/14, 1772. He married secondly Dorcas Huntley, daughter of William and Martha Huntley, on 3/31, 1774 and had issue of 10 children, the 7th child being Lima 5 Congdon (b. 1/22, 1788). Lima 5 Congdon married William Woods on 3/12, 1811, and had issue of 8 children, all born in New York and in the spring of 1835 migrated to Illinois and in the fall of 1835, this family was at Rockford, Illinois. Of the children of William and Lima 5 (Congdon) Woods, one Dorcas Lucinda Woods (b. 1818) married Peter Cramton on 8/23, 1836 (37) at Illinois Town, Ill., and had issue of one Olive Cramton (b. 6/22, 1838) who married Dennis Lucas McMillan on 3/23, 1858, and in turn had Rev. Claud Nelson McMillan (b. 1876), a retired Methodist minister living in January 1949 at 1879 Locust Ave., Long Beach, Calif.

This is to certify that the above information is true to my best knowledge and belief. (Signed) Leon A. Congdon. (SEAL)

THE CONGDON RECORD

The first record we find of the Congdon family is through one Benjamine Congdon. In J. O. Austin's Genealogical Dictionary we find one John Albro, who came to the American Colonies at a very early date. He married Dorothy Potter, and to them was born a daughter, Elizabeth Albro, who married Benjamine Congdon, b. 1650, d. 1718, June 19.

FIRST GENERATION

Benjamine Congdon, b. 1650, d. June 19, 1718, m. Elizabeth Albro, whose birthday we do not have, but who d. Nov. 15, 1720. Of John and Dorothy Albro, Portsmouth, Kings Town, R. I.

Sept. 20, 1671 he bought of William Brenton, Benedict Arnold &c, 230 acres in Naragansett, near Pettacomscott, but he did not move thence for some years.

Oct. 18, 1676 he was sued by Samuel Reape, for slander, defamation, &c., and the case was left to arbitration.

1677, Freeman.

Apr. 27, 1677 he witnessed a deed for George Sisson, of Portsmouth.

1679, he was ordered to move his shop at Newport to another lot and if he disobeyed, it was to be pulled down.

Dec. 5, 1679 he had a deed of 200 acres in Naragansett, being part of 7,630 acres laid out by Samuel Wilbur, to Jireh Bull and twenty four others.

Oct. 20, 1683 Kings Town. He called himself "late of Portsmouth, Planter," sold to John Sheldon 230 acres in Naragansett, near Pettacomscott, for £7, being the land "granted to me by William Brenton, Benedict Arnold," &c.

Sept. 6, 1687 taxed 3 s. ½d.

May 17, 1710 he and seventeen others bought 7,000 acres of the vacant lands in Naragansett, ordered sold by Assembly. His signature was made to deeds, &c., by Mark Z, while his son Benjamine signed by mark O.

July 2, 1715, Will—proved Dec. 10, 1718. Exs., wife Elizabeth and son John. To sons William, John, Benjamine and James 5s. each, they having had their portions. To daughters Elizabeth Wells and Susanne Northup, three cows each, and to granddaughter Elizabeth Wells, a cow, at decease of wife. To wife, household goods at her disposal, and the farm, orchard and housing for life. To son John, two cows and a heifer. Inventory £38, viz; cows, sheep, 4 silver spoons, wine glasses, earthen and pewter ware, iron pots, skillet, warming pan, napkins, towels, wearing apparel, bed, &c.

He and his wife were buried in the Congdon burial ground at Congdon Hill, near Wickford.

The following additional items and variations are copied from the "Newport Historical Magazine, Vol. IV, No. 4, April 1884"—Article: "Ancestors of Jeremiah Austin," by J. O. Austin, Providence, R. I., pages 236-7. Only items giving new information were copied. (This in turn from "The Congdon Chronicle," by the Rev. George E. Congdon, with his permission.)

"1671, Sept. 20, Portsmouth, R. I., he received a deed, etc., but lived some years at Portsmouth before moving to the other side of the bay, where ultimately he made his home.

"1683, Oct. 20, Kings Town had now become his home as is seen by deed at this date.

"1687, Sept. 6, taxed at Kings Town under Sir Edmund Andros Estate, 2s, ½d, Poll 1s.

"1714, June 15, his wife Elizabeth signed receipt with him for legacy from her father, John Albros estate (viz. 50s, 1 bolster case, 2 pewter platters, 1 pair sheets).

"The Old Congdon burying ground at Congdon Hill, near Wickford, contains the grave of this ancestor of the race in America, and the graves of his wife and many descendants. There is a tradition with some of Benjamin Congdon's descendants that he come to this country with a brother John who settled in New Jersey, and that their father's name was John, and that he married a daughter of the Earl of Pembroke. In support of this it is claimed that Benjamine's birthplace was in Pembrokshire, Wales, near St. David's. There seems, however, nothing clear nor definite in this tradition, and the coat-of-arms claimed for the family bears the following inscription: 'The ancient family of Congdon of Willerby in Yorkshire, descended out of Wales, now of Rhode Island, Anno Domini 1811,' thus implying a departure from Wales into Yorkshire of a branch of the family."

Also from The Congdon Chronicle, the following, p. 8-9-10, by permission:

"Benjamine Congdon, the progenitor of the Congdon family in America, married Elizabeth Albros, a daughter of John Albros, hence all descendants are also descendants of John Albros. This material is copied from Austin's Genealogical Dictionary of Rhode Island, page 234.

"John Albros, b. 1617, d. Dec. 14, 1712, m. Dorothy Potter (w. of Nathaniel (Potter) of Portsmouth, R. I., b. 1617, d. Feb. 19, 1696.

Apr. 30, 1634 he embarked in ship Francis, from Ipswich for New England, under the care of William Freeborn. His age was called fourteen, which was not exact, but as near as was often the case in making returns to the officials.

1638, he accompanied William Freeborn to Rhode Island.

1639, he was granted a lot if he would build within one year.

1644, Corporal, rising successively in after years to the office of Lieutenant, Captain and Major.

1649, chosen to view cattle and also clerk of weights and measures. He was soon after a member of Town Council, and served frequently as moderator of town meetings, even in old age.

1655, Freeman.

1660-61, Commissioner.

1661 he was on committee to receive contributions for agents in England.

1666, he with two others was appointed to take area of all highways and driftways, not set off.

1671-72-77-78-79-80-81-82-83-84-85-86, Assistant.

Apr. 4, 1676 he and three others had the care and disposal of a barrel of gunpowder for supply of Portsmouth, and it was also ordered that the two great guns now in the yard of late deceased William Brenton be pressed for country's service, and carried to Portsmouth, and placed one on the ferry neck and one near John Borden's.

1676, He was appointed commissioner with orders to order watch and ward of the island. This vigilance was rendered necessary by the war with King Philip and it was voted the same year "that in these troublesome times and straits of this colony, the Assembly desiring to have the advice and concurrence of the most judicious inhabitants, if it may be had for the good of the whole, do desire at their sitting the company and council" of sixteen individuals, among them Captain John Albro.

Aug. 24, 1676, He was a member of the court martial held at Newport for the trial of certain Indians.

1677, He was on a committee in the matter of injurious and illegal acts of Connecticut.

1679, He with another was appointed to lay out the western line of the colony.

Jan. 14, 1685, Major John Albro, Assistant and Coroner, summoned a jury in the case of an Indian found dead upon the Clay Pitt lands. Verdict, "That the said Indian being much distempered with drink was bewildered, and by the extremity of the cold lost his life, & c."

Dec. 30, 1686, member of Sir Edmund Andros' Council and present at their first meeting in Boston at this date. The members were sworn to allegiance, and due administration of justice.

1697, he was allowed 20s for going to Boston.

Dec. 28, 1710. Will proved 1713. Exs. son-in-law John Anthony and latter's wife Susannah, Overseers, William Sanford and Giles Slocum. To son John, all land southeasterly of a line "beginning at a white thorn bush standing at the circuit corner" &c, and running to Henry Brightman's fence. To grandsons John and Albro Anthony, all land northwesterly of said line, about 30 acres and housing, orchard, &c., they paying legacies. If either desired to sell they were to sell one to the other. To granddaughter Sarah Anthony £80. If daughter Susannah outlive her husband, she to have equal privilege with her sons in house and land for life. To Albro Anthony (grandson), bed, chest, five sheep and great Bible. To granddaughter Sarah Anthony looking glass, chest, two pewter platters and five sheep. To son John Albro a cow and two napkins, and to John's children, 40s, equally divided. To children of son Samuel 50s, equally divided. To daughter Mary Hicks a cow and two napkins. To daughter Elizabeth Congdon 50s. in silver money (at 17 pwt.), a bolster case, pair of sheets and two pewter platters. To daughter Susannah Anthony, two cows, a heifer, feather bed, warming pan, stilyards, spice mortar, brass kettle, lanthorn, old brass kettle, little brass kettle, little iron pot, and skillet. To granddaughter Dorothy Bently, daughter of my son Samuel, 16s. To sons John and Samuel, all rights in Misquaimcut purchase, equally. To daughters Susannah rest of movables."

He "was buried in his own orchard" as the Friends records state.

John Congdon, second son of Benjamine Congdon and Elizabeth Albro. Do not have his birth date. Married Mary Smith, daughter of Jerimiah and Mary (Gereardy) Smith. He was at Kings Towne, R. I., May 17, 1710, where he and others bought 2,000 acres of the vacant lands in Naragansett. He was connected, with his mother as executor of his father's will, and settled the estate. It is presumed that he left Rhode Island after his father's death, and with his family removed to Connecticut. His children were all born in Rhode Island. They were Jeremiah, b. about 1700, m. Ann Chapel of New London; Mary, b. 1703; John Jr., b. May 7, 1705, and James.

John Congdon, Jr., b. May 7, 1705, son of John and Mary (Smith) Congdon, b. at North Kingston, R. I. He "m. 1735, Mehitable Gardner, b. May 22, 1715, daughter of Stephen Gardner and Amy Sherman (History of Montville, Conn.)."

Their children were: i. Jeremiah, b. Aug. 27, 1736; ii. Eunice, b. Apr. 14, 1738; iii. Timothy, b. Apr. 15, 1739; iv. Elisha, b. Aug. 5, 1740 and v. Mehitable, b. Nov. 3, 1742.

We lack the date of the death of Mehitable Gardner-Congdon, but she was living in February 1743-44 when her father, Stephen Gardner mentions her in his will, and left his son-in-law, John Congdon 5 shillings. He left his granddaughter Mehitable 10 pounds. The eldest daughter of Stephen Gardner, Anne, married John Jenkins and it was to him that the widow Ruth subsequently sold her dower.

We do not know the date of the death of Mehitable Gardner-Congdon, but it was subsequent to 1743, as John Congdon married 2nd Ruth and the first child of this marriage of John Congdon and Ruth was Sila Congdon, born about 1746. Sila married a Mr. Morton. Have no further record.

The children of this second marriage to Ruth, were 6. Sila, b. about 1746, m. Morgan; 7. Timothy Congdon, b. 1748; 8. John Congdon III, b. Mar. 17, 1750, and died Mar. 17, 1832, aged 82 years. He first m. Oct. 24, 1770, Eunice Tillotson, who was born July 1, 1751, and died Feb. 14, 1772. He m. 2nd Mar. 31, 1774, Dorcas Huntley, who was b. Dec. 29, 1752, and died Nov. 3, 1833. She a daughter of William and Martha Huntley.

His children were: 1. John Benoni, b. Feb. 14, 1772; 2. Oliver Cromwell, b. Mar. 1, 1775, d. Apr. 5, 1775; 3. Oliver Cromwell, b. Aug. 14, 1776; 4. Eunice T., b. July 7, 1778; 5. Hannibal, b. Nov. 5, 1781, d. Dec. 13, 1787, aged 6 years, 1 month, 8 days; 6. Lima, b. May 1, 1784, d. Dec. 15, 1787, aged 3 years, 9 months, 15 days; 7. Sophia, b. Jan. 2, 1786, d. Nov. 5, 1797; 8. Lima, b. Jan. 22, 1788, d. Sept. 13, 1863, buried at Rockford, Ill.; 9. Helena, b. Jan. 22, 1790; 10. Hannibal, b. Dec. 25, 1792; 11. Sila, b. Jan. 22, 1795.

There were three other children of John and Ruth Congdon, of whom we have only the following:

9. James Congdon; 10. Dorcas, who m. Perkins, and 11. Ruth, who m. a Mr. Lathrop. No further record of these.

1. John Benoni Congdon, son of John and Eunice (Tillotson) Congdon, was b. Feb. 14, 1772. He left home in August 1790, and was not again heard from.

2. Oliver Cromwell Congdon, see above.

3. Oliver Cromwell Congdon, b. Aug. 14, 1776, and d. Mar. 26, 1835, at Syracuse, New York. He was m. Mar. 5, 1805 (1804), in Connecticut, to Lucinda Monk, who was b. Dec. 10, 1780 and d. at Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 17, 1847, aged 67 years. He was a farmer and lived at Syracuse, N. Y.

Their children were: i. Albert Bainbridge Congdon, b. Nov. 1805; ii. Abila Congdon, m. a Mr. Goddard. Have nothing more; iii. Amanda Congdon, m. a Mr. Kilmer; iv. Artemisia Congdon, m. a Mr. Danforth.

4. Eunice T. Congdon, b. July 7, 1778, d. Nov. 10, 1845, aged 67 years. She m. Sept. 18, 1797, John Bennett, who d. Jan. 8, 1850.

5, 6, 7, above.

8. Lima Congdon, b. Jan. 22, 1788, in Chautauqua County, New York. She m. William Woods, Mar. 2, 1811, in Tioga County, New York. For record of her descendants see under WOODS, following.

9. Helena Congdon, b. Oct. 22, 1790, d. Feb. 2, 1866, m. Oct. 22, 1842, to Johnathan Jenkins, who d. June 14, 1852, aged 71 years, 8 months, 4 days. Have no further record.

10. Hannibal Congdon, b. Dec. 25, 1792, at Amenia, Dutchess Co., New York. He d. Apr. 27, 1875. He m. 1st Mary Satchwell, Dec. 22, 1821, at Amenia, Dutchess Co., N. Y. She b. Aug. 27, 1799, and d. Nov. 9, 1830. He 2nd m. Harriett Orton, Jan. 29, 1833, who was b. Apr. 3, 1796, in Sharon, Litchfield Co., Conn. She d. May 31, 1846.

His children were: i. Sophia Salima, b. Oct. 28, 1822; ii. Sarah Eliza, b. June 3, 1824, in Rhineland, Dutchess Co., New York; iii. Sylvester Laurentus, b. Jan. 26, 1826, in Rhineland, Dutchess Co., N. Y.; iv. Mary Satchwell, b. Jan. 21, 1828, in Rhineland, Dutchess Co., N. Y.; v. Hannah Jane, b. May 16, 1830, in Sugarities, Ulster Co., New York.

By 2nd wife: vi. Harriett Jane, b. Mar. 13, 1837, in Rochester, Monroe Co., New York.

iii. Sylvester Laurentus Congdon, son of Hannibal and Mary Satchwell-Congdon, was born Jan. 26, 1826, at Rhineland, Dutchess County, New York. Married Laura Jane Adgate, July 11, 1852, at Lodi, New York, by the Rev. J. M. Brown. She was born Nov. 11, 1828, in Bethany, New York. He was a minister in the Methodist Church, and preached all over Northern New York, one of his larger charges being Rochester and Corning, where he died May 27, 1868, aged 42 years, 4 months, 1 day, having worn himself out in the service of the church.

Laura Jane Adgate-Congdon d. Nov. 26, 1901 at Geneva, N. Y.

A. Chester Adgate Congdon, b. June 12, 1853, in Rochester, New York, m. Clara Hesperia Bannister, Sept. 29, 1881, at Syracuse, N. Y., by Rev. Charles W. Bennett, D.D., of Syracuse. She b. Apr. 29, 1854, in San Francisco, Calif. He d. Nov. 21, 1916, at St. Paul, Minn., aged 63 years, 5 months, 9 days. She d. July 12, 1950, at Duluth, Minn., in her 97th year.

As a young man, Chester Congdon was educated and taught school for a short time, then studied law and with a partner opened a law office at St. Paul, Minn. This continued until 1892 he went to Duluth and there entered into a partnership with W. W. Billson. Later Judge Dickinson joined the firm, but upon his death the old name of Billson and Congdon was resumed.

Upon his death at St. Paul in November, the Duluth Herald gave a review of his life and activities, as related to Duluth and Minnesota, from which we quote excerpts: "He was in St. Paul in relation to political matters as National Committeeman of his party, when stricken with (heart attack-angina), then there were other complications, which caused his death."

"For many years Chester A. Congdon had been a prominent figure through his extensive business interests, and interest in political matters. It is generally accepted as a fact that Mr. Congdon was a very wealthy man at the time of his death.

"His philanthropy was general and quite well known, although he sought to keep it under cover and shrank from publicity in this regard. He was a leading member of the First Methodist Church and was one of its officers."

In public office he was a member of the charter commission of Duluth. "His first public office was that of assistant United States attorney for Minnesota, which office he held from 1881 to 1886. He was twice elected to the state legislature, in 1909 and 1911. He was looked upon there as a commanding figure, and performed valuable service for his district and for Northern Minnesota."

"Mr. Congdon was actuated by the highest and most unselfish motives in his entrance into civic, state and national affairs.

"Since coming to Duluth in 1892, Mr. Congdon had been connected with the mining business. He was general council of the Oliver Mining company, when Henry C. Oliver was president and before its consolidation with other companies forming the United States Steel Corporation. He had a large part in the development of the iron mining business in Minnesota. He was heavily interested in exploration projects to the last. In the mining business he was president of a number of companies, director in others, and heavily interested in still more. He was interested in Great Lakes shipping and several Duluth concerns valued him as officer. He was first vice president of the American Exchange National Bank, and was a director in the Marshall-Wells Hardware Company and in many other concerns."

Mr. Congdon was a descendant of Benjamine Congdon, b. 1650, d. 1718. The record of this Benjamine Congdon and Elizabeth Albro will be found on page 557 of this work. Through Benjamine Congdon, who married Elizabeth Albro, all descendants of Benjamine Congdon are also descendants of John and Dorothy Albro, of Portsmouth, Kings Town, Rhode Island. John Congdon, 2nd son Benjamine and Elizabeth Albro-Congdon, married as his second wife Ruth, whose last name we do not have, but whose issue includes John Congdon III, who first m. Eunice Tillotson, who d. Feb. 14, 1772. He m. 2nd Dorcas Huntley, b. Dec. 29, 1752, a daughter of William and Martha Huntley. Among their children were Lima Congdon, b. Jan. 22, 1788, at Owego, Tioga Co., New York, who married William Woods, descendant of James Woods, who came to the American Colonies in the middle sixteen thirties. This Lima Congdon-Woods was a great grandmother of this writer. Her brother, Hannibal Congdon, b. Dec. 25, 1792, who was the great grandfather of Chester Adgate Congdon.

On his maternal side, Mr. Congdon was a grandson of Chester V. Adgate and Hannah Berger, the latter a daughter of Berger and Jane Van Horn. The Adgates were from New England and presumably of English descent. The Bergers and Van Horn families were from the Hudson river valley and of Holland origin.

Jane Van Horn was a daughter of the head of the great banking firm of Phillips & Van Horn, which firm was a noted one during and after the American Revolutionary period.

Mr. Congdon was educated in the public schools of Elmira, New York, after which he attended the East Genesee Conference Seminary at Ovid, N. Y., and took the A.B. degree at Syracuse University in 1875. He was admitted to the bar of the state of New York, Oct. 13, 1877, and of the bar of Minnesota on Jan. 9, 1880.

Mrs. Clara Bannister-Congdon, of 3300 London Road, died at her home, July 12, 1950, in her ninety-seventh year. At the time of her death Mrs. Congdon was the only surviving member of her class which was the first full four-year graduating group, where she graduated 75 years ago. She had but recently received from Syracuse University the George Arantes pioneer medal for "Excellence in humane and cultural pursuits."

Mrs. Congdon was born in San Francisco, the daughter of a Methodist minister who founded what is now—1955—the College of the Pacific, at Stockton, Calif. After graduating from Syracuse University, Mrs. Congdon served as assistant preceptress, at Alexandra College, Bellville, Ontario, from 1876 to 1878. Then she accepted a post teaching art and modern languages for three years at Wyoming Seminary, at Kingston, Pennsylvania.

In 1881 she married a former classmate, Mr. Congdon, at that time assistant district attorney in St. Paul, Minn., from where they later moved to Duluth. Their children are:

THE WESTWARD TREK CONTINUES

There was a great discussion in the home of William Woods the late summer of 1834 as word had come from his brothers, James and Samuel Woods, who had gone with others to the Illinois country.

James and Samuel Woods and their group had gone overland, swimming rivers, dragging through swamps and sloughs. Making their difficult way along Indian trails as there were no roads. In many places through the Western Reserve, they had to cut away trees that had fallen across such trails as there were.

In their great Conestoga wagons they had taken all their worldly possessions. Farming tools, furniture, household goods, etc. It proved a long hard journey. It had almost worn out the entire party. The trip had taken most of the summer, and yet when they arrived upon the prairies of Illinois they felt well repaid for the struggle.

These families had worked their way from Massachusetts, New York, etc., felling timber to get ground enough to raise something upon which to live, with the wild game that was abundant. Occasionally a frontiersman had found a vale in the timber, as the Mc-Masters, William Taylor and William Woods II, at Owego, New York, where for some unknown reason trees had not grown. Those who found such spots were especially favored, as they could plant and raise food while building their log houses, and preparing their future homes.

Always there was danger from hostile Indians and worse, from renegade whites, who preyed upon the settlers. In Illinois they came upon vast natural prairies, where they did not have to clear the land before they could set their plows, and break ground for crops.

James Woods had written a letter to his brother William telling something about this country they had reached. Said he: "Here you can look three times and not see a tree." That one could look to the horizon, then walk to that point and so on for three times and still see no forest. He said the prairie sod was so firm and tough, that if one could get power enough to plow a furrow a mile long, and then could get added power, could drag away the furrow of sod. That folks were building their houses of this sod that would endure the rains and weather and still stand, if the eaves were left wide to protect the sod walls. That these folks actually made the roofs of their houses out of sod. That furrows were plowed, then the sod cut into lengths, piled one upon another, until a wall was high enough for a house, with opening for windows and doors. That such houses were warm in winter and cool in summer.

The folks to whom he wrote such stories just knew there could be no such country. That Woods was a liar and his word could not be taken. They had cut their way through timber all across Connecticut, Massachusetts, and New York, and so on into Indiana.

Too, he wrote that land was cheap, and there was still some open land that could be taken as claims. But the country was fast filling with eastern folks, and soon there would be no cheap land left. That people were flocking in from both the east and south.

This letter, as might be expected, caused a great furor and discussion. The Woods family seemed to be permanently settled in western New York, after having already moved several times after William Woods had married Lima Congdon, and taken her away from all her kin folks farther east. So she set herself definitely against any further move.

Why should they go west? They were doing well. William had a good trade as a mason and was busy most of the time. He was making a good living. They were comfortable. Why move? Then, too, Eunice Eureka had recently married James Mulvaney, lately come from Northern Ireland. He was content. Eunice was expecting and so did not want her mother to go so far away. It almost seemed like crossing the continent. Illinois was to them in the far west. Why go so far from all their relatives and friends? Why? Why? Why? was the constant cry.

Cyrenius Nelson was courting Mary Armstrong Sheldon, so was not too keen about going at such a time. No telling when if ever he could return for her, even if she were willing to wait for him. When it seemed sure the Woods family were really going, she decided she would wait as long as was necessary for Cyrenius to return for her. She was then just seventeen years old.

Young Hannibal Woods was full of enthusiasm. He did not yet have a girl friend to wait for him in York State, so he was all for going. So the discussion waxed strong and hot. What to do? Lima Woods was unwilling to move again and argued the long difficult trip her brother-in-law had made across the country. The hardships they had endured. The uncertainty of going into a new country. The Black Hawk war was just ended, of which they had but scant knowledge, but enough for her to use it for an argument. Had they not had enough of Indian troubles as it was? All the old stories about scalping and burnings were rehearsed again and again.

However, William had made up his mind. All that was left to do was persuade Lima that it was the thing to do. For they had always agreed upon any ventures. Lovers as they were they had done all things by mutual agreement.

Finally to cap the whole argument Lima said she would go, but she would not live in a log house, so there. She had lived in a log house all her life. She was born in a log house, and she was not going west to again live in a log house. She thought she had William cornered, as his brother had written that there was no timber or forests there. So, how could he build a log house?

Then to cinch her argument she said she would not live in a sod house. She did not know what a sod house was like, or what it would be like to live in one. But if he would promise to build her a frame house she would consent to go. She thought she had him stopped there. For if there was no timber how could he build a frame house?

But William was ready for that argument too. He said they would take the lumber along with them. How? Why, on a raft. They would go down to the river, cut timber, saw it into lumber and so build a raft. They would find a way. They had lived beside Lake Erie long enough to know something of rafting and boats on the lake.

Too, along the Allegheny river was an abundance of timber to be had for the taking. They would cut it, saw it into boards, and so get lumber for a raft, to carry them, and for a frame house in the Illinois country, as well. How little Lima knew of what lay ahead of her.

Talk had gone the rounds of the community and there were not lacking families who wanted also to go to this new country, where they would not have to grub their farms out of the timber, and farm amidst stumps for years before they would rot so they could be plowed out.

Woods had a growing family of boys for whom he wanted land, and here seemed the opportunity to secure enough for all.

Finally there were five families who agreed to work together getting out the logs to saw into lumber for the raft, as their share in the enterprise, and for the privilege of passage for themselves and their families to go to the Illinois country.

All the winter of 1834 and '35 they worked on the banks of the Allegheny river cutting logs. Getting them to the mill and sawing them into lumber for a raft. So the venture grew upon them. It was determined that this raft would have to be rather large to accommodate them all.

We can no longer remember the names of these five families. But we do know they worked together readying the lumber and the raft, and that it was a large one to carry the folks, their tools, a Conestoga wagon. Some furniture, some of which had been made for Lima for her wedding presnets. These could not be left. Too, there was a team of bred mare horses and their belongings, a bred cow, a bred sow, some chickens, and while I cannot now recall, but probably a dog as well. Everyone had to have a dog.

Some of the women who were to go along cooked for the men as they worked in the camp that winter. Fortunately it was an open winter, so they could work steadily.

The logs were cut, sawed into lumber, and the raft assembled, ready for the spring high water for their start down the river. They built a shack on the rear of the raft for shelter for the women and children. A tent did for the men and boys on the front of the raft. The team, wagon and supplies were loaded about midway of the raft.

This raft had two great sweeps on the rear, with a third fixed on the down river end to help keep it in the current, and to guide it on its way. For many long weary weeks men had worked and planned for this adventuring into the far west.

From time to time Lima Woods had visited their camp to criticize and make suggestions. She was a practical sort of woman. It was she who suggested the shack on the rear of the raft for the women and children. Too, she made suggestions as to the arrangement of the stuff to be taken along. She had finally gotten into the spirit of the adventure and was determined that it should be as carefully and practically worked out as their ingenuity could devise. She did not now propose to have the venture fail for lack of prudence and planning. Here was being assembled the material for a frame house in the west. She had never lived in a frame house. Here was material for her new home. So she took great interest in all that was being done.

Finally all was near readiness. Goods assembled. Furniture stowed and lashed fast in the wagon. Feed for the stock was aboard. Seeds and other necessities for the new home and country. James Woods had mentioned some things they had failed to carry along, and these were now included in this stuff, so taking advantage of his mistakes.

Came the time for Lima to get her family to the landing. She had no worry about the boys as they had been with their father, helping in the work all winter. There was then a stage running from Dunkirk to Westfield, with a day's lay over at Westfield between trips. When it arrived in the early evenings at Westfield the tavern keeper told the driver, Peter Cramton, that he could make some extra money taking Mrs. Will Woods and her girls over to a landing on the Alleghaney river, where was a raft on which some families were going to the Illinois country. So after supper Peter visited Mrs. Woods and made plans for the trip and the sum he was to be paid for the trip to the landing. There was much discussion about the adventure. Mrs. Woods was now enthusiastic, and told the young fellow all about their plans, while the girls listened and watched this young chap.

Peter was fancy free. He had no entangling affairs with girls. So far he had kept himself free from them. But, he did look more than once at one of the Woods girls, and when next morning he brought the stage coach around, he managed to fill it pretty full of baggage, food, etc., that was to be taken along. So when it was all loaded, there was but one place left for Dorcas Woods, that was beside the driver on the high seat. Mrs. Woods had been so occupied with getting all the stuff stowed, she had not seen the exchange of glances between her daughter Dorcas and the stage driver.

The morning was a glorious spring one, with all the promise of the coming summer, and the old saying, "In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love." At any rate, during this early morning drive these young people had opportunity to become acquainted. With young enthusiasm she told of the plans of her family and the others who were going on the raft.

Arriving at the landing on the river, Mrs. Woods was again busy with all the storing and stowing of the stuff, so she had no time to notice the young folks. However, young blood was stirring. Dorcas had never had a beau, as she had a deformity on one shoulder. The young fellows had courted her sister, but she had been left to one side. She had worked on a large spinning wheel, on which she had to reach. This had thrown her shoulder out of place and this was not discovered until it was too late to spring it back into place, so she went all her life with a hump shoulder.

Not strange then, that she should be interested in this young stage driver who had contrived to have her ride with him on the driver's seat. What young woman has lived who did not and could not appreciate such small attentions?

Dorcas had had much to say about all their plans and the talk had run on and on, about their coming trip down the river to the Illinois country. Peter suddenly remembered that his brother Samuel Cramton had also gone to the Illinois country the previous year. He had thought little enough about it all until now. But there now developed a sudden interest in this raft that was going down river and finally to the western country. A sudden asking himself why he did not go along. Perhaps it could be arranged.

As he and Dorcas talked about the plans and trip, nothing else seemed to matter to him. How could he manage to go along? What would he have to do? Who would he have to ask about all this? Dorcas was ready with the answers. Her father, of course. Her father was the one who had planned it all. The others were just going along. Her father was boss of the raft. It was to provide their new home in the west.

Now Peter Cramton was a carpenter and joiner by trade, so he could appreciate what all this meant to them. So, upon reaching the landing, as soon as he could, he approached William Woods with the proposition that he go along. He was a carpenter, so would come in handy when they reached their destination. Woods, who had never before seen this young man, looked him over with some question. Any number of young fellows had wanted to go along, but there was no room. Now here was another young chap asking for a ride. What to do?

Finally he said a young fellow would not get far in that new country with nothing but his bare hands. He would need some funds, as well as tools and experience. But Peter assured him he had saved three hundred dollars, hard money. (Script was of little value outside the community in which it was issued.) But hard money. That would talk, and three hundred dollars was a lot of money for a young fellow to have. He promised to think it over.

What he wanted was opportunity to talk it over with Lima, his wife. He would trust her judgment in such matters. What to do? "Well," she said, "he seemed nice and thoughtful. He had been so kind and helpful in getting her there and looking after all her matters. Might be a good thing to have an extra man along, and Peter looked as though he could look after himself, and it might be a good thing." Until now she had not realized this young fellow's especial interest in the care of her daughter, to whom other young men paid little attention.

At any rate it was decided to take Peter Cramton along if he could get his gear together and be ready when they started. So he hastened back to Westfield, gave up his job as stage driver, got his tools and personals together and was back at the landing in time. There was the more zest in all this, as it had been questioned whether he could be ready. But he was, and in good time.

Finally the day had come for starting this long water trip to the west. Members of the family who were not yet going, friends of all the families who were going and many others had gathered on that early spring morning in 1835 to see their kinsfolks and friends set out on so hazardous a trip. The Illinois country seemed so far away. They knew so little about it, or of the people there. Only rumors had come of the Indian wars, and the trouble that followed. In the midst of many tears in parting, the shouting of those who were staying behind, the raft was loosed from its moorings and started down the Alleghany river.

Those first days on the raft were interesting and exciting for all aboard. Especially for the women and children as to them it was a great adventure. To the men it was a time of suspense. None of them had ever built a raft before. They just had their natural judgment to guide them. Could it be kept in the current and kept from capsizing, or taking water aboard?

The first days there was a shifting of gear so as to equalize weight and give the raft a chance to help itself. They had nothing to fear from the river, yet it seemed wise to tie up at night along the banks. Wherever they could a couple of good sized trees were used as anchorage. Then a watch had to be maintained against the possibility of floating logs or debris on the water. Too, there was the matter of adjusting the human cargo. Here were a group of folks who were known to each other and to all, except Peter Cramton, who had joined up later. But he soon made himself so agreeable as to be readily accepted by all.

Lima Woods soon began to realize there was more to Peter's wanting to go west than the mere wanting to join the group. But he was kind to her and did so many kindnesses to both she and all the women that he was looked upon with favor. There was a single exception to all this. Elizabeth King Woods, the seven year old daughter, did not take to Peter. He took up too much of Dorcas' time. She had been the pet of the family and Dorcas had lavished her love and care on Elizabeth. Now there was some one else to interest Dorcas. When Dorcas and Peter were courting, Elizabeth would cry out to her mother, "Why can't Dorcas come to bed?" so Grandma used to say she almost hated the name of Dorcas. This feeling of antipathy on Elizabeth's part carried through her family in later years, and they never forgot her attitude towards the Cramtons.

During these early days on the river they learned the things they were still in need of and planned to secure many necessary things at Pittsburg, as they passed that town. It was decided to inquire about many matters touching the traffic down the Ohio, and if possible learn the better places to make necessary stops. Those first days acted as a sort of settling and sifting process. Any unnecessary things could be easily disposed of, and needed things added. So with all it was an interesting and busy time for all.

Not only the humans aboard had to accustom themselves to the motions of the raft, but the animals too, had to adjust to this new means of locomotion. At first the horses and the cow were inclined to be fractious, but they soon settled to the steady movement of the raft.

Reaching Pittsburg town, they were to learn of dangers seen and unseen. They purchased needed supplies to carry them the rest of the way. They learned many things about the down river traffic on the Ohio. They also learned they must be ever on guard against lawless Indians and renegade whites, and that either or both would kill the whole group if they felt they could thus secure the raft and its contents.

They learned that flat boats going down river had been taken over by outlaws and the owners killed and dropped into the river as food for the fish. They were advised by rivermen that they must tie up every night and also set a watch, so as not to be surprised and caught napping.

They soon found they were not the only ones going west by water. Steamers were loaded with emigrants going to various places in the west and south. They heard much raillery as they told they were going to Illinois. Some advised one place, some another. But they did not change their destination.

However, they did hear much about "Ioway," and Peter Cramton decided he was going to look farther into the matter of the "Ioway" country. It was not yet opened to settlement, but there were people who had gone in just the same.

So the raft started on its way, after some delay at Pittsburg, with the good wishes of many who wished they too were going west.

As they made their way down stream, the group organized, so that each man knew his work and watch at night was planned and each told where and when their station was. They had heard enough at Pittsburg to become convinced they were in real danger should they become careless. Too, by the time they reached Pittsburg they had learned to manage their raft, and how it would respond. So they were in better form to carry on.

The country was new to them. There were so many interesting things to see. Along the river there were villages that were to become cities. The country was being broken out and settled, so they saw many people as they passed. Often they were near enough the banks so they could call to folks alongside. These often asked where they were bound for, and if they knew what the country was like where they were going. Too, they received many invitations from villagers to stop and settle among them.

It was when on watch, when Peter Cramton was on duty as watchman, that he and Dorcas did their courting and had opportunity to become better acquainted. Moonlight nights were the same with them as moonlight nights have ever been with lovers. Plans were discussed. They were pledged to each other. Dorcas was a young girl, but eighteen years old, while Peter was twenty-eight, so more mature. However, they both seemed to know their own minds, and their pledging each to the other pleased the Woods family. All except Elizabeth, who would have none of Peter. He was taking all of Dorcas' attention.

On the raft all were thrown together in so close contact they soon learned how to get along together. Then their common ambition to get to the Illinois country was an added incentive to give and take on such close association. So with a few exceptions they were a happy working community, each willing to do their share and more if by so doing they were helped on their way.

After passing Cincinnati they began to ask about getting a tow up the Mississippi river. They were soon to reach a stage on their journey when they could no longer just float with the current. They must have help.

This river journey was not to be all a picnic. They soon found there were realities in life that must be met. Not long after leaving Pittsburg a boat had put out from the shore, with a white man and two Indians. They hailed the men on the raft, then circled it, apparently to learn how many were on it and how well they were guarded. They asked where the party was going and to what part of the Illinois country they were headed.

However, they soon learned here was a group well able to care for their party. William Woods and the men of the party stood upon each corner of the raft with their long rifles in hand. They seemed well able to care for themselves and for those committed to their charge.

Soon the boat with its crew put into the shore and so left the raft and its party to go on their way. However, that night they pushed across the river and tied up on the south bank. The watch was alert all night through, lest they be surprised.

There were inconveniences to be met. Rain fell for entire days at a time. They were drenched, their bedding got damp, and they felt draggled and uncomfortable. But they accepted this as a part of what was to be expected and so made the best of their situation.

Then the sun would come out again. Spring was in the air. The country was beautiful. Promise was on every hand. The new country was just ahead and they had good hope of reaching the end of their journey without undue hardship.

Often steamboats would seem to pause as they passed to exchange words with the raft party, and much good advice was received from Captains who were familiar with the river, and with conditions along the way. So they were told how to wait for a tow up river after they reached the Mississippi. There were steamboat Captains who were friendly and some who were not so friendly. They were told to get a small steamer that could push them up stream better than some of the larger boats.

Making good time as they drifted with the current they congratulated themselves that they had chosen to come by river rather than overland as James and Samuel Woods had done the previous year.

There was some hope that they could reach their destination in time to put in some crops for use the following winter.

Too, they learned much about the river itself and how to best manage the raft both as they tied up at night and as they started in the morning. Only once did they have real trouble. Then it was a sand bar. They had been caught by the waves of a passing steamboat and so were shoved up on this sand bar, and when the steamer had passed they were fast grounded.

They harnessed their team, swam them to the nearby shore, hitched them to a long rope, then when everything was in readiness they waited hoping for another steamboat to pass, and so give them a lift. They waited, their rope snubbed to a tree, until in the late afternoon another boat passed, then with the help of the waves they were able to pull free from the sandbar.

That night they tied up nearby, loaded their horses, and by morning were ready to start on their way, much wiser to the ways of steamboats and how to watch out for sandbars. They counted this as a well learned lesson and not altogether as time lost.

They had built their raft by rule of thumb and not with experience, so they were soon to learn they did not need so many sweeps, except when a steamboat passed near at hand. Then these sweeps were of real value in keeping them free from sandbars.

The river seemed alive with folks. Steamboats loaded to the rails. Other rafts going down river like themselves. Flat boats passing and often keeping close so they could readily carry on a conversation with the people on them. Some going to St. Louis, while others were going farther down river. All carrying produce of one kind or another, for the cities to which they were going.

They found others like themselves who were going up the Mississippi to points as far north as Minnesota. They had heard of the timber country and were going there, either to work in the timber or to settle there. For the most part these people, they found, were earnest kindly folks who were seeking a new life and greater opportunity in a new country. Hopes were high and good wishes were expressed for all who were journeying on.

They found many had heard stories of the great west and were going to St. Louis hoping to join some caravan going into the far west. So there was much good natured chaffing and raillery. The folks on steamboats said they were going too slow and that all the good land would be taken up long before they arrived. This good natured chaffing did not dampen the feelings of the rafters. They remembered the story of James Woods, as they had made their way overland the previous year.

That journey had taken all summer and was bitter in its hardships for all the party. This group on the raft did not feel they were enduring any special hardships, except when the rain was continuous for days at a time, and that was for the most part inconvenient. But when the sun again appeared, the rain was forgotten. They ruffled their bedding and dried themselves like any wet hen ruffling her feathers.

They were making fast time down river, and looking ahead with some concern as to whether they could hope to do as well when it came to going up river. Then would come the real tug, to get a tow and so make time against the down current.

Reaching the Mississippi river, they waited for a steamboat to push them up the river. They had not too long to wait when a boat came by going up stream. Woods made a deal easily as he had hard money with which to trade. They were pushed up to the mouth of the Rock, and there were taken on by a smaller boat and so pushed well up the Rock River to Illinois City, where they felt they had reached journey's end. It was not true, but so they thought then.

Illinois City had been laid out by eastern promoters with the one thought of selling lots to others. A plat had been made showing a well laid out town. But nothing had really been done, except make promises. Where Woods landed became the town of Harrison, in what became Winnebago County, later. The land was then all included in Whiteside County. The settlers did not arrive until much later.

A prospectus had been drawn of Illinois City. This told in glowing terms that this new city was to be the county seat of the county, and would become one of the fastest growing towns in the west, But there was no town or county government at the time of the arrival of Woods and his company. There was plenty of free land, and all but Peter Cramton seem to have filed upon claims, soon after their arrival. What was to become the capital was The Ford, later Rockford, on the Rock River.

This prospectus, a copy of which may be found in the Public Library at Rockford, Illinois, has a map showing Illinois City, in what afterwards became a part of Whiteside County. The town did not grow. Did not become the county seat as promised, and the location is lost.

When these voyagers passed what was later called The Ford, there was no activity to indicate there was to be a settlement there later. Afterwards they were to learn of activity at The Ford. Of Kent, Blake and Haight and their relation to The Ford.

Reaching their destination in Harrison Township, as it came to be called, their first concern was to file upon desired land, and to get the house built that Lima had insisted upon having for her home in the new country. She had said she would never again live in a log house, nor in a sod house, although she had never seen a sod house so really did not know what such a house was like.

James Woods had already selected a plot of land for them to settle upon, so the raft was dismembered and building begun. In this Peter Cramton became very useful indeed as he knew the trade of a carpenter. All turned to, to get the house enclosed so they might have shelter.

Peter Cramton had agreed to purchase a part of the lumber for a house for himself and Dorcas when they were married. They had learned much about the "Ioway" country as they came along the rivers, and folks were arguing as to when this new Indian country would be opened for settlement. It was agreed that it was a good land, and the first settlers would have a pick of claims.

Peter and Dorcas agreed they would like a home in "Ioway" and so they planned. When the Woods house was well along and some crops had been put in against the coming winter, Peter assembled his part of the raft for the journey to the "Ioway" country, as it had been decided to go by way of the rivers.

Others beside James and Samuel Woods were interested in this new country about The Ford. During the summer of 1834 two men, Thatcher Blake and Germanicus Kent had set out from Galena into the country to the east, driving with a team of horses as they went east. No roads or even a trail except that of the Indians. When they reached the Rock river Thatcher Blake was seeking a town site, while Germanicus Kent sought a mill site. They were sure this country would soon fill up with settlers and wanted to be in early on the ground. So the two men decided to act together and join interests.

Thatcher Blake had been born at Turner, Oxford County, Maine, on March 16, 1809. He came west early in 1834 seeking a location in the Illinois country. He had come up the Mississippi river to Galena where were lead mines, and there met Germanicus Kent, who was also seeking a definite location in the west. Kent was born at Suffolk, Connecticut, on May 31, 1790. He had gone first to New York, then to Alabama, and later to Galena where his brother, Rev. Aratus Kent, was a Presbyterian minister.

These two decided to unite interests, and set out together to find desired locations. They secured a team of horses, and a democrat wagon and made their way, first to Freeport, where was an Indian Camp, then through southern Wisconsin territory to the Pecatonica River, then down to where the Pecatonica joined the Rock River. There they left their team and secured a boat for further exploration. At the joining of the Pecatonica and the Rock, Stephen Mack, the only white man in all this country, had a trading post.

Stephen Mack had married an Indian Princess, Ho-on-e-gah, daughter of the Pottawatomie Chief and was raising a family. Mack was an educated man. He got along well with the Indians and this made it easier for the new settlers to get along with the Indians also. It was after the coming of Thatcher Blake and Germanicus Kent, that Stephen Mack married the Princess Ho-on-egah on Sept. 14, 1840, by William Hulin, Justice of the Peace. The marriage license had been issued June 5, 1838, and was number 36 in the record book. No reason why the delay, although they were already living as man and wife.

When Kent and Blake came to the Rock the only white man except Mack as neighbors were fifty miles east at Elgin, and at Dixon, forty miles south, with no others between him and the Lakes.

Leaving their horses with Mack they secured a boat and so made their way down the Rock River to what became The Ford, then on into what became Ogle County later. Finding no location that suited them as well as at the ford they returned there. Here was a creek joining the Rock, later called Kent's Creek. Here Blake chose a grove as his location, later called Blake's Grove. Germanicus located on the creek, which he felt could be dammed and so furnish power for a grist mill.

One can but marvel at their foresight, as there was as yet nothing to indicate the need for such a mill and no promise of a settlement. But the country was filling up to the east and south, and these men were sure this part would soon settle, as well. Kent built a log house on the creek, while Blake built in the grove. Kent's family did not arrive from Galena until 1835, and Blake boarded with them for some time after.

About this time Daniel Haight built a log cabin on the east side of the river, called the Rock by the Indians as it was floored with stone for a long distance. Thatcher Blake laid out a town on the west bank of the river believing this was the natural location for a town. The Ford was the only natural crossing of the Rock river and Blake was sure here a large town would be built.

But Haight was sure the east side of the river was the best location and there laid out a town, but with all streets mismatching with the streets on the west side of the river. This spite has caused endless confusion through all the years since, as bridges could not conform to the streets.

Later Haight built a second log house, so had a double house which became a tavern, a store and a post office, Circuit Court room, etc. All official meetings seem to have been held at his house on the east side of the river.

In a few short years these dreams began to come true. Emigrants coming by way of the great lakes towards the western country found the natural ford their best way in to this untamed land, and many stopped on both sides of the ford which came to be called Rockford. Men who had worked for Kent on his dam on Kent's creek, and those who had worked for Thatcher Blake spread the word around of what was being done at the Ford, and increasing numbers settled on both sides of the river. In the years following settlers poured into this location and farms began to be occupied and crops put in.

William Woods was urged by both Blake and Kent to come locate near them, while Haight urged that they come locate on his side of the river, as he was sure the east side of the river would become a town of consequence. When farm work did not occupy all their time Woods and his sons did much work at the new town, as Woods was a good mason and work was easily to be had.

There was as yet no law or order in this part of Illinois. The settlers were forced to lean upon their own ideas of justice and right. There followed much lawlessness of various sorts. Many who early came to these parts were renegades who had been forced to leave other localities. Many horses were stolen from settlers. There seems to have been a ring of horse thieves who would steal from settlers in these parts, sell them in Missouri, and steal from settlers in Missouri and sell in northern Illinois.

But it is not this writer's purpose to go into the history of this territory, nor to deal with others who made their homes there. Sufficient to say the State Legislature determined to organize this territory into counties, as it was unorganized when the Woods family arrived in 1835. Out of this territory grew the counties of Winnebago, with Rockford as its capital, Kane and Ogle. Until public buildings should be erected, official county meetings, the courts, etc., should be held at the home of Daniel Haight, or that of Germanicus Kent, as the commissioners should direct. For the most part these were held at the home of Haight. His house was also a tavern, store and post office.

The writer of a History of Winnebago County, Illinois, published in 1875, after giving the names of a number of people who settled at the Ford, says there may have been others. It seems rather strange that the men who helped in the building of Rockford were ignored. But such seems to have been the case. It was a matter of recognizing those who subscribed for the new history and a few others who could not have well been ignored, were named. There are in that volume the photos of many men who came to the locality long afterwards, and who built upon foundations already laid, who were made much more of than those who really laid those foundations.

However, it needs to be said and will be said that William Woods, his son, Cyrenius Nelson Woods, who was also a mason, but who became a farmer in the county, with Peter Cramton, who after losing his claim in the Ioway country, returned to Rockford as a builder, and later became a farmer in Ogle county. These men all worked upon many of the early buildings in Rockford.

From all the information now obtainable, Samuel Woods, brother of William, and Samuel Cramton, brother of Peter, had settled farther south in Ogle County, as had James Woods, and where Peter Cramton later had his farm in the northern part of the county, south of Rockford.

Francis Mulvaney, born in North Ireland, had married Eunice Eureka Woods at West field, New York, had come to Rockford with his family in 1838, and their second daughter, Mary Mulvaney, who later was to marry Charles Amos Temple, was born at Rockford in 1839. Mulvaney became a farmer in Winnebago County and raised his family there.

Cyrenius Nelson Woods returned to Westfield, New York in 1842 where he married Mary Armstrong Sheldon on October 1, 1842, and they returned to Rockford on their honeymoon, and settled in Winnebago County, near Harrison. They became the ancestors of a large and honorable family, as will be seen by a further perusal of this record.

Charles Amos Temple, who first married Mary Mulvaney, who died in 1862, and second married Mellissa Woods, a cousin of his first wife, and a daughter of Cyrenius N. Woods, in 1866, after his return from the Civil War. They too, became ancestors of a large and honorable family. Many of them reside in Texas where the family located in the late eighteen eighties, after having lived in Grundy County, Iowa and later at Tescott, Kansas, and finally settled at Palestine, Texas. This family is widely scattered in 1953, many members living in California, as well as in Texas.

It is to be remembered, however, that all these families had their beginning in Winnebago County, Illinois. True, the name of William Woods does not appear in the lists of voters when the election for the organization of the county was held. We have no explanation for this, but there is indubitable evidence that he was living in the bounds of what became Winnebago county, at the time of the election.

It is also a matter of record that at the time of his death he owned a farm near the town of Harrison in the northwest part of Winnebago County. However, the family were living in a double stone house in South Rockford when his wife, Lima Congdon-Woods died in 1863.

On one occasion William Woods took a load of wheat to Chicago for sale and for it was offered ten acres of land facing on what became downtown State street, but refused, saying he must have cash to buy food and clothing for his family.

WILLIAM WOODS III

William Woods III, born in Owego, Tioga County, New York on March 18, 1789, after his parents came to Owego, in Tioga County, where his father, William Woods II had come with William McMaster, his brother, Robert McMaster, William Taylor, and John Neely, a bound boy, first in 1784. This William Woods was a son of William Woods and Naomi Woods, of James Woods, of Massachusetts, but we have no further word of him. We do not know the name of the mother of our William Woods, as her name is not given in the records of Florida, Montgomery County, New York, nor in the records in Tioga County.

He married Lima Congdon on March 2, 1811. She born a daughter of John and Dorcas Huntley-Congdon on January 22, 1788, in Tioga County, New York. She died September 13, 1863 at Rockford, Ill. Buried same. He died February 18, 1866, at Rockford, Ill., in the home of his son-in-law, Adam S. Lake, and was buried in the Greenwood Cemetery there.

Their children were: I. Eunice Eureka Woods, b. Dec. 1811, in Owego, Tioga County, New York; II. Cyrenius Nelson; III. Hannibal; IV. Dorcas Lucinda; V. Helena, b. 1820; VI. John Benoni, b. 1822; VII. Oliver Forrest, b. 1824; VIII. Elizabeth King, b. June 19, 1828, in Chautauqua Co., New York.

I. Eunice Eureka Woods, b. Dec. 15, 1811, in Owego, Tioga Co., New York, m. Francis Mulvaney, 1834, near Westfield, New York. He b. in Ireland. Do not know date of his birth, nor place, nor date he arrived in the U.S.A. Their first two children were born at Westfield, N. Y. They came to Illinois in 1837, and farmed in Harrison Twp., Winnebago Co., Ill., She d. June 13, 1850, on a stage returning from Chicago. Buried in Rockford, Ill. He d. in Owen, Ill. Buried there.

Their children were: 1. James Mulvaney, b. Sept. 16, 1835, near Westfield, New York, m. Mary Hollenbeck, but do not know the date. II. Cyrenius Nelson Woods, b. Nov. 20, 1813, in Genessee Co., N. Y. The Family Bible says 1813, while other records say 1814. m. Mary Armstrong Sheldon, Oct. 1, 1842, in Westfield, N. Y. She b. June 6, 1818, at Westfield, N. Y. She d. June 16, 1884 in Garden Prairie, Ill. Buried at Rockford.

He was killed at the Battle of Winchester, Tennessee, Aug. 12, 1863. He was buried with full military honors at Rockford, Ill. Buried in Greenwood Cemetery. He was a farmer in Ogle Co., Ill. He was a Methodist.

Mary Sheldon-Woods went to Grundy Co., Iowa, and took up land as a soldier's widow, in Colfax Twp. There she saw to the planting of a fine grove of trees, as required, and to the development of the land. This land she later gave to her son Sheldon Woods in 1875. He had worked for a family named Crossman at Keokuk, Iowa, and later married Lorena Crossman and brought her to this farm as a part of their honeymoon. Here their family were born as will appear.

Mary Sheldon-Woods married Joshua A. Sackett, Apr. 3, 1872. They lived on his farm south of Rockford until her death in 1884.

Cyrenius had come with his father and the family to the Illinois country on the raft in 1835, when he was twenty years old, and helped them get settled; then in 1842 he returned to Westfield, N. Y., to claim as his bride Mary Armstrong Sheldon, who had promised to wait for him.

Four months before he was killed at Winchester, Tenn., Cyrenius Nelson Woods wrote from Murfreesboro, Tennessee, to his brother Hannibal Woods and his sister, Dorcas Woods-Cramton, the letter which follows:

(The original letter was stolen when the author's car was robbed at Berkeley, California, in 1946.)

A LETTER

Following is a letter written by Cyrenius Nelson Woods, from Camp at Murfreesboro, Tennessee, to his brother, Hannibal Woods, and secured from the files of Andrew Nelson Woods, son of Hannibal Woods. The letter follows, an exact copy.

"In Camp near Murfreesboro, Tenn., April 16th, '63

Brother Hannibal and Family: I received yours of the 5th yesterday and Sister Dorcas of the 6th with it. Glad to hear that you are well. Yours found me well also. I am now weighing within three pounds of my highest weight. I have been sick some. I was taken with the yellow jaundice at Nashville and was off duty about 7 weeks. Still I was not confined to bed any day, although I was most beautifully steeped with jaundice. I was in Nashville at the time of the Battle of Stone River. At that time I could hardly get up or down a flight of stairs. Vitality has so nearly left my limbs. I came up with the 74th on the 20th of January, and have been with them since. Lieut. Andrews resigned on the 20th Ins and went home. I do not charge him with lying to get his Discharge papers, but he did tell some very large Truths. I have my commission as 1st Lieut. Dating back to the 19th. January, from Governor of Illinois, and my Captain has this day been Detailed, (and ordered to report at Brigade Head Quarters, forthwith) as Brigade Provost Marshall. So I am left in command of the Company. He draws the same pay but he has a Horse to ride instead of going on foot. We have a beautiful camp here, and we have a very comfortable time here, we have to take our share of Picket, and Outpost Duty. Our Picket Line is about 1 mile out from the camp, we are out 24 hours when we go on picket, and about 4 days, at a time on Outpost, sometimes more if we get out, on a Scout after Reb's. Once when we were out, we took in 104 butternuts, we having 2 men wounded, and they about sixty, our men rushed into their camp and took them by surprise, 6 miles from Eagleville, our posses have continued to bring in a good many Prisoners since we have been here, and they have taken some of ours. You ask me to tell you about the War, how it is progressing. It is a hard question for a man that is in the army to answer, we can not tell what is going on in the army as well as you in the North can, except what transpires under our immediate notice, the impression prevails here generally that we have got them by the wool. One thing is certain this army is right in the center of their Granery, and we have got everything there is in middle Tenn. Kentucky is stripped and so is this state as far as the two armies have marched in it, and that is all the best of the State, what the people are to live on (those that are left) is more than I can see, and they cannot raise any crop here this season, there is in the first place, no fence to protect a crop except a little in some by place, it is all burned up to cook soldiers' meat and boil their coffee, and to keep them warm thousands upon thousands of splendid Red Cedar Rails have been, and are still being Burned, and in the next place there is no teams scarcely to do any work, there is nothing in the way of Horses or mules left that are good for anything, and scarcely any one left to use them. There are a few old folks and a few Negroes, but the most of them are within our lines at work for the U.S. Everything is so high down here that if there was anything for them to buy I cannot see how they can stand it to buy a great while. How the south is to sustain an army very much longer is more than I can see.

I think we shall not all stay here a great while longer. As soon as Burnside gets our rear cleared up a little, I think some of this army will move, although many of our Officers think this army will never have another Gen'l Fight. It seems that this, and the Battle of Perryville, is satisfactory to our soldiers. Yet if it is necessary, then will fight them again, If we have to fight them, I wish they would come here and attack us, but I expect they will never do it. I do not believe, with the number and size of the Guns, and the preparation and Troops we have within striking distance of this place and that they can bring force enough to us; to drive us out of here.

This place is fortified and Intrenched for miles and troops so stationed and Encamped all around that they cannot surprise us.

You said in yours toward the close, that you had not Much to write that would be interesting, but did not tell me that you and Electa had given your Hearts to God and started in a Religious Course of life, and yet those few words would have been more interesting to me than anything else you could have written, but I have received such news, and it was most joyous to me, and now trust you will both be faithful to the end of Life's journey and that if we meet no more on earth, we shall meet by and by, where our Savior dwells. I have received $400, of the Paymaster, and U.S. owes me over $400. more. I expect he will pay us up to the first of March. Now in a very few days, as he has commenced to pay in this division.

My Family has been very much afflicted through the winter Emily and Mellissa both being very sick with typhoid fever. Mellissa first then Emily, and after they got up Edgar was taken, as I understand with bilious Fever, and after getting it pretty much broken up he took a relapse and got down very Low but Mary wrote me on the 6th that he had got so he could walk out into the Kitchen and had a craving appetite. It takes my Farmer away to have him sick. Although Mary told me that Sheldon had got the wood and done the chores. Father and Mother has moved to Rockford again. Bought him another House and lot in South Rockford. Sold everything he had pretty much.

Dorcas said she should return to Illinois the first of May. This may reach you before she leaves, if so she can consider part of this for her.

It is getting to be Bed time, so I will bid you good by for this time and repair to my Soldiers Couch, Praying that God will Protect us all and especially save us from Sin.

H.Woods. Your Brother in Love. Lieut. C. N. Woods.

Then this address was at the top of the last page, upside down.

Direct. Lieut. C. N. Woods, Co. F. 74th Reg, Ill. Vols. via Nashville, Tenn."

This letter reached Hannibal Woods at Spencers Grove in Benton County, Iowa, where his sister Dorcas Lucinda Woods-Cramton was then visiting. This Dorcas Woods-Cramton was mother of Olive Cramton-McMillan, mother of the writer of this sketch, and so Cyrenius Nelson Woods was a great uncle of this writer who was named Nelson for him.

ISSUE OF CYRENIUS NELSON and MARY ARMSTRONG SHELDON-WOODS

1. Emily Woods, b. Aug. 20, 1843, at Owen Center, Winnebago Co., Illinois, m. Richard Long, Jr., July 12, 1860, at Owen Center, Winnebago Co., Illinois. He b. May 5, 1843, north of Cincinnati, Ohio. He d. Aug. 19, 1892, of cancer, at Mason City, Iowa. Buried same. She d. Oct. 10, 1926, at Mason City, Iowa. Buried same.

Richard Long Jr., had been seriously ill from lung trouble for some time, and his doctors advised him to seek a change of climate and location. So he was on his way west and stopped at Mason City to see his sister. There, hearing of a farm that was to be sold at auction under a foreclosure, as it had been overbuilt. He went to the court house to see what was going on, bid on and rather to his surprise bought the farm. He had owned a large farm of 300 acres in Ogle County, Illinois, south of Rockford. Here they had lived and farmed and here their children were born and raised to young manhood and womanhood. Richard was a horse fancier and breeder, raised and drove fine horses. The family were Methodists.

Richard Long Jr. and his family came to Mason City, Iowa, in March 1882, and here they made their home until his death ten years later, while his widow continued to live at Mason City until her death October 10, 1926.

The farm north of Mason City was underlaid with a fine grade of limestone, and at a later date the entire farm had been uncovered and the stone removed for making cement, so in our day it was just a vast heap of refuse. This land lay, in 1953, within the city limits of Mason City, Iowa.

CHAPTER XXVII

CHARLES AMOS TEMPLE

CHARLES AMOS TEMPLE

Charles Amos Temple was born Dec. 15, 1830, at Dummerston, Vermont, the son of Amos Temple and Marilla Bennett.

Amos Temple removed to Kansas prior to 1879 where he died Aug. 2, 1879.

The family of Amos Temple consisted of: I. Sarah, b. Jan. 9, 1829, m. Addison Pierce about 1886; II. Charles Amos Temple, b. Dec. 15, 1830; III. Joseph, b. 1833; IV. Warren, b. Feb. 1, 1837, d. 1857; V. Amy, b. June 29, 1839, m. Hiram Johnson, June 1, 1863.

Charles Amos Temple of Abraham 1; Richard 2; Abraham 3; Richard 4; Joseph 5; Joseph 6; Joseph 7; Amos 8; born Dec. 15, 1830, m. Mary A. Mulvaney (of Francis and Eureka Woods-Mulvaney) on Mar. 23, 1858, at Rockford, Ill., who died in May 1862, after giving him his first daughter Clara, who died in a prairie fire when but three years old.

He 2nd m. Mellissa Woods (of Cyrenius Nelson and Mary Armstrong Sheldon-Woods, and a cousin of his first wife), on Feb. 14, 1866, of Winnebago, Ill. She d. Dec. 3, 1881, at Tescott, Kansas, and is buried in the Franklin Cemetery there.

Children by 2nd marriage were: I. Mary, b. Feb. 9, 1867, m. John Baptist Bars, June 25, 1883; II. Clara L., b. Sept. 12, 1868, m. Apr. 15, 1897, John Smock at Mason City, Iowa. He d. Margaret Elizabeth Robertson, of Tishomingo, Indian Territory, Aug. 4, 1891. Divorced and 2nd m. Ollie Irena Hyde, Oct. 1902, at Tishomingo, Indian Territory. Divorced 1909. He m. 3rd Lillian Beverly Coyle, Nov. 20, 1920, at Lincoln, Kan. IV. Nancy H., b. Oct. 6, 1872, m. Oct. 17, 1889, William Jasper Shaver of Palestine, Texas. V. Richard S., b. Mar. 20, 1876, m. July 12, 1895, Annie Creasy at Tishomingo, Indian Territory. She d. 1895, at Tishomingo, Indian Territory. He 2nd m. Jessie Liburn Lockland, Aug. 18, 1901, at Palestine, Texas. They were divorced at Spokane, Wash., in 1919. He later 3rd m. Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Smart, Dec. 18, 1926, at Los Angeles, Calif. She a widow with a grown family.

Above taken from The Temple Genealogy, p-ss, 160-161, with my amendations. He was No. 344. Some later variations will be found in this record, as later data has been secured.

Charles Amos Temple: "His ancestor was Abraham Temple who was in Salem, Mass., in 1636, first of name on American soil. His first assignment of soil was evidently five acres. Nov. 21, 1638 five additional acres were granted, "to make him a ten acre lot." He is presumed to have married twice, 1st to Abigail, 2nd to Margaret, a widow, Margaret Temple, m. John Gifford at Lynn, Massachusetts, about 1651.

Abraham is presumed to have died after 1639, as this is the last date at which he appears on the records of Salem, or elsewhere. He was born prior to 1600, but we do not know the exact date.

The above from The Temple Genealogy, by Rev. Levi Daniel Temple, Printed at Boston, Mass., by David Clapp & Son; 1900. Page 9. See also: "A History of the Town of Dummerston, Vermont," p. 90-92. This record brings the Charles Amos Temple family down to 1950.

2. Melissa Woods, b. Jan. 8, 1845, at Owen Center, Winnebago Co., Ill., m. Charles Amos Temple, Feb. 14, 1866, according to the County Records. (The old family Bible says 1865.) at Winnebago, Ill., as his 2nd wife. His first wife, Mary Mulvaney having died in 1862. Their child Clara had been burned to death in a prairie fire at three years of age. He b. Dec. 15, 1830, at Dummerston, Vermont. She d. Dec. 3, 1881, at Tescott, Kansas. Buried in Franklin Cemetery. He m. 3rd Orilla Nation, Dec. 3, 1883, she of Shreveport, Louisiana. She d. at Palestine, Texas. Buried there. No issue.

Melissa Woods-Temple with Charles Amos Temple first went to Colfax Twp., Grundy Co., Iowa, where her brother, Sheldon Woods was then living on land received by his mother as a war widow's grant. There they lived until the spring of 1871, when the Cramton family went from Illinois to Ottawa Co., Kan., and took up land near what later became Tescott, Kan. There the families farmed on land around the Franklin school house, which was on land given by Franklin Cramton for school purposes, on the corner of his land. There Mellissa died in Dec. 1881, and was buried in the Franklin Cemetery across the road and to the south of the school house, on land given by Benjamine Trenholm, who had m. Adelia Cramton, who had died and was buried in the Franklin Cemetery. This ceme-

Edgar Chester Woods was a son of Cyrenius Nelson Woods. He went to Ottawa Co., Kansas, with the Cramton family in 1871, and filed on a claim to the southeast of what became Tescott. He there built a sod house, and covered it with poles and sod.

After his first year in Kansas he returned to Rockford and married his sweetheart, Ellen Esther Webb, the daughter of James Webb and wife, who had come west with the Woods family to Winnebago Co., Ill., when both she and Edgar were not yet born. There in Winnebago County they grew to manhood and womanhood and there at Rockford Edgar claimed her as his wife. They returned to Ottawa County, Kansas, in a covered wagon, bringing her accumulated things with them. There they made their home in the house he had built upon their claim, where they lived for some years, and where their children were born. This while Edgar was breaking out his land.

Edgar Woods and his wife lived in Ottawa Co., Kan., sixty-five years, except for a short time spent in Independence, Kan. They were among the early pioneers who helped to make Kansas the fine state it became. Edgar stood high in the estimation of his neighbors, and lived an honorable life. Both he and his wife, Ellen Esther, were greatly revered by all.

One day the driver of the stage saw a buffalo near the post office, borrowed Edgar Woods' rifle, shot the buffalo and divided the meat with the folks living around. So all had fresh meat.

Ellen Esther Woods died June 21, 1936, while Edgar Chester Woods followed her in death July 11, 1937, in his ninety-second year. Both are buried in the Franklin Cemetery, near the Franklin schoolhouse.

The first child was: (1) James Nelson Woods, b. June 7, 1874, in Ottawa Co., Kan. He never married, d. Dec. 23, 1951, in his 77th year, and was buried in the Franklin Cemetery. He had lived with his parents and cared for them during their later lives, and still lived in the old home in Tescott after their death. They were all Methodists, and faithful to their church.

(2) Mary Ellen Woods, b. June 10, 1877, near Tescott, Kan., m.

Wesley L. Apple's father, S. L. Apple, had been Probate Judge of Ottawa Co. They were all Methodists. Mary went to the Franklin School for her early schooling. Wesley L. Apple kept a general store at a spot southeast of Tescott, called Appleville. In 1906 they moved to Culver, where he continued to keep a general store, and for most of his business life was also the town postmaster. Mary Ellen Apple was active in and taught the young married folks class in the Methodist Church for many years.

Issue: A. Gertrude Viola Apple, b. May 29, 1897, at Tescott, Kan., m. John Harris Langerman, Feb. 11, 1920, at Culver, Kan. He b. Oct. 20, 1898, at Ellesworth Co., near Wilson, Kan. He d. Feb. 21, 1953 at Salinas, Kan., of cancer.

Gertrude and John began housekeeping on a farm two miles north of Culver, and lived on the same place for twenty-two years. Then purchased a home in Culver, but continued to run the farm. Then his health failing, he studied barbering and later purchased the Star Barber Shop in Salinas.

John was an active Methodist all his life, was Superintendent of the Methodist Sunday School in Culver for ten consecutive years. He was much interested in Christian Education and always attended the sessions of the Ottawa County Council of Christian Education. At his death, with his wife, he was a member of the University Methodist Church in Salinas.

John had a fine voice and used it unsparingly in the service of the church, and was called on to sing at many funerals, where his soft voice was much appreciated, and brought comfort to many aching hearts.

George Sheldon Woods went to school at the Franklin School, then to high school at Tescott. Later he took a business course at Salinas. He engaged in mercantile business in Tescott for some years, then entered the State Bank of Tescott, of which he later became president. Later he became assistant cashier of the State Bank of Glasco, Kan., in 1918. Then in 1920 he went to Delphos, Kan., where he became cashier of the First National Bank. He lived in Delphos in 1953.

Daisy Mae Foos went to school in Tescott. Later became a school teacher in the school there. There she married George Sheldon Woods. There their only child, a son, was born. Moving to Glasco, she became Secretary of the County Council of Religious Education. Upon moving to Delphos she became Secretary of the Ottawa County Council of Education. The family have ever been active in the Methodist Church.

Their son, Edgar Sheldon Woods began his schooling at Glasco. Had his high school training at Delphos. In 1929 he entered the Kansas State College where he was taking a course in industrial chemistry. In December he was initiated in Phi Lambda Upsilon Fraternity. He was a leader among the young people, especially those of the Methodist Church, and maintained his leadership in college. Then he was stricken with typhoid fever and died. He was buried in Franklin Cemetery.

5. Mary Helen Woods, b. May 25, 1861, at Rockford, Ill., d. Aug. 19, 1863, at Rockford, Ill.

Mary Helen Woods died five days after her father was killed at the Battle of Winchester, Tenn., so her mother was doubly bereft in the loss of her husband and youngest child almost at once. Nelson and his baby were buried in the same grave at Greenwood Cemetery at Rockford, Ill. He with full military honors.

III. Hannibal Woods, b. Feb. 22, 1816, in Dutchess County, New York, m. Electa Allen, Dec. 9, 1849, at Rockford, Ill., by Hiram Lake, J.P. She b. Nov. 2, 1821, in Warren Co., New York. He d. Nov. 2, 1888, at Wilbur, Nebraska. Buried at Dewitt, Nebr. She d. Feb. 18, 1896, at Lamoni, Iowa. Buried same.

Hannibal Woods came with his father's family on the raft of lumber and logs, down the Allegheny and Ohio rivers to the Mississippi, then were pushed up the Mississippi to the Rock and up the Rock to what became Illinois City, Winnebago Co., Illinois, but was then raw prairie. This town was laid out principally to sell lots to newcomers and people in the east, who knew nothing of this western country, but who had heard fabulous stories of its richness and promise and wanted to get settled there. This so-called city never grew. They built their new frame house at Harrison, on the Rock River. It would be difficult to find any remains of Illinois City or where it was located. But there is a prospectus of the city in the City Library at Rockford, Ill. This prospectus told in glowing language of the city that was to become the county seat and the metropolis of the west.

After his people were settled in Illinois and after his marriage and the birth of their first child, Hannibal decided to go west to the Iowa country. This they did in 1851, settling upon land near Independence, in Buchanan Co. They later went to Spencers Grove in Benton County. The family was growing so they decided to go still farther west that they might secure more land. With others of like mind they started from Benton Co., Iowa, for the farther west and came in eastern Nebraska, to what later became Wilbur, Nebraska.

The following is a statement made by Andrew Woods, first child of Hannibal and Electa Allen-Woods, as to the reasons for removing from Illinois to Iowa, at Independence, and later to Benton County, Iowa, and still later to Nebraska. This is his dictated statement, made in his later life at Lamoni, Iowa.

"I was born in what is now the city of Rockford, Ill., on Nov. 9, 1850, and with my parents moved to Buchanan County, Iowa, in 1881, later moving to Benton County, near Spencers Grove. But my father, Hannibal Woods, wishing to secure more land and thinking that a change of climate might be beneficial to my brother William, who was ill, decided to take the advice of an old neighbor and friend, Abe Cox, and move to Nebraska.

"So in the spring of 1866 and about the month of May, we drove up to the Cox log cabin on Turkey Creek, ready to set out. We were accompanied from Iowa by another old settler, John G. Rice, who took up land where the old Burtwell Mill stood. We first settled on the Norton place a half mile below the Mill, where we lived about five months. Then Father traded a team wagon and harness to Al Garton for his homestead rights. Al had built a log cabin and had a few acres under cultivation. The country was then a wild prairie with antelope and deer roaming over the prairies. There were plenty of prairie chickens and a few turkeys. There was no timber except along the streams and only here and there a homesteader.

"Abe Cox was the first settler above Swan City, Neb., the Garton brothers, Alf Bill and Al were next, then George Ohler, then McClum and Andrew Norton and Charlie Howard, then the Pleasant Hill settlement and I think there were one or two settlers above Pleasant Hill, but I do not remember their names.

"Father made a few trips to Nebraska City for supplies, but we did most of our trading at Beatrice. There was no railroad there at that time and everything was freighted in from Saint Joseph, Mo.

"I suppose we had hardships in those early days, at least we would think so if we had to live that way now. But at that time we didn't think of it as hard. We worked and played and enjoyed life as well as the youth of today.

"I remember the flood of 1869. It lasted so long that we ran out of flour and had to grind wheat in a coffee mill to make bread with. I finally went up the creek opposite Burtwell's Mill, waded onto the foot log, crossed over to the mill, got a sixty pound sack of flour and carried it home on my back. The water was a foot deep in our house and we had to move over to Thomas L. Rider's, whose house was built on higher ground. Afterwards I married his daughter, Mellissa. After the flood, Father decided to build his house up on higher ground, and planted an orchard, mostly of seedling trees. Here he used to love to wander around and look at his trees and enjoy the fruit and tell the neighbors about his orchard and have them sample the lovely fruit he raised. Most of the neighbors thought he would never live to eat of the fruit, when he was planting the trees.

"However, those good times came to an end as Father took sick on November 25, 1888 and soon passed away, at Wilbur, Nebraska. Soon afterwards, with my mother and my family we moved to Iowa, in the spring of 1892. Later we moved into Lamoni, and still later, in 1897 we moved to western Nebraska. Then in 1902 to Colorado, and in 1912 we moved back to Lamoni, where we have since made our home."

Hannibal Woods entered into the plan for removing the County Seat from Pleasant Hills to Wilbur, Nebraska. The records were removed in a raid on Pleasant Hills during the night, and the County Seat has remained at Wilbur since that time.

The land on which Hannibal Woods settled near Wilbur, Nebr., was on the Old Bull Trail from St. Louis to Denver, Colorado. At one time he carried a grain sack of wheat to Brownsville, on the Missouri River to be ground into flour, then walked and carried the flour back to Wilbur.

Record of the children of Hannibal Woods and Electa Allen-Woods follows:

(3) Olive Woods, b. Oct. 29, 1886, at Wilbur, Nebr. With her parents, Olive came to Lamoni, Iowa, where is located the Junior College of the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints. Here she was telephone operator for ten years, seven of which she was night operator. With her sister, Electa Jane Woods, she lives at 202 So. Walnut St., Lamoni, Iowa.

It is a bit refreshing to learn that two members of the family of Andrew Woods were not merely old maids, whatever that may imply. But to know that they merely were born on such a date and finally were presumed to die when their time came.

Rather good to know that they made a home for their parents, and cared for them as long as they lived. That Olive Woods could have married and had her own home, but that her friend did not live to help establish such a home. That she did enter into the life of the family in a large way. These girls, Olive and Electa Woods, helped to raise two families of children.

That they have kept the home in Lamoni, and thus made a home for numerous nephews and nieces who come to attend the Graceland Junior College there, and thus were able to secure some education that might not have been otherwise possible.

When Wallace Woods' wife left him he brought his children home to his mother and the girls. Wathena was just a baby, and Olive took full care of her and became a mother to her. Saw her through girlhood, then her schooling and finally out into a home of her own. A sacrificial service of love, not to be overlooked nor ignored.

When Warren Woods' wife, Katie Starmer, died, Olive went to California to keep his home together and care for his three motherless children until he married again; and was still caring for his daughter, Clara Mae, and seeing her through her schooling, with the help of her sister, Electa Woods, at the Graceland Junior College at Lamoni, Iowa.

So these two young women have greatly served, although children they have cared for and raised were not their own. Then, too, neither has been without romance in their own lives, which is a bit too sacred to be put into this record. However, the above has a right to be said by someone who knew their fine unselfish service and spirit.

Besides all this, these two fine spirited women have found their place of service in their community and in their church life. Electa has been in the service of the Local Telephone Company for many years, and the very fact that this service has been long continued speaks well of her standing in the life of her community.

From: The Gunnery Officer.

To: Woods, Wilbur W., BM2c, USNR.

Subject: Commendation.

1. Your outstanding performance and record as Mount Captain of Mount 32, from commissioning to the present date, is recognized and sincerely appreciated.

2. During this period of shakedown and active duty with the United States Seventh Fleet your mount has fired 928 rounds of five inch ammunition of various types without a personnel or material failure of any kind. This enviable record by itself makes you as an outstanding leader of men. Having served with you in U.S.S. Laub, a unit of the U. S. Atlantic Fleet, for two years, I am further qualified to vouch for your abilities as a mount captain.

3. Your leadership is further reflected by results obtained in other practices. Official scoring credits for your mount with 50% hits during local control practices. It was your leadership and the ability of your crew that earned for this vessel the title of "Superior Shore Bombardment Ship." This is the highest honor awarded by Commander Destroyers, Pacific Fleet.

4. I regret that this letter cannot become a part of your official record. I have done everything in my power to get a suitable entry in your service record, but having failed, I hope this will in some small way express my appreciation for your outstanding services.

5. Well Done.

CHAPTER XXVIII

DENNIS CRAMTON

and his issue through

NERIAH CRAMTON and MARGUERITE WALLACE

THE CRAMTON LINE

The name Cramton seems to be used interchangeably with Crampton, as both are found in various genealogical dictionaries, and often in the same records.

The first mention of the name in the Colonies seems to be of one Dennis Cramton of Guilford, Connecticut, in 1656, at which time he was not a freeman, but later on he did sign the oath of allegiance and became a freeman.

He seems to have come or was brought to Connecticut as a boy in 1636, by a ship Captain, who sold his time to pay his passage to the Colonies, so he became a bound boy. In those days many found their way to the Colonies in this manner. This was true not alone of individuals, but of entire families.

He got into trouble as a boy or young man, by saying things about some neighbor, to which objection was made—the records do not state what was said—and being brought before a magistrate, he admitted saying what was charged. The records do not say just what the slander, so called, was, although it was admitted that what he said was true, but he ought not to have said it, whatever it was. So he was found guilty of telling the truth.

The boy had no money with which to pay a fine. Should he be sent to jail he would have to be fed, a serious matter. So he was given a licking for telling the truth.

Long afterwards Benjamin Franklin and a friend hired a lawyer in Philadelphia to defend a man from the same charge, that of telling the truth about another, and being taken to court, it was decided by the Judges that a man had a right to say anything about any one, so long as it did not libel or traduce their character, and was the truth. So for the first time in America it was determined by a court of law that this is a land of free speech, and this has become a fundamental right in America.

Dennis Cramton signed the Freemans Oath following a session of the General Assembly, on May 11, 1665, at Guilford, Connecticut. He was then, and had been for some years a planter, although not yet a freeman, and was in Guilford prior to 1656. He afterwards became a man of considerable wealth and property and of some distinction in the plantation, as at one time he owned a thousand acres of land in the plantation.

The family seems to have been numerous and filled their places both in Church and community. Several were soldiers in the Revolutionary Army and some became ministers and physicians as well.

Dennis Cramton of Guilford, Conecticut, married Mary Permerly, daughter of John Permerly, Sept. 16, 1660. John Permerly had married Hannah, surname not known, who had come to America with him. The issue of their marriage were: I. John, b. 1620, died 1687; II. Hannah, m. John Johnson, Sept. 20, 1651; III. Mary, m. Dennis Cramton, of Guilford, Connecticut, Sept. 16, 1660.

Dennis Cramton and Mary Permerly-Cramton has as issue: 1. Hannah; 2. Eliza, and 3. Nathaniel, b. March 1667. Mary Permerly-Cramton died Mar. 16, 1687.

I. Hannah Cramton, m. Benjamine Schriverener, who was one of the foremost settlers in Norwalk, Connecticut, on Mar. 5, ??, and so became the ancestress of Charles Scribner, founder of Scribners Magazine and The Scribner Publishing Company. Their issue were: I. Thomas; II. Benjamine; III. John; IV. Hannah; V. Ruth; VI. Joseph; VII. Lydia; VIII. Elizabeth, and IX. Abigale.

A grandson, Matthew, was the great-grandfather of Charles Scribner, the eminent publisher and founder of Scribners Magazine.

We have learned nothing further of Eliza and Nathaniel Cramton of this first marriage.

Dennis Cramton 2nd m. Sarah, a widow of Nicholas Munger, and had: IV. Sarah, b. Dec. 17, 1669 V. Thomas, b. Nov. 25, 1672, and VI. John, b. June 16, 1675, at Guilford, Conn. Of Sarah Cramton we know only of her birth. Family tradition says Thomas Cramton was later in Vermont with the Allen brothers.

VI. John Cramton, of Dennis and Sarah Munger-Cramton, b. June 16, 1675, d. 1746, at Guilford, Conn., aged 71 years. He was buried in the yard at Madison, then Guilford, Conn. We have not learned the name of his wife. Their children were: I. John, II.

James, III. Nathaniel, IV. Johnathan, V. Demetrius, and VI Benjamin.

I. John Cramton, b. 1709, d. 1790, m. and had Hull, b. 1735, d. 1796, m. and had Jesse Cramton, b. 1771, d. 1851. Was m. and had Henry Cramton, b. 1809, d. 1872, m. and had Dr. Henry Cramton, b. 1837, of New York City. (Probably the man who made the previous investigation into the records of the Cramton family. We have not been able to secure any of his work.)

II. James Cramton, b. 1713, probably in Guilford, Conn., d. 1772, in Guilford. We do not know the name of his wife, nor when he was married, but they had as issue: i. Neri Cramton, b. 1743, in Guilford, Conn., d. Sept. 20, 1827, aged 89; ii. Elon Cramton, b. 1745, in Guilford, Conn., settled in Litchfield, Conn.; iii. Miles, b. 1747, settled in Farmington, Conn.

i. Neri Cramton, b. 1743, in Guilford, Conn. Settled in Tinmouth, Vt., d. Sept. 20, 1827, in Tinmouth, Vt., aged 85 years. He m. Abigail Field, who d. Feb. 25, 1815, aged 70 years. She b. Aug. 19, 1745. Both buried at Tinmouth, Vermont.

Neri Cramton emigrated with his father, James Cramton, to the wild country west of the White Mountains, into what was then the New Hampshire Grants, and which became later, Vermont. All of what became Vermont was claimed by New York, which resisted the claims of Vermont. He became one of the Green Mountain Boys, under the leadership of the Allen brothers, who fought together under the leadership of Ethan Allen, with the New York Militia for possession of this wild country, which came to be called Vermont.

Neri Cramton (the name is spelled both ways, as Cramton and Crampton, often in the same records), is mentioned in Vermont Revolutionary War Rolls on several pay roll lists. Captain John Spaffords Company. The Vital records department in the Secretary of State's office has a death record for Neri Cramton, Sept. 20, 1827, at Tinmouth. He has the title, Lieutenant. Age 85. He had served in the French and Indian wars of 1760, under Scranton's 5th Co., Colonel Nathan Whiting, 2nd Connecticut Regiment 1760. He was at the Battle of Bennington, Aug. 16, 1780. Was a private in Capt. John Allen's Co., Colonel Ethan Allen, Regt. Oct. 12, 1780. Private in Capt. Orange Train's Company, Colonel Lee's Regiment to Nov. 20, 1781. It was said of him:

Neri Cramton was a bold and fearless soldier, and was with Ethan Allen's men at Ticonderoga, May 10, 1775. When Burgoyne had penetrated as far south as Skeensburg, Cramton, with a scouting party was taken prisoner. He had no way of release but to take protection under Burgoyne. He returned home, and the day before the Battle of Bennington, had proceeded with his family as far as Arlington, on their way to Litchfield. Finding there was to be a battle, he left his family there and went to Bennington to engage in the affray. He was told that he was running a great risk, for if again taken prisoner he would be immediately hanged. He said he would never again be taken alive. He went into the battle and fought bravely.

Later, he returned to Tinmouth with his family and was active in town affairs.

Much of the above was taken from the Vermont Historical Magazine (Vol. III, page 1145). Also in the History of Rutland Co. published 1882) "Vermont" (from V. 3, of A. M. Hemmingways Historical Gazetteer.

"There were four brothers named Cramton who settled early in this town (Tinmouth), John, James, Johnathan and Demetrius.

The above records were, fortunately, gleaned from the records and memories of Helen Cramton Graham, former librarian for Norwich Academy, Northfield, Vt., shortly before her death in April, 1952. She and her sister kept a detailed scrapbook of the Cramton family and probably possessed the most detailed records that are available of their branch of the family.

The line is definitely traced to Dennis Cramton through Neri and his son Augustus. The three Dr. Cramtons of Vermont deserve top mention in this story. Dr. Josiah Obear Cramton suffered rheumatic fever in his youth and was considered too sickly for farm work. Therefore he apprenticed himself to a physician and later finished medical studies in New York. He served as Union Army Surgeon in the Battles of the Wilderness and Spottsylvania. On return to Vermont he practiced medicine in Winooski, Vt. He served as Surgeon General of Vermont and sat twice in the Vermont Legislature as a Democrat.

He died in his early forties, leaving one son, who studied medicine. Dr. Charles A. Cramton graduated from the University of Vermont Medical School, and practiced Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat in St. Johnsbury, Vt. Dr. Charles Cramton traveled widely, twice going to Europe to further his studies of medicine, and went once to Alaska. His son, Dr. Edward A. Cramton is a graduate of Dartmouth and Yale medical school, and is currently practicing Eye, Eare, Nose and Throat, in Vermont.

A LETTER

March 21, 1896

Henry E. Crampton, M.D., 256 West 121st Street

My Dear Cousin:

I am afraid I have been so full of questions that I have not properly introduced myself. I will repair my omission at once. My grandfather Jesse was born in Guilford in 1771. He was the Hull 1735-96 who was the son of John 1709-90 (brother of James your ancestor) the son of John 1675-1766, the son of Dennis. Our lines meet in the first John, son of Dennis. My father was Henry and was born in 1809, died 1872. He came to N. Y. City with his father and mother, in fact the entire family about 1825. He married here a lady of Holland ancestry, my grandmother spoke only Dutch until she was ten years old and she was born in this country. She lived to be 95 years old. I was born in 1837 and had five brothers. All but one of whom is dead. One was killed in battle at Port Hudson in 1861. I was married in 1851 and have six children, three of whom are married. One is living in Dutchess Co., a daughter, she has four children. A son living in N. Y. City has two children. A daughter who married an officer in the 16th Infantry U.S.A. two years ago out west, out on the Pacific, west of Vancouver, has a lovely little boy four months old.

A third daughter Dora will probably wed in June a gentleman from Toronto. Then we shall have only the two youngest at home, "boys," one of whom is in the Broadway Bank, the other is assistant professor in the Dept. of Biology of Columbia College.

I have been practicing medicine for 36 years, with the exception of one year at Sandy Hill (and during the war, ? of the 93' N.Y. Vols) I have lived in N.Y. City which, with all its faults, I love.

I am enjoying more and more my genealogical recreations and shall keep on as I have opportunity.

In fact I think I will conclude by asking some questions which I will put as usual in tabular form. I think I will not bother you any more after this for names and dates, if you will kindly fill in the spaces for me in the enclosed slip, Dates of birth, marriages. . . . I should have said that there were three Jesse's, one who married Submit Crampton, was born 1760, died 1770, and a grandson Jesse 1782-1873 who married Ruth Bradley, three of whose sons, George, Wm. and Samuel are living today in Madison, Conn. They are all grandfathers. . . . I think I have captured every one of this line—the youngest is not more than a month old—so if you will pardon the expression I think I may claim to be "up to date." From a letter from Wm. Arthur rec'd this week, I find that Elon left quite a family. I will trace them all yet I hope. I trust you will come and see me if you ever come to N.Y. and I assure you I will not fail to call upon you. With kindest regards to all of "my family" I am yours, sincerely, H. E. Crampton."

A LETTER (Copy)

Maywood, Illinois, March 6, 1894

My Dear Mary:

I received the Record you sent me in Leonard's letter. I have received a letter from Dr. Cramton in reply to one I wrote him after I came home. He sent me a paper asking me to fill it out and correct it and return it to him, otherwise I would have sent it on to you. I am able to make one correction by an old Inventory. I am sure that our great grandfather died in 1772 instead of 1782 as he had it. I could write him when my grandmother and grandfather died although I have not the day and month of Grandfather's death.

Our grandfather was the administrator on his father's estate, was appointed the 6th of Oct. 1772. The Inventory is dated Oct. 15, 1772. The appraisers speak of "such of his Estates as lyeth in Guilford where he formerly dwelt."

At the end of the record which I have, "A true copy of Record Examined by Hosea Hulburt, Clerk of Probate, Litchfield, March 4th, 1773." I have two old deeds. One given to Neri Crampton by Johnathan Gage. Recorded in Litchfield Apr. 18, 1772. Another to Neri Crampton from Nathaniel Allen March 2, 1873 property in Litchfield. Our grandfather must have been living there as late as March 1773.

Fisk in his American Revolution says that the Capture of Ticonderoga had been secretly planned in Conn., and was entrusted to Ethan Allen, that Allen was a leading spirit among the "Green Mountain Boys" an association of Vermont Settlers formed for the purpose of resisting the Jurisdiction of New York. Mass. sent out Arnold to do the same work but Allen and his boys would not accept Arnold for a commander. Arnold joined them but under Allen. At last Ticonderoga and Crown Point were both garrisoned by Conn. Most of the war had been carried on by New England troops at that time. Ticonderoga was captured May 10th, 1775. The Battle of Bennington Aug. 16th, 1777. Now I find an old deed that was given to our grandfather by Samuel Allen Jan. 12, 1776. It was not recorded until 1782. The land was in what is now called Tinmouth, but it was claimed by New York. There is a survey bill made in 1773 for Samuel Allen and recorded in 1779 but Grandfather's name is not on the paper. I presume it is about the same piece of property.

Now it is certain that our grandfather was living in Conn. in 1773, that he was in Vt. in May 1775, that he bought property there in Jan. 1776, that he was at the Battle of Bennington in Aug. 1777. Now where was he between those times?

There are old deeds of property in Tinmouth deeded to him in 1780, 1781, 1782, 1784, 1783, 1789, and so on. If he went away after he first came to Vermont, he could not have stayed long.

I think he came up to Vermont with those troops that came up from Conn. with Ethan Allen to take Fort Ticonderoga. In less than a year he bought property in Tinmouth nearly two years before the Battle of Bennington.

Now you can find him from your family history. According to this paper Molly Crampton married James Kilborn, as I have always heard she married a Hyde for her second husband. James K. since we came west told me about the relationship but I can't remember as I did not put it down. Should you see Mrs. White ask her what she knows and who among her family could give Dr. Cramton the information he wants. Our great-grandfather had eleven children, Abigail, Ann, Adna, Neri, Miles, Molly, Benji, Sybil, James, Thomas, Elon. I expect that Dr. Cramton has made a mistake in the name of Benji. I presume it is Bugi.

With much Love. (Signed) Helen S. Crampton.

Note: Davis Field, brother of Abigail Field-Cramton, died at her home in Tinmouth, Vermont, in 1778. He was a Revolutionary Soldier. Served at Lake Champlain.

Note: John Cramton, of Dennis Cramton and Sarah Munger, had six sons. They were: John, James, Nathaniel, Johnathan, Demetrius and Benjamine.

Johnathan Cramton had a son, Jesse, who had a son, Ashbel, who had a son, Jesse Cramton, who lived in Madison, Connecticut. In the 89th year of his age he had 22 grandchildren, and three great grandchildren.

Demetrius and Benjamine Cramton also settled in Tinmouth.

Demetrius had, among others, a son Neri or Neriah, who as a young man went to New York, to the disgust of other members of the family, because of the intense feeling between New York and what later became Vermont. He finally settled in Franklin, Delaware County, New York.

NERI CRAMTON

Neri Cramton, son of Demetrius Cramton, b. 1771, in Tinmouth, Vermont. He went as a young man to New York and finally settled at Franklin, Delaware County. There he met, courted and married Margaret Wallace, a kinswoman of Lord Cornwallis, who was dubbed Cobwallace, by this branch of the family, in derision, as he was not popular with her family.

His war record follows, as he was a private in the War of 1812 as shown in the following record, from the Official Records of the War of 1812, in the office of the Adjutant General, at Washington, D.C., and are as follows:

"The Records of this office show that Neri Cramton served in the War of 1812 as a private in Captain Amasa Parker's Company of Consolidated Light Infantry in a Regiment of New York Militia, commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Putnam Farrington. His service began September 8, 1812 and ended December 11, 1814. His residence was Franklin, Delaware County, New York.

"The records also show that Neri Crampton, Jr., not borne as Neri Crampton Jr., served in that war as a private in Captain Amasa Parker's Company in the 13th Regiment of New York Militia, Commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Putnam Farrington. His service began August 24, 1812, and ended March 4, 1813. The place of his residence not shown."

C. H. Bridges, Major General, The Adjutant General. R.D.

Neri Cramton and Margaret Wallace had a son Neri Cramton, whom tradition in the Cramton family says was in the war of 1812, but we can not be sure that the above record covers his service. Yet it can scarcely have been Neri Cramton, son of James, of John of Dennis, as he would have been sixty-nine years old in 1812, although his health and indomitable spirit may have prompted his enlistment in 1812. More light is to be desired.

We do not find the date of birth or marriage of Margaret Wallace, although this writer had those dates from his mother, Olive Cramton-McMillan, who was the eldest child of Peter Cramton, youngest son of Neri and Margaret Wallace Cramton, but those records were lost when the author's car was robbed and his earlier gatherings of data were lost, in 1946.

Neri Cramton died in New York, in Erie County, in 1851.

Neri and Margaret Wallace-Cramton had fourteen children, among whom were:

1. Neri, who, with his father was in the war of 1812, as shown above in the second item. We have nothing further, except that he was discharged March 4, 1813.

2. Samuel Cramton, whose birth date and place of birth we do not know, was married to a woman whose name we do not have, but who bore him a son named Alonzo. The mother dying at his birth. Samuel m. 2nd Phemelia, who bore him Ann Cramton, Henry Cramton, who was drowned in the Rock River. Also twins, Oscar and Orrin.

Samuel came to the Illinois country in the summer of 1834, overland by ox team and Conestoga wagon. A long arduous journey, and settled on the lower reaches of the Rock River. From Illinois, later, the family went to Minnesota.

On a trip down the Mississippi river on a raft of logs he lost his life. Not known just how. He was accompanied on this raft trip by his son-in-law, who had married Ann Cramton. There were some younger children born to Samuel and Phemilia Cramton, in Minnesota. Do not know how many and have no further record of them.

3. Aaron Cramton married in New York state, but do not have the name of his wife. They had at least two children, A. Susan Cramton, who married George Wilcox and had two boys and one girl; Susan, of whom we have no further record.

Of the further family of Neri Cramton and Margaret Wallace, we can learn nothing of those from four to thirteen, except that there were three sets of twins.

14. Peter Cramton, b. Jan. 14, 1806 (tradition says in Erie Co., New York). As a young man he learned the carpenter trade, and worked as a carpenter and joiner, as they were called. However, during the winter months he worked at whatever came to hand. During the winter of 1833-34 he drove stage from Dunkirk to Erie, via Fredonia and Westfield. This was a part of a line of stages that ran from Dunkirk to Erie via Fredonia and Westfield and connected with the "Pioneer" (a steamboat on Lake Erie plying between Dunkirk and Buffalo). At Erie this line of stages connected with a line to Pittsburg and another to Cleveland, Ohio. By this route and "The Pioneer," passengers from Buffalo could reach Cleveland in two days and Pittsburg in three.

On this trip Peter Cramton had a layover at Westfield a day. Arriving in the late afternoon the tavern keeper told him there was a woman named Woods who wanted to go over to the Allegheny River landing with her daughters, where her husband, William Woods and sons were building a raft on which to go west.

In the evening Peter went to see Mrs. Woods and arranged to take her, with her girls and their baggage to the raft or river landing. In the morning when loading he arranged for one of the girls to ride with him on the high seat with the driver. Peter was then twenty-eight years old. He seems never to have had a serious attachment to any woman, but he promptly fell in love with the girl who rode with him that day on the high seat of the stage.

Dorcas Woods had a deformity in one shoulder. She had learned to work the high spinning wheel on which one had to walk and reach, especially if they were small. This Dorcas had done until her shoulder was thrown out of place, and this too, before any one had noticed it had happened, so it was too late to force it back into place, so she went as a humpback all her life. One wonders how much of pity was a part of love as Peter Cramton fell for this young girl. Her sisters had admirers, but Dorcas had been passed by. At any rate he did fall in love with her. As he drove she told him all about their plans for going on a raft down the Allegheny river, and so to the far west. Her enthusiasm fired Peter with the desire to go with her on this trip to the west.

Samuel Cramton had gone west the previous year and had written glowing accounts of the prairie country and its possibilities. So Peter was thus familiar with what it meant to go west to the Illinois country.

Upon reaching the river and the camp where William Woods and his sons, with some neighbors, had worked all winter cutting logs and sawing them into lumber for a raft, on which to make the trip to the west, down river, Peter approached William Woods, proposing to go with the party on the raft and so work his passage. Woods was not enthusiastic, as several other young fellows had wanted to go along. So he put him off saying he would have to talk with his wife about it first. Woods looked the young fellow over. He had never seen him before, and knew nothing of his sudden attachment for Dorcas, so hesitated, saying a young man had no business going west without anything but his hands. Peter assured him that he had three hundred dollars hard money. It was well known that paper money was of little, if any value outside the community where it was issued. But, hard money, that was different, and three hundred dollars hard money was something to be reckoned with.

When the matter was presented to Mrs. Woods she rather looked with favor upon this stalwart young fellow who seemed to be interested in her misshapen daughter. She had noted his preference shown Dorcas, when Peter had arranged that she ride with him on the high seat of the stage. So she was inclined to help his case along, with her husband. Too, the Woods boys had taken to Peter at once, and were favorably impressed with him. So it was finally agreed that Peter was to go along and work his passage with the others. He returned to Westfield for his tools and gear, to leave the stage, collect his wages, and so be ready. All of this took time, but he returned in time to help get the raft finally settled and ready for the start down river.

The full story of that eventful trip down river is told in the chronicle of the Woods family and their experiences, and need not be repeated here, save that Peter Cramton and Dorcas Lucinda Woods did their courting as the raft made its way down river. Because of Indians and renegade whites it was necessary to set a watch, as they tied up along the river banks at night. Stories were told all along the river of those who had been set upon and killed, their families and goods seized and sold down river, or taken by these renegade white or Indians for their squaws. Many rafts and flat boats had been so seized. So wise travelers were always on guard against surprise.

Peter Cramton took his turn as watchman, and with him was Dorcas Woods, to keep him company. So love was strengthened, plans were made. The future was before them. Peter had money, plenty for those times, so they could plan with assurance. Beautiful moonlight nights, with but the natural noises of the wood and river lent themselves to their dreams.

As they stopped from time to time to get provisions, they heard much of the "Ioway" country, and the possibilities there as soon as it should be opened for settlers. It was still Indian country. Too, they found others who were headed for the Illinois country. Some were set for Saint Louis and farther west, although little was then known of what the farther west had in store.

So Peter and Dorcas talked of the "Ioway" country and decided they would make that their home. Of course it was still Indian country, and was not yet open for settlers, but they were not worried about that. Already there was talk that the Indians were to be pushed further west. The Black Hawk War had ended in the suppression of the Indian uprising, so they were sure they could make their way in the "Ioway" country.

Upon arriving in Illinois, Peter bought a part of the raft upon which they had come, reassembled his portion, dropped back down the Rock River to the Mississippi, and arranged to have his raft pushed up the Mississippi to the "Ioway" country. The steamboat Captain told him of a place on the "Ioway" shore where he himself had dreamed he would like to live if and when he retired. He agreed to push the raft to this spot on the river bank, for a price, and so give Peter a chance to get a claim.

Here at a spot that has since become the city of Sabula, Iowa, Peter stepped off a claim of a hundred and sixty acres of land and staked it for himself. It was still Indian country. He had no right there. There was no place to file upon such land. No land office in the whole country. There were a few settlements both south and at Dubuque at the lead mines in the north.

Here Peter Cramton built his small frame shack. Built a boat for the river. Left his personal belongings and dreamed of the time when he could bring his sweetheart as his wife. He saw men working across the river who seemed to be surveying the land. He rowed across the river, hid his boat against his return, and then came up with these men at work. They were making the Government survey that had been promised the Indians, so they could know their rights. It was the failure to make this agreed survey that brought on the so-called Black Hawk War.

Peter arranged to work as a line man, as they worked across northern Illinois. This party named the great natural groves, as they came to them, as Downers Grove, Waddems Grove, etc., being named for members of the surveying party. One was named Cramtons Grove, but in the spelling it was changed to Comptons Grove, so Peter was robbed of any distinction that may have attached thereto.

In the fall or early winter he made his way again to the Woods home, only to find that his sweetheart was sick with fever and ague. So they were not married until the summer of 1836. Then another obstacle faced them. Mrs. Woods had heard of the "Ioway" country and trouble with the Indians, and was opposed to her daughter going so far away and into such a land as she had pictured the "Ioway" country to be.

However, Peter was not to be denied, so he went back to his claim in the "Ioway" country, only to find that his claim had been jumped by a man named Isaac Dorman, who said he had come across the river on a log. He saw the house there and came to see who was living there. Found no one, but did find the house and so took possession. He had a gun and asked Cramton what he was going to do about it.

Cramton found his tools were gone, everything but a barrel plane and the tool chest. His clothes and personals were all gone. He made his way back to the Ford (since Rockford), dispirited as he had put about everything he had into this venture, and then was dispossessed. I had this story from my grandmother who lived in our home when I was a boy. Had there been no truth in the story it would seem strange that she should have told the story of Dorman crossing the river on a log, and of his having a gun, threatening Peter with it and asking him what he was going to do about it. Naturally Dorman's heirs would not want to admit what Dorman had done. In fact neither had any right there, as it was still Indian country.

With his father-in-law Peter moved to The Ford, and so were among the very early settlers there. Both worked at their trades, Peter as a carpenter and Woods was a mason, and so both helped to build early Rockford.

In 1837 Peter Cramton pre-empted a quarter section of land in Ogle County, Illinois, south of Rockford. A man named Tom Merri-field furnished him the money with which to file, and took eighty acres for doing so.

On the land in Byron Township, Ogle County, Peter Cramton and Dorcas Lucinda Woods lived and reared their family. It was there Peter Cramton died on July 18, 1856, and was buried in the Bixby Cemetery, two miles from Westfield Corners.

When this writer first visited this cemetery in 1934 he found the fences had been removed, the ancient trees cut down. The tombstones, except the very few large ones had been carried to one corner of the cemetery and broken into pieces so small as to make it impossible to read for whom they were erected. This piece of vandalism was reported both to the Governor of Illinois and to the State Attorney General. The promise was made that the World War Veterans were caring for all old cemeteries, and would look after this one. We have no further word about the matter, except we later learned the larger monuments had been removed to a cemetery at Byron, in Ogle County.

dren, the eldest of whom, Olive, was barely eighteen years old, so Dorcas had her life work cut out for her. Later two sons enlisted when still young boys, in the Civil War. Nelson when but fourteen, and Frank when he was sixteen years old. Both contracted diseases called consumption, that followed them and finally ended their lives.

The Record: Peter Cramton, 14th child of Neri Cramton and Margaret Wallace. Born Jan. 14, 1806, in Erie County, New York, m. Dorcas Lucinda Woods, Aug. 28, 1836, in Harrison Twp., Winnebago Co., Illinois. She a daughter of William Woods and Lima Congdon-Woods. She was b. May 21, 1818, in Tioga County, New York. He d. July 18, 1856, in Byron Twp., Ogle Co., Illinois. Buried in the Bixby Cemetery, near Westfield corners, 2 miles from Westfield, Ogle Co., Illinois. She d. July 29, 1894, in Des Moines, Iowa, in the home of her son, James Woods Cramton, and is buried in the McMillan lot at Wyoming, Iowa.

After the death of her husband, Dorcas L. Cramton carried on the struggle to hold her family together. It almost killed her when her two young sons went to the army. Both were just boys in their teens, but would go when President Lincoln called. An older son, Wallace, could not get in the Army as he had a club foot, so could not march, but thought he could be a mule skinner, or find some place elsewhere to serve, but was not accepted.

Following the death of her mother, Lima Congdon-Woods, Dorcas Woods-Cramton kept her father's house for him until his death in 1865. Frank and Nelson had come home from the service. Both sick from camp fever so their struggles continued. III. Adelia Cramton married Benjamine Trenholm, at seventeen when he returned from the Army, and went to make a home for him. I. Olive, the eldest child, had gone to Rockton to work and so help sustain the family. It was while there at Rockton she first met her future husband.

The eldest son, II. George Cramton, had gone to work for his Uncle Hannibal Woods, at Wilbur, Nebraska, and died while there, in 1865. He was brought back and buried at Harrison, Illinois.

In the meantime Mellissa Woods, second daughter of Cyrenius Nelson Woods and Mary Armstrong Sheldon, had married Charles Temple, lately returned from the Civil War, where he had gone with Dennis Lucas McMillan, who had married Olive Cramton. They two were the last to go from Rockford on the final call. McMillan had already served one enlistment, but felt that he must go again. So these two went together in the 11th Illinois Cavalry.

Mellissa Woods-Temple and her husband, Charles Amos Temple, went to Iowa following their marriage, to found a home and began their family. She to live near her brother, Sheldon Woods, in Colfax Twp., Grundy Co., Iowa.

The times were unsettled. William Woods had died, leaving his daughter, Dorcas L. Cramton without a permanent home. So the Cramtons decided to seek homes farther west. They had learned of lands available in eastern Kansas, and in the spring of 1871 they went to Ottawa County, Kansas. There was an eastern speculator who was promoting sales in that county. There were also claims still available, so the Cramtons settled in Ottawa County. When a town was laid out in 1882 it was named for the speculator who had promoted sales in the county. He was T. E. Scott, so the new town was called Tescott.

In the group that went in 1871 were Dorcas Cramton, her sons, Benjamine Trenholm who had married Adelia Cramton, Charles Amos Temple who had married Mellissa Woods, a niece of Dorcas Cramton and came from Grundy County, Iowa, to be with the Cramtons, and Edgar Chester Woods, a son of Cyrenius Nelson Woods and a nephew of Dorcas Cramton, also a brother of Mellissa Woods-Temple. He later returned to Rockford and married his sweetheart, Ellen Esther Webb, and brought her to Ottawa Co., Kansas, where they spent the rest of their lives.

The children of Peter Cramton and Dorcas Lucinda Woods were: Olive, b. June 22, 1838; George, b. Sept. 5, 1839; Adelia, b. June 19, 1841; Mary, b. Sept. 2, 1842; Wallace, b. Nov. 10, 1844; Franklin, b. Mar. 17, 1846; Nelson, b. June 13, 1848; Edwin, b. Feb. 27, 1850; James, b. Dec. 18, 1851, and Levi Benjamine, b. Oct. 15, 1855.

Of these the following went to Ottawa Co., Kansas, and settled near what later became Tescott, with their mother, Dorcas L. Cramton, Adelia Cramton-Trenholm, William Wallace, Benjamine Franklin, Nelson, Edwin and James. Also Charles Temple, Benj. Trenholm and Edgar C. Woods.

When these families went to Ottawa Co., Kansas, there was not a church, a school house, a cemetery, no roads, just trails, no prospect of a railroad. Franklin Cramton settled on a corner and gave an acre of his land for a school house. This was built of native stone quarried near at hand, yet so well built it was still standing and in good condition in 1953. It is called the Franklin School. Other members of the various families settled on land lying near this corner (see plat). Just to the south of the school ground Benjamine Trenholm gave a rise of ground for a cemetery, which is also called the Franklin Cemetery, as Franklin Cramton was the first soldier buried there. And there in 1873 Adelia Cramton-Trenholm was buried. This cemetery has always been beautifully kept and is a credit to the entire community.

Record of the children of Peter Cramton and Dorcas Lucinda Woods-Cramton follow in detail:

I. Olive Cramton, b. June 22, 1838, in Byron Twp., Ogle Co.,

Illinois, m. Dennis Lucas McMillan, Mar. 23, 1858, at Harrison, Winnebago Co., Illinois, by Lewis Patterson, J.P. He b. June 14, 1837, in Clark Twp., Lennox and Addington Co., Canada West. He d. Mar. 5, 1898, at Wyoming, Jones Co., Iowa. Buried same. She d. Jan. 4, 1926, at Waterloo, Iowa. Buried at Wyoming, Iowa.

The family of Olive Cramton and Dennis Lucas McMillan is given under the Lake-McMillan name, in this record, so is not repeated here.

II. George Cramton, b. Sept. 5, 1839, in Byron Twp., Ogle Co., Illinois, m. Laura Hannah Sherman, near Peccatonica, Winnebago Co., Illinois. No issue. He d. Mar. 9, 1865, at Wilbur, Nebr., and is buried at Harrison, Ill.

III. Adelia Cramton, b. June 19, 1841, in Byron Twp., Ogle Co., Illinois, m. Benjamine Trenholm, Jan. 1, 1858, at Pecatonica, Winnebago Co., Ill. He b. Mar. 18, 1836, at Brouhford, New Brunswick. She d. Sept. 7, 1873, near Tescott, Ottawa Co., Kansas. Buried in Franklin Cemetery there. He d. Sept. 14, 1928, at Billings, Montana. Buried in Grand Army Cemetery there.

Adelia Cramton-Trenholm and Benjamine Trenholm had set up housekeeping in Winnebago Co., Ill., near Rockford, soon after their marriage. Here four of their five children were born. Then in 1871 when Dorcas L. Woods-Cramton and her family went to Kansas, they also went. There Adelia died in 1873, and was buried in the Franklin Cemetery, land her husband had given on his farm for a cemetery.

Benjamine Trenholm had come to the United States from New Brunswick, with his parents in 1850. Was naturalized at Landers, Wyoming, on July 9, 1886. After his marriage to Adelia Cramton he lived in Winnebago Co., Ill., then Ottawa Co., Kansas, until 1879, then still later in Landers, Wyoming. His father was Benjamine Trenholm, and his mother, Eliza Allen. Her birth place not given.

He was m. 2nd to Iva Cavanah, Aug. 24, 1876 (also shown as 1875), in Unionville, Putnam Co., Missouri. She was b. Nov. 15, 1851, at Cincinnati, Iowa. She d. Aug. 26, 1923, in Billings, Montana.

After his second marriage and the birth of their first child, they went to Tie Siding, Wyoming Territory, in 1879, then to Cheyenne, Wyoming, later to Billings, Montana. He obtained his citizen papers at Landers, Wyoming, on July 9, 1886. He was a blacksmith, did carpentering, drove stage, carried the mail between Billings and Crow Agency, during 1906, worked on the streets for the city.

On July 30, 1900 he was struck by a switch engine and his right foot was badly crushed. After six weeks his leg was amputated.

He then wore an artificial leg the rest of his life. His general health was good until he fell and tore the nail loose from his big toe. Then dry gangrene set in and he died Sept. 14, 1928, at Billings, Montana, in his ninety-second year, and was buried in the Mountain View Cemetery at Billings, then moved to the Grand Army Cemetery there.

Benjamin Trenholm enlisted Sept. 9, 1861, at Springfield, Ill., as a private in Company E, 42nd Regiment, Illinois Volunteer Infantry, for three years. He was in the following battles and skirmishes: Farmington, Corinth, Columbia and Nashville, then was in detached service for a time. He was at Gettysburg, Pa., but not in the battle as he had a felon on his trigger finger. He was with a Division Supply Train, driving mules.

He was discharged after the Battle of Atlanta, Georgia, at Atlanta, on Sept. 6, 1864, and returned to Rockford, Illinois, where his family were. He was granted a partial disability pension on July 13, 1895, and drew $90.00 per month at the time of his death. He bought a small house at 211 So. 33rd St., Billings, Montana, and lived there until his death, when it went to his son, John Robert Trenholm.

For confirmation of and further information concerning military service it is suggested that you address an inquiry to The Adjutant General, Department of the Army, Washington 25, D. C.

Sincerely yours, A. H. Leavitt, Chief Veterans' Records Branch

IV. Dorcas Lucinda Woods, b. May 21, 1818, in Tioga County, New York. Daughter of William Woods and Lima Congdon, m. Peter Cramton, Aug. 23, 1836, at Illinois City, Illinois. He b. Jan. 14, 1806, in Erie County, New York, the fourteenth child of Neri, or Neriah Cramton, and Margaret Wallace, who died when Peter was born. She was of the same family as Lord Cornwallis, General in the British Forces in the American Revolution. He died July 18, 1856, in Byron Township, Ogle County, Illinois, and was buried in the Bixby Cemetery, near Westfield Corners, in Ogle Co.

In 1947 this cemetery near Westfield Corners exhibited the worst case of cemetery desecration this writer has ever known or seen in America. Great Honey Locust trees had been cut, and from the stumps had grown sprouts and these and the ironwood weeds had grown as high as a man's head. The gravestones had been carried to one corner of the cemetery and smashed until it was impossible to piece together enough of any one to tell for whom it had been erected. Later we learned that the larger monuments had been moved to Byron, Ill., and placed in a cemetery there. The old cemetery was being used as a pasture and hog lot.

Dorcas Lucinda Cramton died July 29, 1894 in the home of her son, James Woods Cramton, at Des Moines, Iowa, and was buried in the McMillan plot in the cemetery at Wyoming, Iowa. She had made her home with her eldest child, Olive Cramton-McMillan, and her younger son, where she died.

Issue: 1. Olive Cramton, b. June 22, 1838, in Byron Twp., Ogle Co., Ill., m. Dennis Lucas McMillan, Mar. 23, 1858, in Harrison Twp., Winnebago Co., Ill. He a son of Charles Patterson McMillan and Caroline Lake, daughter of John Jacob Lake. He born June 14, 1837, in Clark Twp., Lennox and Addington Co., Ontario (or Canada West, as then called), near Ernest Town. He died Mar. 14, 1898, at Wyoming, Iowa, buried same. See his record under the Lake family, page 262, in this record. Olive Cramton-McMillan died Jan. 4, 1926, in her 88th year. Buried at Wyoming, Iowa.

He d. Oct. 3, 1911, at Lake City, Calif., in the home of his son, Oliver F. Cramton, and is buried at Lake City, Calif.

After the death of his second wife, Wallace Cramton sold his Kansas farm and spent some time visiting around among his relatives. This writer recalls very well, when as a boy his Uncle Wallace visited in his parent's home at Wyoming, Iowa, and he had also visited relatives in Illinois and Nebraska, then went to Woodland, Calif., to visit Oliver Forrest Woods, his uncle.

Then he heard of Surprise Valley in Modoc County and went there and bought land, which he induced his son Oliver to assist in clearing of scrub bush and stone, and then had his younger son Frank also come to the valley. This land he finally divided between these two sons and is still owned by Oliver.

For a number of years Ollie Cramton had been a helpless cripple from neuritis. Oliver had taken her everywhere that help seemed possible, but she found no relief and was terribly crippled and helpless. Her death was a great relief to her, as it ended long suffering. She had asked to be buried beside her father-in-law, Wallace Cramton at Lake City, Calif., and this was done.

Issue: A. Cynthia Darlene Stopp, b. Jan. 18, 1939, at Pacific Grove, Calif.; B. Maryann Charlyann Stopp, b. Aug. 30, 1952, at Cedarville, Calif.

Edwin C. Stopp is a ranchman in Surprise Valley, breeding Aberdeen Angus cattle and sheep.

Oliver F. Cramton started out for himself when but twelve years old, and found his way into Surprise Valley in 1907, on Feb. 19, and has lived in the Valley all the years since that time. His father, William Wallace Cramton, had arrived in 1906 and bought two hundred acres near Lake City. Oliver helped him clear this land of sage brush, etc., and so make it tillable.

Then Oliver worked at whatever he could find to do, teaming, harvesting, then after an operation he turned to buying alfalfa seed when he could not work. Doing this he established a credit and a reputation for fair dealing that has stood him in good stead as he developed in the Valley.

Together father and brother persuaded a younger brother, Frank Cramton, to also come to the Valley. He arrived in the Valley on June 7, 1907, and has made the Valley his home since.

A few years ago Oliver was able to purchase a large ranch in the valley, adjoining Cedarville, and with the ranch he acquired a stream of water flowing down a nearby canyon and fed from snow fields upon a ten thousand foot mountain, which furnished enough unfailing water to irrigate the entire ranch with sufficient to also serve a large part of the town of Cedarville. An attempt was made in the courts to show that buying the ranch did not carry with the ranch the water with which to irrigate, but when finally carried to the higher courts the California State Supreme Court held the water rights went with the land as both were filed upon at the same time by the former owner of the land.

Beside the ranch in Surprise Valley at Cedarville, Oliver also owns other ranches in the Valley, and owns or controls vast holdings in northern Nevada, where he runs a thousand head of cattle each season. He has become a man of consequence in Modoc County, and has often served on the County Grand Jury, and held positions of responsibility in the county.

To this writer this Surprise Valley is a place of wonder, from seven to twelve miles in width and sixty miles from northeast to southwest, surrounded by mountains, with three large lakes in the valley. Some of these mountains reach toward the clouds up to ten thousand feet, and are snow capped for most of the year, so affording abundant clear spring-like water. The roads out of the valley are now well paved and are kept open the whole year round.

Oliver F. Cramton 2nd m. Mrs. Mary Doris Sullivan-Nauman, on Sept. 2, 1952 at Gardnerville, Nevada. She was born May 20, 1893, at Sebastopole, California.

Doris owns a fruit ranch at Sebastopole, California, from which come some of the finest apples as well as other fruits of that region. She comes of a family of pioneers, as her people settled in Sonoma County, Calif., in 1948. Her great-grandfather was James Mitchell Gilliam, and her grandfather was Isaac Sullivan, also known as "Major" Sullivan, and both were scouts who brought many wagon trains into California and the west.

6. Franklin Benjamine Cramton, b. Jan. 24, 1892, at Tescott, Kansas, m. Viola Simson, Apr. 26, 1913, at Alturas, Calif. She b. July 11, 1895, at Eagleville, Calif. She d. Sept. 22, 1951, at Cedarville, Calif.

Mary Louise is a trained nurse and has followed her profession some years. Raymond is salesman for a large wholesale plumbing firm in Seattle, Wash. Their home is at Kent, Wash.

Franklin Benjamine Cramton 2nd m. Mrs. Letha May Murphy-Cockrell, Oct. 7, 1952, at Reno, Nev. She b. Sept. 23, 1887, in Surprise Valley, just ten miles from Eagleville, but in Nevada, on the Nevada side of the valley, on her father's home ranch, one of a family of fifteen children. She a widow with a married daughter, living in the Valley, but childless. And a son, Lewis Cockrell, who is married and has three sons, the eldest of whom is married and has a daughter. Letha is the daughter of Benjamine Franklin Murphy, an early settler in Nevada and California. Her son is now on the Murphy home ranch, east of Eagleville, Calif.

VI. Franklin Cramton, b. Mar. 17, 1846, in Ogle Co., Illinois, d. Mar. 26, 1873, at Tescott, Ottawa Co., Kansas. Buried in Franklin Cemetery, near Tescott.

Franklin Cramton enlisted in the Army when but seventeen years old, his number being 495-196, in Company A, 1st Chicago Battery, on or about Dec. 23, 1863. He was discharged in June 1865, and arrived at home July 4, 1865. His war and camp experience had undermined his health, so he had tuberculosis. The doctors thought a change of climate would be beneficial, so with his mother and brothers, William Wallace, Nelson, Edwin and James Woods, together with his brother-in-law, Charles Amos Temple and Benjamine Trenholm, who had married Adelia Cramton, and Edgar Woods, brother of Mellissa Woods-Temple, both being children of Cyrenius Nelson Woods, of William Woods and Lima Congdon-Woods, went to Ottawa County, Kansas, near what became Tescott, Kansas, in the fall of 1871, where they all took up land adjoining, as did their mother, who kept house for her sons.

The family were all interested in their children having an education, but there were then no schools or school houses. Frank Cramton gave a plot of ground on the corner of his farm, at the highway intersection, which was in the center of the family holdings, for a school house.

There they built a stone building of native limestone, that was and is, called the Franklin School. It was well built and was still being used as a school in 1950. Still in good condition in 1953. This is said to have been the first school in Ottawa County, Kansas.

Adelia Cramton-Temple died in 1873. There was then no cemetery in the country. Her husband, Benjamine Trenholm, gave land for a cemetery on his farm on a rise of ground just to the south of the school house at the four corners. There Adelia Cramton-Trenholm was the first adult to be buried. This was and is still called the Franklin Cemetery. There too, Franklin Cramton was buried in March 1873, being the first soldier buried there. Many other members of both the Cramton and Woods families lie buried there. It is a beautiful country cemetery and is well cared for.

VII. Cyrenius Nelson Cramton, b. June 13, 1848, in Ogle County, Illinois. He enlisted in the army in Company B. Taylor's Battery, Dec. 17, 1863, at the age of fifteen years and six months. Afterwards Company A was consolidated with Company B, 1st Chicago Battery, as Company B. In the same Company as his brother Frank. They looked after each other as best they could, but the rigors of camp life were too great for them and both contracted tuberculosis. These two Cramton boys were in the same Company as their cousin, Lewis F. Lake. Cyrenius was discharged on July 6, 1865. He died at San Jose, Calif., on May 28, 1885.

After returning from the army, Nelson worked for a time for a man named Chappel, who was a county supervisor in Winnebago County, Illinois. Then he visited Oliver F. Woods near Woodland, Calif., a brother of his mother. Then going to another uncle, Hannibal Woods, at Wilbur, Nebr. Then in 1871 with his mother and brothers to Tescott, Kansas. Back to Rockford, Ill., in 1873 he married Ruth Millard, May 5, and they farmed south of Rockford. There their first child was born May 21, 1873. Ruth died of scarlet fever following her baby's birth, on May 27, 1873. The baby, Ruth Alice, died at four months. Both are buried in Greenwood Cemetery, at Rockford, Ill. Nelson seems never to have returned to Kansas to live, but later disposed of his land in Ottawa County.

Second, Nelson Cramton m. Alice C. Chappel, daughter of the man for whom he had previously worked after returning from the army. They were married at Rockford, Ill., Mar. 1, 1877, by the Rev. R. S. Contine, a Methodist minister. He continued to farm south of Rockford. There Alice died on Jan. 3, 1878, after her son Everett Chappel Cramton was born. She also died of scarlet fever. She is buried in Greenwood Cemetery at Rockford, Illinois.

After the death of Alice Chappel-Cramton, Nelson's mother, Dorcas L. Cramton, returned from Kansas to keep house for him. Franklin had died in 1873. James had married in 1873, and Edwin in 1874, so they no longer needed her to keep house for them, as they had their own homes. Benjamine Trenholm lived in her house and she cared for his children until he remarried in Missouri, in 1875 and went to South Dakota. Wallace had married in 1876, so her boys no longer needed her to keep house for them in Kansas. We do not know that she ever returned to Kansas to live.

Issue of the second marriage was: 2. Everett Chappel Cramton, b. Jan. 1878, near Rockford, Ill., m. Florence Sarah Case, Mar. 25, 1903, at Fordville, North Dakota. She b. Aug. 20, 1883, in Medford Twp., Walsh Co., North Dakota. He d. June 14, 1952, at Fordville, Milton had purchased the old home farm and was working it, his father helping him as he was able. Their address is Fordville, North Dakota.

Nelson Cramton 3rd m. Dyann Dickerson, Jan. 7, 1880, by Rev. D. W. Linn, M.G., at Durand, Illinois. She b. Dec. 14, 1851, at Durand, Illinois. He d. 1885 at the home of his Uncle Oliver Forrest Woods at Woodland, California, where he had gone for his health. He had tuberculosis. The body was returned to Rockford, and buried beside his first two wives in Greenwood Cemetery, with highest military honors.

Dyann Dickerson was a school teacher in Ogle County, when Nelson's second wife died, and after her school was closed for the school year she came to keep his house for Nelson Cramton, whose mother was still living with him, but no longer able to do the house work on his farm. She and Nelson were married in 1880, at her home at Durand, Illinois. She had cared for Everett as a baby and indeed was the only mother he ever knew.

She went with Everett to North Dakota and lived in her own house with her brother, Frank Dickerson, on Everett's farm, until the fall of 1938, when because of failing health of Everett's wife, she went to live with her daughter, Carrie McIntyre at Vulcan, Alberta, where she died in January 1940, and was buried at Vulcan.

Issue of third marriage: 3. Nelson Stanley Cramton, b. Dec. 27, 1881, south of Rockford, Ill., m. Marilla Sanborn Cass, Feb. 27, 1907, in Medford Twp., Walsh Co., North Dakota. She a sister of Florence, wife of Everett Cramton. She b. Aug. 20, 1886, in Medford Twp., Walsh Co., North Dakota.

This Captain John was a son of John Stanton, Sr. (b. in Hartford, Conn., 1641, d. in Stonington, Conn., 1713) and Hannah Thompson. His father, Thomas Stanton, came from England in the "Beneventure," in 1635, m. Ann Lord.

The Lords, Thompsons, were from England and have had much to do with building this country. Thomas Stanton's name may be found in History of New England, and his assistance was valuable in the early days of our nation's history. Any one of that line wishing to join the Society of Colonial Dames can find records which will admit them.

Edwin Cramton went with his people to Kansas in 1871, and bought land there which he held and farmed until after his wife died in 1882. Later he lived for a short time at Wilbur, Nebr., where his Uncle Hannibal Woods lived, then to Omaha, Nebr., and worked there for some years. After the death of his brother-in-law, D. L. McMillan in 1898, Edwin went to live with his sister, Olive Cramton-McMillan, eldest of her family, at Wyoming, Iowa, and lived with her most of the years from then to her death in 1926, when he returned to Kansas where he died at the home of his son William, at Council Grove, in 1937, and is buried there. His land was in Culver Twp., Ottawa Co., Kansas.

IX. James Woods Cramton, b. Dec. 18, 1851, in Byron Twp., Ogle Co., Illinois, m. Morinda Prather, in Sept. 1873, at Tescott, Kansas. Divorced.

There were two children born to this union. Rose Cramton, who married in Idaho, but of whom we can learn nothing, and Ernest A. Cramton, who also married in Idaho, and had a daughter Ila, b. in Idaho, who was married and divorced. She was a beautician. Was killed in an auto accident at thirty years of age. She had found her grandfather, James W. Cramton, at Riverbank, Calif., and was a favorite of his. We have been unable to obtain any particulars about this family, except that all are now dead.

James Woods Cramton 2nd m. Emma J. Gritton, Nov. 1885, at Quesqueton, Iowa, by the Rev. Samuel Goodsell, the Methodist minister there. The wedding was at the bride's home in Quosqueton, Iowa. She b. July 4, 1865, at Quoesqueton, Iowa. He d. Feb. 2, 1937, at Modesto, Calif., hospital. Buried in the Odd Fellows Cemetery, at Modesto, Calif. She d. June 12, 1939, in the hospital at Modesto, Calif., and buried beside him in the Odd Fellows Cemetery at Modesto, Calif. No issue.

They had lived at Riverbank, Calif., for 27 years, where James did contracting and building, as he was a carpenter by trade. At his death the local newspaper gave an entire column to his life and record. It said, among other things, that, "he was beloved of the whole community, as a gentle, kindly man. Interested in every good thing in the whole community." Nurses at the hospital at Modesto were loud in their praise of him, saying, "he was the most beloved man who came to the hospital." He was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage in the last days of January and died Feb. 2, 1937, aged 86 years.

Emma suffered a stroke in December 1932 and was paralyzed and helpless until her death June 12, 1939. The hospital nurses said Mr. Cramton came to see her almost every week during her long sickness and until his death. He would sit and talk to her by the hour and thus relieve her nurses. She died more than two years after his death.

When Emma was stricken, and so helpless, Oliver F. Cramton of Cedarville, and a nephew of James, came to do what he could do for them. Then when his Uncle James died so suddenly, Oliver came to care for his funeral and to care for the little they had left in their home, and later to care for the laying away of the body of his aunt, Emma Cramton. They were both buried in the Odd Fellows Cemetery just across the street from the hospital, at Modesto, Calif. During her sickness they had used up all their small resources, so Oliver F. Cramton provided for their care and burial.

X. Levi Benjamine Cramton, b. Oct. 15, 1855, in Byron Twp., Ogle Co., Ill. He d. May 12, 1860, of scarlet fever. Buried in the Bixby Cemetery near Westfield Corners, two miles from Westfield, Ogle Co., Illinois, beside his baby sister and father, Peter Cramton.

V. Eleanor Helena Woods, b. 1820, at Owego, Tioga County, New York, m. Philander S. Baker, Dec. 11, 1841, at Roscoe, Illinois. Married by Amos C. Andrus, Minister of the Gospel (from the original marriage return in the County Clerk's office at Rockford, Illinois).

Eleanor Woods came with her parents to Winnebago County, Illinois in 1835. Have not learned anything of his family or background. This Baker family came to Allemakee County, Iowa, in 1850, with her brother, Oliver Forrest Woods and his wife, Elizabeth Allen-Woods. Later, apparently after Oliver had started for the west, the Baker family went to Waterville, Le Sueur Co., Minnesota Territory, from where he wrote to his brother-in-law, Oliver Woods in Yolo County, California, as follows:

“Waterville (Minnesota Territory), August 9, 1857.

Dear Sir:

I have not heard anything from you since the last time and I suppose you haven't heard from me so there I am.

We are all well and may this find you the same.

We are a little better off just now but not so far but we can send a letter to you once in a while yet.

We have got up in Le Sueur Co., at Waterville. I have got six lots in this town and a house that is 18 x 24, a frame house. Don't that sound Big for me. We have a good school here and about 40 scholars and plenty first rate good fish in the lake. Where I am sitting I can look out of the window on the lake and see as many as four sailboats sailing on the lake.

The lake is about 1 mile wide and about 6 miles long. Timber on one side and prairie on the other side. We are sixteen miles from Fairbault and 25 miles from St. Peters, 56 from St. Paul and 60 from Hastings Landing. A fair prospect for the railroad.

I don't think of anything more. Small crops is first rate. I have got a good garden besides some that out in the garden.

P. S. Baker

To O. F. Woods. Write. Direct your letters to Waterville, Le Sueur County, M. T.”

This letter was sent postage collect through Wells-Fargo Express, and five cents were collected for same, as shown by the envelope. We do not know that it was ever answered.

We know nothing definite as to their children, that is, how many there were. There was a tradition in the family that they had a daughter, Nancy, who married a man named Countryman, but we found no record of their marriage. We did find the following, upon search of the records of Le Sueur County, at Lee Center, Minnesota, in 1949:

"John Baker and Mary J. Evans, both of Waterville Township, Le Sueur County, Minnesota, Married May 11, 1865, in Waterville Township. Both of Town, County and State of Minnesota."

Also: "Eldora Baker, born June 4, 1876, of John W. Baker and Mary J. Baker. Origin of both parents given as Illinois. Father a farmer at Waterville. Record book A-P. 83, line 33. Waterville Township, Minn."

Again: "Baker, of John W. Baker and Mary J. Baker, born Jan. 4, 1879, at Waterville. Record book 2, Le Sueur Co., Minn."

Again: "Benjamin F. Evans and Mary J. Baker, at the home of Philander S. Baker, on Aug. 30, 1862, at Waterville Township, Le Sueur Co., Minnesota, by J. W. Gish, Justice of the Peace. In Presence of Henry Rickeys, George Evans and Samantha Reper. Book B, Marriage record. Page 42."

There were other marriage records in Waterville Twp., Le Sueur Co., Minn., but we could not definitely connect them with this family, although of the same names.

J. W. Gish was appointed as administrator of the estate of Philander S. Baker, in 1866, by the Court, Request for such administration was signed by John W. Baker, and Mary J. Evans. John W. Baker went to California in his later life. Have no further record of this family.

VI. John Benoni Woods, born in Owego, Tioga County, New York in 1822. He came west with his parents to the Illinois country in 1835. As a young man he was caught in the California gold rush in 1849. Grandchildren of Oliver Forrest Woods can dimly remember an Aunt Elizabeth, whom they think was wife of John Benoni Woods. They seemed to have lived somewhere in Yolo County at one time, but can find no further record.

VII. Oliver Forrest Woods, b. 1824, at Owego, Tioga County, New York, m. Elizabeth Ann Allen, b. July 29, 1828, at Rockford, Ill., in 1851. She d. in Aug. 1908, at Winters, Calif., aged 80 years. She a sister of Electa Allen, wife of Hannibal Woods, brother of Oliver. Following their marriage in Winnebago Co., Illinois, in 1851, they went to Allamakee Co., Iowa, where he later received a letter addressed to O. F. Woods, at Trout River, Allamakee Co., Iowa, from Rockford, Ill.

There in northeast Iowa their first child was born and named Charles Allen Woods. He was born Oct. 26, 1853, at Trout River, Allamakee Co., Iowa. He was a babe in his mother's arms when the next year, 1854, his parents in company with others, among them Frank Barns' family, started west overland on the long arduous journey to California.

We have not been able to trace their route, nor do we know who, besides the Barnes family were in the company. We do know they went to Yolo County, northwest of Sacramento. His brother, John Benoni Woods, had come there in the gold rush in 1849, but do not know whether his coming influenced Oliver in coming.

For some time the family lived in the mountains in Yolo County, to the southwest of Woodland. Later he had a quarter section to the southwest of Woodland, on more level land. This was later sold and they moved to Woodland, where the family lived for many years. Still later he lived in Bakersfield, where he died in 1900, and is buried in the Knights of Pythias Cemetery. Elizabeth lived at Winters for a time, but died at Woodland, Aug. 26, 1908, and is buried on the family lot in the cemetery there.

Elizabeth and Electa Allen were direct descendants of Ethan Allen of Revolutionary War and Vermont fame.

Oliver and Elizabeth Woods spent most of their married lives in Yolo County, California. Their grandchildren can still remember tales told them of the hardships endured on the westward journey.

There children were: 1. Charles Allen Woods, 2. Francis Harriett Woods, 3. Warren Woods, 4. Ina Christian Woods, 5. Grant Woods, 6. John Woods, 7. Roy Eugene Woods.

He b. May 20, 1822, at Ernest Town, Upper Canada, of John Jacob and Sarah Stover-Lake. He d. May 17, 1899, at Rockford, Ill. Buried in Greenwood Cemetery, at Rockford, Ill., aged 77 years.

For their issue, see under "Lake Record." Elizabeth King Woods was the youngest child of William Woods and Lima Congdon-Woods. She was but a small girl when the Woods family went west to the Illinois country, on a raft on the rivers from New York to northern Illinois. She would have been seventeen years old just a month after her marriage to Adam S. Lake. Her sister, Dorcas Lucinda Woods, had a deformity in one shoulder. Few young men look at her twice with any interest, so she gave herself to Elizabeth.

On the raft coming down river, when her sister Dorcas and Peter Cramton were courting as he stood his turn at watch during the night as the raft was tied up at the shoreline, Elizabeth would worry her mother because Dorcas did not come to bed, as they slept together. Querulously she would cry: "Mothair, why cain't Dorcas come to bed?" This was so common that her sister said she never wanted to be called Dorcas again. This grew to be somewhat of a tradition in the family.

Elizabeth never forgave Peter Cramton for marrying her darling sister, and so leaving her to the tender mercies of the rest of the family, and so she carried her feeling towards Peter Cramton down through all her family. She used to say: "Yes, Peter got Dorcas ten children, then went and died on her, so she had all that family to raise." Just as though Peter had gone and died just on purpose.

Record of the family of Elizabeth King Woods and Adam Stover Lake will be found elsewhere in the Lake record.

DESCENDANTS OF SAMUEL ALLEN

Samuel Allen of Windsor, Conn., page 13, etc. The Allen Memorial, by Orrin Peer Allen, Palmer, Mass. Pub. 1907.
